Cost of the new system to the car buyer will be about $25. It would be more except that manufacturers will benefit by eliminating the inner and outer mirrors now required.

Historic Event To Be Restaged

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The Bay of Quinte Mohawks next Sunday stage their annual public re-enactment of their historic 1784 landing here.

The Mohawks will march from the old post just west of present - day Deseronto, where tradition locates the landing of the first Mohawks — and the earliest United Empire Loyalists — on the Bay of Quinte.

The march ends at the nearby memorial cairn marking the event, where a service will be held at 3 p.m.

Immediately afterward, events will move a short distance to Christ Church, where a historical plaque will be unveiled officially recognizing the structure as one of Ontario's historical sites. The stone structure, more than 100 years old and containing several gifts from British monarchs dating back to George III, replaced a wooden building, constructed by the Indians after their landing and as the first church in the Quinte district.

Moira Secondary's Program Gets $1,900

Moira Secondary's summer recreational program for children in the east half of Belleville will be held in full swing this year, thanks to a $1,900 grant from the youth and recreation branch of the Ontario government.

Wally Swaine, Moira student and leader of the project this year was advised of the grant this morning.

"I'm glad we have to pay our staff," he said.

Called Summer 72, the recreational program will employ 17 students.

As well as serving as a centre for the kids in this part of the city, Summer 72 will also offer mounting full employment to our students," said Mr. Swaine.

"Last year we were unable to pay our staff."

The project will span July 4 and continue for eight weeks, with classes offered in drama, art, home economics and this year for the first time, music. The gym will be open for casual play.

Summer 72 has also received a $100 donation from the Argyll Chapter of the IODE in Belleville.

The project began last year tentatively conceived and operated by Moira students. The board of education lent the school and then service clubs, Kiwanis, Rotary and the Optimists donated funds for supplies after the students were refused an Opportunities for Youth grant.

Spokane's Rookie Coach Attains His Allan Cup Objective

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — Before the start of the 1971-72 senior hockey season, Norm Johnson, rookie coach of Spokane Jets, said he was assembling the strongest team possible to continue the team's tradition of excellence.

His architecture must have been good, for the Jets ended the long season Monday night by winning the Allan Cup, emblematic of Canadian senior amateur hockey supremacy.

They downed Barrie Flyers 6-3 to win the best-of-seven final 4-2.

The victory, before 6,386 fans, gave the Jets their second Allan Cup in three years. Al Rollins coached the Jets to their first-ever cup win in 1970.

"It was a fantastic way to start a coaching career," said Johnson, who took his first coaching job with the Jets after a long playing career in the Western Hockey League.

The cup was presented to Spokane captain Tom Rodges, the 40-year-old Saskatchewan-born defenceman who has been with Spokane both in the WHL and in the Western International Hockey League for 16 seasons.

"Rodges had a tough club, but I thought we could win after coming back here ahead in 3 games," Hodges said.

Ken Gustafson, the WHL's leading goalkeeper in the regular season, paced the Jets in the final game with two goals. "I thought our fans deserved to see us in every game. We have the greatest fans in the world."

Barrie playing coach Darryl Sly paid tribute to the Jets and said they were a tough-checking club with a lot of offensive punch.

"They had a terrific club, well-balanced, with a lot of power on all their lines."

The Jets opened up a 2-0 lead over the Flyers in the first period and increased the margin to 4-1 going into the final 20 minutes.

The Jets are the only American team which competes for the Allan Cup and are the only United States team which has ever won the Canadian senior hockey championship.

Two Cups for MacNeil!

HALIFAX (CP) — The Calder Cup, presented annually to the winner of the American Hockey League championship, rests on a Canadian trophy shelf today.

The Nova Scotia Voyageurs took the Cup Monday night by dumping Baltimore Clippers 4-1 to bring the title to Canada for the first time in the league's 36-year history.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Voyageurs in their best-of-seven final round after they had dropped the first two games at Baltimore.

The Voyageurs displayed an awesome defence and a lightning-quick offence at the Forum here on their way to triumph.

Their penalty-killing specialists smothered Baltimore's attempts to take advantage of power plays and struck suddenly for three goals within six minutes in the opening period to goal the Clippers defeat.

Mike Laughton slipped the puck past Baltimore goalie Jim Shaw for the first goal at 7:11 of the first period and three minutes later Murray Wilson had the winner. Randy Rota scored on a low shot at 13:19 for a 3-0 lead and the Voyageurs cut-shined and choked-off Baltimore challengers the rest of the way.

Laughton completed the game scoring late in the second period, 33 seconds after Bob Riva and fired the only shot to elude Nova Scotia goalie Michel Plasse.

Coach Al MacNeil was exuberant over the taste of his second spring of success in a row in professional hockey. MacNeil, coach of Montreal Canadiens when they won the Stanley Cup last season, is the first coach to win championships in both the National Hockey League and the AHL in successive seasons.

Johnson Re-hired

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins recied weeks of speculation Monday by announcing that Tom Johnson would return next season as coach of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup champions. In two years with the Bruins, the 44-year-old Johnson guided Boston to two East Division titles and took the club to its second Stanley Cup in three years in a six-game series with New York Rangers.

Pounds Cost Paduano

The contract signing was accompanied by an unusual 11,000 weight bond posted by Paduano saying he'll be down to 154 pounds for the fight.

If not, Paduano will pay Carrin $1,000 with an option of 15 per cent of the gate, while Paduano's cut will be $5,000 plus 20 per cent.

The two Montreal based fighters have never met in a fight.

Carrin is guaranteed $3,000

Als Forget Carlos

MONTREAL (CP) — Olympic track star John Carlos was waived out of the Canadian Football League Monday after Montreal Alouettes announced they were releasing the wide receiver following a breakdown in contract talks. Alouettes manager Red O'Quinn said the team could not meet Carlos' monetary demands. Carlos said Monday that as a free agent he will not be able to play professionally in the Canadian Football League.

Carlos, who set a world record in the Alouettes last season, but saw little action.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League announced Monday the signing of Phil Vandersea, a 29-year-old five-year veteran of Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

Vandersea, who is feet three inches tall and 245 pounds, is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts.

He is a versatile player and can fill seven positions but head coach Sam Etcheverry said he would try him at defensive end.

The Alouettes also announced the signing of defensive halfback Steve King from New Mexico State University. King is six feet tall and weighs 190 pounds.

Olympic Hopeful Killed

PONOKA, Alta. (CP) — Kevin Sirois, 24, one of Canada's top Olympic cycling speed-skating hopefuls, was killed Sunday when his bicycle was involved in a collision with a car near this central Alberta town.

Police said Sirois was travelling north to his home in Edmonton. The cyclist apparently was on a training ride.

At 18, he had been Alberta's junior cycling champion for three years and represented Canada at the Pan-American games in Colombia last year.

At 22, he broke Canadian speed-skating record for 10,000 metres while competing in the 1972 winter Olympics in Japan.

Argos Sign McQuay

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts announced Monday that Leon McQuay has a new two-year contract, stemming speculation that the speedy running back might move to the National Football League.

McQuay, leading rusher in the Eastern Football Conference last season with 977 yards, had signed only a one-year contract in 1971 and it appeared he might play out his option the year.

"There was more than the money in my decision to stay here," said the Tampa, Fla., speedster. "There were other pluses."

McQuay said he was particularly happy with the Argo coaching staff.

He said he may make Toronto his year-round home when he finishes his physical education courses at the University of Tampa.

Argos general manager John Barrow also said he has made a verbal agreement with running back Bill Symons on a new two-year contract.

There had also been speculation that Symons, 29, might leave the Argos after the team announced last week they had signed running back Eric (The Flea) Allen from Michigan State.

Water Skiers Meet Tonight

Water skiing may be making safely spectacular waves in the Bay of Quinte area this summer if a meeting tonight draws the support expected.

Belleville - areas fans of the sport — and a champion sportsman is convinced there are hundreds — are invited to the first full-scale organizational session of the Belleville Water Ski Club.

It's at Loyalist College lecture hall; building B at 7:30 p.m.

Belleville businessman Roly Bonneau, former North American ski kite-flying champion, who is counselling the club, believes there could be 500 - 1,000 people enthusiastic for ski instruction in the area.

"We have all the (water) facilities — and no activities," he says.

Well organized, the sport also would provide an athletic pastime for youth in summer, he says.

The club already has a core membership and is equipped with its own 19-foot, twin-motored craft — on display tonight — and will provide instruction.

The meeting will organize an executive and membership drive.

Mr. Bonneau, who moved to Belleville from Brighton two years ago, was North American kite-flying champion in 1961 and 1962. Canadian champion in 1962 and placed third in world championships in 1963 at Vichy, France.

Monday's Stars

Batting—Jim Fregosi, Mets, drilled a single and a game-winning three-run homer to catapult New York to its fourth straight victory, a 5-3 triumph over Montreal Expos.

Champs Kept Form

Wrestling the Quinte Lacrosse title away from the Belleville Juveniles isn't going to be an easy task, as the locals proved Monday night by downing Trenton 6-2 in their first exhibition game of the year.

The defending league champions got three goals from Tom Grabowski and singles from Danny Payne, Gerald Grier and Kerry Reid to offset two markers by Trenton's Darryl Cole.

In Belleville house league action it was the Dairy Queen novices swamping Bob's Sports by a 19-2 count. Greg Horwood showed the way with a three-goal performance, while Robert Kanary and James Forster scored two apiece. Single scores went to Tod Hogan, Stephen Molenki and Joey Belanger. The losers' goals went to Jim Fleming and Joe Guthrie.

Bowling

The Bay of Quinte Bowlers Association will be getting their Nichols worth in 1972. Al Nichols of Campbellford was elected president of the group at a recent meeting.

Four Belleville bowlers were named to the executive with Bea Hunt serving as treasurer; Jim Nichols as tournament director; Madelin James, awards chairman and Cec Hardwick, publicity.

Al Nichols, secretary K a y Nichols and Madelin James were named as delegates to the Ontario Bowlers Congress convention in June.

Softball's Back

Alderman Robin Jeffrey displays sizzling form as she throws first ball of season to open Industrial Softball League at Prince Charles School Monday. Intrepid batter is league president Larry Ill while Lorna Williams, city recreation director, catches. Looking on is Adolf Lobs, league vice-president.

Field Firmed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The field for Saturday's 97th running of the $158,000-added Preakness Stakes was firmed at nine Monday as Freetex was named a definite starter.

Trainer Bill Raymond, assistant after Freetex's sixth-place finish in the Kentucky Derby, decided to enter him after the colt worked five-eighths of a mile in 1:00 4-5 last Saturday.

Industrial Openers Won by Old-timers

It was veterans' night Monday as the Industrial Softball League opened its 1972 schedule.

Established teams held the edge as ADCO posted an 11-5 decision over the new Canadian Tire Corporation entry, while The Intelligencer edged Foley's 12-11.

Four runs in the final inning assured ADCO of their win as they carried a 7-5 lead into the final frame.

The Intell built an early 8-2 lead and than held on to foil Foley's initial Industrial bid. Gerry Genereaux hurled the win, with fifth-inning relief help from John Edwards.

The pair yielded seven hits while walking five batters and recording two strikeouts. Gary Mather went all the way for Foley's, allowing 12 hits and three walks, while whiffing four batters.

Randy Derry paced the winners with a homer and two singles, while Brian Amaron had a circuit clout and a single. Joe Edwards added three base hits to The Intell attack.

For Foley's it was George Foote with a homer and two singles while Don Smith contributed a triple among his three hits.

Skating Event Dropped

BOSTON (AP) — The North American figure skating championships, a biennial competition between the United States and Canada for half a century, have been terminated.

Clarek Foster, of the U.S. Figure Skating Association, said the Canadians requested at a meeting last weekend in Cleveland that the event be ended.

They felt the championships had outlived their usefulness. They just wanted to withdraw, Foster said.

The 1972 championships, which were scheduled to be the 50th anniversary of the competition, had been planned in Rochester, N.Y.

Nets Rebound On Pacers

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Ollie Taylor, Rick Barry, Jim Bauzn and John Roche sparked a fourth-quarter New York comeback as the Nets overcame Indiana Pacers 110-105 Monday night, squaring their American Basketball Association championship series at two victories apiece. The fifth game in the best-of-seven series will be played Thursday night at Indiana.

Weaver Maintains Birds Team to Beat

The American League East Division baseball standings show Baltimore Orioles in third place, but manager Earl Weaver says he has the team to beat.

"They have to beat us," said Weaver after the Orioles edged Detroit Tigers 3-2 Monday night and snapped a four-game losing streak.

"He's got that a little mixed up, doesn't he? They're behind us," replied Billy Martin, the Detroit skipper.

That brilliant repartee may bring a chuckle or two from Ken Aspromonte, manager of Cleveland Indians who were idle Monday but lead the division by one game over the Tigers and 2½ over the Orioles.

Elsewhere, Chicago White Sox slipped Minnesota Twins 4-3, Oakland Athletics downed California Angels 2-1 and Kansas City Royals shaded Texas Rangers 5-4. Milwaukee, Boston and the New York Yankees, along with the Indians, were not scheduled.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer not only buried a four-hitter to beat the Tigers in Detroit for the first time in his career, but clubbed his first major-league triple in the seventh inning and scored the winning run on Don Buford's bloop single.

Palmer pitched scoreless ball after being tagged for solo home runs by Gates Brown in the first inning and Willie Horton in the second. The Orioles tied the score in the second on Mark Belanger's run-scoring single and in the third on Merv Rettenmund's homer.

The race in the American League West also tightened up as the Twins saw their lead shrink to 1½ games over the Athletics and 2½ over the White Sox.

The White Sox kayoed Minnesota's Jim Perry inside of two innings and held on for their 12th victory in 13 home games.

Gibson Can't Get First Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I've been pitching good. It's just that I haven't been winning," Bob Gibson understated. "And winning is what it's all about."

Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals flame-throwing right-hander, has been getting most of the best luck around. He has yet to record his first victory of the season to counteract the five defeats he has suffered.

Most of the time it has been just one or two pitches that have made the difference. On Monday night it was one ball threw to Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, who walloped it over the right field fence for a three-run homer and the Pirates' 4-1 victory.

In other National League action, Philadelphia Phillies blanked Chicago Cubs 4-0, Houston Astros bombed Atlanta Braves 8-2, New York Mets defeated Montreal Expos 5-3 and Los Angeles Dodgers nipped San Diego Padres 2-1.

Gibson had worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth inning before giving up a lead-off single to Dave Cash in the seventh. Vic Davalillo dumped a sacrifice bunt down the third base line and was safe when Joe Torre threw the ball away, setting up Clemente's second homer of the year that gave the victory to route-going Don Ellis, who scattered five hits for his fourth victory.

Woodie Fryman tossed a six-hitter for the Phillies and got some long-ball help from Mike Anderson and Willie Montanez who hit home runs for a 2-0 lead, before Fryman singled in two runs of his own to down the Cubs.

Anderson, a rookie who clouted 36 homers in the Pacific Coast League, opened up against Ferguson Jenkins in the fifth inning for the only run Philadelphia needed.

In the seventh, Montanez unloaded.

The Astros, remaining within a game of first-place Dodgers in the National League West, bunched three infield hits, a bases-loaded walk by Roger Metzger and second baseman Felix Millan's throwing error into a three-run third inning that carried them past Atlanta.

Jim Ferrell's three-run homer broke an eighth inning tie with Montreal and powered the Mets, first by three games in the East, to their fourth victory in a row and 17th in 22 games. Tommie Agee also belted a three-run homer off Jon Matlack, with ninth-inning relief help, picked up his fourth victory without a defeat.

Willie Davis' double and walks to Manny Mota and Billy Grabarkewitz loaded the bases for the Dodgers in the ninth inning against the Padres and pinch-hitter Chris Cannizzaro lined a 1-1 hit with a line single off Enzo Hernandez' glove at shortstop.

Wallace Shooting Coverage Challenge for TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television reacted rapidly, if a bit shakily, to the news of the shooting of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Programs were interrupted Monday with bulletins and short reports on what was known within minutes of the tragedy. But once again it was good old flexible radio to which the viewer turned during the initial moments of the developing drama for a minute-by-minute fill-in on what was then a fluid and somewhat confused situation.

Viewers flipping around radio and TV dials first encountered little news but lots of heavy breathing and hyperbole—all sorts of opinions came over the air. At one point this listener heard about alleged involvement by blacks in the shooting.

Almost immediately, on-scene station, this rumor was scotched by a report that a bloody white mast was in custody for the shooting.

Eventually ABC television came along with a broadcast showing what appeared to be a blonde man being hauled away by authorities.

CBS obtained, it appeared, the first dramatic material—actual scenes of Wallace moving around the crowd, the sound of the shots and then the aftermath. There was a closeup of the presidential aspirant in the ground, loobd stain on his shirt, and his wife bending over him.

NBC interrupted its feature film broadcast in the late evening for a 30-minute summary of the situation up to that point. It showed some confusing film made at the time of the shooting, had an equivocal report on Wallace's condition made from outside the hospital and went on to show some old clips of film made during the Wallace campaigns.

Fast-breaking stories are not gracefully absorbed by television but radio is easily able to keep up with bulletins, handle interviews and generally keep the public informed under such conditions.

Television, however, did serve one vital function in reflecting the reaction—revulsion and shame—of average men and woman to the use of violence. The reaction was uniform, in an assortment of "man-on-the-street" interviews, regardless of the political opinions of the individuals questioned.

New Scheme to Promote Music

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government and Canadian record manufacturers have become partners in a scheme to promote Canadian musicians and their music.

An Ottawa news release said Wednesday Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier had announced the government would contribute $30,000 to the project. The Canadian Recording Manufacturers' Association has put up $30,000.

Total cost of the project, called Maple Leaf Junket, which will bring as many as 100 writers, editors, broadcasters, producers and film makers from 14 European countries to Canada, is estimated at close to $100,000.

At a news conference here Wednesday to announce details of the project, Ritchie Yorke, a Canadian music writer originated the idea and is co-ordinator of the event, said the difference will probably be made up through sale of tickets to concerts and possible release to theatres of a film of the concerts.

Five concerts are scheduled between June 2 and 8 for the benefit of the visiting Europeans but will be open to the public.

The first two in Montreal will be French-language concerts. details of which are to be announced at a news conference there Monday.

An English-language concert will be presented in the same city June 5. Performed at the Place des Arts, it will feature The Poppy Family, Andre Gagnon, Moe Koffman, Frank Mills, Anne Murray, The Staccipeders and Tapestry.

On June 6, the first of two concerts at Massey Hall in Toronto will feature Gary Buck, Bruce Cockburn, The Perth County Conspiracy, Fergus, Christopher Kearney, Murray McLauchlan, and the Mercey Brothers.

Taking part in the June 7 concert will be April Wine, Chilliwack, Crowbar, Edward Bear, Fludd, Lighthouse and Mashmakhan.

The performers were selected by an independent talent committee made up of retailers, broadcasters and journalists.

Some record company executives said Wednesday that some of the performers they record will be going to Europe after Junket, as part of follow-up promotion.

Mr. Yorke said that of 190 Europeans invited 70 "have positively said they are coming." Trade observers from the United States have also been invited.

In addition to the concerts, the guests, while in Montreal, will attend a screening of Canadian films. A final dinner in Toronto at the Royal York Hotel will be attended by Pierre Juneau, chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and other government officials.

VON Load Grows

The work load of the Quinte branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses has increased almost 100 per cent in the past year, as shown by the nurses' report for the month of April.

During the month a total of 1,324 visits were made as compared with 720 visits in April, 1971. Sixty-seven per cent of the visits were to home care patients with 63 per cent or 92 visits in the Bancroft area and 8.5 per cent or 112 visits in Prince Edward county.

Choir, Ensemble To Perform Here

The 16-voice choir and brass ensemble of the Canadian Bible College from Regina, Saskatchewan, will present a program of sacred music at the Belleville Alliance Church at Moira and Coleman Streets this week. The program will be staged Thursday, May 18, commencing at 7:30 p.m.

Life in Harmony will be the theme of the program, which includes music of a contemporary nature as well as the traditional style of church music.

During May the 16-voice choir and brass ensemble will be presenting their program at 27 different churches in Manitoba, Ontario and in the United States.

The April work load of the VON showed an increase of 145 visits over that in the month of March.

The active case load at the end of April for the whole branch totalled approximately 130 patients.

Besides keeping busy with the primary function — nursing care in the home, the Quinte Branch is also involved in other activities.

One of the most recent undertakings is that of conducting paramedical examinations.

During April, nurse in charge Muriel Valerie Trant, at several meetings in Prince Edward county explaining the availability of VON services.

In Picton the VON is now sharing the office of the Hastings and Prince Edward Health unit.

Obituaries and Funerals

PERCY DENNIS MATTIE

Percy Dennis Mattie of Consecon, died in Windsor, Friday, May 11.

In his 72nd year, he was born in Ameliasburg Township and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mattie.

He is survived by his wife, the former Florence Anderson and his children Mrs. Ralph (Mabel) Adams of Essex, Gordon of Windsor, Gerald of Wellington, Raymond of Belleville, Francis of White Horse, Ontario, Mrs. Robert (Judith) Patrick of RR3, Consecon and Mrs. Kenneth (Gussie) Hall of Consecon.

Surviving him are his brothers Wesley, David, Howard, Roy, Lee, and his sisters Mrs. Dorothy (Bertha) Smith, Mrs. Leo (Donna) Phillips, all of Consecon, Mrs. Ed (Rose) Miller of Ameliasburg, Mrs. May Irvin of Wellington, Mrs. Leo (Gertie) Bonisteel of RR2, Carrying Place, and Mrs. Betty Vanvoort of Trenton.

He was a commercial fisherman and was a member of the United Church.

He was a member and past president of the Canadian League, Branch 19, Consecon, member and past master of Ark No. 71 Allisonville. He served in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in World War I and served in the Canadian Army Service Corps and Military Police and was a past master of the Black Percentory Lodge, No. 830, Wellington.

Funeral service was held in the chapel of the Weaver Funeral Home, Monday, May 15 at 3 p.m.

Rev. A. Bridger of Consecon United Church conducted the service and interment was in Carrying Place Cemetery.

JOHN I. CLEARWATER

The funeral of John I. Clearwater, 341 King St., Trenton, who died Saturday afternoon from the Weaver Funeral Home where service was conducted by Rev. Michael Caswell of St. George's Anglican Church.

Interment was in White's Cemetery. The bearers were Ronald Smith and Edgar LeBlanc, Gerald LeBlanc Jr., Kevin Cook Jr. and Gordon Pacey.

Former commissionaire, veteran and ice-breaker at Trenton, Mr. Clearwater died Thursday in Trenton Memorial Hospital followed an illness of several months.

Born in Bismarck, North Dakota 72 years ago, he lived in Manitoba before coming to Trenton in 1929 where he was a member of St. George's Church, a former member of the Masonic Lodge at Portage La Prairie.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Boback, three sons Roland, Steep Rock, Man., Ronald and Murray and a daughter Mrs. Roger (Shirley) Lowery, all of Winnipeg; two stepsons, Edward Cook of Carberry, Man., and John Cook of RR3 Carrying Borden and a stepdaughter Mrs. Roger (Shirley) LeBlanc, Trenton. There are 16 grandchildren.

MRS. HARRY CUNNINGHAM

A life resident of Ameliasburg township, Mrs. Carrie Cunningham, Cunningham died Saturday at Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 73rd year.

Born in the second concession of Ameliasburg, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wagar, and had been in failing health for the past several months.

She was a member of Hollow-way Street United Church and the Women's Missionary Society and also belonged to the Redmen Lodge, Women's Institute and the Prince Edward - Belleville Club. She had lived at her present home for the past 6 years.

She is survived only by a sister, Mrs. Geraldine Wensley of Belleville, a brother-in-law, Harold Cunningham predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Tuesday from the John R. Bush Funeral Home with cremation to follow. Rev. Ronald and Rev. Harold Snagrow of Oshawa, officiating.

Mr. Mosier died in an automobile accident on Highway 2 one mile east of Deseronto May 12. He was in his 68th year.

Born in Stirling, the son of William Mosier and the late Mrs. Mary Mosier, he had lived in Deseronto for 15 years and was employed in Napanee. He was a member of the United Church.

HARRY ALFORD "CHICK" POLLWELL

(Detroit, Michigan)

One time star player with the Trenton senior and intermediate hockey teams in Belleville, Picton and Brighton, Harry Pollwell, of Detroit, died suddenly in the Motor City on Sunday.

He was a retired tool and die maker with the Ford Motor Company.

Born in London, England, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin John Pollwell, he spent his early life in this city and worked as a printing apprentice with the GTR here, at Stratford and in Montreal before going to Detroit about 50 years ago.

In Detroit, he kept up his interest in sports where for many years he played in city baseball leagues.

He at one time was captain of ushers at the Detroit Tigers' Briggs Stadium and was also associated with the Detroit Olympia. He was a close friend, fan and supporter of the Tigers baseball and Red Wings hockey players.

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Detroit.

He is survived by two brothers, Frank S. Pollwell and Edward "Ted" Pollwell, both of Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. Ida Duffield, of Mississauga. Two brothers, Percy and Jim, predeceased him.

Resident of the John R. Bush Funeral Home with visitation from Wednesday at 1 p.m., the funeral will be held Thursday at the funeral home at 2 p.m. with interment in Cannon R. B. D. Wright, Interment, Belleville Cemetery.

EDWARD PHILLIPS

A former mayor of Picton, Edward Phillips of the Fourth Concession, Hillier Township, died Monday in Belleville General Hospital at the age of 81. He had been ill for three months.

Active in the township, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Phillips. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Helen Ostrom.

He was a member of Stone Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Mildred Phillips' of Deseronto; two sons, Everett and Floyd of Hillier and and a grandson, Ivan, of Ottawa.

Funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from Grant Funeral Home. Rev. Roy E. Veasey will officiate.

Mrs. Hughes died May 12 in an automobile accident on Highway 2 one mile east of Deseronto. She was in her 80th year.

Born Tea Madoc, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sinclair, Mrs. Hughes had resided in Madoc and had lived in Deseronto for the past 28 years.

Predeceased by her husband, John Hughes, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. (Thelma) Bennett, Belleville and Mrs. Gerald (Viola) Shangraw, Oshawa. There is also a sister, Mrs. Charla Dash, Belleville and two brothers, Andy Sinclair of Ottawa and Archie Sinclair of Tweed.

Bearers were Harry Woodcock, James Pitts, Rodney Bennett, Reginald Bennett, all of Belleville and Dale Shangraw and Gerald Shangraw, both of Oshawa.

Bayside Students To Present Play

TRENTON (Staff) — Bayside Secondary students launch the first drama production Wednesday at Trenton High School auditorium with a two-act play, "Remember Mama."

A cast of 32 has been rehearsing the play for eight weeks, with students coming into the auditorium here on their own time to go through lasting touches on the production. Curtain time for the performance is 8 p.m.

CN to Build New Station

TRENTON (Staff) — Canadian National Railways has announced construction of a new Trenton train station will begin next month with the estimated schedule for completion by September. The existing station, subject of a protest letter to CN from the town, will be demolished.

At a meeting of the town's council here Monday, G. A. Van de Walker, CN area manager for CN, advised he had received approval to go ahead with the Trenton project and he expects contract plans and specifications to be complete and ready for the tenders before the end of May.

Although the new station will be small, council expressed happy with the news. They have previously complained Trentonians have opted for other modes of travel than transportation, particularly because of station conditions.

College and University Spending In Ontario Under Close Scrutiny

TORONTO (CP) — James Bullbrook (G-Grenville) launched Monday what he described as a "minute interrogation" of government spending in the department of colleges ad universities.

His lead was followed by other opposition members of a legislature committee that began hearings into the 1972-73 estimates of the department, under George Kerr, the minister.

Mr. Kerr is seeking approval for spending $218,612,000 in the current fiscal year.

Mr. Bullbrook, his party's education critic, said he will not be concerned during the hearings with the philosophy of education. "We are going to insist on a minute interrogation . . ." on where the money is going.

He said the party was taking this approach to the estimates because of the government's recent decision to increase university tuition fees, and revelations of excessive year-end spending by many departments made public by legislature's public accounts committee.

In his opening statement, Mr. Bullbrook said the public accounts committee discovered that 43 per cent of the budget for educational television was spent in the last month of the fiscal year. ETV comes under Mr. Kerr's department.

Mr. Bullbrook said the government spent $1,368,000 for the Wright report on post-secondary education which made proposals similar to an American study that cost only $35,000. Mr. Kerr replied the Wright study was more lengthy—15 separate reports—and more comprehensive than the one in the U.S.

The NDP education critic said Mr. Kerr was "cashing in on the uneasiness" in the province concerning post-secodary education spending.

Mr. Kerr laid the student awards program is flexible enough to assure that no student will be denied a university education because of financial problems.

On another subject, Mr. Bullbrook said Ontario's community colleges are competing with each other so much to attract students that there was little chance of them co-operating.

Degrees False

TORONTO (CP) — The former personnel manager of the Ontario Educational Communications Authority pleaded guilty Monday to defrauding the authority of more than $10,840.

Allan Thompson Ferguson was fired last September when the authority learned he had falsified his academic degrees when applying for the $18,000-a-year job.

Report Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — The second report of the LeDain commission into the non-medical use of drugs—on marijuana and hashish—is expected to be tabled in the House of Commons Thursday, it was learned Monday.

Rally Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario civil servants decided Monday to hold a four-hour rally and picketing demonstration in front of the legislature today to protest a government bill which would remove their right to strike.

Council Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A petition calling for the dissolution of the Yukon territorial council was presented to the offices of Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener Monday.

Harvey Kent, a representative of a group called "Democracy for Yukoners", said the council has eliminated the power from the Yukon people."

Regulate Stables

TORONTO (CP) — A bill was introduced in the Ontario legislature Monday by Agriculture Minister William Stewart to regulate the operation of riding-stables throughout the province.

Centre Closes

TORONTO (CP) — The director of Toronto's Canadian Indian Centre said Monday a dispute between two federal government departments has forced the centre to close.

Joseph Hare told about 60 demonstrators gathered outside the federal building that a jurisdictional dispute between the secretary of state's department and the department of Indian affairs was responsible.

Share Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation to permit public and separate school boards to share facilities was given first reading in the Ontario legislature Monday.

Education Minister Thomas Wells said the legislation, contained in five lengthy bills, will permit sharing of teachers, administration or other personnel and joint construction and sharing of buildings.

Pacts to Pass

BONN (AP) — West Germany's opposition dropped final objections to Chancellor Willy Brandt's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland, opposition leaders announced Monday, making it all but a certainty that the pacts will be ratified in parliament Wednesday.

CRTC to Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Radio-Television Commission applications for increased Canadian content in television prime time will be put before a public hearing opening June 19 in Kingston, it was announced Monday.

Abortions Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Women's Coalition to Repeal Abortion Laws presented the government Monday with 76,500 signatures calling for the repeal of existing laws.

Plenty of Beds

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister John Munro indicated Monday that a more liberal abortion law would not put a strain on hospitals in terms of beds.

Diefenbaker Facing Nomination Challenge

REGINA (CP) — For the first time in the 19 years John Diefenbaker has represented Prince Albert constituency in Parliament, he is to be challenged for the Progressive Conservative nomination for the next general election.

Bill Fair, a 34-year-old businessman from Saskatoon, told a news conference Monday he will seek the nomination because "I strongly believe Mr. Diefenbaker jeopardized my chance to win the Conservative nomination in Saskatoon-Humboldt."

Mr. Fair, a former vice-president of the Saskatchewan Young Progressive Conservative Association, had sought the nomination March 18 in Saskatoon.

He blames interference by Mr. Diefenbaker for the fact he lost to Dr. Lewis Brand who had held the seat from 1963 to 1968.

Youth Sentenced to Lashes Makes Break for Freedom

HAMILTON (CP) — A 16-year-old youth, sentenced to penitentiary and a whipping, hurdled out of the prisoners' box in an attempt to escape from provincial court Monday.

Sobbing and yelling obscenities, the youth, Frank Walters, struggled violently with police who tackled him and brought him to the floor as he reached the courtroom door.

"I will kill you, you animals, let me go," yelled Walters.

"Why don't you leave me alone, I will kill myself."

Walters's break for freedom came after Judge Ross Bennett had sentenced him to 10 strokes of the whip, primarily because of the violence the youth used in robbing a 75-year-old Hamilton man.

After police managed to restrain the youth he was led back to the prisoners' box for the rest of the sentencing, which totalled 5½ years in penitentiary.

Judge Bennett ordered the whipping for Walters after hearing that he struck John Morgan, 66, over the head two or three times with a piece of wood and fired a pellet gun at another man, grazing him.

Red Ensigns Free If Hung Indoors

OTTAWA (CP) — Want a red ensign to hang on your playroom wall?

If you are a "deserving" individual or organization who wants to display that historic monument—the former Canadian flag—indoors, you can get one from the public works department.

The information was provided in the Commons Monday by Public Works Minister Jean-Eudes Dubé in response to written questions from former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker had asked how many red ensigns were in the possession of the public works department Feb. 15, 1965, when the present maple leaf flag was proclaimed.

Mr. Dubé said there were 11,616 red ensigns, mostly used and damaged, on hand in his department at the time the maple leaf flag was proclaimed as the "active symbol of this country."

In addition, there were about 6,000 in stock in the defence department.

In anticipation of requests for the ensign by organizations and individuals wishing to use them for "indoor display in historic monuments," reasonable number" were preserved.

Used flags were destroyed by fire in 1967 "in the accepted and traditional manner."

After an appropriate interval to determine the demand for red ensigns, a number were declared surplus and burned in December, 1971, and January, 1972.

The remaining stock had been reduced by requests from "deserving organizations and individuals"—some 1,200 in about seven years.

At present about 29 requests a year were being received and there were 749 red ensigns in stock to meet them. Thus, at the present rate of demand, the stock would not be depleted for many years.

Tests Can Reveal Mongoloid Fetus

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any kind of test that can be made before pregnancy to determine if a person might have a mongoloid child? I am a mongoloid brother and would like to know the possibility of having such children myself.

Also is the tendency passed from mother to daughters, or sons, or both?—Mrs. R. C.

There's no test that gives absolute results but analysis of chromosomes in a person's tissues may give a clue. Such tests have to be requested in relation to family history, particularly of the parents.

The trait can be passed by either parent, to either sons or daughters.

A further test is possible after pregnancy has occurred. This is called amniocentesis, analyzing a sample of amniotic fluid, fluid from the sac in which the fetus develops.

Such tests are done in laboratories with specialized facilities. Probably your best course is to ask your doctor if he can refer you to a genetics counselor. Such centres have become much more numerous in recent years.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You had a column on a drug which was found to be beneficial in stubborn cases of bed-wetting. I cut it out and mailed it to my daughter who promptly misplaced it.

My grandson, who is now 7, will be coming to live with me for some time. I would like to help him while he is here. Please send me the name of this drug so I can discuss it with my doctor.—Mrs. A. D.

The drug I discussed was imipramine, which is one of the most effective for this. Several others have been used in the past and sometimes are effective.

There are, of course, other methods of helping a child to sleep when he's in bed, so I wouldn't expect medications to do the whole job, all by themselves. Best help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is a truck driver and therefore outside all day. His life crack and are very painful. What can he do for this?—Mrs. K. G.

Likeliest causes are irritation or excessive dryness. If he is a heavy cigarette smoker, it will help if he cuts down or eat. For dryness, there are colorless creams that won't show but will preserve moisture in the skin. (He may balk at "using a lipstick" but there are similar sticks designed to prevent chapping. Have him try one.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In 1964 I developed chest pains and shortness of breath. I was told I had bronchitis and angina pectoris. Recently I entered a medical centre and was told I had bronchiectasis and arteriosclerotic heart disease. Are these both the same diagnosis?—J. R. S.

The second was somewhat more precise.

Angina pectoris is chest pain, usually related to heart disease, means hardening of the arteries in the heart. So those two ill properly together.

Bronchitis is inflammation of the bronchial tubes. Bronchiectasis indicates some pouches in the walls of these tubes, a condition virtually always accompanied by inflammation and infection, so it acts like bronchitis.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

The King Can Do No Wrong

♦ A Q J 6
♣ A K 3

The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 NT | Pass |

Opening lead—six of spades. Most hands require only ruffing tricks in dummy, but this one requires a discard. Declarer must do something extra—special to make the contract.

Take this deal where West leads a spade and East wins with the ace, dummy and declarer following low. South finesses the 10h on the return. West taking the queen, and another spade lead forces out the king.

Declarer has seven winners and needs two more. He leads a heart to the ace and finesses a diamond on the return. When the queen wins, he is up to his trick number eight.

Fresh out of entries to dummy, his only remaining hope is to play the ace and an other diamond, trusting that the king is doubleton, or the suit is divided 3-3. Unfortunately, it turns out that East started with four to the king and declarer goes down one.

Acually, South can make the contract — by perfectly logical play — but he must do something highly unnatural by ordinary standards. At trick one he must play the king of spades on the ace!

If he does, he cannot be stopped. The king play permits him to reach dummy twice (once with a spade and once with a heart) and take two diamond finesses instead of one.

As soon as East plays the ace, South can profitably apply the Rule of Eleven — which tells him that East cannot have another spade higher than the 9. Presumably the king on the ace thus assures an extra entry in dummy that may prove vital.

High cards are sometimes purposely sacrificed when there is a good reason to do so. This hand clearly calls for the king to be sacrificed. The tough part is to think of the play.

Tomorrow: Accentuating the negative.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has announced a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and helps heal the tissue of the injured, inflamed tissues.

In a hemorrhoid case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that the improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) with the ability to help relieve pain, shrink hemorrhoids, and promote healing of tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Stanfield Unveils Plan

Taxes Would Fall As Prices Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Inflati would become a personal i come tax deduction under ; government headed by Robert Stanfield.

The man who hopes to b prime minister after the next election —wherever that le said this in the Commons and added that he would increase old-age pensions by nearly $15 a month.

The election promises were delivered by the Conservative ader during an attack on the dget delivered by Finance inister John Turner a week go.

Mr. Stanfield proposed a new ation system under which individual taxpayers could cou- pensate for increases in the cost of living. He charged that the budget did nothing about unem- ployment, gave little to pension- ers and increased the load on individual taxpayers.

Lalor, a non-confidence mo- tion proposed by the New Dem- ocratic Party, saying the gov- ernment should have reduced personal income taxes in the budget, was swamped in a 161- 111 vote.

NDP Leader David Lewis said the government is biased in favor of corporations, which had reaped the only real benefits in the budget.

The NDP motion was sunk 158 to 31. Liberals and Conservat tives voted against and Social Credit supported the NDP.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, a former fi- nance minister, argued that all parties should support the budg- et's "dramatic tax reduction" for manufacturing industries.

He said they would help Cana- dian manufacturers and proces- sors to produce more cheaply and efficiently to meet interna- tional competition at home and abroad.

Mr. Stanfield proposed that individual income tax should be reduced by the amount the cost of living increased in the pre- vious 12 months.

Mr. Stanfield said that under his system taxpayers would not have to pay more tax simply because their income and the cost of living rose at the same rate. Taxables would be on the basis of real income.

Grace Granted

OTTAWA (CP) — Banks issuing Canada student loans have agreed to give unemployed bor- rowers six months grace before reporting the loans in default, Finance Minister John Turner told the Commons Monday.

Mortgage Exchange Bill Is Introduced

OTTAWA (CP) — A national mortgage exchange through which houses can be bought and sold was proposed Monday in legislation the government has promised in its February throne speech.

The central exchange, to be called Residential Mortgage Market Corp., would be complemented with a number of mort- gage investment companies all with a similar aim: "To encour- age and facilitate the invest- ment of more private capital into residential mortgages."

Mortgages have not traditionally circulated private money be- cause they have never been as easy to buy and sell as stocks and bonds. As well, few small- affairs department said in a statement. Investors are not as familiar with the mortgage market.

Idea of the federally-spon- sored mortgage companies would be to allow the central corporation to act as a short- term lender taking mortgages as security. This would make mortgages easier to market.

The corporation would have access to $400 million—$100 mil- lion invested by the federal gov- ernment in $10 shares and an borrowing to over another $300 million in loans.

The aim would be to produce a strong supply of private mortgage to be used by home buy- ers with middle and moderate incomes.

The statement said about 2.43 million new housing units will be needed by 1981. This would require about 241 billion in lo- cations.

The government would con- tinue to make federal funds for housing available through such established institutions as Con- ral Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Davis Says Cornwall Turnaround Is Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier William Davis says Ontario government experts predict a turnaround for Cornwall's hard-hit economy "in a year or two."

The premier told the Eastern Ontario Development Council Monday he hopes the federal government will continue to designate much of eastern Ontario as eligible for grants to industry. The present designation are soon to expire.

In a brief speech, Mr. Davis said extension of Cornwall's designation would improve chances of several industrial development projects for that city.

He also told the council, however, that "the future of your region is ultimately in your hands" and the provincial government could only provide assistance to the initiative of local residents.

Ernest L. Bushnell, chairman of the board of Bushnell Communications Ltd. of Ottawa, suggested in a question that failures by the Eastern Ontario Development Council may have contributed to the region's slow-growth economy.

Mr. Davis replied that he does not think municipal leaders have been apathetic: "There's been no lack of enthusiasm or commitment on their part."

Reasons for the region's slow growth were numerous and included such factors as progeny. No one factor could be singled out.

Votes Make Victim Happy

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Maryland and Michigan voters have given George Wallace's presidential campaign its first big boost, and doctors have indications that damage from the Alabama governor's gunshot wounds may not be as serious as had been feared.

Wallace had been paralyzed from the waist down since he was shot at a campaign rally at Laurel, Md., Monday afternoon. But his campaign manager said Thursday night the governor has "some slight sensation in one leg."

The encouraging news came as Wallace was receiving word of his big doubleheader primary victories, his first outside the South. It was the biggest single day and probably the high-water mark of his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Wallace, who has been beset by setbacks since he underwent five hours of surgery Monday night, remained briefly to be told of his primary victories.

Aides said Wallace's wife, Cornelia, gave them the news; he nodded and grinned.

"He knows he has won both states," campaign manager Charles Snider relayed later. "And he's very happy."

Snider said the votes in Maryland and Michigan were a mandate to go on: "We've got to continue."

Meanwhile, Arthur Herman Bremer, the 21-year-old, white Milwaukee man charged with wounding Wallace four or five times with a 38-calibre pistol, remained in the Baltimore County jail under $200,000 federal bail. He was arrested minutes after the shooting.

Snider said the doctors of physicians attending Wallace at Holy

Michigan, Maryland Vote for Wallace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has scored overwhelming victories in the Michigan and Maryland presidential primaries, and his managers are mapping new contests on behalf of their wounded candidate, hoping to deadlock the Democratic National convention.

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was resuming today the campaign he suspended when Wallace was shot; Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said he would take up the race again Thursday.

Felled by a gunman and partially paralyzed, Wallace received 58 per cent of the Democratic vote in Michigan to score his first Northern victory as a presidential campaigner, and parlayed that with a 39-per-cent victory showing in Maryland.

McGovern ran second in Michigan, with 27 per cent of the vote, Humphrey third with 16 per cent. In Maryland, Humphrey's second-place showing was 18 per cent; McGovern trailed him with 23 per cent.

On the Republican side in both states, President Nixon won easily over token opposition. Wallace had been the favorite in both contests, with his opposition to school busing for desegregation a big plus in Michigan, and with the electorate in much of border state Maryland clearly receptive to his kind of Democratic protest.

But his margins were bigger than expected. And it appeared that votes of sympathy for a felled campaigner, and a stiffened resolve among his supporters, had bolstered his showings Tuesday.

To a court psychiatrist, he did not seem dangerous.

To the policeman, Bremer was incoherent.

To classmates, he was a "lonely weirdo" with a terrific sense of anger.

There varying assessments of the 21-year-old man jailed in Maryland provided no apparent motive for his alleged wounding of Wallace at a shopping centre political rally.

The justice department meanwhile is investigating the possibility that Bremer may have had the Alabama governor on his campaign tour.

Officially, FBI sources would say only "the FBI is conducting an investigation into his background to determine who he is and what he is."

The stalking theory has been given credence by numerous reports that Bremer was seen in recent weeks at Wallace political rallies in Michigan and Maryland.

Humphrey In Trouble

DETROIT (AP) — Senator Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign appears to be in deepening trouble as the race for the Democratic presidential nomination moves west towards California's crucial primary June 6.

Short on funds, the Minnesota senator has cut his campaigning in some states to put virtually all of his resources into California, where he hopes to halt the momentum of Senator George McGovern's drive.

If he can't, the nomination may be McGovern's.

FBI Thinks Bremer Stalked Wallace

MILWAUKEE (CP) — Three professional men and a policeman who had close contact with Arthur Bremer late last year each saw the man charged with shooting Gov. George C. Wallace in a different light.

To his lawyer in a misdemeanor case, Bremer was quiet, meticulous and questioning.

To a minister-consultant, he boiled up anger and bordered on paranoia, a form of mental disease marked by a perverse

Condominiums Are Included

By ROY PEACOCK, Staff Reporter

A multi - million - dollar housing development, consisting initially of approximately 60 single-family residences and two condominium complexes, is under way in Bellville's west-end Palmer Road district.

Principals in the development are Belleville builder Maurice H. Rollins and local realtor Donald J. Whalen, who have formed a new company — DonMor Properties Ltd. — to take over the remaining single family and condominium lots in the Palmer Heights subdivision originally registered by Gowanbrae Ltd.

"The new subdivision, to be started almost immediately known as Fenton Park, is east of Palmer Road and south of Bridge Street.

Construction has already commenced on the first of about 16 single-family residences to be built on Dunnett Blvd., while a start on the first condominium complex of 30 units is expected within the next two or three weeks.

Mr. Rollins said the 30 townhouse condominium units to be started almost immediately would consist of four separate buildings.

Each of the condominium units will have its own separate garage, a feature somewhat unusual for town house construction.

The first condominium project on the west side of O'Hara Street is expected to be completed by late fall with the second complex scheduled for construction in the spring.

Of the 60 single family residences to be constructed from 35 to 40 will be built this year.

That there is demand for better class single family homes in the city is indicated by the fact that one of the units now under construction on Dunnett Blvd. is already sold — price $40,000.

"That's possibly tops for the sub-division but it is an indication of the quality of homes to be built," Mr. Rollins said.

Cost of the 60 homes and two condominium projects will be approximately $1,500,000.

Financing of the condominium units is still under negotiation with a local bank.

Agnew Meets Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Vice-President Spiro Agnew of the United States conferred with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today. U.S. sources said the meeting was intended to underscore the Nixon administration's support for South Vietnam in the current Communist offensive.

Aides refused to say exactly what was discussed or whether any personal messages were sent by Agnew between Thieu and President Nixon.

Agnew flew to Saigon from Bangkok, where he arrives Tuesday after representing Nixon at the coronation in Tokyo returning Okinawa to Japan. It was a third visit for South Vietnam, and he stayed three hours and 15 minutes, then flew back to Bangkok.

Bundestag Ratifies Treaty

BONN (AP) — The West German Bundestag voted narrowly today to ratify Chancellor Willy Brandt's detente-easing treaty with the Soviet Union.

It gave 248 votes for ratification, 10 votes against, and there were 238 abstentions.

Chinese Delegate Poisoned

NEW YORK (AP) — Public television station WNDT said Tuesday night that the death last February of a 28-year-old staff member of the Chinese delegation to the United Nations was caused by nicotine poisoning.

The station said Wang Hsitsang was working at the mission as a code clerk and film projectionist at the time of his death. A chemical analysis of his body was ordered by the city's chief medical examiner after an autopsy proved inconclusive.

WNDT said its reporter, Selwyn Raab, had learned that the laboratory tests "showed the presence of a substance that can be broken down into a liquid form that is tasteless and colorless in an ordinary drink like tea and coffee, and a few drops are potentially fatal." The station identified the substance as nicotine.

WNDT said the alleged findings of the city's chief medical examiner, Milton Helpern, and his chief assistant, Michael Baden, were being suppressed by the Chinese with the support of the U.S. state department.

Shells Hit Munitions

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese shells smashed into a big U.S. Air Force transport and stored artillery ammunition and gasoline at the Kontum airfield in the central highlands today, killing seven Americans aboard the plane and injuring the other two.

The South Vietnamese also blew up the main gasmunition dump at Pleiku, 29 miles south of Kontum, and on the northern front they cut the main north-south highway between Da Nang and Hue. Fighting continued west of Hue around Fire Base Bastogne with one South Vietnamese unit reporting moderate casualties from a 158-round mortar barrage.

The Communist gunners hit the C-130 transport as it was taking off from the Kontum airfield. The plane cartwheeled and burst into flames.

Underground gasoline tanks at the western end of the airstrip exploded, sending flames 300 feet into the air, and thousands of rounds of artillery ammunition blasted off, shooting out flames and hurling canisters and shells high into the air.

Quebec Labor Officials Fail in Bid to Join Leaders in Jail

QUEBEC (CP) — Labor officials who tried unsuccessfully to go to jail Tuesday as a gesture of solidarity with three jailed Quebec labor leaders are expected to try again today.

Meanwhile, there were contradictory signs in the province's movement against jail terms at illegal strikes, occupations and demonstrations spread in some areas while in others workers returned to their jobs.

At a rally of construction workers in Montreal early today as supporters and opponents of Quebec labor protests clashed over the issue of a return-to-work.

Three men were beaten up at the 7 a.m. rally in a Montreal arena parking lot before 50 motorcycle police broke up the fighting.

Later, police escorted construction workers to another arena in suburban Longueuil, across the St. Lawrence River, where a strike vote was to be held later in the day.

About two-thirds of the construction workers at the Montreal rally indicated by a show of hands that they wanted to end the walkout. A handful indicated they wanted it continued.

On the other hand, a number of Quebec Liquor Board outlets in the province were picketed by protests and a number of businesses were forced to close Wednesday by 400 common front supporters.

The Quebec Teachers Corp. charged the Liberal party has been trying to set up vigilante committees throughout the province. Union Secretary Michel Agnaeff said a former Liberal party officials called on a special telephone network and got their actions during last month's 11-day public service strike.

A police spokesman said judicial department orders compelling them to jail had not been received. It was also reported that the officials, heads of local unions in 10 hospitals, had failed to give proper notice of their move.

But their lawyers said this would be corrected overnight and they would try again today.

The officials had been free pending their appeals but a common front spokesman said Tuesday they found their position untenable as compounded by jail conditions which prevented them from participating in strike activity or union meetings.

A total of 12 union officials were fined and sentenced to jail terms while another seven were fined for actions during the public service strike.

The jailing of the top three last Tuesday sparked province-wide illegal strikes, occupations and demonstrations which have continued this week.

However, there have also been some recent signs the movement is losing momentum.

On Monday, Montreal public transport bus and subway operators voted not to join the protests.

In Sept-Iles, virtually closed down last week, much normal activity resumed Tuesday when United Steelworkers of America members voted to return to work at the Wabush operation and the Iron Ore Co. of Canada reopened its doors to members of six unions.

Student Jobs Scarce

While a Belleville student travels to Regina, a student from Moncton comes to Belleville, both beginning work in conjunction with the regional employment plan originated by the Department of Manpower and Immigration.

The plan, called Opportunity for Youth, will open manpower offices across the country each to locate approximately 10 jobs, to be offered to the program.

"A two-fold effect is anticipated in the program," said Ray Lesage, student placement officer for the Belleville office of the Canada Manpower.

The student would not only get a job for the summer (three months) but would have the opportunity of seeing some of the country.

The nation wide program has not worked out as completely as would have been filled by manpower administrators.

Mr. Lesage's first job was to locate these 10 positions.

Only one of the jobs he located filled the requirements of the department, resulting in only one student coming to Belleville and one going.

More than 19 positions were shipped to head office, but most of them were either for less pay than was expected, or the positions lasted for less than the stipulated three months. Expected pay was $2 an hour.

This was not just a local problem for Belleville. Across the country the same results were reflected; read a teletype from headquarters to the Belleville office.

The remaining jobs that were not accepted by the manpower program will be distributed among applicants applying for summer work through the student office.

With the regional approach almost out of the way, Mr. Lesage said his two - girl crew have set them selves in finding places for local students.

More than 900 youths have registered their names with the Canada Manpower Centre Student Placement office on Wallbridge-Loyalist Road, with the big rush still to come from high school students in the early weeks of June.

Because of the lack of good jobs for the summer, most of the university students are out looking on their own, and checking with the office now and then, said one placement officer.

Ray Lesage pinpoint officer of the student placement centre told The Intelligencer "there aren't a lot of good available right, now and in many cases, the jobs that are around will be snapped up by students applying on their own initiative to various companies."

Orders are coming in all the time for casual employment for one or two days work.

"If people keep on coming in or checking by telephone with us, we can send them out to these jobs and let them earn a little money at least," said Mr. Lesage.

"We have just too many people to keep in touch with," he said. "It is their responsibility to keep pestering us. That is what we are here for."

SGT. RONALD GRAHAM

Two Quinte area Ontario Provincial Police officers have been promoted and transferred to new posts.

Casey Kowa, detective sergeant at District Nine headquarters, Belleville, since June of 1969, has been promoted to inspector and transferred to Toronto.

Before coming to Belleville he was stationed in Madoc from April of 1958 to June of 1969. A member of the OPP since Jan. 22 of 1952, he has served at Port Arthur, Longlac, Kakabeka Falls and Oak Ridges.

Inspector Kotwa is married with three sons.

From Picton detachment, Ronald Graham has been promoted from corporal to sergeant and posted to the detectives office at District Nine Headquarters in Belleville.

Before receiving his stripes, he was stationed at Lancaster from the time he joined in November of 1957, until transfer in 1969.

Sergeant Graham is married, with two daughters.

Who Me, Chief?

New Burroughs, right, 1971-72 president of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville, lays down the law to 1972-73 president - elect Paul Lebeau, following elections at the Belleville Shrine Club last night. Mr. Lebeau, a researcher at Canada Cement, will assume his duties from the retiring president in September.

St. Carthagh's to Have Full-day Kindergarten

Youngsters in the Tweed area will be attending kindergarten on a full-day basis next September.

They will attend school on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday taking the same buses to and from St. Carthagh's School as their older schoolmates.

The switch in schedule will be an experimental, program for a year, the only full-day kindergarten program under the separate school board's jurisdiction.

$750 Damage

In Collision

TWEED (Special) — Property damage amounting to approximately $750 resulted from a two-car collision at the corner of Victoria and Bridge Street in Tweed late Tuesday morning.

Village police chief William Carroll said that Simon Countryman of Stirling was northbound on Victoria, when, in attempting to make a left turn, his vehicle was in collision with Murney Geen of Thomasburg.

Sunday morning at the hydro pole on South Victoria Street was smashed by a hit and run driver.

Pair Arrested After Fracas

Half a dozen city policemen, including Chief Douglas Crosbie, were involved in the arrest of two youths who now face multiple charges arising from knife fights in the downtown shopping district.

The incidents began at 8.05 p.m. when a member of the Gardner Realty Citrus chased two youths from the Memorial Arena. Address, employee said the pair had been using profane language on his wife, an argument started, and one youth pulled a knife.

Shortly after this incident, Jack Rock of Belleville enterprises Limited, stating that a knife had been pulled on him at the corner of Victoria and Front Streets.

Several minutes later, police received a call from B and D Motors on Front Street asking for help, that an assault with a knife was taking place.

"It was wild and woolley for a few minutes," the police chief stated this morning.

Keith Gordon Andrew Noble 18, of 158 Earl Street, Kingston and Robert Paul Moore, 16, of the same address, have place a charge of possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace, and two charges of common assault. Charges were laid as a result of the Front Street incidents, Nobody was injured.

The arrests were made by city police Constables John Hill and Tom Stone, with assistance from four, other officers.

Condominiums

which Mr. Whalen said was "very interested".

The lots on O'Hara Street on which the condominiums are to be constructed are already zoned for that purpose.

The only other condominium housing in Belleville are the units now under construction by Mr. Whalen in the College Hill area just south of Prince of Wales School. Condominiums are a scheme under which separate but adjoining units housing is sold to individual owners.

The condominium to be built at Ponton Park will be of two - storey construction with basements, with each unit having its own private front and rear entrances.

"They will be a better-class condominium," said Mr. Whalen.

In addition to the 48 remaining single family lots and lots for the three condominiums, DonMor Properties Ltd. is also negotiating for the purchase of 73 double lots which were planned for duplex construction by Gowanbrae Ltd.

If the 73 double lots are purchased, Mr. Whalen said the plan would be to construct single - priced single - family residences on the lots originally intended for duplex construction.

Lots in the new Ponton Park subdivision are completely serviced with sanitary and storm sewers, waterlines, paved roadways and curbs already installed.

Wallace

Cross Hospital in Silver Spring were guarded in their expectation that the implications of recovery were improving.

The x-rays showed the bullet which entered the body was first down, entered in a downward direction. Solder said the x-rays showed the bullet lay parallel to the spine parallel with the nerve upward; this would indicate that the force of the bullet was largely spent before it reached the spine.

The x-rays also showed there was no blood in the spinal fluid, and that since the bullet appeared to have been spent before reaching the spine "there may not be as much damage to the nerves as they had feared there was."

Solder said that ultimately Wallace will require further surgery for removal of the bullet in the spinal-cord area.

The most significant new sign was the repeated return of sensation to one leg. Mrs. Wallace had said earlier in the afternoon Monday night that Wallace had no feeling below the waist.

The Washington Post reported earlier that the bullet had severed Wallace's spinal cord, and quoted unnamed medical sources as saying the chances of the governor ever walking again are "slim."

"This is contrary to all reports we have received," Solder said.

Snider said physicians are not sure of the extent of damage caused by the bullet and are not making a "final prediction" on chances of full recovery.

A severed spinal column would mean permanent paralysis, but bruised or pinched nerves in the bundles surrounding the spinal column often respond to the pool during periods of public use.

Ald. Jeffrey said the pool would be available from July 3 to Sept. 1, as well as during school hours and mid-term holiday breaks.

"The facility is there and should be used," he said.

The recreation committee authorized a meeting to be held with the Y and with Kinsmen and Kiwanis officials to discuss swimming programs, following which a decision will be made whether to take on holiday operation of the OSD pool.

Good Time for All At Kente Carnival

AMELIASBURG (Staff) — Tuesday was an apple-bobbing good time for youngsters at Kente Public School here.

The gymnasium was dressed to the nines, as were many of the young folk, their teachers and several parent students. Colorful booths, gay balloons, bits of colored paper and a carnival atmosphere were the order of the day.

For the first several weeks classes have been geared to some extent to creating a penny carnival. Art classes were devoted to poster making, creative writing to descriptions of the anticipated event, and maths to the calculation of the multi-penny profits hoped for.

The carnival was opened yesterday by principal Glenn Salter . . . a strange poster likeness of the principal decorated one carnival wall for the Pin the Mousiache on Mr. Salter game . . . after which older students paraded through the gym.

Some were dressed as clowns, others in old-fashioned costume. The fun really started when the youngsters trooped in. There were candy and freshie booths, bowling contests, peg in the hole, duck fish pond, musical chairs, toy exchanges, shoe polishing and a host of other games.

Parents arrived on the scene to help supervise the carnival, but rather than sit on the sidelines and watch, most pitched in to enjoy the fun.

All proceeds raised by the youngsters will be turned over to the Red Cross Youth fund.

Public May Use Deaf School Pool

That new indoor swimming pool at the Ontario School for the Deaf may be made available for public use during the coming summer holiday period.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey, chairman of the city recreation area committee announced yesterday that discussions had been held with school officials at which it had been confirmed the OSD pool could be available for holiday swimming in this area.

A condition, however, would be that the recreation committee supervise operation of the pool during periods of public use.

Ald. Jeffrey said the pool would be available from July 3 to Sept. 1, as well as during school hours and mid-term holiday breaks.

"The facility is there and should be used," he said.

The recreation committee authorized a meeting to be held with the Y and with Kinsmen and Kiwanis officials to discuss swimming programs, following which a decision will be made whether to take on holiday operation of the OSD pool.

Flour-rent Meeting Is Called

SHANNONVILLE (Staff) — The first careful step toward a possible redrafting of this hamlet's eccentric real estate situation will be made this week — although indications are no immediate solution need be expected.

Friday, landowners for the Bay of Quinte Mohawks, this community's only manufacturer and the federal government, meet in closed session to review the 133-year-old lease, terms of which are Shannonville's genesis.

All parties involved separately agree the meeting is an exploratory session — to see what can be achieved in updating a document which leased 200 acres of the Mohawks' Tyendinaga Reserve for 999 years at an annual rental of 30 barrels of flour.

The original 1839 Crown lease — drafted by British colonial administrators — involved a mill operator. The mill was later replaced by a canning factory which has changed ownerships at various intervals. Meantime, land around the original mill site was sub-leased to various settlers, whose modern successors are the residents and businessmen making up this community.

Friday's long-awaited meeting on the reserve primarily involves Mohawk Chief Earl Hill and Ronald Hyatt, Cherry Valley canner who is president of Virgo Foods — the company which latterly purchased the canning factory and ran its first production line last year. Virgo also inherited the flour payment — now a controversial point with the Mohawks who feel it is absurdly out of step with real property values. So much so they have refused deliveries.

Also at the meeting will be S. C. Knapp, regional superintendent of economic development for the Indian Affairs and Northern Development Department.

But, from the tone of all concerned, the meeting could be just the first of a series as a solution is sought to the issue.

Chief Hill described the meeting as exploratory, ore which hopefully would "start the ball rolling" to resolve the issue without "too many problems".

He said the Mohawks wanted to probe into the historic background of the situation — including the releasing of parts of the original land tract to other land holders.

"I don't imagine we'll be talking about new lease terms or anything like that," he said.

Mr. Hyatt said he had just been informed of the meeting last week and did not know at this stage what would transpire.

"As far as I know it will be more or less of an exploratory nature at this point," he added.

He believed everyone concerned was happy that such a session had finally been called and agreed if the problem was fairly involved. He declined to comment on the possibility of a solution being evolved at this time since he knew "absolutely" nothing of the details of the meeting.

From Toronto, Mr. Knapp described his role as that of mediator, "not arbitrator"

The department's interest is to bring both parties together so they can express and understand each other's concerns, he said.

The intention is to get both sides "quietly together to find out what areas they can agree on and what areas need to be explored further," he said.

Knowing Where You're At!

Come lunchtime, Corby Parks gardener John Eggett is probably the only Canadian who can tell precisely where he's at — exactly 305.995 feet above sea level. That stone Mr. Eggett is perched on during his noontime break, is a plaque placed in the Belleville Rose park by the federal Geodetic Survey of Canada, one of a series of markers throughout the area which assist surveyors in precision settings vital to their work.

Sewer Problems To Be Studied

TRENTON (Staff) — Following a letter from the ministry of environment urging the town to take action to curb infiltration of rain water into the sanitary sewage system, the work's commissioner, himself not an engineer, has been asked to prepare a study by June 5 on how this might best be accomplished.

The ministry had said in its letter, "we would appreciate receiving from your engineer a progress report on this matter." It says Trenton had indicated it planned a "vigorous program for reducing the present high flows (of rainwater) to the sewage treatment plant" and in view of this the letter said the ministry had agreed to look favorably on applications for subdivisions here.

Lately flows through the plant have run as high as five million gallons daily, much of which is water seeping into the system and lowering the effectiveness of the treatment process.

Councillor Ted Parker called for work to be done immediately "or else we are going to be spending a lot of money treating rain water."

Works commissioner Arie Hoornweg, by council vote, has been given two weeks to find answers to the problem.

Said acting mayor George Greer "we all believe this is a matter for utmost urgency because we all feel we need the approvals of subdivisions." Some councillors told the ministry of environment letter to mean no action on infiltration, no approvals for developers' projects.

An American Tragedy

Other countries have their rioters and their mobs but the United States, which has its share of them too, harbors in addition countless individuals of dubious mental stability.

Governor George Wallace who was shot and critically wounded by such a man on Monday has all along feared assassination. This time he had moved into the crowd from the bullet - proof podium from which he usually speaks. Some days previous he had expressed his fears to an aide, saying "there are so many kooks in this country" that he thought someone might get killed before the primary elections were over.. He said he could sense it from the crowds whenever he appeared.

From what is known thus far of the alleged assailant he could fall into this category. Aged 21, he sounds from notes police found to be the mixture of idealist and mentally insecure person who might commit such a crime. Bobby Kennedy's killer, Sirhan B. Sirhan, a Jordanian immigrant, was in the same mental mode while Lee Harvey Oswald who gunned down his brother, the President, in 1963, had hangups enough also to put him behind a rifle in a Dallas building and lie in wait as the Presidential motorcade approached.

Sociologists will debate this kind of phenomenon until the cows come home but perhaps the most obvious symptom, right down at the human level, is a sense of personal nonentity and by golly here is a way to get people to notice. This allied to the other obvious ingredients of rootlessness, a sense of alienation in a frenetic, materialistic and impersonal society and last, but not leat, the gun - happy atmophere of the United States where even the cocktail waitresses carry pistols (according to Connie Martin, a singer appearing in revue in Toronto who is just back from a 4,000-mile tour of clubs and bars in the U.S.)

How many more "kooks" there are in the United States is anybody's guess but there must be thousands with the potential for Monday's lamentable episode in Maryland and the others that went before; and not forgetting the Charles Manson cult and the young University of Texas student who from a campus tower in Austin gunned down a whole bunch of unsuspecting people some years ago.

The United States is a big country and this kind of thing must be seen in proportion to the country's overall greatness and adherence to basic principles of conduct. But Senator McGovern put it succinctly when he said "this is a troubled country." Meanwhile Mr. Wallace, though threatened with paralysis appears to be recovering and the word is he will remain a candidate. This Alabama governor has a considerable following and he may now win more out of sympathy.

Poster Campaign

We commend the endeavors of the Hastings and Prince Edward TB and Respiratory Diseases Association and in particular Mrs. Margaret Haliam, executive secretary, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, respiratory committee chairman, for their further endeavors toward curbing smoking. We refer to the posters being placed in the hospital and in the Queen's Bed Cars Unit.

To smoke or not to smoke in most circumstances is of course a personal matter but hospitals and, ideally, doctors' waiting rooms are areas where "no smoking" controls are justifiable. Women of all ages are still, we are convinced, from casual observation, the heaviest smokers.

The Search

You know how it is trying to find a birthday card . . . you can age ten years in the process. They are generally too wordy and finding that it is in good taste and not choking under a welter of corn or mushy verse can be exhausting. Give us Mother's Day anytime; we found one of these and were out of the store in short order; the card was attractive and had a brief message that said all that needed to be said with economy and kind thought.

Flying Ambulance

Down in the Savannah - Chatham area of Georgia they are talking of establishing a helicopter air ambulance using Hunter Army Field. This is a plan we have thought useful ourselves and have said so. Moreover, it is already in use in Bavaria. The West German copter ambulance includes medical personnel who radio details of injuries to the hospital and in turn receive advice on first-aid from waiting doctors during the flight.

He Had the Raw Material Sent on Its Way...

How an M.P. Raised Hell and Saved 30 Jobs

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — So what good is your MP, you may sometimes wonder.

The thought could hit you when you read in the papers that he has stood sounding in the House of Commons that is neither of any particular concern nor personal interest to you.

And especially when you get one of his "News Letters from Parliament Hill," as so many MPs term their chatty me-to-you reports to constituents, or he sends you a printed reply soon to ask you for your vote there is the question . . .

. . . Just what does the guy do to justify that annual $26,000 with the top $8,000 tax-clear, three air travel tickets, free phone, radio and other services, junkets to Faraway Places and all sorts of parliamentary fringe benefits?

The generalized answer is, of course, "a lot of them" — in fact all but a fortunately few free-loaders who scamp the job — is plenty.

They do enough and more to earn their tax bleep.

A generalization? Sure.

So let us have some specifics, you say.

OK, let's.

We will talk about Alfred Dryden Hales, who has spent the last 15 of his 63 years in the Commons representing the 30,000 or so voters in the Old Ontario constituency of Wellington, the rolling built - around Guelph.

In those 15 years he has won six elections, been a parliamentary assistant to former Conservative Labor Minister Mike Starr during the Diefenbaker years, and chairman of Parliament's powerful Public Accounts Committee in both the Liberal regimes of Prime Minister Lester Pearson, and of Pierre Trudeau.

But he did not win those elections for what he did as Mike Starr's parliamentary second-in-command nor yet as boss of the Public Accounts Committee. He won them because he is in there pitching at all times for his constituency.

Like a few months ago when he dropped into the Biltmore Hat plant at Guelph to look into the pending — one of his four calls a year at the factory — and buy a new felt cap, deerstalker, straw or wedge.

"Where have you been!" Biltmore president, Norman Mickey McMillan greeted him. "And where are you when we need you?"

He was kidding of course.

But, says Al Hales, you would be surprised how many people ask you where you have been when, in fact, you have been back home in the riding every weekend, main-streeting and talking to people.

So it was strictly coincidence that Al Hales dropped around just as Biltmore Hats that very week, had laid off 30 employees and faced the unhappy prospect of laying off another 300.

The plant was running out of rabbit fur needed for hat felt.

From Czechoslovakia, in crates, were enough skins to keep the plant humming and everyone at work, but it was all pitched away in a corner of a Montreal warehouse customs.

Stuck there for days and no way to get it moving on the last leg of its journey to Guelph.

Stuck because United States' East Coast ports were on strike and American dockers were not shipped — on a priority basis — through Montreal harbor, becoming a zone Canadian freight, including these crates of rabbit fur bound for Guelph.

Well, to make it short and sweet, Al Hales climbed on the phone to Ottawa, got Deputy Transport Minister Jerry Sharp on the line and "pulled the root to make the fur fly."

Deputy Sharp said a little rug-raising himself with the Montreal Harbor Commission, and in the interim, Drew Ont. of the back corner of that warehouse scrambled, was trucked out to Dorval airport, into Toronto International, out again and under over overnight way Four O One to Guelph.

It brought the 30 laid off employees back to work and saved the jobs of the other 270 due for layoff.

What good is an MP, and is what does he do to earn your vote and that $26,000?

Ask Biltmore Hat president Micky McMillan.

He knows.

Leadership Conventions: The Liberals' Turn

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

There will always be leadership conventions, it seems.

In Ontario there has hardly been a year in recent times when one or another of the parties wasn't in the midst of choosing leaders.

This year we are conforming. If, as and when Prime Minister Trudeau gets his election out of the way, the Liberals will get busy naming a leader to succeed Robert Nixon.

That election does have to be out of the way first, however. The provincial party can't even name a date before it is settled. Otherwise they might find themselves holding an election contest in the midst of a federal campaign.

This makes for an unusual atmosphere. There aren't any active candidates but there are a number of men always around in the background testing the climate.

Notable among them is James Bullbrook. These days the energetic and able Sarnia lawyer is the name mentioned most when potential leaders are talked about.

But Bullbrook is playing mum-say-nouey. He has said he won't run but he is making noises like he still hasn't made up his mind. He leaves the impression that he will be a candidate only if he is pretty sure he can win.

Another sniffer here is Donald Deacon: investment dealer, man of means, member for York Centre and able critic in the house. It looks as though he will probably go.

Not obviously interested but being talked about are Jim Breithaupt, able young lawyer and member for Kitchener, and Philip Givens, former Toronto mayor, former federal member and now sitting in the legislature for Toronto-Forest Hill.

It appears there also is a bit of sniffing going on in Ottawa.

Two top men, Health Minister John Munro and Resources Minister Donald Macdonald, are reported to be seriously considering taking a whack at the provincial pc.

If they come in, and it seems almost certain one or the other will, this could be one of the better contests. It could be dependent on to develop into a confrontation between the federal and provincial parties. There hasn't been one of those since John Wintermeyer of Ottawa ran Walter Harris in 1957.

That was an exciting show.

Sailing Regatta Could Boost City History

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

In a much commented on article entitled "To Put Your Town On The Map" the March issue of Rotarian Digest writes "With Fairs, festivals and even funerals, small communities are finding ways to make themselves famous. And projects can be as far out as a sculling crab across the Bay finishing near the new Dundas Street bridge with spectators cheering from both banks of the river would be a sight to behold!

A sustained series of competitive events might encourage The Four Seasons Hotel to complete the original intention to give this area the modern marina facilities necessary for major contests.

Since increased tourism will be a great benefit to the region particularly downtown Belleville, I believe such a promotion is worthy of the strongest support from the Chamber of Commerce, the service clubs, the Four Seasons and other hotels and motels which offer such outstanding facilities for the first-class accommodation and entertainment essential for the success of major events.

P.M.'s Office Expenditure

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

In a remote, small corner of its Good Friday edition, the Globe and Mail admitted that it had erred in a statement regarding the cost of refurbishing the Prime Minister's office.

If my memory is correct, the figure was reduced from approximately $42,000 to approximately $28,000; still indeed a great deal of money.

In view of these facts, may I respectfully suggest that E. E. Bennett of Wellington direct the public percentage of his hostility toward Darcy McKeough?

Potential U.S. Trade with China Could Hurt Canada

By JOHN HARBRON.

It may be true Canada's earlier recognition of Communist China has made possible President Nixon's historic visit to Peking last winter. Certainly we can take full credit that a Canadian wheat policy initiative permitted us to lead, not necessarily follow, where the United States is concerned.

But we shouldn't remain too smug for too long about the thaw in the deep-freeze between Peking and Washington which had existed since 1949. The Americans now will look for an early market in Communist China for their traditionally large wheat surpluses, and they could offer them to Peking on a basis which could be crippling for Canadian wheat exports.

When the Nixon party comes to Washington to permit U.S. wheat exports to China, it could use a formula it has applied in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. This is payment in local but non-convertible Communist currencies in lieu of convertible currencies for U.S. food grain imports. These local currency balances are then available for other U.S. government purchases within a Communist country.

Canada, of course, sells her wheat for good hard Canadian dollars. If we recall the famous, wheat-selling visits to Communist China in the early 1960s of former Conservative Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton we recline about $1 billion has been earned by this country since then in selling food grain not only to China but to the U.S.S.R. and Eastern European Communist states. Our balance of payments would be seriously, and perennially permanently, affected by any successful U.S. overture to subsidize future Peking grain purchases in the United States.

Fortunately for us, there are many steps to be followed before the Americans try to walk into our Communist Chinese trade. First, we are long-term reliable suppliers of the Communist Chinese. That record includes mainly straight-free West Coast ports for volume grain shipments to Chinese and Russian Pacific ports.

Second, Peking will surely want easy access to the huge U.S. consumer markets for many of China's recently-developed manufactured goods — which will make making the long U.S. hassle with Japan over dumping prices look very mild indeed. In fact, many of China's new fabricated goods, machine tools, food products and finished textiles are in the same product areas as many Japanese imports. It has taken Canada-Japan trade talks over years to agree whether export sales prices for certain Japanese products are dumping prices or not. Who knows if Communist Chinese export sales practices will be even lower than the Japanese?

The time for Chinese-American bargaining on these matters may be a long way off, since diplomatic relations between the two countries may also be a long way off. But don't forget: our wheat exports began a decade before formal recognition between the two countries on 1949. So did products of Canada's moral decadence.

Ontario's Mixed-Up Spending Priorities

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The Provincial Minister of Municipal Affairs is charged with the responsibility of seeing to the adequate provision of municipal services.

Scarcely a lugury, is the provision of good clean water.

In Deseronto, Hastings County, old age pensioners, who have done their full share in Canada, and whose political power is as limited as their pocket book, must fetch and carry clean water from local wells in order to avoid a recurrence of the Black Death.

Our province apparently has no money to assist a needy political entity whose municipality to replace a decrepit, disgusting and dangerous public water system which has been certified as unfit to drink for many years.

So on May 10, 1972, we read that the Minister of Municipal Affairs, as he then was, will present Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton with a cheque for the sum of $37,800.

Included in the furnishings were two "love seats" — cost $840.

The provincial government may have grave difficulty in inducing any resident of this area to sit in Mr. McKeough's "love seats".

What a weird, unbalanced society we live in, permit an doubtless deserve!

Denturist Services Seen As Aid to Those Low on Funds

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It is hardly likely that any dentist is going to make if denturist services are made legally available to the public.

Most dentists are kept more than busy providing routine care to their patients. The person who can afford to do so, will still obtain needed dentures from his dentist.

This leaves the person who cannot afford the fees in a bad enough that he cannot have the benefit of the professional medical knowledge of his dentist — should he be deprived of, the essential service of a denturist is adequate?

Dentists could insist on a guarantee from the denturists that if a patient's condition is such that denturist service is inadequate or potentially harmful — it will be refused to the patient referred to his dentist.

Ethically speaking how the dentists justify denying the a satisfactory and inexpensive service if it is available?

The question must be decided on the basis of the patient's needs. After all, nobody has his teeth willingly or functional without them adequately — we add to his misery?

Abortion Question

Sherbrooke La Tribune:
Among the work done by a commission of inquiry into women, a commission formed by the Liberal government one recommendation made which will cause much discussion.

The commission, charged with taking the population's pulse on the controversies of the Bird commission on the status of women in Canada, recommended that the government remove abortion from the Criminal Code.

Even if the legislator does not personally favor recourse to abortion, he must . . . formulate laws to safeguard the rights of all and to act according to his own moral convictions.

But it seems that while one does not want to incriminate persons who take recourse to an abortion for one reason or another, a system of popular education must be set up so that abortions not appear to be medical solutions to social or psychological reasons.

No one is obliged to accept abortion, but no one has the right to judge and condemn persons who are not opposed to it. In this sense, the law must respect the moral options of everybody and the recommendation of the special commission could be adopted without leading to Canada's moral decadence.

Today In History

May 17, 1972 . . .

Sgt. Maj. Walter Leja, 54, was severely injured nore years ago today — in 1953 — when a rocket burst in a Montreal mailbox blew up in his hand. Corporal Leja later, police arrested 29 young members of the Front de Libération québécoise and Mario Bachand, 21, was sentenced to four years for placing the bomb which maimed Sgt. Maj. Leja.

1960—The summit conference in Paris collapses as Khrushchev insisted on a United States apology for the U-2 flights.

1945—A free torpedo struck Windsor, Ont., killing 16 and injuring 13.

1844—The Independence of Norway was proclaimed.

Canadian Importers Associ

Ottawa, now in China, will determine which Communist China products, of the kinds and ty already made by the Japanese and sold here, they can buy and sell in the Canadian market. This kind of visit, given to Canadian-American political relations, could be as important for Canada in Asia, as was the resumption of formal relations between ourselves and Communist China.

This is why Peking will want to test the Canadian market, so many ways a smaller version of the larger, more appealing American one. So it will be business to accept Chinese manufactured goods.

Hunters Are After Bothersome Bruin

By RUBY McCOY
Special Correspondent

Men with rifles combed the area around Cordova early Monday morning looking for a bear that clawed its way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hamilton, RR 1, Havelock, at 2:45 a.m. and nearly frightened 10-year-old Penny to death.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were awakened by their dog Trixie, growling and a noise they thought might be a raccoon prowling around the house. Mr. Hamilton got up to investigate and traced the noise to Penny's bedroom. Penny was awake and wondering what was making her bed shake up and down.

When Mr. Hamilton shone his flashlight under the bed he found he was looking into the bear's face through a hole in the bedroom wall.

Mr. Hamilton just has a 22 which he knew would be useless, so his wife ran to the telephone and called two well known area hunters, Charles and Lawrence Barrons. They searched the area until four o'clock but found nothing. After boarding up the bedroom wall, the Barrons brothers went home and the Hamiltons tried to settle down to sleep.

At five o'clock the bear was back again, tearing another hole in the tenfoot siding, through the insulation and inside wallboard. This time Trixie, a seven - pound black and white terrier, went out through the hole after the bear with Mr. Hamilton after him with a rifle.

The bear disappeared behind their house again but a watch will be kept for him tonight in case he decides to make another appearance.

At three o'clock Sunday morning a bear clawed the screen door off the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmyer McFarlane, six miles north of Cordova. Mrs. McFarlane and her granddaughter, Mrs. Marion Webber, were alone in the house at the time. The bear ran off when Mrs. Webber opened the inside door to investigate the noise but paid another visit early Monday morning.

It is not known if this is the same bear but it is very unusual for bears to come so close to humans.

On Friday evening, about 11:30 p.m. Mrs. Harold Nobes, had an unexpected and unwelcome visitor at her house in Shanick, 10 miles north of Marmora and 6 miles to the east of Cordova.

After Mrs. Nobes had retired for the night her dog Mitzie started to bark and cause a commotion. When Mrs. Nobes investigated she heard something at her kitchen window, then leave.

Saturday morning she did some looking around and found a big hole in one small cabin which her nephew from Oshawa built and used on weekends. She also found that her visitor had torn the screens off the cabin before calling on her at her home.

Mrs. Nobes has been staying alone much of the time while her husband is in Campbellford Hospital. Needless to say, Mrs. Nobes is keeping a loaded gun handy in case her unwelcome visitor comes back there.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 17, 1972

City Woman Featured in Article

In the May issue of "Miss Chatelaine", Vicki Wheeler, 27-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wheeler, Belleville was selected as one of the young women holding a profession, to be interviewed. Vicki, an Ontario Scholar graduate of BCIVS and the only female graduate in engineering science from the University of Western Ontario 1968, now holds the initials, "P. Eng." after her name.

She is now working at the data processing branch of IBM in Toronto as a systems engineer and is currently working on a five- year project with her staff. The smooth operation of her system will be studied by a group of engineers from Europe shortly.

Vicki, born in Belleville, always chose the maths and science in school. Looking back now, she probably selected engineering because it provided a clear-cut job goal. Besides there's money to be made in this profession. Vicki's school officials were not so enthusiastic about her job preference and as far as Vicki Wheeler is concerned there is nothing particularly male-oriented about engineering. Most of the subjects taught at university are based on high school subjects and Vicki achieved her position through hard study. The results of the examination which she wrote for IBM at which 29 other students (all male) wrote showed only two per cent across Canada receiving an A standing. Vicki and two males from the school were three chosen with this standing.

At first, she wouldn't accept the position offered at IBM, because she believed the job was below her qualifications. "If I'm going to be an engineer, I'm going to be an engineer." So she began working at IBM on this condition and visited the various manufacturing companies of IBM picking out snags in the engineering working hard to achieve the position she holds today.

"What engineering really demands," says Vicki, "is an aptitude for science and a lot of perseverance." What she likes about her job is its high degree of responsibility and the fact that she is able to see the direct benefits of her work.

The article in which Vicki's interview is found refers to a female's reluctance to consider challenging professional careers due to the maddening employment hassles, low paying jobs and reluctant guidance counsellors.

In regards to this belief, Vicki said, "Personally, I would like to see more women going into the field. But any increase in numbers must come from a change in women's heads. A lot of women still don't want the responsibility."

District Club Activities

TWEED SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB NO. 389

The regular meeting of the Tweed Senior Citizens' Club No. 389 was held in St. James' Anglican Church Hall on Wednesday, May 10 with 60 members in attendance.

A talk was given by president, Mrs. Dene Wilson, and the members of the Tweed Horticultural Society on the theme "I Dig a Clean Tweed".

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perrit gave several readings and poems on Mother's Day. Mrs. Willard McTaggart read some prose and humorous readings on the subject also.

The minutes of the last business meeting were read by Mrs. W. Curtis. A card from Mrs. Marie Feeney was read which thanked the club for a card sent to her while ill. The sum of $21.20 was added to the treasury from the last euchre party.

It was decided that Mrs. Marie Cassidy should be recompensed for her work on the tickets sold for the quilt. Adam Bailkowski drew the winning ticket for this quilt and Mrs. Irene McCarey was the lucky winner of the patchwork quilt. Tickets were on sale for another quilt that has appliqued butterflies made by Mrs. Hazel Albert. She suggested that a banquet be arranged from the proceeds from the ticket sales for the quilt.

A bus trip has been arranged for Cass Lanes and Black Creek Pioneer Village in Toronto, for Tuesday, May 16. There will be two buses which will carry 88 persons. Mrs. Rachael Spencer and Mrs. Mabel Wims were asked to sell tickets to members and non-members.

Albert McTaggart, representative for the Senior Citizens' Housing, will be interceding for the club with the village of Tweed and the townships of Hungerford and Elsevir.

June 18 to 24 will be Senior Citizens' Week and it was suggested by the president, Mr. Jenkins, that the club find an available conductor to help the group practise for a service with the church choir on June 18, at a local church.

Mr. Jenkins also suggested that a Senior Citizens' Parade should be held later in the year with horses and hay rides. No date was set.

The door prizes were won by Will Stewart and Albert McTaggart.

Following the closing, cards were enjoyed by the members and a lunch and social hour enjoyed.

ANAF LADIES' AUXILIARY

Delegates to provincial and dominion conferences were appointed at the general meeting of the ANAF Ladies' Auxiliary meeting held Monday evening in the Tartan Lounge, at the hall.

G. Fitzgerald presided at the meeting when one application for membership was noted, that of Mrs. S. Golka. She also noted that help is required for the Friday night socials.

Two members Isabel Kellar and Mrs. M. McGuire were reported sick in Belleville General Hospital.

Those appointed as delegates were: Gladys Fitzgerald, E. Lundberg and M. Galbraith to the provincial in Toronto and G. Fitzgerald, Eileen Sills and Alice Storms Jr. to the dominion in Montreal.

Draws were won by Alice Storms and Mabel Galbraith.

Fondue Pot Lends to Meal Congeniality

By ALICE DENHOFF (the hostess: it's a change of pace from the usual buffet or sit-down meal, which makes it a congenial and pleasant way to entertain

Fondue is fun! It's easy on

FUN fondue takes Alaska King Crab, cheese, mayonnaise for quick preparation. For dunking vegetables and bread.

The fondue can be a simple affair of cheese and bits of meat or it can take on a gourmet flavor with the addition of tender morsels of Alaska king crab, using either the frozen or canned variety. Both have the delicate lobster-like flavor. It's good as a main ingredient in hot appetizers. And that makes a nice beginning to a fondue party.

Here, then, is the crab meat fondue recipe:

CRAB CHEESE FONDUE

1 can (7½ ounces) Alaska king crab or 1 (6 ounces) package frozen.
1 pound pasteurized processed cheese
¾ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup dry white wine
Cubes of French bread, bread sticks and crisp raw vegetables

Drain canned crab and slice or, defrost, drain and slice frozen crab.

Cut cheese in chunks and melt in top of double boiler. Blend in next three ingredients. Transfer to chafing dish or fondue pot.

Serve with cubes of French bread, crisp bread sticks and raw vegetables such as carrot, celery or green pepper sticks cauliflowerets, radishes and sliced mushrooms.

KING CRAB APPETIZER COCKTAIL

2 cans Alaska king crab (1 pound frozen, or 1 (7½ ounces) cans)
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon coarse black pepper
2 tablespoons tomato juice
3 green onions, chopped
1 tomato, diced
Boston lettuce

Drain crab and slice or drain and slice canned crab.

Combine next six ingredients; pour over crab and allow to marinate, chilled, for several hours. Drain crab, reserving marinade. Toss with onions and tomato. Place in lettuce-lined champagne glasses. Top with a smidgin of the marinade. This makes eight pleasing appetizer cocktails.

How about a delightful dip, like

FRUITED CRAB DIP

2 pounds frozen Alaska king crab
1½ cups dairy sour cream

SLICK TRICK

● Cut left-over bread into small cubes and toast them lightly in the oven. They're delicious in soup and tossed salad, and the toasting adds flavor to poultry stuffing. Cubes are also easy to crush to make bread crumbs.

1 (3 ounce) package cream cheese
3 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon minced green onion
½ cup crushed drained pineapple
1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds

Defrost crab and separate into bite-size pieces. Blend together next three ingredients. Season with next three ingredients. Blend in well-drained crushed pineapple. Top with sesame seeds. Serve crab on picks to dip in fruited sour cream. When serving with other appetizers, allow 1½ ounces per person.

Fur Presentation Near Zoo

NEW YORK (AP) — When designer Stan Herman showed his fake fur coats for fall, the real item was not far away. The presentation was held at the Central Park Zoo.

The foxes, racoons and seals paid little attention, however, even when Herman said his coats would "keep you warm as an animal."

Man has now developed materials that can function as creative replacements for the endangered species of the world. We've chosen the one to dramatize the pain of view ..." said Herman, who's doing his own line of "ecology clothes," called Lifestyle, Inc.

The fake furs turned up in sea otter, seal and a few anonymous lynxes for consecutive just called "critters."

Standouts were a series of tent coats, full-length white and a shorter grey, trimmed in a thick sweater knit.

The fake furs were used for short jackets over pants, topper lengths, wrap coats and an evening lining for raincoats. The coats were worn with bright plaid or vinyl pants or frost-pleated skirts.

Herman even used a heavy black fur called "pelt" for a pair of slacks.

White fake fur got double play as the reversible side of a red plaid topper over green pants.

The line is priced from $75 to $175.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON J. FARROW

Farrow – McPherson

Rev. William McDowell officiated at the May 6 candlelight wedding ceremony in King St. United Church, Trenton of Doris Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Colin McPherson, Trenton and Gordon James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold George Farrow, Rit 4 Belleville. Mr. C. W. Vance provided the organ music.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a white polyester satin full length empire waisted gown with long full sleeves and an applique trim at the fitted cuffs. A white polyester bow met the shoulder length veil which had a cathedral tulle train. She carried a crescent bouquet of white and pink roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ron McPherson, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a purple floral chiffon gown with a deep purple underskirt. The bow headdress matched the dress which had short puffed sleeves. She carried a white basket of mixed poms and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids, Miss Leigh Ewain, Toronto and Miss Debbie Shonker, Trenton wore full length deep purple polyester satin empire waisted gowns with short puffed sleeves. They also wore a matching bow headdress. White baskets of mixed poms and baby's breath were carried by the bridesmaids.

Best man was Blair Purves of Foxboro. Robert Farrow, brother of the bridegroom and Gerry McPherson, brother of the bride were the ushers.

For the reception held at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton, the bride's mother greeted her guests wearing a full length rose crinoleine empire waisted sleeveless gown. Silver accessories and shoes elbow gloves complemented the dress. She also wore a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floral full length pink and mauve polyester crepe gown with long sleeves. Pink accessories and a pink sweetheart rose and stephanotis corsage highlighted the dress.

For the wedding trip to western and northern Ontario, the bride donned a navy polka dot short length empire waisted dress with a white collar and white accessories. A gold coat and white gardenia corsage complemented her outfit.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at 44 Benjamin St., Apt. 4, Belleville.

Social And Personal

Prior to her recent marriage, Mrs. Gordon Farrow (nee Donna Lee McPherson) was honored at a shower by Mrs. Ivan Richards in Oshawa with co-hostesses: Mrs. John Mathieson and Mrs. George Sugden. Other showers were held by Mrs. Clarence Whitney, RR 1 Trenton; Mrs. R. J. McPherson, Smithfield and Mrs. Allen Hornadia, Orchard View Drive, Trenton.

Mrs. Doris Mondeville, formerly 136A Burnham St. is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, Room 514.

Elderly Father Sleeps Most of the Day

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My father is 75 and is a different person than the one I knew 20 years ago. He sleeps around and snores all day, nearly. When I ask him to do anything he gets mad and yells. Then he asks, What is wrong? — Worried Winnie.

Dear Winnie: Doubtless he feels as useless as he is. Perhaps all he really needs is something worthwhile to do which requires him to keep his eyes open. Just feeding a person isn't the whole job of making him feel alive.

Yet I'd get expert advice, if I were you. If there are physical and mental changes here, your family doctor is the one who can tell you the best way to help; or how to help your father snap out of what sounds like a living death.

Dear Doris: About three years before I married I got in trouble with a married man went away to have my baby and then put it up for adoption. When I started going with my husband I was afraid to tell him for fear he would not marry me.

After we were married awhile he found out, and since then mine and the children's lives have been miserable. When he has had too much to drink he brings up my past, calls me every dirty name imaginable in front of the children.

Since the children are older they won't let him touch me but he still threatens to kill me. This weekend it was so bad I had to call the police.

I know I made a mistake 23 years ago but I feel I have more than paid for it. I am just about ready to call it quits. — Troubled.

Dear Troubled: Just the sort of thing counsellors foresee when they urge engaged couples to be honest with each other about their past. Takes courage; but it would have been worth anything, to prevent what has been happening in your home!

Right now it is affecting not only you but the children, whose hearts break silently, for you, when they observe their own father.

Alcoholism is complicating the present situation. No letter from me can reach him, but personal counselling could help you, and if you have any hope at all of saving your marriage, don't waste any time in seeking it.

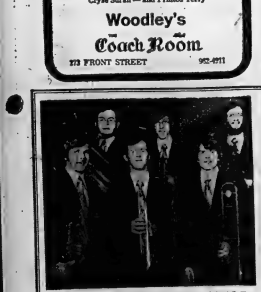
Dear Doris: Thank you for helping me out with my boarder problems at Christmas time. The two moved who were causing all the trouble. I hope they read the paper the day it was printed in your column.

Now the two I have left are not speaking, for no reason that I can figure out. This sure has been a bad year for me to have students.

When I said good morning when they came down for breakfast, this morning, she just grunted and looked mad. Then I worry all day, wondering what is wrong with them. — Not My Year.

Dear Not: Not speaking to each other, or to you? Or both?

Stop worrying — right now — do you hear? The school year is nearly over. Be sure they know their stay with you is nearly over, too.



You can find happy youngsters — the kind who don't bear grudges — to occupy your rooms. Get your application in to the college near you right now, for next September.

Helen Gagen Reports

FOOD HINTS FOR THE HOLIDAY WEEKEND

Rain or shine, relax this holiday weekend.
Keep menus simple, and plan them carefully before you write your shopping list. To speed progress through the store, organize your list under meats, produce, dairy and groceries.
For Sunday and the holiday itself, I suggest just two meals – a hearty late brunch, and a picnic or barbecue Dinner.
A life-saver for the weekend is a casserole in the freezer or refrigerator, ready for an emergency meal. My bulletin that is available in your Miracle Food Mart this week gives two of my favourite casserole recipes.

You're not alone. Helen Gagen is listening. Write, Box 777, Station K, Toronto 12.

Ann Landers

Sitter Has To Find Own Way Home

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the story briefly. We'd like your comments. Our 15-year-old daughter has baby-sat for these well known, upper-class people for about a year. They have four children, two under 10 years of age. The family lives about six blocks from here.

Last night our daughter agreed to sit for them. They didn't get home until 2:30 a.m. The Mr. was dead drunk and the Mrs. had a hard time maneuvering him from the car to the house. When she got him inside the door, he passed out.

The Mrs. said to my daughter, "I'm sorry but you'll have to get home your own. I can't leave the children to drive you."

Taxis don't like to come out here because it's too far and my daughter knew it, so she decided to walk home.

Thank God she made it all right but my husband and I are furious. Should I call Mrs. and give her a piece of my mind? Should my husband call the Mr.? Should we permit our daughter to sit for them again? Please answer these questions. We are—Still Burning

Dear Still: Cool it—and stay away from the phone. Your daughter should not be permitted to sit for these people again. And in the future if such a crisis should arise with another family instruct your daughter how she should handle it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the youngest of seven children. Our dear mother has made her home with us for eight years. My husband is a wonderful man; never a word of complaint.

I'm writing to ask how I can get my three sisters and three brothers who live right in this city to take turns inviting Mama for a meal. It never occurs to them that she might enjoy a change of scenery. They think they are doing their share by stopping over here once a month for an hour with a plant or a sack of hard candy. Any suggestions?—Heavy Hearted

Dear H.H: Yes. Tell them—in plain language. One-syllable words are best.

Example? "Mom would love to eat at your home. Ask her to come for a meal next week. Which day is best?"

The week after, call one of the other bubbleheads. Keep rotating until they get the message. If they don't get it, keep calling.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column seems to be a superb medium for straightening out great segments of the population on various matters. I would like you to pass along some advice on in-store behavior. If people knew what was expected of them I'm sure they'd behave better.

I will mention only two points, although I could write a book on manners for the shopping public.

First: It's amazing how many supposedly well-bred people eat while shopping. They come in with apples, oranges, bananas, candy bars, ice-cream cones, buttered popcorn, peanuts, hamburgers, hot dogs and popsicles. I needn't tell you what such shoppers can do to the merchandise.

Second: Women who shop with small children are not really shopping. They are killing time. We can understand a young mother's need for an outing and we wouldn't mind if they came in briefly, but the attention span of pre-school children is brief and the kids can tear a place apart while mom is trying on clothes.

Please publish this, Ann, and let's see if we can polish up some manners in these two areas.—Fort Lauderdale

Dear F.L.: Here's your letter but don't expect any discernible improvement. The slobs never think you mean them.

University Women To Hold Meet

Mrs. R. A. Bell, chairman of the committee of international relations Canadian Federation of University Women will be the after dinner speaker at the local University Women's Club meeting to be held Thursday May 18 at 6.30 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Bell, who is a former Dean of Women at Waterloo University and a former lecturer at Carleton University will speak on the work done by her committee among the members of the International Federation of University Women.

The speaker has also travelled extensively and adding further interest to her talk she will show slides of her most recent trip to South America.

A potluck dinner is planned previous to the address by the speaker.

Reports Given At E. Hastings WI Annual

The annual meeting of East Hastings District Women's Institutes was held in the United Church, Cannifton with members of Cannifton-Carlowville as hostesses.

Registration included about 70 delegates and visitors.

District president, Mrs. Fred Wellman presided and welcomed the women present. She also complimented those who had arranged the cut flowers in a pleasing setting for the day's programme.

District secretary, Mrs. Whitesell read the minutes.

Correspondence included greetings from the provincial president; Mrs. Nesbitt of Ottawa. She mentioned the need for a careful study of the new hand book. Although the content is similar, some of the convocations have a new name it will be necessary to observe this in planning the year's program.

Carmel branch's invitation for the district annual which they will host in 1973 was accepted.

A circular letter, "Man and His Resources" was read and the Women's Institutes in the district were asked to support the project.

Roll call by each branch president was most interesting as words of advice were given.

The provincial board director, Mrs. C. Barber ratified the board directors from the branches as they formed in line at the front.

Mrs. Harrison played her accordion and conducted a sing song.

Convener reports were given and adopted after which Mrs. Barber reported on the provincial board meeting in April.

Home economist, Mrs. Struthers spoke of extensive activity in the club work in this district and other areas under her supervision.

Mrs. Mackin, area chairman, brought greetings and spoke briefly on area work. A period of silence followed for the late Mrs. Gerald Swan.

Curator, Mrs. R. Sills reported 11 Tweedsmuir Histories in the district and spoke on the additional material added during the year.

Several branches chose to give humorous readings in answer to the roll call.

Mrs. Diamond brought greetings from the provincial board and spoke of her years experience in institute work. She left several memorable thoughts with the group in regards to one's philosophy.

Special thanks were extended to Cannifton-Carbyville for their hospitality. The 75th anniversary cake centred the head table and it was cut and served following the meal.

300 Attend ACW Diocese Of Ontario

The fifth annual meeting of the Anglican Church Women, Diocese of Ontario was held in St. George's Cathedral and St. George's Parish Hall in Kingston, recently with an attendance of more than 300 people, including approximately 50 Belleville and area members. The theme for the meeting was "Renew Thy Church O Lord with Me".

The Rt. Rev. Charles B. Pyrsell, Jr. S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of Albany addressed the meeting in the morning and spoke on personal conflict in society today.

Dr. Helen Milton, Dr. of Theology, asst. prof. theology University of Windsor, conducted the afternoon Bible study.

Miss Milton was once the women's editor of the Kingston Whig Standard.

New officers installed included: president, Mrs. D. J. Mayber. Kingston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. N. MacLennan, Kingston; treasurer, Miss Margaret Poole; Family Life Committee, Mrs. F. Bogstad, Kingston; Social Action, Miss Constance Fenwick, Kingston and Sanctuary, Mrs. Win Barrett, Brockville.

Area chairmen appointed were: Hastings, Mrs. John Mastoy, Frankford; Leeds-Grenville, Mrs. R. D. Usher, Delta; and Quinte; Miss Kaye McFarland, Napanee. Members at large included: Mrs. E. Johnston, Elgin and Mrs. L. Price, Trenton.

On May 18, a "Quiet Day" will be held at St. Thomas Church beginning at 10 am. and Rev. Father Nixon will be the conductor.

Parks Board Big Handicap

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

A pox on the Parks Board.

May all their bedding roses get blight, or whatever more horrible fate flowers can meet.

May all their shrubs burn shoddy, and their picnic table legs be targets for every stray animal in Hastings, Prince Edward, and, yes, even Northumberland Counties.

Pardon this outburst of rancor, but it comes from one who has lost his golfing privileges in city parks.

At their monthly meeting last Thursday members of the Belleville Parks Board determined to "discourage golf practising" in city lands under their jurisdiction.

"The decision was taken" it was reported..."after it was noted that several complaints had been received of persons using parks as a convenient driving range.

"Parks Board members agreed the practice not only represented a hazard to other people using park facilities but in certain cases also damages the turf."

Golfers' Needs Neglected

To their credit, the board did discuss the possibilities of establishing public driving ranges at some future date. But in the meantime, those of us who would sooner Pay-Titleists than the family cat must be content to practice our chip shots in areas and at times "designated" by the Board.

Presumably, these areas will include such greenbelts as the city dump (when not in use or during other daylight hours) — any below-waterline portion of the harbor, and the southern shoulder of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway.

Surely if the practice of golfing in city parks is so widespread as to draw the attention of the Parks Board, it should merit recognition as a recreational need that must be accommodated by the city.

The Board was right in presuming that some parks are "converted...driving ranges." After all, the closest commercial golfing establishment of any kind — the Bay of Quinte Country Club — lies a good four miles and five traffic jams away from most city enthusiasts.

Watch Those Teeter-totters!

As for the game posing a threat to other park users, Board members have obviously not flirted with such park hazards as teeter-totter concussion, or dog-walker's heel.

And so far as turf damage is concerned, there is nothing to prevent the Parks Board from erecting "Please replace your divot" signs, which would surely cost no more than those cute "if you're old enough to read this you're too old to use these swings" admonitions.

Some parks are meant to be looked at, but the most important ones in any community are surely those that serve functional as well as esthetic purposes.

If there are sufficient golfers using city property to perk up the Parks Board's ears, there should be facilities provided to permit that pastime.

Golf ranks have swelled considerably in the past few years to the point where the sport is anything but the upper-class amusement it was once generally considered.

If Belleville jumped on the bandwagon, mowed an abandoned field or two, and put up some yardage signs, they could probably make enough money to keep the Parks Board in pansies and peonies for years.

Only Overparking on Streets

It seems that recreational shortcomings are particularly obvious at this time of year, when everyone wants to get out of the house and shed their winter doldrums.

We could scarcely believe our ears when we heard Mayor Sandy's recent council comment about Belleville being "overparked."

If he was referring to those little manilla envelopes I've been finding stuck under by windshield wipers lately, I, for one, must agree with him.

But no one who has been in line-ups to use Zwick's Island tennis courts and on waiting lists to book practice times at city and school board fields could think there wasn't room for development of more recreational properties.

At times like this, it seems the Parks Board is guilty of responding negatively to situations.

When they receive "complaints" about golfers supposedly jeopardizing park users, they immediately agree with the plaintiffs without giving enough consideration to the defendants.

More Alternatives Needed

Which brings to mind the Great Charles Street Raid of a few weeks back when city police, in response to more of these "complaints," took some parents to task for allowing their children to indulge in the heinous act of road hockey.

Since the ice had been taken out of both city arenas, there was still enough of it in the Bay to make swimming uncomfortable, and most city playgrounds were unqualified quagmires, perhaps someone should have suggested an alternate activity to the youngsters instead of brandishing the long arm of the law at them.

Or maybe they should have just toid the kids to get into the house and watch the playoffs on TV like most parents — and complainers — were doing.

Now if the Parks Board wants to act on a genuine complaint about a real hazard, how about installing those Alemite Park backstops for warmup pitchers that the Commercial Softball League suggested?

I don't imagine getting hit by a falling nine-iron shot is nearly as touchy as taking a rising softball in the teeth.

Sault Joins Juniors

TORONTO (CP) — Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds were admitted to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Tuesday, restoring membership of the league to 18 teams.

Montreal Junior Canadiens dropped out earlier to rejoin the Quebec Junior Hockey League and last month the Niagara Falls franchise was purchased by Sudbury.

The Greyhounds' application was rejected originally, but when a move to shift the disbanded Montreal franchise fell through, the Soo team was granted admittance by unanimous vote.

The OHA junior meetings continue today to resolve scheduling difficulties as a result of the realignment of teams and the over-age draft was scheduled to be held in the afternoon.

Crozier Pick of Sabres

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League were waiting today to hear whether Joe Crozier wants to be their next head coach.

George (Punch) Imlach gave up the post Tuesday, citing health reasons, but said he would continue as the club's general manager.

Imlach, 51, suffered a severe heart attack Jan. 7 and remains under doctor's orders to avoid fatigue.

Commenting on his decision to relinquish the coaching job, he said, "I shall miss coaching, as I've always loved it, but the time has come that it has got to be one or the other."

As for his successor as coach, Imlach said, "Crozier is our choice. He deserves it."

He added that he expects the master to be resolved within a couple of weeks.

Crozier, coach of Buffalo's farm club, Cincinnati Swords, served as the Sabres' interim coach for 27 games last season while Imlach recuperated.

Crozier is also reported considering a coaching offer from the new World Hockey Association and buying a minor league club.

Imlach came to Buffalo when it was awarded an NHL franchise for the 1970-71 season. Before that, he served 11 years as general manager and coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, who won four Stanley Cups during his tenure.

WHA Can't Make Dozen

QUEBEC (CP) — The board of trustees of the World Hockey Association completed its two-day meeting Tuesday and left with the same number of clubs it arrived with—11.

It had been expected that groups from Philadelphia and Montreal would be accepted to bring the newly-formed professional hockey league to an even dozen clubs.

But WHA president Gary Davidson of Santa Ana, Calif., told the closing news conference that "a couple of contingencies and slight conditions" left the Philadelphia application still active, but postponed for the present.

However, the trustees left assured of a strong entry from Quebec City in Les Nordiques. A contingent of 14 business groups and individuals had guaranteed to put up a minimum of $25,000 each, with one contributor reported to have contributed $400,000 to the overall pot of more than $1 million.

The league, which expects to begin playing hockey in four Canadian and six United States cities this fall, has set June 1 as a deadline for further expansion.

WHA officials said they are looking for further applications after May 25. On that date the National Hockey League will meet to consider further expansion into at least two U.S. cities.

Bergman Satisfied

DETROIT (AP) — Defenceman Gary Bergman has come to terms with Detroit Red Wings on a three-year contract, Ned Harkness, general manager of the National Hockey League team, announced the contract signing Tuesday but neither he nor Bergman would say how much money was involved.

Bergman, 32, turned pro in 1952. He joined the Red Wings at the beginning of the 1964-65 season.

Breathalizer For Horsemen

CHICAGO (AP) — Jockeys and harness horse drivers on Illinois tracks may soon be required to take breath-analysis tests for intoxication, similar to those given motorists suspected of drunkenness.

This was disclosed Tuesday when an executive of a Chicago harness track asked the Illinois Racing Board when testing apparatus will become available. The board declined to identify the inquirer.

The board said the apparatus has been ordered.

"The board has become suspicious that some jockeys and sulky drivers possibly might be racing under the influence," a board spokesman said.

Fought Big Names

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for Lee Savold, a Minnesota native who fought heavyweight champions Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano.

Savold scored one of the fastest knockouts ever recorded in New York's Madison Square Garden, 58 seconds into his fight with Gino Bouvino of Italy in 1948.

Marciano scored a technical knockout victory over Savold, who then retired.

Only 730 Paid Way

TORONTO (CP) — Windsor Warlocks defeated Toronto Shooting Stars 10-9 Tuesday night before 730 fans at Varsity Stadium in a National Lacrosse League game.

Larry Lloyd led the Warlocks with a five-goal night and Jim Higgs, Ken Crafter, Ron Lyle come had two each. Gord Keates, Bill Bradley, Charles Marlowe, Jim Hickson and John Macdonald got the others.

Bill Sheehan's three goals topped the Shooting Stars scoring and Frank Marchiori had two. Murray Shannon, Pat Murray, Barry Tefell and Joe Timpson also scored.

Leafs Losers

TORONTO (CP) — Peterborough PCOs trampled Lakeshore Maple Leafs 21-15 in Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A play Tuesday night.

The winners got a six-goal performance from Jan Magee and five from John Grant. Jim Johnston and Jim Walker each had three goals and Gord Floyd, Steve Plunkett, Ken Byers and Len Towers scored the others.

Olympics Cheap ?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal said Tuesday his city can hold the 1976 Olympic Games within the estimated budget of $126 million. Mayor Drapeau, here for the annual dinner of the British Columbia Sports Hall of Fame, said: "I reiterate that we can hold the Olympics at a surprisingly low cost despite what other people may think."

CITY OF BELLE VILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following watermains, with private water service connections where required by individual owners, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

| STREET | FROM | TO | ESTIMATED COST | CORPORATION'S SHARE | OWNER'S SHARE | ESTIMATED COST PER FOOT FRONTAGE | ESTIMATED ANNUAL COST PER FOOT FRONTAGE |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Moira Street WestTripp Avenue | Existing Watermain on Elgin StreetProposed Watermain on Moira Street W. | Northwesterly to Tripp AvenueSoutherly to the south limit of Tripp Avenue | $26,466.26 | $9,168.36 | $17,297.90 | $10.03826 | $1.208807 |

50 ft. x $10.03826 = $501.92

If paid over a period of 15 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $1.208807 = $60.44

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 15 equal annual instalments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objections to the said work will be considered.

Monday Hot Tuesday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was too much Monday on Tuesday."

Philadelphia manager Frank Lucchesi sighed, was the only way to describe what Chicago's Rick Monday did to his Phillies Tuesday night.

In the third inning, Monday hit a home run.

In the seventh inning, Monday fouled out.

"It took me six years to have a night like this," the 26-year-old centre fielder said after his three consecutive homers, the first one a three-run blast, powered the Cubs to an 8-1 victory. "I don't know if I'll ever have another."

"I've never been in a position in the lineup for home run hitting," said Monday, who once hit three in a game with the defunct Mobile club of the Southern League in 1966, was brought up to Kansas City later that season and was acquired by the Cubs this year in a pre-season trade with Oakland. "I batted second, then eighth and finally last season. I was platooned."

All but lost in Monday's heroics was a brilliant pitching performance by team-mate Burt Hooton. The rookie pitcher tamed the Phillies on just three hits. One of them, though, was Greg Luzinski's sixth homer.

Monday said he had ideas of a fourth homer when he stepped to the plate in the seventh inning. His first two had come off Billy Champion, the third off Darrell Brandon. This time he faced Chris Short.

"I didn't know how many had ever hit four home runs in one game but I knew you could count them on the fingers of both hands. I was up there to get it a go."

So after hitting three homers, equalling a feat achieved 180 times before, Monday failed to do what nine others had done—four in a game.

"I took a bad swing at a fastball," he shrugged.

Bahnsen Wins with Less Rest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan Bahnsen, thinking man's pitcher, meet Mike Kekich, thinking man's pitcher.

Bahnsen, who thought that four days' rest between starts was too much when he pitched for New York Yankees, is trying to convince himself that a mere two days isn't so bad, either, now that he's with Chicago White Sox, where the mere work the mercifer is pitching coach Johnny Sain's motto.

Working with only two days' rest, Bahnsen beat Minnesota Twins 3-1 Tuesday night with help from Vicente Romo and Terry Forster as the White Sox ran their winning streak to six games. Twins were the last team in the majors to lose two games in a row.

Kekich, another work last season was the reason the Yankees felt they could trade Bahnsen, worked seven strong innings—he has pitched creditably every time out—in New York's 3-1 triumph over Cleveland Indians.

In his last two outings, Bahnsen has turned back his former teams. He beat Baltimore Saturday night for the first time after 18 career setbacks and had a 3-7 record against the Twins before Tuesday night's contest.

He had a 2-0 lead and a one-hit shutout going into the sixth inning, when he yielded a run on three singles. Romo came on and induced Harmon Killebrew to foul out for the final out. After Romo surrendered a one-out single in the eighth, Forster took over and retired the last two batters, blowing third strikes past Killebrew and Bobby Darwin.

Kekich also needed relief and got it from Sparky Lyle after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth, although he was touched for only four hits.

"It's like I've been saying for three years," Kekich said. "It's all mental with me. The first two years I was with the Yankees I had to worry if I had a spot on the club, then if I would start and if I would make the rotation.

"When Stan was traded, Ralph said I would replace him in the starting rotation and I began to relax."

Bobby Murcer's first hit in 23 at-bats touched off New York's three-run uprising in the fifth inning, featuring Ron Blomberg's run-scoring double and an RBI single by Rich McKinney, the man the Yanks obtained for Bahnsen.

McLain Ponders Minors

OAKLAND (AP) — Denny McLain planned to tell the world and Charlie Finley today whether he's willing to pitch in the minor leagues, four seasons after winning 31 games in the big time.

"I'm speculating about many things," the 28-year-old Oakland Athletics' pitcher said Tuesday night at his home in nearby Walnut Creek.

The Athletics optioned McLain, 1-3 with a 6.05 earned-run average, to Birmingham, of the Southern League Monday. But after talking Tuesday with his lawyer, Oakland owner Finley and American League president Joe Cronin, the right-hander still wasn't sure whether to accept the demotion.

If he does report to the Athletics' farm team at Birmingham, McLain said, it won't be until after the birth of twins expected by his wife any day.

McLain and his lawyer, William Carpenter, said the pitcher would hold a news conference today if he decides against accepting the demotion. His only option would be to retire from baseball, giving up a $75,000-a-year salary.

Bowlers Knock One Another

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

For the only time this year, Belleville bowlers will be more concerned with knocking over opponents than knocking over pins, when The Intelligencer Gold Cup Classic gets under way Thursday.

The tournament, heading into its seventh year, is the only local competition played under a match play format. Total scores count only for the first five games, which are used to qualify the final eight bowlers in the event. After that, it's strictly man-to-man with the losing bowler in each game eliminated from the tournament.

"It's different from the normal tournament because you know that some games are going to be tougher than others, depending on who you're playing," explains 1969 winner Les Labelle.

The former champion should prove to be a formidable opponent for any of the 23 other bowlers entered in the event. A late - season surge pulled him into second place among city five - pinners with a 248.3 average, only one point behind city high winner Jack Canning.

"No, I didn't change anything," says Labelle of the uptick in his average. I was just having a little more luck."

Bowl-O-Drome owner Bill Bateman, himself a former Gold Cup winner, feels that there's a little more than luck connected with Labelle's record. "You'd have to say that over the years, he's been the best bowler in the city."

Certainly the record book would seem to bear out this claim. Since 1959-61, Labelle has never finished lower than fifth in the city high average standings. During that 11-year span he has finished first five times and second another three. His 228.1 average during the 1968-69 season is the highest ever in Belleville.

Labelle will be only one of the five former champions entered in Thursday's event. Last year's winner Jack Calnan as well as Bateman, Glenn Hamilton and Oce Hardwick will all be among the field of 24 who will be vying for first place money of $80.

Among the other top contenders will be four-time "Mr. Bowling" winner Ron Saylor and Trenton's Wally Knapp who won that tournament in 1970 and '71.

Play is slated to get under way at 7.30 p.m. at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome.

Belch Rolls Over Opposition

Belch Construction rolled over the opposition in the Men's Major A 10-pin playoffs to win the league championship Monday. The "B" title went to the Grindrod Motors entry.

Ron Swahuk took high average honors with a 187 mark, while Reg Christopher had the high triple of 653. John Hinchey's 267 was the top single game.

Seconds Helped

Peter Hall showed that second can be good enough for first by winning the boys' all-around gymnastics title at Queen Victoria public school.

Two seconds and a third were good enough to help him compile 25.2 points to edge John Jiannopoulos, who accumulated 23.3. In the girls section it was Kim Denike winning with 24.5 points, while Cathy Woods was second with 23.6.

John Jianopoulos recorded the best mark of the meet, with a 9.0 for his bench routine. Arnold Carr was the ropes competition, while Salter Thoen and Suzanne Chiasson tied for first on the parallel bars.

In table exercises it was Alex McQuarrie getting the win, while Kim Denike took first place in the separate benches and climbing apparatus events. Cathy Woods captured the floor routine crown with an 8.6 performance.

Polishing Their Skills

Former Intelligencer Gold Cup winners Les Labelle and Bill Bateman put some last-minute polishing touches to the trophy that each hopes to win for the second time when the event gets under way this Thursday. A field of 24 top local bowlers will be intent on polishing off the competition in the match play tournament, the only one of its kind held in this area. The five-pin competition gets under way at 7.30 p.m.

Isaac's Five in Vain

Even Bob Isaac wasn't enough to halt Quinte Mall tronics as they recorded a 6-5 Belleville Minor Lacrosse win last night.

Isaac tallied all five goals for the losing Rollins Construction squad as they dropped a squeaker to Quinte Mall. Barry Deane paced the winners with three goals followed by Robert Smith with two and a staple by Danny Houselow.

Middleton Park bantams doubled up on Towers Food City with a 4-3 victory as Jay Shields, Jerry Hamilton, Andy Cosken and Dale Milne looked after the scoring. Bobbie Prewer had two goals and Steven Reid one for Towers.

In the other bantam contest, Jeff Gow scored three times to pace Bud Gill Appliances to a 6-4 win over Bobs Sports. Tim Gauthier added a pair of goals for the winners with the other going to Bill Greer. For Bobs it was John Kot, Marty Maloney, Glen Andrews and Tom Shortland looking after the scoring.

Skiers Started

The Belleville Water Ski Club got their skis pointed in the right direction Tuesday night with the election of officers.

Brian Howard will serve as president of the club during its first year of operation. Rob Stinson was named as vice - president of the group, while Annette Beaudrie was elected secretary.

New Treasury Chief Quiet Man

WASHINGTON (CP) — George P. Shultz, nominated by President Nixon Tuesday to succeed the free-wheeling John B. Connally as treasury secretary, is known here as the quiet man of the Nixon administration.

He is possibly best known to Canadians here as a fabcrful member of the 1970 cabinet committee to re-examine the U.S. oil import program. He and four others recommended that the current quota system be scrapped in favor of a much less restrictive tariff system. However, the major-ity recommendation was never implemented by Nixon.

Shultz, 51, and a former labor secretary, emerged as one of the most powerful figures in the administration when appointed in August, 1970, to the newly-created office of management and budget.

Despite his modest disclaimers, some Washington observers assessed his new post in such terms as "assistant president" and "general manager of the United States."

Informed observers speculated that there would almost certainly be a change of atmosphere and style—if not a change of substance—in future U.S. trade negotiations with Canada under Shultz.

Connally took a tough negotiating stance on international trade and monetary matters, not only with Canadian but also with such growing trade rivals as Japan and the European Market. His views carried substantial weight with Shultz's boss.

Shultz's quiet, scholarly manner is in sharp contrast to the sometimes bombastic Connally, a tall Texan who is only comfortable in the cabinet of Republican Nixon.

In his present post Shultz has publicly shied away from involvement in the controversial international trade and economic situation, his pronouncements centering mostly on the domestic problems of inflation, unemployment, rising costs and, of course, the vast U.S. budget deficit.

However, in a New York speech a year ago he suggested the U.S. needed a coordinated international economic policy geared to changing U.S. foreign policy and fiscal security goals, noting that about 20 government agencies have formed U.S. international economic policy, resulting in frequent conflicts and overlapping.

Role of Courts in Labor Disputes May Have to Be Reviewed--O'Connell

OTTAWA (CP) — The role of the courts in labor disputes may have to be reviewed to protect the judicial system from loss of public respect, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said Tuesday. The bargaining process may indeed put too much strain on the courts," Mr. O'Connell told a conference after an address to the national convention of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Labor courts might be a suitable alternative, he agreed in an interview later, but they alone could not resolve the basic issue of obedience to authority.

Rain Closes Canal

ORILLIA (CP) — The Trent-Severn Waterway was closed Tuesday from Lock 42 at Lake Couchiching to Georgian Bay because of heavy rain. Nearly 3½ inches had fallen in two days, making waters too swift for safe navigation.

Baldness Cured

PETERBOROUGH, Eng. land (AP) — Harry Biggs says he thinks he has stumbled across a new cure for baldness—horse manure.

Biggs, a 69-year-old pensioner, went bald 15 years ago. A friend gave him a manure mix to fertilize his garden and in the process some of it rubbed off on Biggs' head about six months ago.

Now his hair is growing back.

Charge Quashed

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Neil Fraser of the Supreme Court of Ontario Tuesday quashed a traffic conviction against a Toronto Modern whose religious beliefs were questioned by the magistrate at his original trial March 15.

Former Justice of the Peace Lorne Taylor convicted Saul Irvig, a 28-year-old mechanic, of going through a red light last January.

At one point during the trial, Mr. Taylor questioned Mr. Irvig about his religious beliefs and said:

"Moslems be damned."

Mr. O'Connell told the news conference the role of the courts in the collective bargaining system is a matter "I haven't been able to give enough attention to in my own thinking."

For that reason, he emphasized that his comments were tentative and definitely did not apply to the current labor crisis in Quebec, touched off in large part by court action against labor leaders.

He said, however, that without public respect for the court system, society would head toward anarchy.

The minister also said he is not opposed to the use of court injunctions to halt strikes.

"If the collective bargaining system in effect breaks down in an essential service, then you have to take other steps."

The government also has a

C of C to Change

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The chamber of commerce in his present form may eventually disappear and become part of one national business organization, says Mr. Gunn of Toronto, a past president of the Ontario chamber.

Mr. Gunn told delegates at the final day of the Ontario chamber's 60th annual meeting Tuesday that the chamber movement will soon undergo "great changes" that "may rock the very foundation of this organization."

Boat Adrift

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — Coast guard rescue vessels towed a disabled outboard cruiser into Oswego harbor Tuesday after the boat and its seven occupants spent the night stranded on Lake Ontario.

Layoffs Forced

HAMILTON (CP) — The strike by 1,300 Westinghouse Canada Ltd. production workers is forcing one firm to lay off some employees.

All 30 workers, mostly women, at the company's Beamsville tube assembly plant near here were laid off Tuesday and it was estimated a total of 220 layoffs may occur by the end of the week.

Construction industry leaders and management agreed Tuesday to return to "meaningful negotiations" following a demonstration by 1,200 workers and a court decision to delay injunction hearings.

duty to limit the damage that can result from strikes, he said. Parliament has acted seven times in the last 30 years to end strikes in essential services, an admission that all human systems have their limitations."

His preference "will always be give preference to collective bargaining . . . It's still the best system."

Ship Afire

HALIFAX (CP) — Two vessels have reached the vicinity of the burning British trawler Ranger Ajax about 70 miles northeast of the southern tip of Greenland, the Canadian Forces search and rescue centre here reported early today.

A spokesman for the rescue centre said distress calls reporting the fire were received by stations in Comfort Cove and Anthony, Nfld.

Policeman Slain

MILAN (Reuter) — Dr. Luigi Calabresi, deputy head of the political bureau of the Milan police, was shot dead today in a Milan street, police reported.

Police said Calabresi was shot a few yards from the front door of the apartment building where he lived.

Larvae in Bread

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Insect contamination caused shipments of bread from two Canadian bakeries to be held up at the border, a spokesman for the United States pure food and drug department said Tuesday.

Felix Sabatino, laboratory director, said his department had tested several samples of Canadian baked goods in the last few weeks and found insect larvae and in some cases parts of mature insects in samples taken from two Canadian bakeries.

Resume Talks

REGINA (CP) — Construction leaders and management agreed Tuesday to return to "meaningful negotiations" following a demonstration by 1,200 workers and a court decision to delay injunction hearings.

Ontario Farmers

The Government of Ontario announces . . .

1. The Ontario Beef Cattle Program, a program of guaranteed loans to farmers to purchase bred or open beef heifers, retroactive to April 1, 1972.

These loans will be available from chartered banks. On the basis of a maximum loan of $250 per heifer, the minimum loan shall be $2,500 and the maximum $15,000. Terms - seven year period. Repayment schedule - interest only first two years, equal payments of principle plus interest the remaining five years.
To be eligible a farmer must have an annual gross income from farm operations of at least $3,000.
Application forms will be available from the County and District Offices of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

2. Capital Grants For Fencing. Effective immediately the costs of materials used in the construction of new permanent fencing for the containment of livestock will be eligible for assistance under the "Capital Grants for Ontario Farmers" program. These grants will be applicable to fencing constructed after April 1, 1972, subject to the maximum grant limitations of the program.

3. Removal of Dead and Diseased Elm Trees. Effective May 18, 1972 grants will only be paid for the removal of dead and diseased Elm trees from fence lines and open fields. Excluded are trees located in farm woodlots or forested areas.

For complete details on these and other programs of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, contact your local Agriculture Office.

NEW ON THE REFERENCE SHELVES

New editions of regular annual publications and reprint editions of older materials have enlarged the information available about Canada, past and present, in the reference department of your public library.

The Canadian Almanac and Directory, and the Census Directory and Almanac, both in 1972 editions, give information in many areas. Transportation, education, postal service and associations are all included. Canada Year Book, 1970-71, includes much statistical information.

Directories of government personnel and services for both the federal government and the Ontario provincial government make it possible for you to reach the right person in the right department. The Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs publishes a municipal directory which lists officials of all municipalities in Ontario, and includes population figures.

Annual editions of Financial Post surveys afford the searcher good, up-to-date financial and economic material for Canada. The Survey of Mines, for example, reviews companies involved, as well as exploration and development activities. Statistical tables of mineral production and maps of Canadian mineral areas are also found in this survey publication.

A welcome addition to historical information is Volume X of the Dictionary of Canadian Biography. Canadians whose death occurred in the period 1871 to 1880 are those whose biographies are included.

Reprint editions of Canadian Historical Atlases for six or eight counties have been added to the reference area shelves. Other historical material in reprinted edition includes History of Carleton County, Pioneer Sketches of Long Point Settlement (Norfolk County) and Cannif Haigh's Country Life in Canada, which gives marvelous detail of everyday living.

A school project — History of Campbellford has been copied and bound for reference shelves as well.

If information concerning Canada's past and present is what you need, why not try the reference and information sources of the Belleville Public Library. Even books on Canadian antiques are to be found there for study.

Tweed

TWEED — Cloyne and Vennachar Women's Missionary Society held their mother and daughter banquet on Tuesday evening, May 2 in the Cloyne Community Hall with guest speaker Miss Zecharias, formerly of New Delhi, India. Miss Zacharias is a teacher at Actinolite, Ontario (north of Tweed village). She talked on her home life in India and how she became a Christian.

Members of the ACW of Plevna who attended the annual meeting were president, Mrs. Iva Burch, Mrs. Doris Betts, Mrs. Jean Summers, Mrs. Eva Card, Mrs. Lucy Gerr and Mrs. Glenna Gerr. This meeting was held in Kingston early in May. They also purchased a new organ for Holy Trinity Church in Plevna.

Mrs. Elias Wright, who has been on a tour of the Holy Land, returned to Malton airport May 8 and on May 9 was taken to the Belleville General Hospital.

After an absence of 25 years William Johnston of Edmonton, Alberta, is visiting his sister, Mrs. "Tobe" Hermer of Ardoch.

The official opening of Land O'Lakes Public School in Mountain Grove, will be held on Friday, May 19, at 8 p.m.

A program for the evening has been arranged featuring George Waldman (formerly of Tweed) Assistant Deputy Minister of Education as the guest speaker. This new semi-open structure which was opened in January, 1972, replaces the smaller schools that were located in Elm Tree, Henderson, Arden and Mountain Grove.

Election Fever Growing

OTTAWA (CP) — Election fever appeared to be waxing in the Commons Tuesday as MPs sped some goodies for the voters through the processes of consideration.

The thought that Prime Minister Trudeau has to call an election sometime soon seems to be in the back of many minds as MPs deal with legislation.

Members rushed through second reading Tuesday of a bill that would increase veterans pensions and tie them to actual increases in the cost of living. It now goes to committee for detailed—and presumably rapid—consideration.

On deck is a bill to increase old-age pensions which already has received committee consideration. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled Tuesday night that Social Credit and Progressive Conservative amendments to that bill, which were designed to increase pensions even more than the government has, were out of order.

The government is pushing the veterans' and old-age pensions bills through Parliament so increases can be paid on June cheques.

The House also gave rapid approval to Criminal Code amendments intended to bring Canadian laws up to date. They make recital blacking an offence and abolish corporal punishment as an option of the courts.

These were expected to receive third and final reading today and be sent to the Senate. There is little controversy about them. The House sat after the usual 10 p.m. close of regular debate Tuesday night in an attempt to get the amendments through but was balked by Social Crediters who objected, among other things, to Canada's parole policy.

After the Criminal Code amendments, the old-age pension increases were to be discussed prior to an expected speedy third reading. The legislation provides a $2.85 increase in the basic $80 monthly old age pension, a $15 increase in the old age supplement for needy single persons and $30 for needy married couples.

The Speaker ruled out of order four Social Credit amendments to the bill which would have lowered the age of eligibility to 60 from 65, paid the pension to man and wife if only one was of the age of eligibility and increased the pension to $200 a month from $80.

The Speaker also served notice he will rule against a Conservative amendment that would increase the pension to $50.

Meanwhile, the government heightened election fever by introducing an election, expenses act. It would limit campaign expenses, introduce stricter reporting procedures that would provide the source of contributions without identifying individual donors, and provide for public financing to cover some costs of radio and television advertising.

Although all talk of elections tends to make MPs sit up and take notice, this legislation cannot come into effect for six months after passage through Parliament.

The government gave no indication of when it will be debated for second reading.

CLC Move Is Opposed To Regime

OTTAWA (CP) — A resolution urging the Canadian Labor Congress membership "to remove the Liberal government of Prime Minister Trudeau in the next election still has to be dealt with at the CLC's weeklong convention.

The resolution did not come up Tuesday during debate on the congress economic policy statement but, an official said, it may come up when the political education committee delivers its report later this week.

Submitted by Vancouver's Local 452 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the resolution says the Trudeau government "deliberately created mass unemployment to counter inflation."

The policy statement of the economic committee, adopted by the 1,450 delegates, had some harsh criticism of federal handling of the unemployment situation.

The CLC's policy statement on foreign ownership and investment was another hot issue approved by the delegation after some severe criticism of the committee that prepared the document.

A number of delegates spoke of the weak stand being taken by the CLC. They would have liked to see a recommendation that Canadian companies must be controlled by at least 51 per cent by Canadians.

"The report could have been prepared by the Liberal Party," said one delegate.

Pool Hall to Become Billiard Club

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

From the early days of the Film Flam men, when the game of pool became synonymous with names such as hustler, sheet and fish, the atmosphere surrounding this popular pastime has undergone quite a change.

At one time associated with smokey rooms and shady characters, pool, billiards, or snooker . . . whichever game one attempts . . . has moved into a more respectable realm. Many such rooms are now geared to a family clientele.

While Belleville has been somewhat slow to accept the changing scene than some towns and cities, a new venture along these lines will soon be attempted.

The success story of local pool room operator Peter Zamanis is being written in another new chapter. Some time in June, possibly near the 15th, he hopes to open Belleville's first restricted membership billiards club.

Local pioneer of the family atmosphere, Zamanis is closing out the second storey of Mary's Family Billiards in favor of a new club higher up Front Street.

Through a local trust company, he has purchased three stores in the 220-224 Front Street block from the estate of William Stark. Workmen already are knocking out adjoining walls in the old Stark building which until recently housed Fred's Hi Fi Centre, Dorne's Cigar Store and the Capri Beauty Salon.

"We won't just let anybody in off the street. As long as they're good, respectable people, neatly dressed . . . we'll let them in. Long hair, well sure, if it's clean. No bare feet or torn trousers, you know" he emphasized.

Peter Zamanis has spent much of his young adult life in the atmosphere of billiard rooms. An immigrant to Belleville in 1956, he started work for his uncle Jimmy Yeates at Uptown Billiards at the age of 14.

After a period of 10 years, he went into partnership, eventually buying the business from his uncle. During this period, he also opened Mary's . . . named for his pretty wife who helped manage the family billiards room near the four corners on downtown Front Street.

When the new club opens, the managing job will be Gary's, with Mary and Peter sharing the position.

"It's not going to be a big place," Zamanis explained, while making changes for a customer. "But if we get 300 to 400 members, it'll be pretty good.

"It'll be a nice, clean atmosphere, a quiet place where you can enjoy yourself.

There will be adequate protection for members and owners of the club alike. Each prospective member will pay $3 (1) for students) and receive a card. As long as they behave under the rules of the club, their membership will be honored.

OFY Project Receives $6,400 Grant

FICTON (Staff) — Project ELAN, a program initiated by four Prince Edward young people, has been accepted by the Opportunities for Youth program and has received a $6,400 grant.

ELAN, described as "an unbestatting dash resulting from impulsive imagination" will be spearheaded by James Adams, 19, a University of Toronto student. Steven Campbell, 19, and Steven Manlow, 19 both of Queen's University and Linda Gentile, 21, of St. Lawrence College.

The program will aid art and photography talent of all ages throughout Prince Edward County and will supply proper materials, equipment and training to any individuals or groups interested in pursuing various aspects of the art and photo media.

The culmination of this project is the compilation of the noteworthy work relevant to the county through a booklet to be distributed by the local tourist bureau.

Initial organization of ELAN will be undertaken to set the project in full swing by June 1 in the third floor of the Armory Mall.

The student group that promoted Project ELAN today said they were "well supported" by Picton Mayor Margaret Ackerman the Prince Edward County board of education, Paul Ikard, principal of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute and Carl Reid, principal of Queen Elizabeth School.

Project ELAN was one of more than 19,000 proposals submitted in the federal Opportunities for Youth.

It met the criteria of OFY and the financial resources allocated to Prince Edward County will permit OFY to assist the students in their project.

A spokesman for the group said today ELAN will revolve primarily around "things in Prince Edward" such as landscapes, series of photographs of the county's historic sites and related subjects.

Regular displays will be open to the public at the Armory Mall. Instruction is described as "informal" and will include many field trips.

Theatre Feature Times

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, May 18

Aries (March 21-April 20): Pursue your current goals despite a passing moment of concern over resources. A cherished private plan can move toward completion.

Taurus (April 21-May 20): Your patience with family and associates will get them past the present mood. Pace your efforts to avoid fatigue.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Not much of today's situation turns out permanent, so leave your planning flexible. You have help with diverse creative ventures.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Since there is no agreement among others as to what is to be done or how it's best done, you have an excellent chance to have your own way.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You may have to cut back in order to work out details of confidential arrangements for more conservative action.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make this quiet day in which you drift through routines and responsibilities with your private life and inner self growing richer.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Fresh enterprises are not strongly indicated. Use the day luxuriate in your own achievements, pursue romantic and sentimental interests.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can go forward despite inadequacies toward personal disagreements. An active share in social, public affairs promises fun.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Settle outstanding differences; be the middle man for getting others together. Pursue the lighter side of your romantic inclinations.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't settle for business and career things as they are, and as proposed by others. You can enjoy the personal side of life especially well now.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some of the turbulence indicated in home life is of your making—you are too strong on telling others what to do and how to go about it.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Tax, insurance, legal matters require your attention. Give routine good coverage as you advance your career.

To Your Good Health

Phlebitis Causes Six-week Illness

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has phlebitis in his left leg and has been home from work for a week. He is under a doctor's care and can't understand why it takes so long to overcome it.—Mrs. J.E.

Six weeks is a long time to be laid up with phlebitis but there can be reasons. It may depend in part on what kind of work he does.

Phlebitis is inflammation of the wall of a vein, usually in the leg, and quite commonly related to various veins—one of several reasons for taking care of varicose veins before they get too bad.

But there are various other causes: injury, leg muscle strain, infection, blood disorders, even cancer somewhere in the system.

You didn't say what treatment he is receiving, but usually the affected area is propped by elastic bandages, which should extend from the ankle to the thigh. This gives better support than support hose for an active case of phlebitis.

Anti-inflammatory medication such as phenylbutazone is used, and often one of the antibiotics.

Smoking most definitely can contribute to a slow recovery, so don't underestimate the importance of that.

The patient usually is allowed to walk about but he should be careful not to bump or otherwise injure the leg.

Since he felt once the trouble has lasted so long, a complete physical examination is in order to make sure that no contributional disorder is involved, particularly a blood disorder such as polycythemia, which increases coagulation of the blood.

If varicose veins are present, they should be removed at once as the phlebitis improves; otherwise, a recurrence of the phlebitis is likely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If you have sexual relations with someone, is it possible to become pregnant if the boy withdraws before the sperm comes out? Also is it true that a girl can become pregnant only in the four days before her period?

My mother and I have never been able to talk about sex so I have no one to find out excerpt from you and books—K.G.

No, withdrawal is not a reliable way to avoid pregnancy, for the fluid secreted before ejaculation may contain enough sperm to make either can't or doesn't withdraw in time.

No, it is not true that "pregnancy is possible only in the four days before her period." In fact, pregnancy is most likely to occur in the several days of mid-cycle (I'm sure you know of irregular cycles, the several days at about two weeks before menstruation). But experience shows that it is sometimes possible at other times, too.

Your idea was so far afield that I think you'd better buy a book, or get one from the library, and study up on the facts of life. I'm sorry for girls who can't seem to go to their mothers for sound advice. There's too much danger in the many erroneous ideas that are floating around, such as the two you had.

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

In many hands declarer can tell from the word go that some distributions of the opponents' cards cannot exist. As a result, though he can't be sure about every card in every one hand may contain, he can often be sure of what it does not contain. Today's deal shows how declarer can play this negative type of reasoning with profit.

West was too weak to respond to partner's diamond bid, and he passed. North doubled to show he had a much better hand in the balancing position than an immediate two club bid would have indicated.

After South had rebid his hearts voluntarily, North raised him to thee and South went on to four.

West led ace of diamonds and, when East played low, shifted to the ten of spades. The queen lost to the ace and a low spade back forced the king. Declarer played a low heart to the six ruffed in dummy with the king, and then drew trumps.

Having had two tricks, South still had a spade and a club loser to contend with. He led a club, climbed up with the ace, and caught the king as a result, he came home with eleven tricks — two more than he would have taken had he finessed in clubs.

Unquestionably South was lucky to find the king ruffgarded, but it was the kind of luck one learns to associate with good players. It required no peek for declarer to know that East had the king of clubs. The bidding had told him this.

It was inconceivable that West would pass the diamond bid with a hand containing the king of clubs as well as the ace of diamonds. So, rather than finesse West for a card he couldn't have, South very properly played for the promote possibility—that East's king was unchaperoned.

Tomorrow: Ingenious play.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y L D L B A A X E
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three X's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the codes are different.

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Just try this home recipe yourself. It's easy to prepare at all and costs little. Just go to your druggists and ask for Naxen. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonfuls twice a day as directed and follow the Naxen Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring shapes and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears, how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the chances of a pendulous polyp of the colon becoming cancerous? I am 16 and feel pretty much okay.—M. L. M.

By "pendulous," I presume you mean one on a pedicle. Those are less likely to be malignant than those on a solid base.

However, if the polyp can be reached by a sigmoidoscope, it should be removed, and some periodic x-ray to note any changes is also in order. If changes are seen, removal is in order.

International Labor Office Businessmen's Last Refuge

OTTAWA (CP) — Who would think of the International Labor Office as a last refuge for bruised Canadian businessmen?

Who, for that matter, has thought much about the ILO in any context recently?

Founded in 1919 at the same time and with the same optimism as the ill-fated League of Nations, the ILO has managed to survive with the image of a well-intentioned talk shop.

But a role in the current feud between the Canadian business community and the federal government over proposed industrial relations legislation?

It does seem unlikely but by timely coincidence, a main item on the agenda at the ILO's 56th annual conference in Geneva next month will be "the social implications of automation and other technological developments."

That issue, of course, is at the heart of the quarrel in Canada over the proposed labor code amendments.

The argument over the legislation, which now is midway through Parliament, has continued for nearly a year.

On the premise that no arena is too distant, business and government representatives will be skirmishing in Geneva lobbies in efforts to secure international respectability for their opposing positions.

The outcome will be inconclusive for the time being.

The process by which the ILO arrives at an international convention takes several years.

Olson Comes Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson was accused Tuesday of failing to understand federal-budget provisions for agriculture processing.

The charge was made by Don Mazankowski (PC—Vegreville) who moved in the Commons agriculture committee that the minister's salary be cut to $1 a year over the issue.

Deputy Agriculture Minister Syd Williams said, after consulting with the revenue department, that the writeoff applies only to preparation of products up to a stage where they become something else.

If a farmer washes his potatoes, the washing equipment would not be eligible for the tax break. But if the farmer made the potatoes into potato chips, the chip machine would be.

The product has to change in form or chemical completion before the equipment would qualify, Mr. Williams said.

No Big Quebec Forests to Be Flooded

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — Only sparsely - forested lands will be flooded in Quebec's vast James Bay hydro-electric power project that will deliver 72 million kilowatts of power by June, 1981, a cabinet assembly committee has been told.

The size of the multi-billion-dollar project is indicated in the fact that Hydro-Quebec's current installed capacity is 11 million kilowatts.

Ecologists have charged that the immense area to be flooded by the diversion of rivers may change the entire environment of northern Quebec.

But Pierre Nadeau, president of the James Bay Development Corp., told the natural resources committee Tuesday the development will not interfere with the lands of Indians in the area nor with the unique flora and fauna of Lake Mistassini.

He said no roads, railway lines, mines, housing or fishing camps will be inundated and only 1,400 acres of mining claims will be lost.

Premier Robert Bourassa said the project will start in the La Grande River area, about 600 miles north of Ottawa. He said it will cost $5.8 billion when completed in 1983.

Heroin Fortune Captured

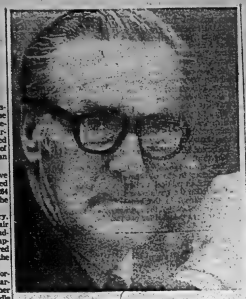
NEW YORK (AP) — A trans-atlantic game of cat and mouse ended Tuesday with announcement that an international narcotics ring had been smashed after an estimated $20 million of heroin fell into the hands of an undercover agent.



Two men in Paris and five others in New York are charged with plotting to smuggle 264 pounds of pure heroin into the U.S. from Europe.

The case began in February, authorities said, when an air force sergeant at NATO headquarters near Brussels was approached and was offered $50,000 to act as a courier to the United States.

Acting on the sergeant's information, a U.S. Bureau of Narcotics agent posed as another sergeant and offered to handle the heroin, saying he could take a consignment to Washington on a NATO flight out of Brussels Sunday.

The agent flew to Washington, he drove to New York and parked the car at a pickup spot early Tuesday.

Police later arrested five men who they said were in the process of picking up the heroin in the car. French authorities then picked up the two in Paris.

An Optimist

Dr. Laurier Carriere, appointed in March to advise the Ontario government on the education needs of Franco-Ontarians, is optimistic that the erosion of French language and culture in Ontario can be halted. "Our schools have made extensive progress lately, especially the secondary schools. Before 1968 parents had to pay tuition for private schools if they wanted their children to continue their education in French." (CP Photo)

Indians Set Price For Park

TORONTO (CP) — A group of Northern Ontario Indian chiefs attempting to formulate a new treaty with the federal government delivered a lengthy series of demands to an empty chair Tuesday.

The demands—which could cost more than $12 million—were addressed to a chair they had reserved for Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, who told them earlier he could not tend because of business.

The Indians, representing nine Indian bands that signed the Robinson Superior Treaty of 1850, unveiled a list of 30 conditions they want met before relinquishing their hunting and fishing rights to a 464,000-acre section of land near Wawa on Lake Superior, where the federal government proposes to build Pukaskwa National Park. The list will be presented to Mr. Chretien in Ottawa today.

William Seadt, a vice-president of the Union of Ontario Indians, described Mr. Chretien's absence as arrogant, irresponsible and an affront to Indian people. He said he received a telegram last Friday from Mr. Chretien saying he could not attend and offering to meet the delegation in his office.

Judges Asked to Refrain from Ordering Lash

OTTAWA (CP) — A Conservative member of Parliament called on the judiciary Tuesday to use restraint in sentences involving corporal punishment which shortly will be outlawed. David MacDonald (Egmont) told the Commons some judges have not got the message."

Mr. MacDonald, a United Church Minister, had proposed a private bill calling for the end of corporal punishment. He withdrew it Tuesday because amendments to the Criminal Code, now through committee study, ban such punishment. He noted that a youth was sentenced Monday to 10 strokes of the lash in Hamilton.

Lewis and Dief Spar

OTTAWA (CP) — David Lewis and John Diefenbaker staged a hard-hitting mind-de bate before an aroused Commons Tuesday, centring on recent Lewis remarks about the judiciary but heavily laced with political jabs and hooks.

Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux had to call for order repeatedly as Mr. Lewis, NDP Democratic Party leader, and the former Conservative prime minister argued the propriety of Mr. Lewis's criticism of sentences handed to Quebec labor leaders who urged workers to ignore court injunctions during Quebec's recent wave of general strikes.

Mr. Lewis said he stood by his conviction that the one-year sentences of contempt of court were "savage" and showed "reckless ignorance of the forces and labor troubles in Quebec."

He declined to retract what he said at a United Steelworkers of America meeting last Friday "nor do I make any apologies for having said it." He cited lawyer Mr. Diefenbaker, if he had a formal charge, to "make it in the proper way, prepared to take the consequences if his charge failed just as I would be prepared to take the consequences if his charge succeeded."

Commons tradition is that a member named in a formal charge of misconduct resigns his seat if the charge is upheld. The lawyer of the charge resigns his if it is not upheld.

Spar for Tuesday's clash between the two men was a motion proposed by Mr. Diefenbaker Monday. It took exception to Mr. Lewis's statement to the steelworkers that "the innocent a defeated Liberal or Conservative is appointed to the bench, he thinks he's God."

Proposing to have the Lewis statements considered by the Commons committee on privileges and elections for a report, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Lewis statement amounted to a blanket condemnation of judges "as men virtually without fallibility."

Mr. Lewis countered with his own proposal Tuesday, saying Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal resulted in "misrepresentation of what I have said" and brought about "national attention in a thoroughly unfair way."

He proposed his own motion that the "false charges" made by Mr. Diefenbaker be referred to the privileges and elections committee for study and report.

What he did say, Mr. Lewis added, was in line with something said by Mr. Diefenbaker in the Commons in 1964.

He quoted Mr. Diefenbaker as saying then:

"Too often appointments to the judiciary in the past have been based on political services and too often the qualifications for appointment to the bench has been the fact that the applicant has been defeated for public office."

Liberals Talk Out Move to Change Oath

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal hour for private business ended government backed dedicanon to the monarchy Tuesday when it talked out a private bill by a Liberal that would have deleted allegiance to the Queen from the oath taken by new Canadians.

"The Queen holds a special place in the hearts of Canadians," said Grant Deachman, Liberal whip in the Commons. "The oath of allegiance has real meaning to new Canadians who take the oath."

He was still talking when the and then the proposal of Warren Allmand (L—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) went to the bottom of a pile of other bills and was effectively dead.

Before Mr. Deachman spoke, monarchists from both sides of the House opposed the bill while Mr. Allmand, Guy Lefleur (L—Rimouski) and Mark MacGuigan (L—Windsor-Walkerville) supported it.

Under the bill new Canadians would swear to be "faithful and bear true allegiance to Canada and the Canadian Constitution.

Insurance Control Said Loose

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition members sharply criticized Eric Winkler, Ontario minister of consumer and commercial relations, Tuesday for a wait-and-see stance on legislation aimed at curtailing foreign control of the province's insurance industry.

The Ontario legislature debate on the bill eventually erupted into a shouting display by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) when deputy speaker Russell Rowe (PC—Northumberland) ruled an opposition amendment was lost in a voice vote.

The bill provides that an insurance agent, broker or adjuster can lose his licence if the majority of the shares in his corporation are held outside Canada. Licences would not be issued to new corporations unless their shares are 50-per-cent Canadian owned.

Donald Deacon (L—Toronto York Centre) introduced the amendment that would have limited foreign control to 25 per cent.

Pigeons Feared

GALT (CP) — City council is considering birth control for local pigeons.

The suggestion was made Monday by Karl Gardosy, president of the Canadian Homing pigeon Society, who said birth-control "feed would curb pigeon population without causing death.

The society considered wild pigeons a hazard in passing on disease.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

R. B. RANKIN,
Secretary.

Auditor Not Independent Enough

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial auditor Georgo Spence "has not been as fully independent as he would be desirable" in performing his duties, a member of the Ontario legislature's public accounts committee charged Tuesday.

Norman Ellison told the legislature committee members were critical of the act prohibiting all civil servants from striking.

"What I find unacceptable is the keeping together of all public servants," said James Bullbrook (L—Sarnia).

He said he couldn't conceive why "the sign painter has to be lumped in for collective bargaining purposes with the police officer."

Charles McNaughton, chairman of the management board, said with the "fragmentation of bargaining units it would be impossible to draw the line."

Farmers Get Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart announced Tuesday Ontario will guarantee bank loans for farmers who wish to expand industrial milk production through purchase of quotas.

Ontario assembled outside to protest.

The civil servants held a symbolic coffin at the steps of the legislature building, placed candles at the foot of it and a copy of the bill on top of it along with a notice proclaiming that they weren't second-class citizens.

As he watched his placard-carrying colleagues, George Gemmell, president of the OPSEU, said the lack of full bargaining rights angered his organization.

During the meeting, some committee members were critical of the act prohibiting all civil servants from striking.

Mr. Ellison, an audit manager, is one of a three-man team appointed by the committee to investigate spending and invoicing by government departments.

Because of that, he said, he cannot "display his independence as fully as he might like to do."

Community College Budgets Escape Scrutiny

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition members cried foul Tuesday after being told budgets for Ontario's 20 community colleges won't be available for scrutiny by the legislature committee studying the estimates of the department of colleges and universities.

George Kerr, minister of colleges and universities, told the committee the formulas for financing colleges of applied arts and technology is based on student enrolment. As enrolments for the next school term are not final, "it is impossible at this time for them to complete their budgets."

"How are we supposed to analyse these expenditures?" demanded James Bullbrook (L—Sarnia).

Mr. Bullbrook, who has complained about lack of detailed information since the committee began hearing the department estimates Monday, said he felt "totally hamstrung."

Mr. Kerr said the formula system, which starts with a $300,000 base calculation of $1,755 a student, will provide more accurate budgeting, and less overspending by the college. The colleges reported a surplus of $2,000,000 last year.

Sunday Municipal Elections Suggested

TORONTO (CP) — People can go to movies, drink and attend football games on Sundays so why shouldn't they vote in municipal elections off the Sabbath.

The suggestion was made in the Ontario legislature Tuesday by Michael Cassidy (NDP—Ottawa Centre) during debate on the government's redrafted Municipal Elections Act.

The act provides that all municipal elections be held the first Monday in December and on standard, two-year terms throughout the province.

Mr. Cassidy, a former Ottawa alderman, said municipal elections should be held on the first Sunday in November because October has "ideal weather for campaigning" and on Sunday few people work and it is easier for them to get to the polls.

Ban Not Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dalton Bales told the Ontario legislature Tuesday that he doesn't feel a province-wide ban on the sale of firecrackers is necessary.

Quebec Unions Give Order to Resume Work

Public Service Talks to Open

QUEBEC (CP) — Union members who had been protesting the jailing of three labor leaders went back to work today, ending nine days of unrest and instability that had wracked the province.

The union members, whose protest walkouts broke out across the province both willingly and under coersion from militant union factions, returned to their jobs at the urging of union officials.

There were strong indications that bargaining talks would resume today between provincial government representatives and officials of 200,000 public service workers whose 11-day legal strike in April was ended by emergency back-to-work legislation.

Spokesman for a common front of public service unions had demanded that the three imprisoned union leaders attend any new negotiation sessions.

The government was said to be studying their status and considering the possibility of bail or parole to allow them to sit in on the talks and return to Orsainville jail at night.

Meanwhile, a strike by some 8,000 outside civic workers in Montreal continued and garbage began piling up at certain park depots. The strike is protesting lagging contract negotiations with the city.

Montreal longshoremen, involved in a collective agreement dispute on the size of work gangs, have had an injunction ordering them to stay on the job extended to May 26. The injunction was obtained May 9 when dock workers walked out at Quebec City, Trois-Rivieres and Montreal.

Some Montreal longshoremen were off the job during the last two days, but most returned today. About 300 Quebec City longshoremen continued a walkout started Wednesday.

The end to the protest walkouts was generally orderly today as employees showed up at hospitals, schools, factories and other shops. Striking Montreal construction workers voted 96 per cent in favor of returning to work.

Wallace Likely Crippled For Life

SILVER SPRING, Md. (CP) — Although in good spirits and politically enthusiastic, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, paralysed by an assassin's bullet, probably will be unable to resume his fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, even from a wheelchair.

Doctors say one of the .38-calibre bullets that ripped into his body may leave Wallace crippled for life. He is paralysed from the waist down.

Wallace, shot four or five times at close range Monday, was alert and vigorous Wednesday when visited by his family and friends, but doctors attending the 52-year-old governor were becoming increasingly pessimistic about his chances of walking again.

Dr. James Galbraith, a University of Alabama neurosurgeon called to Holy Cross Hospital to attend Wallace, said his chances of walking are less than 50-50 and if he can--it probably will be only with the aid of braces.

Dr. Galbraith said one of the bullets struck the lower down in a nearby Laurel, Md., shopping centre is wedged between two vertebrae, just missing the bony canal that shields the spinal cord.

The bullet didn't shatter any part of the spine, but the shock of its impact caused the present paralysis, Dr. Galbraith said.

Nixon to Spend Most of Visit At Meetings

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon will spend more than half of his eight day trip to the Soviet Union in wide-ranging talks with the Russian leaders in an effort to improve American-Soviet relations, recently threatened by the Vietnam war.

Details of the summit released by the White House Wednesday night disclosed plans for a minimum of ceremony and entertainment and a series of lengthy meetings between the president and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

Brighton OPP Launch Police Week

When you launch an open house you may not expect half the people in the area to show up for it but at Brighton that's what happened yesterday. More than 600 school children alone converged on the provincial police detachment and the attention they showed Constable Lawrence Banford as he explained rescue boat operations indicates their enthusiasm for Police Week in the village.

Le Dain Recommends Ending Penalties for Smoking Pot

OTTAWA (CP) — Marijuana and hashish should not be legal drugs, but those who use them also should not be considered criminals, the Le Dain commission on non-medical drug use said Wednesday.

The commission recommended in its majority report that simple possession — for personal use, not for sale purposes — of these drugs should have no penalties. The law now calls for maximum penalties of seven years in prison or $2,000 in fines.

Gerald Le Dain, chairman of the five-member commission, told a news conference all members were concerned about the "inappropriateness of the penalty structure."

However, members differed widely on how a balance between possible harmful effects of the drugs and the harmful effects of being a criminal should be weighted.

The majority recommended "the repeal of the prohibition against the simple possession of cannabis." Cannabis is the name of the plant from which marijuana and hashish are made and is the common term for the two drugs.

Marie-Andree Bertrand, professor of criminology at the University of Montreal, took the stand that complete legalization of cannabis, with federal-provincial distribution similar to alcohol distribution, was necessary.

Ian L. Campbell, dean of arts at Sir George Williams University, took the opposite view and recommended that all aspects of cannabis use should remain illegal. He recommended small fines — $25 for first offenders and $100 for repeaters — but said prohibition of the drug should remain.

Spokesmen for some church, social and medical groups welcomed the Le Dain majority report while justice and police officials took an opposite view.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia left little room for doubt where his feelings lay.

"I'm opposed to the legalization of these drugs, period, double period, triple period."

Premier William Davis of Ontario had no comment on Wednesday's report but announced the establishment of a committee to assess its findings and recommendations.

Eldon Woolliams, Progressive Conservative justice critic in Parliament, said he and his party oppose the recommendation.

For text of majority report conclusions and recommendations, see Page 24.

Flames Engulf Train

SPY HILL, Sask. (CP) — An engineer and a trainman died Wednesday as fire engulfed their diesel engine when it collided with a tanker truck at a level crossing. The flaming crash destroyed two engines and 15 boxcars and killed engineer Gilbert Cox, 48, of Melville, and the head-end trainman, Gordon Rathgaber, 21, of Goodeve.

Price Explosion Feared

WINNIPEG (CP) — A disastrous price explosion" will result from the United States wage-and-price control program if it is maintained much longer, the chairman of the Senate finance committee, Senator Douglas Everett, told the annual meetings of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Ballet Acclaimed

LONDON (CP) — Canada's National Ballet was acclaimed by London critics today in a hartvest of praise that ensures the rising stature of the Canadian dancers in the Western world. "I'm absolutely thrilled," said a sleepy Celia Franca, the artistic director, as she was stirred from her bed bed to be told of the enthusiastic reviews.

Protestants Under Attack

BELFAST (AP) — More attacks on Protestants in Northern Ireland increased the prospect today of a violent backlash which police say the Irish Republican Army is trying to provoke.

Relief Army Near An Loc

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese relief column moved to within 2½ miles of the besieged provincial capital of An Loc today, making its biggest advance in six weeks, field reports said.

The carrier Saratoga joined the battle to lift the six-week siege of the devastated town 89 miles north of Saigon. It was the carrier's first combat since she was commissioned in 1956

Moving behind hundreds of bombs dropped by jets from the Saratoga and from U.S. B-52 Stratofortress, the South Vietnamese met no determined resistance from North Vietnamese forces, the field reports said.

CLC to Seek to Organize Million Office Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Leaders of the Canadian Labor Congress promised 1,500 convention delegates Wednesday to use additional revenue of $400,000 a year to finance an organizing campaign directed in particular at one million office workers.

The campaign was spelled out in a resolution instructing the congress "to mobilize and make available new and special finances, personnel and resources with a view to launching a massive general organizing program, with special emphasis on the white-collar workers."

Financing was provided with passage of a constitutional resolution increasing to 15 from 12 cents the monthly dues rebate of the 1.7-million unionists now affiliated to the congress.

All delegates supported the campaign, hailed as the one hope for the future of organized labor in Canada. Only a tiny handful—including two Quebec delegates—opposed the dues increase.

A much larger minority, however, feared that the money would somehow get side-tracked to other projects unless it was earmarked for white-collar organizing.

Most concerned were delegates from the Public Service Alliance of Canada, now the country's biggest white-collar union with 99,000 of its 130,000 members being office, clerical or technical employees of the federal governments.

The alliance originally submitted a resolution firmly tying the dues increase to the campaign and delegates were alarmed that the proposal had been split.

"We want to be assured that the money will not be used for other purposes," one delegate insisted in vain.

Larry Sefton, a top Steelworkers official and chairman of the CLC white-collar committee established last year, placated the delegates.

"We're making no bones at all that this money will go to organize the white collars."

Mr. Sefton also set the tone of discussion about the campaign resolution itself. "If this Congress wants to continue to exist, it has got to bring these people into the movement," he said.

His daughter, Laurel McDowell of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers' added from the floor that "the whole future of the Canadian Labor movement is wrapped up in the organization of white-collar workers.

"There are thousands and thousands of white-collar workers who are working for something just over the minimum wage," Mrs. McDowell said.

Moira Authority Buys Research Institute Land

The Moira River Conservation authority isn't primarily interested in mosquito control nor in the science of entomology but it is nevertheless taking heir to field station property which has been used for years in the experimental work of the Research Institute in Belleville.

The Research Institute is closing out its Belleville operation on Sept. 1 and the Moira Authority has purchased its Sidney Township field station property in the Oak Hills area.

Purchase details are now being completed and the authority will take over the 53-acre field station site in late summer.

Authority officials still haven't decided on exactly to what use they will put the Sidney site but it is agreed it is "a good property to have". It is expected, however, the one-time rolling farm land south of the Oak Hills will get heavy use as an outdoor education site for school children in the south part of the county.

There is a wide range of flora and fauna on the property and it would be an ideal site for outdoor education," said authority secretary treasurer James. H. McLeod.

Close to one-half of the acreage has never been cleared. Mr. McLeod said research institute people had furnished the authority with a detailed list of the trees, plants and wildlife to be found on the property and this would prove valuable for our outdoor education program.

There are many types of mature trees on the property, including oaks and other hardwoods, as well as softwoods in the low lying swales.

It is expected the authority will cut out nature trails for use by children or others visiting the site.

The field station property includes a small 800-square-foot frame structure used as a summer laboratory by research workers.

Wayne Brooks, co-ordinator of outdoor educational activities with the Hastings County Board of Education, is highly enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Sidney field station.

"It would be absolutely unbelievable," he enthused. "There is a tremendous variety of trees on the site.

"It would be ideal for the study of trees and plants and for other types of academic studies," he said.

Mr. Brooks expected that the Sidney field station property would enter prominently into outdoor education programming, commencing with the autumn school term.

Dr. Peter Harris, acting director of the Research Institute said a wide range of experimental work had been carried on at the Sidney field station.

Included were experimental plots for the growing of plants and weeds used in entomological studies, as well as ponds used in the study of mosquito control.

He said Research Institute work at the field station would be carried on until September 1 when the entire site would be turned over to the Moira Authority.

The authority paid the federal government $5,000 for the field station property.

Bicycle Plates At Schools Only

City police will be selling bicycle licence plates for $1 each at all city public schools within the next few weeks.

When the visits at the schools are completed, the plates will be sold at the Campbell Street headquarters.

Police will not be selling the distinctive plastic yellow tags at the station until that time. Date when station sales start will be announced in newspaper advertisements.

In the Line of Duty

City police officers are often called upon to perform some rather unusual tasks.

An incident on Bridge Street East Wednesday morning was just such a case. Fashion [illegible] Belleville, E. Berry of 327 Foster Avenue, was driving a car in his car. Constable Robert McAlpine spent several minutes maneuvering a bent coat hanger over the lock knob to retrieve the keys. Mr. Berry could be on her way.

Bear Is Stubborn

By HUEY McCOY
Special Correspondent

CORDOVA — The housebreaking bear that has terrorized this neighborhood since Monday in its attempts to break into several residences continues on the prowl.

Men with rifles combed the area Monday, looking for the animal that clawed its way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hamilton, RR3, Havelock, early Monday morning. But their attempts to intercept the bear on his breaking-and-enter rounds failed, and he again scratched his way through the tenton siding of the Hamilton home early this morning.

In his first attempt on the Hamilton residence, the bear clawed a hole through a kitchen wall under the bed of the Hamilton's 19-year-old daughter, Joan. The bear then lumbered away, but returned about two hours later to claw another hole.

A bear was also reported to have torn the screen door off a house about six miles north of Cordova the same night, but it cannot be determined if it is the same beast.

Mr. Hamilton had prepared himself for further assaults by bruin by borrowing a bear trap, but when the bear came calling at 1 a.m. this morning Mr. Hamilton had no idea how to set the trap. He called a neighbor, Donald Brown, who set the trap. But the bear again eluded capture.

An official of the ministry of natural resources says it is "most unusual" for a bear to come so close to human habitation as the bear is in its efforts to gain entry.

Stirling Seeks More Housing

The need for more senior citizen housing units to serve Stirling and the three adjoining townships, Sidney, Rawdon and Huntingdon — was discussed Tuesday at a meeting in Stirling.

Stirling Reeve W. L. Pollock said all municipal representatives attending were highly enthusiastic and agreed to take the matter up with their respective councils.

The usual procedure is for the Ontario Housing Corporation to undertake a survey to determine the need for senior citizen housing, following which a decision would be made on the number of units required.

If the senior citizen housing is approved, the OHC would enter into an agreement with Stirling, the village in turn handling specific agreements with the adjoining municipalities.

A total of 22 senior citizen units have been built or are under construction, each with 10 of these to be occupied by June 1.

The additional units discussed at last night's meeting would be to serve Stirling and sections of the townships immediately adjoining the village.

Scott Says 3 Per Cent Jobless

Belleville's unemployment rate now stands at three per cent.

The word is as official as is ever will be, straight from Mayor Lloyd Scott.

Reports have circulated around town all winter that three per cent is the unemployment rate here — half the average for the rest of Canada and below the four per cent mark that economists say means no unemployment at all.

Although employers in the city say Manpower has privately given them the three per cent unemployment figure, the Belleville office has refused to divulge the information publicly.

Manpower spokesmen give "departmental instructions" and "Ottawa policy" as reason for their silence.

The department of Manpower in Ottawa has consistently refused to release unemployment statistics on a local and regional basis, giving evil be in national averages.

Mayor Scott gave the three per cent figure at the Bay of Quinte Life Underwriters Association dinner Wednesday night and attributed the low unemployment rate in Belleville to its industrial development.

AHEPA Meets On Weekend

Members of Belleville's Greek community this weekend play host to 250 guests — delegates to a Quebec-Ontario convention of the Anglo-Hellenic Educational Progressive Association.

The Belleville AHEPA chapter was formed only last year, the latest of more than 430 across North America.

AHEPA, a fraternal organization, has been active in community undertakings from the local to the international level for 50 years.

Site of the convention is the San Valley Motor Inn, where registration takes place Friday. Saturday morning will bring business sessions and a dance, while Sunday a special church service at the Seventh Day Adventist Church will be directed by Bishop Theodosius of Toronto. The convention ends Sunday night with a banquet and grand ball. Both social events Saturday and Sunday nights are open to the public.

Senior Citizens Visit Toronto

TWEED (Special) — Senior citizens from Tweed's Club 380 spent Tuesday in Toronto on a tour of Casa Loma and Black Creek Pioneer Village.

About 40 people travelled to Toronto on two buses, leaving Tweed at 8:30 a.m. Following the tours, the group had dinner in Oshawa.

Women Suffer Head Injuries

TRENTON (Staff) — Two elderly Trenton women are undergoing treatment today for injuries received in a truck-car crash near here yesterday.

Both Mrs. Elsie Whitley, 78 of 56 Marmora St. and Mrs. Annie Brown, 74, of 94 Marmora Street, were rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital following the mishap on the Wooler Road near the Tremur Lake reservoir. Mrs. Whitley was driver of the car, Mrs. Brown the only passenger.

Transferred to Kingston General Hospital by ambulance, Mrs. Whitley, say hospital officials there, has head injuries, is responding to treatment in the intensive care unit but "her condition is not yet fully assessed".

At Trenton, Mrs. Brown is also being treated for head injury, also in intensive care, the hospital terms her condition "satisfactory".

Brighton detachment OPP report Ian Whitley vehicle was struck by a heavy gravel truck as it crossed the truck's path at a Wooler Road intersection. The truck driver, identified as Andrew McDonald, was robust.

Sale of Bowell Papers Raises Some Questions

Mackenzie Bowell — Belleville's MP who became prime minister with one of the lesser reputations in national history — often asked questions about the papers of his day.

Now a modern Belleville is asking some questions about papers that once belonged to Bowell.

In fact, it's ownership of some of Sir Mackenzie's personal documents, lately bought by Queen's University archives, that has prompted the curiosity of Belleville controller Maurice Rollins.

Bowell himself, whose premiership (1894-1896) shuddered into some of the political questions of his day, might appreciate the possible posthumous imbroglios of the situation.

First, what happened was this:

The cache of dusty, partly-damaged — but historically significant documents — were reported discovered in a Belleville attic and bought by Queen's for several thousand dollars from an anonymous city couple.

Now, this happens:

Mr. Rollins wants "to know if the papers came from a long-built city house he bought a year ago and rents. If so, can a tenant dispense with such property? If not, who's entitled to rights of sale: The present landlord, the previous owner, the one before that, or the original owner.

Whatever, Mr. Rollins, one of east-central Ontario's leading contractors and homebuilders, stresses he has no pecuniary interest in the outcome. He's just curious — sufficiently so to write Queen's archivers.

"We're more curious than anything else as to what's going on," he said Monday.

"Should people take stuff out of a house if they're tenants . . . if they did. And we don't even know that."

said he hadn't yet heard a thing about such inquiries.

He said university historians first heard of the Bowell cache last December when a "young couple in Belleville, who want to remain anonymous, called us through their lawyer."

They recounted finding the cache beneath a squirrel skeleton "in an attic in a Belleville home and were just wondering if we were interested in them."

With Queen's historica Donald Swainson, Mr. Wilson examined the documents in Belleville and "found they were of great historical importance . . .

Mr. Wilson could not recall any address mentioned: In fact, "they didn't even tell us what home it was found in. We met them in a lawyer's office, so I'm not sure where in Belleville they (the papers) were found."

The papers were "quite old, quite rare and the only way we could obtain them for preservation was to buy them."

He said the purchase price was "several thousand dollars . . . below $4,000."

The documents, written roughly between 1867-75, preside Bowell papers in Ottawa's National Archives.

They provide historic light on local politics — Bowell was a leading Conservative warhorse from early days — and secrets of the Orange Order, of which he was once Canadian Grand Master.

Some of the 2,000 documents — including letters from Sir John A. Macdonald and Bowell's cabinet colleagues — had been chewed by squirrels.

Mr. Wilson said he had heard of no problems arising from the sale.

He said the "people were somewhat diffident about indicating the precise nature and how they (the papers) were found and therefore we worked through a lawyer in Belleville.

Summer Jobs

It is interesting to see which ventures make the grade for these Federal Opportunities for Youth grants and which do not. Two examples have come to notice: one is the day care centre which five young Belleville women, all Loyalist College graduates, will run at St. Andrew's Church and which they hope to continue on a permanent basis when the initial period is over in September.

We believe this is a valuable initiative, for the child population is growing. With many mothers also working there is a need for care and early education facilities such as can be offered at centres like this.

Another project — one which has been rejected — was the bicycle trail in Prince Edward County which Trent University proposed. Other projects of a similar nature are of course under way in this area so there would have been duplication.

For those who have been disappointed we hope the summer will not be a lost cause. Finding work may be difficult but not impossible. Now and again we read of some spark who takes to shining shoes (full maybe, but then go get to meet people in their shoes at least!), or working for a delivery service, or exercising people's dogs, or cutting lawns, and so on.

Governor's Future

The Washington Post is saying already that Governor George Wallace of Alabama will again, this coming only two days after the shooting, seems to us like the height of irresponsible speculation. It is true there are fears of incomplete recovery in the spinal area, but it has been said doctors still not know for sure until after removal of the bullet lodged near the spine — an operation which must await further stabilization of Mr. Wallace's condition.

The Governor is a courageous man and that quality alone should carry him far along the road to recovery. John Connally, who has just resigned as Secretary of the Treasury, had paralysis of one hand for a while after he was shot but is back at the time President Kennedy was assassinated. He was then Governor of Texas.

For Governor Wallace's wife and family this is a testing time too. His first wife, Lurleen, who succeeded him in office, died of cancer. He married Cornelia Snively in January 1971 shortly before his second term as governor.

What does a man like Governor Wallace receive in return for his troubles? According to 1971 figures the Alabama governor earns $25,000 a year, which is less than some school principals and school board administrators receive here. Presumably he will also be entitled to the whole of Maryland's $35,000 for damages. U.S. Governors' salaries incidentally range all the way from only $10,000 in Arkansas to $85,000 for Governor Rockefeller of New York.

Science Fair Success

Congratulations to Curtis Nickel of Quinte Secondary School and Peter Mischenko of Belleville Collegiate for their sterling work in carrying off two of a possible five firsts at the Canada - wide Science Fair in Sarnia. It's a measure of the boys' own talent and of the top class tuition they receive at their respective schools. Young Nickel, who is from Plainfield, also acknowledges the help he received from Dr. Thomas Burnett, research officer at the Agricultural Research Institute here. Still, the ultimate success is theirs and in achieving it they have brought further honors to Belleville and its schools.

Leadership Needed

There was actress Shirley MacLaine on television here Rochester and, as a McGovern supporter speaking of participatory democracy, "gut reaction" (ugh!), and the need to get involved. Sometimes we wonder if there is not too much of participatory democracy thing. It is getting so that the elected leaders cannot be heard any more; we cannot see the top brass in the wood for the mob in the trees. In many cases too the leaders are so intimidated by the clamor of pressure groups — or in some cases by politically - motivated terrorism — that they fear to take decisive action. We need less noise from the madding crowd and more leadership from the people elected to do just that — lead.

Northwestern Ontario Charge

Is Quebec Getting Too Large A Share of Tax Money?

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — If Finance Minister John Turner has helped the Liberal government through his recent budget measures, Jean Marchand, regional economic expansion minister, and his department are stumbling in hot the government—at least in all provinces except Quebec.

The low rumble of discontent about the ruling of DREE has been heard for many months. Recently, the ostriches have become much louder and sharper in volume and tone and in certain East-Quebec backfish has developed in many parts of Canada as the statistics of the depressed regions have been revised.

One of the latest groups to make itself heard on the subject is the Northwestern Ontario Development Council which has its headquarters in Thunder Bay. In a widely distributed statement the council noted that Quebec has received more than half the number of grants and nearly half the money provided by DREE in incentives to industry.

In actual figures, up to the end of January this year, the council said that 2,600 Quebec enterprises were aided by DREE out of 4,179 for all 10 provinces. Quebec received $103.5 million from the DREE pot out of a total of $204.4 million for the entire country. Or, in short form, Quebec received 52.8 per cent of the number of grants authorized and 48.1 per cent of the money allotted.

The council compares this with the next populous province of Ontario which received only 77 grants or 5.5 per cent of the total and $28.3 million or 14 per cent of the grant money. Of course, Ontario is affluent in comparison to most parts of Quebec where the economy is stagnant and unemployment is high. But the Northwestern Ontario Development Council makes the point that the area it represents is very much a part of Ontario and economic expansion in that region is vital.

The council's manager, Alexander Phillips, suggests that Mr. Marchand's department is misnamed and that he called the department for more employment in Quebec.

"If it is a department of regional economic expansion, how can the great central decline of the country, northeastern and northwestern Ontario, be virtually excluded from the federal program?" he asks. "North-western Ontario taxpayers are shelling out their money to subsidize Quebec while getting little in return to spur their own regional economic expansion. It's about time there was a showdown."

These are strong words and certainly aren't calculated to do much for national unity. But they are understandable if growing feeling throughout the other parts of Canada that too many government programs are weighted in favor of Quebec. And this is happening at a time when unemployments often throw road-blocks in the way of national programs because of their insistence that they must have greater control over the expenditure of the available federal funds.

The latest example of this is the outcry by provincial officials in Quebec because of Ottawa's unilateral decision to increase old age pensions in the recent budget. Premier Robert Bourassa of Social Affairs Minister Claude Castonguay attacked the move as "Ottawa's inadmissible and unacceptable budget gesture."

Quebec apparently would have preferred that the money go to the pension alone and instead increase its contributions to family allowances, welfare aid and other social payments.

"Now we can save up for that roost you've always wanted!"

Now—A Communications Empire For Davis

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The latest adventure in high-flying by the premier's office of the Davis government is at blast-off.

This is to be an enterprise in "communications." Its purpose supposedly is to keep the premier and the government "informed."

To do this a sizable news-room-to-reverse operation is being established. It is planned to install printers from Canada's national news services: two wires from The Canadian Press and one from its subsidiary Broadcast News, in the premier's wing. Staff will check these so that the premier can get his news hot-off-the-press.

All major television and radio news and public affairs broadcasts are to be monitored. This presumably will require a staff spotted throughout the province and on duty some 16 hours a day.

Also projected is an inter-departmental cable system whereby if a minister is talked about on television or radio, he can see or hear what has been said while sitting at his desk.

Mr. Davis probably will defend this mightily. He certainly should have to.

But he never will be able to convince at least some people with know how that this is not another example of that pernicious old government habit of building an empire out of new job.

Early this year the appointment was announced of G. Campbell McDonald as "director of communications" in the premier's office.

McDonald came from the Western-University wing of the Liberal party. He is a veteran of the government. He was head of public relation at Western and has been a member of the newspaper experience. He was to be paid $26,000 plus benefits and was on duty some 16 hours a day.

The title Director of Communications was not entirely new. It had been given to Bill Rathbun, a speech-writer, in the last year of the Robarts regime to qualify him for a raise in pay. His "communication," however, except for speeches, was practically running a boiler-room of stenographers who answered letters to the premier.

McDonald has been around the buildings since then doing just what nobody seems to exactly know. But at $26,000 you can't do nothing; your conscience will bother you for one thing, if you happen to have one. So you start an empire. And McDonald is starting his.

Let us just say it is a waste. The premier, for the quarter-million dollars or so the operation will probably cost, can't gain one thing of any importance help to him in doing the job he is being paid for: governing the province.

If there is any news of consequence, it will get to him through the regular channels, as it always has. And to burden himself with trivia is just akin to big time.

But what's money to government?

Public Housing Standards

Peterborough Examiner

Reports that the federal government, the province and Metro Toronto are trying once again a new form of public housing points to the fact that the problem of supply of low income people with sufficient housing is far from being solved.

Up to now, generally, the authorities built certain buildings and moved the needy families into them or rents the suitable dwellings decided they could afford.

It must be stated that these public housing projects are outstanding; ultra-modern, high-rise apartment buildings and low-, medium-type developments of a high quality that many of the "non-poor," who pay taxes to support the public housing projects, could not afford.

But there have been two main problems: The first is that the number of housing units had not been able to keep pace with the demand. (Thousands are on the waiting lists). The second is that in many districts considerable resistance to such public projects has been building up and frustrating officials.

On top of everything else, opposition politicians, among them the NDP's Stephen Lewis, have been calling these projects "ghettos of the poor."

Are they really ghettos?

In some sense, they are, but they do not become ghettos because they are built that way. They are turned into easily identifiable landmarks — ghettos — after people move in.

The problem is what nobody wants to talk about. Officials simply do not dare to openly discuss or explain the fact that the people, some of them anyway, who move into these buildings are from a lower class than people of the word.

Many public housing projects have been turned into an eyesore and a financial disappointment by the tenants who did not know how to maintain normal living conditions, or did not care.

Many public housing projects in Toronto — built on the same street with, and often of higher quality than, other, open-market government buildings — are never be distinguished if it weren't for the difference in upkeep and behavior by the tenants.

People in many districts are beginning to be wary of such projects because, examples have, in fact, become a blight on the surrounding community.

Army's Work for Children In Embattled Ulster

Peter Brazier in Ulster Commentary

The schoolboy bouncing on the trampoline quizzed his instructor: "Sir, could you not give us grass lessons every night?" Not a bad idea, reasonable request but unusual in its context.

For the scene was in a youth club in the heart of a notorious area of troubled Belfast. The instructors were a British Army regular and a territorial soldier.

And the youngster himself might have been out on the streets harassing his instructor colleagues but for a unique experiment in community relations which seems to be working against the odds in Northern Ireland today.

The Army, in a major effort to try and break down the religious barriers which divide the communities, is tackling the problem at the lowest possible age levels. Three groups of suitably qualified and experienced soldiers have been forged into three full - time "youth teams" to organize and manage athletics and adventure programs for young people from both Protestant and Catholic backgrounds.

The troops — five men to a team, all from Irish regiments and theoretically representing both religions — are currently hopping with about 1,000 boys and girls each month and this figure is expected to rise sharply later in the year with the opening of the summer holiday camps which Army teams are now planning.

The activities, mainly out-of-doors pursuits, primarily are aimed at helping existing organizations such as the boy scouts, girl guides, church associations and youth and youth clubs.

The troops also do a great deal for handicapped and retarded children and in Catholic schools, where they reckon their efforts are most rewarding, and the scope of their activities is broadening. Latest addition to the program is fire-lighting practice and archery tuition for boys and girls at one of the schools.

The most popular activities are boxing and trampoline exercises in the winter and canoeing and hill walking, with overnight camping in light weight tents in summer.

Said one team leader, Sergeant-major "Tess" Price: "We use the Antrim hills and the Mountains of Mourne mainly for our weekend walking, which are areas quite close to Belfast."

Even so, he said, these expeditions provided for many of the children their first sight of some of Ulster's best scenic beauty spots. And the Army believes they will help the youngsters realize there is more to life than the violence to be found in certain Belfast back streets.

Youth organizations in Northern Ireland share their view, Captain Chambers said his men receive many messages of thanks and encouragement. They particularly prize a recent letter from the boy scouts enclosing a cheque for the Army Benevolent Fund. It was a small but tangible recognition of the widespread appreciation there is in Ulster for the Army's latest efforts at bridge building.

Trade Is Up

Ulster Commentary

Business as usual, in spite of the terrorism, is very much the case in Northern Ireland. The truth of this is borne out by trading figures just published.

Northern Ireland's total trade for 1972 was worth £1,573½ million which represents a rise of over 50 per cent in a five-year period. Highest rise, of course, are responsible for a proportion of the increase.

Exports were worth £745 million, an increase on the previous year of 14 per cent. Imports rose by 17 per cent to £829 million.

Eighty-six per cent of Northern Ireland's total trade was with Great Britain. There was a substantial increase in trade with the Republic of Ireland to which exports worth £78 million worth of goods was exported. There was a similar rise in imports from the Republic which amounted to nearly £88 million worth of goods.

Hellyer Blasts Tax Burden

Brockville Recorder and Times

Finance Minister Turner's new budget has given little forewarning of what Mr. Paul Hellyer, more ammunition in his fight against the Liberal government and its policies. Mr. Hellyer, the champion of ill-treated Canadians will not be without more evidence to support his contention that the Trudeau government is "determined to destroy the Canadian middle class."

In a speech to be delivered in Niagara Falls last week, he elaborated on this point and has found much support for this belief in the May 11 issue of the Unemployment Insurance Act Reporter. There is to be another indication of what he meant. He feels that it is not enough that Canadians are supplied to those who will never benefit from it. He also noted that the planned reduction of family allowances for higher income groups is another part of the pattern of soaking the mid dle class to pay for almost all kinds of semi-productive and non - productive harebrained schemes.

"They're using it to pay people for not working when there is a labor shortage," he said. "It's used to encourage companies to establish new plants in competition with existing Canadian companies."

Mr. Hellyer foresees the eventual end of small business as a result of the capital gains tax policies adopted by the government. Income increases in prices due to inflation would shift them into the owner would have to pay the tax.

There are few Canadian middle class people who will disagree with Mr. Hellyer's further observation that greater ingenuity has been displayed by Ottawa in developing techniques for extracting money from them, disproportionately with other levels of society. Those with high incomes and business as a whole suffer much less.

As we have noted before, Mr. Hellyer seems to have a finger on the pulse of Canadians that is lacking in most of our politicians. We still feel that if he spoke loud enough, he could astound Canadians with the support he will pick up in the next federal election.

Storefront Artist

Like the storefront lawyers of television, Mrs. Edith Darroch of Elmira, Ontario, near Kitchener, does most of her business in the front of various businesses across the province. An unschooled artist, Mrs. Darroch hangs her vivid landscapes mostly in Eaton's stores. In Belleville for the week, she explained, "I paint the way I feel and the way the scene strikes me." As she travels the province, she sketches scenes and captures them in brilliant but realistic oils at a later date. Painting professionally for the past three or four years, her art has only been on sale at "store-type galleries."

Prince Edward Lawyers Plan Their Own Society

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County lawyers concerned with problems peculiar to their community expect to form a local law society and to expand facilities to create a law library.

Picton solicitor L. Thomas Forbes Tuesday told Picton Rotarians that the county's seven lawyers are concerned with the failure of the province to appoint a sheriff here and representation has been made by them on several occasions to "the powers that be."

This issue and other matters such as the proposed consolidation of courts and the registry system under regional government have prompted reaction from county lawyers according to Mr. Forbes.

The lawyers in Prince Edward are not isolated in their individual aims but are doing something toward curing some of the ills found in the county," stressed Mr. Forbes.

He explained that there has never been a law association in the county before and Prince Edward lawyers have been members of the Hastings law society.

Members of county council and Picton town councillors have endorsed the idea of a local law society and have provided assistance in this direction.

Mr. Forbes said the removal of the registry system and the courts from Prince Edward to a nearby centre such as Belleville or Peterborough would affect the desirability of having a law practice in the county. If the courts were moved it would be inconvenient for local residents called as witnesses.

County lawyers now hold regular meetings with members of the medical profession here to discuss the problems which may have a medical problem such as alcoholism.

Mr. Forbes explained an alcoholic may threaten to kill his wife yet cannot be kept in jail indefinitely and will not remain in a hospital.

Doctors and lawyers examine the situation together with assistance from the Crown Attorney in an effort to resolve this and similar dilemmas.

The lawyer discussed the local problem of Prince Edward municipalities lacking funds for development of industrial sites and the people (represented by county council) who lack the necessary power.

He described it as an area of "diametrically opposed interests" and noted Prince Edward County must develop services without the needed power and municipalities are unable to proceed without the needed funds.

Mr. Forbes referred to a private bill recently promoted through Prince Edward County council to permit the county to operate a serviced industrial site.

The Picton lawyer presented the bill successfully before the Ontario Legislature's Private Bills Committee in April and it has now received third reading.

He suggested that businessmen have been faced by frustration in projects such as the development of a subdivision.

Mr. Forbes briefly discussed the demands of his profession and contradicted "the myth" that is easier to practice law in a quiet community such as Prince Edward than in a larger centre.

He observed in this area, where lawyers for the most part are in general practice, it is difficult for them to keep abreast of the new laws that are "churned out every day." Courses to update solicitors in such matters are offered in Toronto each month.

Mr. Forbes commented there are two types of litigation, namely civil, involving a fight between two individuals, and criminal, which concerns an action by the Crown against a member of society for the contravention of a law.

As a lawyer, Mr. Forbes said he has been asked how he can defend a client whom he believes is guilty of the crime for which he has been charged.

The solicitor explained it is his job to present the accused's case as he might have presented it himself if he had received the necessary education.

It is not the lawyer's function to decide the outcome of a case but rather the responsibility of the judge or a jury to reach a decision.

He noted many lawyers cannot justify in their own minds the defence of a man obviously guilty of a crime and these men do not practice criminal law.

L. Thomas Forbes was born in Ottawa and is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall.

The 34-year-old lawyer came to Picton in 1971 to take over the practice of the late Reginald Nourse, QC.

Mersereau Quits To Be Principal

Supervisor of program and professional development with the separate school board here, C. G. Mersereau, has resigned to accept the principalship of a school in New Brunswick.

Mr. Mersereau has been employed as a school administrator with the Hastings Prince Edward board since March 1969. In accepting his new position in Campbellton, New Brunswick, he will be returning to his native province.

In placing Mr. Mersereau's resignation before the board Tuesday night, E. J. Neville, superintendent, remarked on his "congenial outlook, his co-operation attitude and his administrative ability".

Mr. Mersereau will leave Belleville the first week in July to take over the year-old, 30-million school with a staff of about 70 and an enrolment of 1,200. A senior high school, with grades 10 through 12, half its students are French and half English. It was built in an attempt to put some of the recommendations of the Bicultiuralism and Bilingualism Commission into effect.

Mr. Mersereau, who is bilingual, is a native of Bathurst, N.B. He will move with his family to their cottage near Bathurst after school closes in June.

A New Find For Party Planning

By DORIS CLARK

Here's a new answer to the "What shall we play now?" dilemma. It is a 44-page book called "2000 Family Games". Covers all ages and types of ability — mental, physical and otherwise. Covers special occasions. Costs several $11.95.

What's more, a job has been done on checking rules for various games with the experts: recreational directors, teachers, professional sports associations.

There is fun for the kids, indoor and outdoor activities, do-it-yourself types, and disgrams to help. Write me for details of publisher and how to get your hands on a copy. I'm telling you — it's the very thing to turn to when party planning threatens to stump you.

Dear Doris: Thank you for your continuing interest in the Canadian Cancer Society, as evidenced in your letter of last week.

I am enclosing several copies of two pamphlets: "To Smoke or Not to Smoke", and "Help for Smokers".

The second one is helpful to folk who really want to stop smoking and cannot make up what it takes by themselves.

— P. R. Meinager, Canadian Cancer Society.

Dear Manager: Both pamphlets are dandy and I will be glad to send them to anyone accepting me with a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover handling.

You are doing a wonderful job. You've got me thoroughly sold that "Cancer Can Be Beaten" — and waging a constant campaign against smoking is one of the ways to do it.

Dear Doris: Our daughter is a beautiful child. She is 12, and due to sudden puberty changes my husband and two teen-age sons tease her a lot. One will hold her while the other tickles her, and plays with her nipples so that she cries.

Sometimes they do things which are even more embarrassing. I've tried to stop it, but my husband laughs and says, "Aw, come on. The kid loves to be touched and tickled."

I don't believe that. She blushes and cries. I'm terrified that they will take the child's virginity away. — R. J. M.

Dear R. J. M.: I could have helped more quickly if you'd given me your address! I hope you will have your family doctor talk to your husband immediately, to explain to him how he is torturing and perverting his child.

These experiences may put her off sex for life, and are certainly making her life miserable now. Protect her in every way you can.

(There is helpful Canadian literature which may shed light on your problem.)

Church Groups

ST. JOSEPH'S CWL

The May meeting of St. Joseph's CWL was attended by a large number of members who enjoyed a potluck supper when a great variety of foods was partaken.

At the meeting held in the School auditorium, Mrs. Richard Barrett as guest speaker spoke on the work and aims of the "Birthright" group. This was followed by a question and answer period which brought out many interesting points.

President Mrs. Margaret Fyes closed the meeting and noted that the June meeting would be the last one for the season.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Does marriage suppress independence?

NO, not if love is the main and only reason a person marries. If an extremely independent girl, for instance, falls in love and marries, she will constantly seek ways to please her husband because she loves him. She is not afraid of giving up her independence because she is not afraid to lose it. Her husband, too, will encourage his wife to maintain her spirited nature because that is one of the characteristics that drew her to him.

Should parents skip the "preaching"?

NOT entirely. Parents, zealous for their children to grow and develop into mature adults, must train them by counsel as well as example. There are times, however, when parents could profitably forgo a chance to preach. They could just talk with their children — not to or at them. The youngsters, delighted that there is no message, might find it pleasant and interesting to talk with their parents.

Do most people enjoy a change?

YES, of course; we all know what spices our lives. Yet, there are some people who would rather eat cauliflower than change their daily life. Simply thinking about all the adjustments they have to make with every change is enough for them to yearn to coddle up in their old shell of sameness and routine. They believe, with Alfonse Karr (1808-1890), that the more things change, the more they remain the same—so why waste energy?

ACW Enjoys Slides

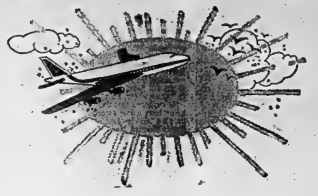
ST. PAUL'S ACW MARMORA — Miss Gayle Elkington of 4 b e Marmora Senior Public School staff entertained St. Paul's ACW with slides of a recent 14-day tour of Spain. She accompanied the slides with an assortment of Spanish souvenirs to aid in explaining the highlights of the trip which included attending a bull fight, a visit to the Nerja Caves, Tangiers and the exciting gypsy caves.



Mrs. R. Frost thanked Miss Elkington for her living room visit to Spain, which was enjoyed by all.

President Mrs. William Lavender opened the meeting, and Mrs. Ira Edwards, treasurer, reported on the recent successful bake sale and tea. It was decided that another bake sale would be held on June 16 at the church hall.

Mrs. R. E. Bonter reported that she had sent 12 cards to sick and shut-in members of the church during the month. Articles for the bake will be sent to Mrs. M. Mackey of Frankford for packing at the end of May.

The next meeting will be held on June 6 at the home of Mrs. Edwards.

A Garden of Friendship

Mrs. Laura Simpson, Associate Matron and Miss Jeane Stephenson Worthy Matron take time out to admire the garden scene decorated by members of OES Chapter 55. The Friendship Garden Tea held Wednesday afternoon is one of the two teas provided each year by this chapter. Members are given a chance to show their talent in decorating when each tea presents a different theme.

Floral Decor Highlights Tea

The Friendship Garden Tea held Wednesday afternoon in the Masonic Temple showed many man-hours in work by the members in the organization for another successful annual event. The decorating committee, booths and kitchen staff and organizers and helpers combined their efforts.

Miss Jeane Stephenson, Worthy Matron remarked, "We planned this Garden Tea in January and began decorating several months ago. It takes a lot of preparation. You plan first then you start to work."

All of the decorations were made by the members of this chapter, Chapter 55. The 300 tickets sold brought visitors and various members of this branch and others from the district. Proceeds from this annual tea go towards charities in the city.

The vestibule of the building was artistically decorated in the garden effect with a white picket fence surrounding the arbor and colorful pink blooms. Home made pink and green pansy willows enhanced the scene which set the mood for the tea. A "Please Keep Off Grass" sign added to the effect.

Surrounding the room were various booths and an one'o'ced tea room where Worthy Matrons of other chapters in the district graciously poured tea. Several highlights of the surrounding booths included a homemade afghan and quilt made by members Mrs. Stella Ducette and Mrs. Helen Hay general convener for the Garden Tea was Ivy Loveless with co-convener, Helen Hay.

Kitchen conveners were: Dorothy Jones and Margery Grey. The tea room conveners were Luella Brickman, Arpie Trendtle and Betty Brown.

The Business Girls, a branch of the chapter, donated the proceeds from their homemade crafts towards helping someone in the ministerial profession.

Ticket-conveners were Lesh Pitt and Wenda Clare while the baker table was operated by Myrtle Crotts and Helena Cook. Mona Ray and Jennie Taylor ran the candy booth. The white elephant table was conveyed by Ann Conwes and Rit Bonnetia. Gail Payette was in charge of the fish pond.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Mountford of Belleville are happy to announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Anne, to Gordon Barry McKenzie Mitton, son of Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie Mitton, Belleville. The marriage will take place in St. Margaret's on-the-Hill Anglican Church on June 10, at 3 o'clock.

Previous to their recent marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Burns (nee Cheryl Givins) were honored at a community shower held in the Parish Hall, Point Anne. A tea was given by the bridegroom's parents where the bride met his family and relatives. The rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

UCW MEETINGS

MOUNT PLEASANT - RAWDON U.C.W. -

The May meeting of the Mount Pleasant - Rawdon United Church Women convened in the church hall with 21 women in attendance.

Mrs. Robert Howrd read a poem, "Mother" which was followed by a hymn and a welcome to all. Mrs. Milton Shaw provided piano music and accompaniment to the hymns.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell was secretary for the following business portion. A report for the March meeting of group which catered for an auctign sale and for Africa Night was presented.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe gave the financial statement and Mrs. Elden Chapman read the correspondence which included an invitation to Bethel U.C.W. Fellowship Night.

Mrs. Clayton Thompson of Hoards, the newly elected president of the Bay of Quinte U.C.W. Conference will give a message at the church service on Sunday morning, June 4 at nine o'clock.

A parcel of yarn and a cash donation will be sent to Angola.

Mrs. Douglas Pyear read a message on stewardship.

Mrs. Herbert Smith gave an outline of the recent visit to Holloway St. United Church Belleville when Mrs. Patricia Clarke, associate editor of the "Observer" gave a special timely message.

Mrs. Albert Hobbis and Mrs. Donald Johnson arranged the program. They opened with a message and mode or and a hymn on home life. Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Will McAdam took part in the devotions. Mrs. James Howrd sang with Mrs. Garth Joslin as accompanist. A humorous selection was provided by Mrs. Howard Foshay and the conveners.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ralph Jeffs and Mrs. Frank Spencer.

B and P Club Officers Installed

The last regular meetig for the season of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club was held Monday evening at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

To conclude the year's activities the meeting was mainly devoted to business which included the installation of officers by past president Dorothy Ellis. Incoming president Marion McPaul conducted the meeting due to the absence of president Lois Brown who was ill.

During the business session Dorothy Brown explained a number of resolutions which are to be brought up at the Provincial Conference in Kenora this weekend and the Federal convention in Toronto in July. Colombe Both, the provincial delegate and Marion McPaul the Federal were given direction on the club's feelings towards the voting on these resolutions.

Various reports by members of the executive and committee chairmen were given along with a detailed financial statement distributed to the members.

At the impressive installation ceremony those installed for next year's executive are as follows: president, Marion McPaul; 1st vice - president, Colombe Both; 2nd vice-president, Ellen Butler; past president Lois Brown; treasurer, Doily Reed; recording secretary, Margret Dodge; corresponding secretary, Mabel Guilfoyle.

Committee chairmen are: federation promotion, Dorothy Kerkhoff; emblem, Verna Olmstead; program and projects, Charlotte Lockyer; publicity and public relations, Allison Stickle; personal development, Annetta Brown; ways and means, Bessie Anderson; business and finance, Elinor Robbin; Bulletin, Shirley Woodcox; resolutions, by-laws and regulations, Robin Jeffrey; sunshine, Dorothy Flack; telephone, Mildred Bennett and pianist, Phyllis McFaul.

The annual dinner and fun night is scheduled for the Four Seasons Hotel, Monday June 19.

The Experts Say

Addition of Soda Softens Hard Water

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Hard water was almost a forgotten problem until the campaign against phosphate pollution began a few years ago.

Phosphate detergents only need water to be wet. Soap, to be used effectively, needs water that is also soft.

George Freeman, president of Culligan of Canada, says magnesium and calcium salts are the culprits that cause water to be hard. They eat up soap, formed an insoluble compound, called soap curd that is really recognizable when it becomes a bathtub ring or tattle-tale grey in the laundry.

Hardness is measured by grains to the imperial gallon. Zero is the ideal.

Most homemakers have a choice of three ways to soften water. They can use precipitating or non-precipitating water-softening compounds or a water-softening installation.

Washing soda is the most commonly known precipitating softener. It becomes less effective as the degree of hardness of the water increases, Mr. Freeman says, because it renders water alkaline and the water can become cloudy and leave a cloudiness trapped in the fabrics.

Pollution Probe recommends washing clothes in nothing but washing soda and water if they were last washed in detergent. After that use ¼ to ½ cup washing soda in a normal wash, with about one cup of soap flakes. Experiment with quantity until you have about ½ inch of soap suds on the surface of the water.

You should add washing soda to the rinse water as well.

If you feel your whites are not white enough, add ¼ to ½ cup of liquid bleach to the wash, but you should not use it on nylon or synthetics.

A Pollution Probe release says: "When extra phosphorus is added to a lake, the overgrowth of algae and other weeds is produced, leading to a rapid deterioration of water quality and a loss of recreational value.

"Decaying algae use up dissolved oxygen, which is essential to the survival of fish and other organisms."

Ann Landers

Couple Commended for Endeavor

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed many letters on adoption in your column. I have read letters from adoptive parents, adopted children, natural mothers who gave up their babies and even unwed fathers. But you have never printed a letter from a white couple who has adopted a child from a minority race.

My husband and I plan to adopt a black-white child and we are running into considerable opposition. Both his parents and mine are against it. Many of our friends say we are crazy, that we are looking for trouble. Frankly, we have given up trying to explain. They refuse to listen.

Please tell me, Ann, are we foolish to want to give our love to an innocent child who starts out in life with two strikes against him? These little ones of mixed parentage are not wanted by most people. They are, in a very real sense, handicapped. We want the challenge. We feel we are equal to it. Will you give us a word of encouragement, please?—From Iowa.

Dear Iowa: You sound like a couple of beautiful, selfless, guilty people, with a great deal of love to give. The child who finds a home with you is fortunate. You two rate a 21-gun salute for your courage in my book.

Dear Ann Landers: Since evidence is mounting that nonsmokers are being physically harmed by the human chimneys around them, a nationwide organization called ASH (Action on Smoking and Health), which describes itself as the legal arm of the non-smoking community, has been established. This organization has succeeded in getting the commercial airlines to isolate, via special seating, those who wish to smoke.

They estimate that hundreds of thousands of Americans have died prematurely because of cigarettes. A friend told me to write to ASH to learn more about their program and what people can do to help.

Their address is 2000 H Street, Washington, D.C. 20006. I followed through and the literature I received was very informative. Do you know anything about ASH? A person can't be too careful these days.—C.T., in L.A.

Dear C. T.: ASH is an excellent organization. When I was invited to serve on the founding committee of ASH I investigated it thoroughly and accepted with pleasure. It gets a triple-A rating from here and I hope everyone who wants to know more about it will write.

Dear Ann Landers: I am very curious to know how you would have handled the following situation. I am a school teacher and need the thinking of an unbiased outsider.

Several weeks ago I took a toy musical instrument away from a 13-year-old boy who was playing it during class. I returned it to him at the end of the day and asked him not to bring it to school again. A few days later the instrument was back and he was playing it. I took it away again and told him this time he had lost it for good.

Today the boy's mother came to school and demanded that I return the toy because it belonged to another child. She informed me that if I refused I would be billed for 79 cents. I told her 79 cents was not a very big price to pay for a lesson in responsibility and that her son should be made to buy his friend a new toy. The mother was furious and the problem is still unresolved. What do you see here?—Alberta, California.

Dear Alberta: I see a boy who should buy his friend a new toy, out of his allowance. I also see a mother who will probably be defending her son against teachers for as long as he is in school. After that, she'll probably be taking his side against the police.

Counselling by Special Clinics

OTTAWA (CP) — Although medical science can precisely define the chances of any couple passing on abnormalities to an unborn baby, counselling about the risks should be done only at special clinics in major medical centres, says Dr. G. H. Valentine.

The London, Oct., children's specialist says in an article in the Canadian Medical Association Journal that such counseling requires "the greatest technical expertise applied by the most sophisticated methods."

"For this reason it seems that reproductive counselling clinics should be based only in major medical centres, perhaps only in university medical centres."

Reproductive counselling must be more than just the traditionally-recognized genetic counselling, he says. Genetic counselling can determine which abnormalities might be passed from one generation to another.

But factors other than purely genetic ones can result in abnormalities, ranging from poor nutrition to deformities caused by the mother contracting measles during her pregnancy, Dr. Valentine says all these must be assessed and evaluated with the individual couple, especially if they already have a deformed child.

He rules out counselling by mail—either between the couple and the clinic directly or through the family doctor.

Despite the fact that some prospective parents might have to travel long distances, "only personal interviews—with the experts—can achieve satisfactory counselling," he says.

"It is imperative that the problem be discussed at first hand, not only so the diagnosis can and counsellor may have the opportunity of asking the pertinent and relevant questions for himself, but so he can assess the personalities and attitudes of the prospective parents."

The couple must be helped so they reach their decision with full understanding, he says. It is essential they really understand what all the facts and figures mean.

He recommends a team approach, with a pediatrician, geneticist, obstetrician-gynecologist, psychiatrist and social worker all available to participate in counselling as necessary. All modern diagnostic facilities should be at hand as well.

"There is more to reproductive counselling than mere genetics and much more than a mail-order delivery of risk facts and figures," he says.

Most Women Pleased With Abortions

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Harvard University psychiatric team reports that 91 per cent of the women in a study group obtaining abortions were happy and pleased with the outcome of terminating their pregnancies.

The psychiatrists found that feelings of guilt and shame—long believed by mental healers to be the gravest danger for a woman obtaining an abortion—were minimal. Absent, too, six months afterward, were intense feelings of anger, depression or anxiety.

Only in those women who were forced into ending the pregnancy by parents or the child's father does there appear to be a risk of emotional scars, the doctors told a session of the American Psychiatric Association.

Although virtually all the 100 women studied showed high levels of anger, depression, anxiety, guilt and shame before the abortion, six months later such feelings were minimal.

"It gives a lot of support to the hypothesis that abortion is a successful resolution of the crisis of an unwanted pregnancy in terms of these emotional factors," said Dr. Edmund C. Payne.

Shoplifting for Research Brings Fine

HAMILTON (CP) — A 25-year-old Hamilton man has been convicted of shoplifting despite his explanation that the incident was staged in the name of research.

Allan Grunda, who said he holds an honors BA from the University of Western Ontario, told provincial court that his intention was to write an authentic first-hand account of his arrest for the student newspaper at the university.

He told Provincial Judge Ross Bennett that he wanted to know what happens from the time a person is arrested to the time he appears in court.

The judge didn't believe his story, and fined Grunda $100 Tuesday, or 10 days in jail. Grunda paid the fine.

Grunda was arrested last Jan. 20 after grocery store employees saw him stick $7.19 worth of shaving lotion and shampoo in the waistband of his pants and walk out of the store without paying.

Grunda told the court he had bought the items at another store in the same chain and had made it appear as if he was guilty of shoplifting.

Robbery Charged

BRANTFORD (CP) — Two men who escaped from Kingston penitentiary appeared in Brant County court Wednesday to face charges of robbing a nearby bank of $94,000 Feb. 15.

John Richard Nowak, 27, formerly of Windsor, pleaded not guilty to armed robbery and Melvin Woodard, 33, formerly of Dehli, Ont., pleaded guilty.

Laing Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker and senators George McIlraith and Paul Martin joined Liberal MPs from British Columbia Wednesday night in honoring Veterans Affairs Minister Arthur Laing.

Diplomat to Run

VICTORIA (CP) — Donald Munro, a longtime Canadian diplomat, Wednesday night won the Progressive Conservative nomination for the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich despite a last minute effort by some party members to have the nominating convention postponed for two months.

Lotteries OK

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan voters wiped out a 127-year-old constitutional ban on lotteries Tuesday, paving the way for the state to become the seventh in the United States to adopt this form of gambling. The lottery amendment was approved by a nearly 3-to-1 margin.

Oppose Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang and former prime minister John Diefenbaker, both representing Saskatchewan ridings, joined Wednesday in condemning a proposed provincial law that would bar foreigners and Canadians from other provinces from owning Saskatchewan farmland.

Burke Quits

TORONTO (CP) — F. Paul Fromo, 34-year-old founder of the right-wing Edmund Burke Society, which recently changed its name to Western Guard, said Wednesday he has resigned in protest over the group's stand.

He said the group refused to co-operate with organizations or individuals supporting some of the Western Guard's aims.

Duff Candidate

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP) — Dick Duff, who played left wing for Toronto Maple Leafs, New York Rangers, Montreal Canadiens and Buffalo Sabres until his retirement from the National Hockey League last season, was nominated Wednesday night as Liberal candidate in Timiskaming for the next federal general election.

Tobacco Sold

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The sale of $750,000 worth of tobacco to China by Canadian companies was announced Wednesday by Ted Rayivowsky, vice-chairman of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Growers Marketing Board.

Studs Asked

BARRIE (CP) — A coroner's jury investigating a traffic fatality recommended Wednesday that studded tires be made legal again.

The jury was investigating the death of Edward Clark, 18, of Innisfil, Ont. struck and killed Jan. 29 by a car driven by Harold Hotchings of Stroud, Ont.

Fugitive Caught

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Peter Rodney Carson, 20, who escaped Monday from Collins Bay Penitentiary, was arrested here Wednesday by provincial police. Carson was serving six years for robbery, assault causing bodily harm, and possession of an offensive weapon.

Enlarge Harbor

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for enlarging the entrance to Toronto harbor and for the construction of an aquatic park were announced Wednesday by Donald MacDonald, federal minister of mines, energy and resources.

Pension Boosts Being Rushed

OTTAWA (CP) — If the Senate co-operates as it has in the past, pensioners in Canada will get increased cheques in June.

The government says to hit June cheques the two pieces of legislation must get through Parliament by Friday.

The Commons gave third and final reading to veterans pensions increases Tuesday and sent them to the Senate for approval.

Wednesday it failed to get the old-age pension increase through third reading. But it made sure this would be done today with consequent forwarding to the Senate.

Paul Martin, Senate government leader, was having his troubles in the Upper House.

He tried to get a night sitting so the veterans bill could be considered and was blocked by Conservative Leader Jacques Flynn, who objected that the government was heeding Senate hours.

Senator Flynn said the bills can be dealt with in regular hours. Approval could come as late as next Tuesday, because nothing could be done about the cheques during the long Victoria Day weekend anyway.

But he gave no indication he would be any less co-operative than his opposition colleagues in the Commons in getting the measures through Parliament as rapidly as possible.

While Senator Martin was having his troubles in the Senate, Health Minister John Munro ran into a roadblock in the Commons on the old - age pension rush.

Conservatives and Social Crediters attempted to bring in amendments that would increase the basic $80 pension to anywhere from $90 to $250 a month.

All were ruled out of order because they touched on the government prerogative of dealing with financial matters but procedural debate on them took up most of Wednesday afternoon.

The government opposed them all, saying they were out of order and would cost millions.

The Commons sat until 6:30 p.m., 30 minutes past the regular adjournment hour, in an attempt to get third reading but there were too many speakers left for the Conservatives and Social Creditors refused to sit longer.

Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River), Conservative House Leader, said there was agreement that the House would debate the bill for one hour only today, then give third reading.

Mr. Baldwin and P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe North) attempted several amendments to increase the basic pension to about $90 a month from the $82.86 provided for under the government proposal that ties it to annual cost-of-living increases. They sought to keep the bill sent back to committee for consideration of cost-of-living increases as far back as 1967.

Social Credit sought a $20 basic pension, reduction of the age of eligibility to 60 from 65 and payment of pensions to spouses of pension recipients regardless of age.

Heritage Ontario Is Booked Solid

TORONTO (CP) — With two weeks still to go, Heritage Ontario, a three-day gathering of the province's ethnic elite, starting June 2, has been booked solid.

"We have 1,100 persons registered now," an official of the provincially sponsored congress said Wednesday. "We can't take any more."

With the addition of 200 press and government observers, participants will tax the facilities of the west-end Skyline Hotel where the congress will meet.

The $10 fee paid by registered delegates gives participants the right to take part in the deliberations and attend the banquet on opening night.

Applications are being accepted on the chance that some delegates may cancel.

The congress is an attempt to bring together people of different origins to discuss their role in what Premier William Davis describes as "our multicultural society." The government has budgeted $50,000 for the conference, first announced in last spring's speech from the throne.

Of all the ethnic groups invited to the congress, only the Folk Arts Association of Sault Ste. Marie declined for lack of funds. However, it will be represented by its president, Walter Lukenda, who will act as chairman of one of the 14 conference workshops.

His travelling and living expenses, as well as those of other workshop chairmen, plus five moderators and 100 official conference workers, will be paid by the government.

Other participants must pay their own expenses. Some of the umbrella groups, such as the Franco-Ontarian Community based in Toronto, have arranged to accommodate their ethnic representatives in local homes.

Invitations were sent out to about 30 umbrella organizations and 30 small independent groups to name delegates to the conference. They represent about 65 ethnic backgrounds.

Eleven workshops were held throughout the province prior to the conference to ensure that those unable to come to Toronto get a hearing. The final workshop will be held next Tuesday in Sarnia, which the city has declared "multi-culturalism day."

Do-it-yourself Store

Housed in a bare, unheated warehouse basement in downtown Toronto, the Karma Co-op opened in January with about 25 members. Now, 180 families take advantage of the food co-op's low prices by paying a $18 membership fee. The co-op is staffed by volunteers with a committee in charge of buying goods from wholesalers. Customer-members are encouraged to bring back boxes and bags to be used again. (CP Photo)

Oppose Trial

DETROIT (AP) — A last-minute appeal is being waged by more than half of Michigan's 700 Dominicans in a battle to bar a third trial for a 23-year-old man accused of murdering one of their sisters.

The nuns made public their appeal to save Donald Ray Smith from prosecution during a news conference Wednesday. Smith is slated for trial today.

The sisters stressed that their petitions represented the personal decisions of members of their order, not the formal position of the congregation.

Personality Tests Seen Invasion of Privacy

HAMILTON (CP) — A research project which involved personality testing of Grade 3 children in eight city schools has been stopped because it could be considered an invasion of the privacy of both the students involved and their parents.

Dr. Fraser Isbester, chairman of the board of education, said Wednesday that although testing in some subject areas is appropriate, "I am uneasy about the use of personality tests, particularly without the prior knowledge of the board or the parents of the children concerned."

Trustees had not been told of the decision to administer the tests.

The tests were designed to establish whether children adjust to school better in a traditional classroom situation or in the open-plan schools now coming into wider use.

One of the questions on the test was: "Does anyone in your family not like you?" Another asked: "Should you keep a promise you wish you hadn't made?"

Melrose

The Melrose UCW met for their regular meeting in the church basement on Thursday evening. This was a joint meeting of the afternoon and evening units with the pastor, Rev. William Hendry, the speaker.

Port Rule Taken Over By CLC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress is taking over authority from U.S. labor to charter union port councils at all major harbors across Canada.

Congress president Donald MacDonald said Wednesday the move will improve the position of Canadian unions now excluded from hearings before the maritime trades department of the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Port councils handle day-to-day problems in harbor operations, and are intended to resolve inter-union squabbles over jurisdiction.

The CLC decision was taken at a meeting at the congress convention this week and involved 26 unions, both national and international.

Representatives of the building trades unions are reported to have walked out of the meeting in protest.

CLC vice-president Jean Beaudry said later, however, that the building trades likely will reconsider their opinion.

"There is a sentiment in this country that Canadians should look after Canadian affairs," he said.

Auto Pact Violation Alleged

OTTAWA (CP) — Demands for radical action to safeguard the jobs of Canadian autoworkers were rejected as "impractical" at the national convention of the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday.

Dissident members of the United Auto Workers told the convention that U.S. economic strategies are costing and will cost the Canadian branch of the industry thousands of jobs.

But convention delegates sided with top union leaders against a resolution demanding increased protection for Canada in the U.S.-Canada auto pact and creation of a publicly-owned Canadian auto industry.

Dennis McDermott, Canadian vice-president of the UAW, agreed with the dissidents that "the Americans are playing around with the auto pact and we think they're in violation of GATT (General Agreement on Tariff and Trade)."

But, he said, the auto pact has been beneficial to Canada and preservation of safeguards in it is "a complex and sensitive problem."

"It's a political problem and we are working at harnessing public opinion to deal with it."

He ridiculed the notion of an all-Canadian car, proposed by the nationalist Waffle caucus of the New Democratic Party.

"It's pure over-simplification to say that that is what we should do.

"Maybe you could design and produce a car for $2,500 the way they say but the people who would build it would be making 36 cents an hour."

Self-rule Strongest Among Big

OTTAWA (CP) — The bigger the membership of international unions in Canada, the greater the degree of independence from U.S. headquarters, states a Canadian Labor Congress report on union autonomy.

The report states that international unions with large Canadian memberships "are more likely to provide by constitution or practice for the election of Canadian officers by Canadians, to provide for Canadian policy conferences and to authorize Canadian officials to speak for the union in Canada.

Some smaller internationals are exceptions to the rule and have developed highly-independent Canadian structures, the report adds in summarizing the responses from 86 to 88 unions questioned in a survey.

Other unions have such a small membership in Canada, "that it would be surprising if they could sustain an independent Canadian structure or the services of a paid staff."

The 66 unions responding to the Congress questionnaire include the nine largest international unions and represent 1.1 million workers, or 90 per cent of all those in internationals.

Notable exceptions include a number of building trades unions which remain closely tied to their U.S. parents.

The survey found that Canadian officers are elected by Canadian members in 36 of the 66 unions. In others Canadian officers are elected by international conventions.

In 56 out of 66 unions, Canadians officers and members determine policy dealing with Canadian affairs.

Studying Brain Disorders

A patient is prepared for screening in a new British equipment system called Computerized Transverse Axial Tomography. Developed by the Central Research Laboratories of EMI Ltd., in conjunction with the British Department of Health and Social Security, the system produces 100 times more information than conventional X-ray methods in the detection and diagnosis of brain disorders. It gives the diagnostician accurate information on the nature and location of diseased and damaged tissue yet eliminates the physical and psychological discomfort of some other techniques. ## Tulip Festival Lacks Tulips

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1972 Canadian Tulip Festival opened here Wednesday lacking only one thing—tulips.

There are some three million tulip bulbs planted in and around Ottawa, but spring was late and only a few have bloomed so far. The rest are expected to be in full flower within a few weeks.

The festival, which runs from May 17-31, got off to a good start despite the lack of blooms.

Theo Bot, Netherlands ambassador, presented a bouquet of tulips to an Air Canada stewardess for delivery to Queen Elizabeth in London.

Russians Voice Confidence Arms Get Through to Hanoi

PEKING (Reuter) — Red China voiced confidence in diplomatic circles in the Chinese capital today that sophisticated Soviet weaponry for North Vietnam is "getting through" despite the American mining of North Vietnamese ports.

Although Peking's outward response has been muted compared with its vociferous support in 1967 and 1968, North Vietnamese diplomats are letting it be known to other foreign envoys here that the Chinese are doing all they can in terms of concrete assistance.

Two rail lines running from China to North Vietnam and allied links along the common border of the two countries are likely to be utilized fully in the present difficulties facing shipping carrying supplies to Haiphong and other ports, envoys said.

At the same time, contacts are believed to be taking place both here and in Moscow between the Chinese and Russians on increased use of Chinese territory and rail facilities for the shipment of Soviet supplies.

Until the American blockade only about two train-loads of goods and equipment a week were believed to be crossing China to Hanoi from the Soviet Union.

The North Vietnamese are believed to have approached the two Communist giants urging them to let ideological differences within the Marxist camp take a back seat and respond to a new threat from "American imperialism."

The New York Times says in a story from Haiphong, Hanoi's main port, by its London based correspondent Anthony Lewis that North Vietnamese officials say they are clearing the mines from Haiphong harbor and ships are sailing in and out. It has been in North Vietnam for about a week.

The story says that independent sources in Haiphong tend to support the North Vietnamese claim. The Times reports that these sources said at least one ship—the East German freighter Frieden—entered the harbor this week.

U.S. Influence Said Paramount

OTTAWA (CP) — The future of the manufacturing industry will be largely determined by its ability to specialize and by U.S. government decisions, top government and business officials say.

The Conference Board in Canada, a business-financed economic analysis organization, has just released a transcript of plenary discussions by leading public servants and business men on problems and prospects of manufacturing.

The influence of U.S. policy was a recurring theme in the one-day discussion.

"In the next decade, at least, it will continue to be decisions taken in Washington that will determine access to foreign markets for Canadian manufactured goods," said Rodney Grey, assistant deputy minister of finance.

U.S. protectionist policy could prevent general trade liberalization and thus maintain or increase other countries' barriers to all foreign goods.

"It is not easy to see what leverage we will have in helping policy in Washington to develop in the right directions for us, or in preventing what seems to me to be a very dangerous trend—the trend towards rather arbitrary, sectarian political forces playing a larger role in the American commercial policy system."

David I. W. Brisbe, vice-president of Canadian Industries Ltd., said many are uneasy at U.S. protectionism and "a number of people also feel that Canada in recent years may not have been using all its negotiating strengths as a source of essential raw materials in gaining access for our manufactured products to U.S. markets."

Mr. Grey said Canada's bargaining power will increase in the next decade as the U.S. and other "mature industrial economies" need more resources.

J. Harvey Perry, executive director of the Canadian Bankers Association, said "it really is saddening, when one looks back, at the extent to which in our economic development we nearly always have been the victim of forces beyond our control. . . ."

Food Enquiry

OTTAWA (CP) — A New Democrat push to have profits and prices in the food business investigated was turned down by the government Wednesday.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) told the Commons cost of food between April, 1971 and April, 1972 rose twice as fast as other items in the consumer price index. She asked what measures the government planned to help low-income families in the face of rising food costs.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, acting prime minister in the temporary absence from the House of Prime Minister Trudeau, said the government has taken "many measures of particular interest to low-income families."

T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said Dominion Stores Ltd. recently reported a 309-per-cent increase in profits over its previous fiscal year. Would the government stage an investigation to find out whether this was "exorbitant profiteering"?

Mr. Sharp said if rising food prices are the result of lack of competition, the government could take action under combines law.

But unless there was some violation of law, the government had no control over company profits.

Electric Car

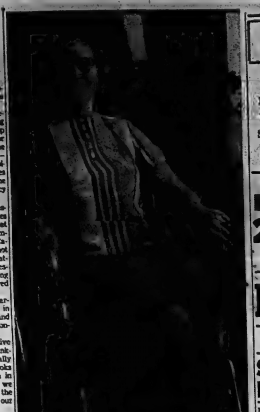
TORONTO (CP) — An electric car, designed to withstand impact with a brick wall, is having trouble with financial hurdles.



The car, which looks somewhat like a lunar rover, is expected to be the University of Toronto's entry in the urban vehicle design competition in Michigan Aug. 6.

It was designed by engineering students to minimize pollution, conserve fuel and provide collision protection.

The competition is open to all universities and colleges and some 90 entries are expected.

The estimated cost of building the prototype is about $20,000. The students have received $7,500 from the federal department of transport and material and supplies from a number of manufacturers but a recent application to the Opportunities for Youth grant program was turned down.

The students have received work on the project and are hoping to find more funds.

Accident Victim

Dorothy Monk, 23, is confined to a wheelchair in her Owen Sound, Ont., home, after being seriously injured in a car accident in February, 1965. In the accident which claimed the life of her sister Evelyn, Dorothy was thrown from a car crushed by a 16-ton tractor-trailer. She lay in a snowbank, half frozen and nearly dead, for almost half an hour before someone spotted her. (CP Photo)

Prescriptions Boost Racing

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

Anyone who likes to place the occasional wager and would not balk at lacing his favorite alcoholic libation with good's name will fit right in with some of the Quinte Exhibition Raceway's upcoming plans.

The Q.E.R., which everybody will always call the fair board, revealed some new twists in their operation at a general meeting Wednesday night.

A novelty for the annual exhibition, which will be open to the public from 2 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 9 to Sunday, Aug. 13, will be a goat show on the fair's final day, the first ever held in the Quinte district.

"Goat milk is becoming a very popular commodity these days," Raceway manager Ev Gowsell noted. "It's being recognized as having some medicinal properties, apparently, and is very much in demand." He added that goats are registered produce animals just as are cattle.

Some other beverages, also sometimes prescribed for medicinal purposes, were responsible for the board's harness racing program staying in the black last year, manager Gowsell revealed.

He estimated the "Flintstone Bar" — the concrete-floor makeshift lounge operated under the grandstand for racing patrons last season, cleared "about $3,000".

"That meant the difference between us staying alive and going under," the manager added, informing board members of some changes planned for the lounge for the 1973 racing season, which began a 39-week stint at the Fairgrounds Saturday night.

In addition to being brightened with some paint, the lounge will boast some varnished oak castle-styling as tables courtesy of Derby's, a Carrollton prescription - filling service.

Racing spectators picking up their medicine during the course of this year's nine-host cards will be able to hear the results of the track action outside thanks to the installation of a speaker.

Railbirds who were dark suits will be glad to hear that the board plans to abandon the practice of whitewashing the track fence in favor of more permanent paint. From a distance, it often appeared that a fresh snowfall had been imported for a special stake race.

Paying customers will be eligible for three $10 draws each racing night, and one blanket will be drawn each Saturday night for a different entry owner.

Bettors will benefit from the most up-to-date form sheets possible, with the hiring of a translator to accompany the travels the Canadian Trotting Association circuit. The QER program will now include Norse's last performance line.

If the bettors respond generously to the new amenities being provided by the Raceway, horsemen will stand to gain.

This year's purses will be based on 8 per cent of the previous week's pari-mutuel handle. That means the horsemen will receive about two-thirds of the Raceway's share of the betting take. Saturday night's first purse of the season will represent the $1,139 average that was paid over the course of last year's 17-week season.

Manager Gowsell noted that some 80 persons are employed each night, and that staff wages, the purse, equipment, rentals — (Betting computers run $50 nightly) — and other expenses put the cost of staging one Fairgrounds racing card around $4,400.

And it takes a lot of Flintstone Lounge prescriptions to put a dent in that figure.

"Don't use salesmen as bait, dear. I think it gives the boss a fishy taste."

Track Records Tumble

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

TRENTON — Black power figured to be out once again in evidence at the Bay of Quinte COSSA track and field championships held in Trenton Wednesday. It was.

Trenton High School's black-clad trackstars once again proved to be far and away the class of the boys' field, while the girls' entry from that school came up with a surprisingly strong showing.

The Trenton boys' team compiled 361½ points to win their 11th consecutive Bay of Quinte title, while their female counterparts placed second behind the defending champions from BCI.

A morning downpour slowed times in the early going, but thanks to sunny afternoon conditions and Trenton's new all-weather track a total of 28 high school records went by the boards.

"We were really pleased with the track," said winning coach Peter Howe of the rubberized asphalt surface used for the first time in Bay of Quinte competition. "Times were a little slow in the morning, but not that bad. On a cinder track we'd have been really slashing around on a day like this."

Howe's team more than doubled their winning total of last year in which eight outdistance the Centennial runners-up who totalled 218 points in the boys' division. The biggest collective surprise of the meet was Napanee and District Secondary School's third place finish in the boys' section.

Coach Wayne Bulak's charges gave their hosts showing ever with 192 points to outdistance fourth-place Quinte who had 127 points and BCI who wound up with 133½ points.

The BCI girls successfully defended their "AA" title by totalling 201 points, while Trenton girls managed 167½, despite having only 17 competitors. In the "A" division it was Bayside boys taking first place with 56½ points, while Picton Albert Edmunston girls' squad totalled a winning total of 70 points.

Distance runners dominated the individual champions in the boys' division, while sprinters held the spotlight. Championships in each section were determined by comparing the winning performances against the existing world records.

In the boys' events, BCI's Mike Crawford was the only competitor to break the long distance monopoly, winning the bantam 800-metres in 2:18.6 for the top showing in his age group.

Trenton's Mike Taylor got the nod in midget for a record - setting performance in the 1,500 metres when his time of 9:49.2 for the midget event would have placed him fifth in the senior section. Taylor also broke the midget record in winning the 1000 metres in 4:49.5.

The best individual junior showing was turned in by Bart Bourassa, who won the open 3,000 metres in 9:11.4. Bourassa outdistelled Quinte's Gerrard Farrell who took the senior honors with a 9:13.8 second - place showing in that event.

Versatility cost junior middle distance man David Thompson a chance for one of the individual champions. The Trenton middle distance man won three events, including a record - setting performance of 50.3 seconds in the 400 metres. "David probably would have been close to Barr for the individual award if he'd ran his normal time of around two minutes in the 800," noted Howe. "but we wanted to enter him in the 200-metres as well." Thompson responded by winning that event in 23.7 seconds but slipped to a 2:09 in the metric half-mile. At COSSA next week he'll concentrate on the 400 - 800 double.

Moira's Angie Simon highlighted an outstanding afternoon with a 1:02.6 effort in the midget girls' 400 metres to take the individual title. She added a record - setting mark of 27.5 in the 200 metres to her quarter - mile record and took the 100-metre dash for her third win of the meet.

Judy Howell of Centre Hastings took junior honors with record-setting discus toss of 69-yard dash. Her time of 8.0 broke the Bay of Quinte record as well as tying the existing COSSA mark. She added another win in the 100 metres."

Picton senior Nancy Holston made it a clean sweep for sprinters by taking age division honors with the 17.9 clocking in the 60-metres. Besides that record, she managed to win the senior 100-metres as well.

Trenton's Sylvana Scuccato was another senior standout setting records in both the 400 and 800 metres. Ellen Gollick of Centre Hastings added a record - setting discus toss of 39 feet, nine inches to her first place finish in the junior girls' shot putt.

David Giechiff of Trenton was the dominating force in the bantam boys' field with wins in the 100 and 200-metres as well as the long jump.

An expected upstarting duel in the senior section failed to develop when Centennial's Ralph Vanderveart was sidelined by illness. Trenton ace Duncan Armstrong coasted to the 100-metre title in 11.5 before adding the 200-metre title with a 23.2 clocking. Vanderveart had won both events in the Belleville Sectional last week, clocking 11.1 in the 100-metres.

Dennis Bowman was the individual senior standout winning the long jump, triple jump and 400-metre hardles.

Probably the most exhausting day of the entire meet was put in by Centennial's Jim Thompson, who ran about five miles in winning the 3,000-metre steeplechase and placing third in both the 1600 and 3,000 metre events.

Jumpin' Joe

Trenton's Joe Norman gets airborne in the junior long jump event of the Bay of Quinte COSSA track and field competition held in Trenton Wednesday. His 18-foot effort was good for third place in the event, helping his school compile over 500 points in the boys' section to successfully defend their Bay of Quinte title. The top four finishers in each event qualify for the COSSA championships to be held in Trenton next Thursday.

Boston Hockey Capital

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts House of Representatives has adopted a resolution proclaiming Boston as "the hockey capital of the world."

The legislators noted Tuesday that the Bruins won the Stanley Cup, the Braves won their division in their first season in the American Hockey League, and Boston University captured the U.S. college national championship.

Lolich Finally Becomes First Fiddle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The count is clear. All the roadblocks have been removed. Denny McLain is on his way to the minors. Vida Blue is still getting his arm out of hibernation. It's Mickey Lolich's turn.

Detroit's quality lefthander, who always seems to be overshadowed by somebody else, knows pa mountain when he sees one. And he isn't pausing up his chances in the American League's pitching spotlight.

Lolich won his sixth straight game Wednesday night and became the first seven-game winner in the majors with a 6-1 decision over Baltimore Orioles. He fired a four-hitter and struck out seven, increasing his American League lead in that department to 64.

Elsewhere Wednesday, Cleveland Indians edged New York Yankees 3-1, Milwaukee Brewers trimmed Boston Red Sox 4-3, Minnesota Twins took Chicago White Sox 4-3, Oakland Athletics blanked California Angels 4-0 and Texas Rangers outlasted Kansas City Royals 4-3 in 18 innings.

Catcher Tom Haller drove in four runs for the Tigers, three of them on an eighth inning homer. That was plenty for Lolich, who now has seven complete games.

McLain Going

OAKLAND (AP) — Pitcher Denny McLain will report to the Oakland Athletics' Birmingham minor league team "in a day or two," his lawyer said Wednesday. McLain, 28, who won 31 games four seasons ago, was optioned Monday to the Southern League team after compiling a 1-2 record and a 4.85 earned run average this year. There had been speculation he might refuse the demotion.

"He's the matter what I do," said Lolich, "people will remember what Vida Blue did last year. Can't you ever give me credit? What do I have to do?"

Lolich was always Detroit's No. 2 pitcher behind McLain and Earl Wilson with the Tigers. McLain won 31 games in 1968 for Mr. Lolich but it was the chubby lefty who was the World Series hero with three victories including the seventh game against Bob Gibson.

Lolich was the Cy Young Award that season and shared it with Baltimore's Mike Cuellar the next season when Lolich won 19 games.

After an off-season in 1970, Lolich bounced back with 25 victories, 276 innings pitched and 29 complete games—all tops in the majors last year. He was also runnerup in the Cy Young balloting, losing out to Blue.

Now McLain's gone and Blue still hasn't thrown a ball in anger, Lolich is 7-1 and wondering who'll come along to shove him into the shadows this time. The apolitpost batter get best fast. Mickey's building himself a healthy cushion.

Georgia Scott hammered a two-run homer and Jim Lonborg earned his first victory, helping Milwaukee beat the Boston Red Sox. Both came in the Brewers' four-run rally in the Red Sox in a 1971 trade.

Scott's homer gave the Brewers the lead for keeps in the bottom of the first inning. Firemate Ken Sanders bailed him out of a bases-loaded jam and preserved the victory.

Cleveland edged the Yankees when Tom McCraw opened the bottom of the ninth inning with a triple and then strolled home following three walks, the first two intentional.

Bobby Murcer homered for New York.

Danny Thompson ripped a bases-loaded triple and Harmon Killebrew lagged a two-run homer, moving Minnesota past Chicago.

The homer was the 518th of Killebrew's career, leaving him two short of Ted Williams' total. The Twins play Williams' Rangers in Texas this weekend.

The Athletics ended a six-game winning streak for the White Sox.

Ken Holtzman scattered eight hits and pitched Oakland past California. Holtzman also drove in two runs with a single. Joe Rudi homered for the Athletics.

It was the third straight loss for Rudy May, who has not had a run scored for him this season.

Pirates Start to Perk Up

"Things are starting to look better," Pittsburgh manager Bill Virdon understated.

They couldn't have looked much better for Steve Blass and the Pirates Wednesday night. They clubbed four St. Louis Cardinals pitchers for 15 hits en route to a 12-0 win that sent the reeling Cards down to their seventh straight defeat.

"If we hadn't been scoring so many runs, I'd have probably gone to the showers in the third inning," said Blass. The Pittsburgh right-hander went the distance for his fourth victory in five decisions despite allowing 11 hits.

In other National League action, New York blasted Montreal Expos 12-2, Chicago Cubs nipped Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, Cincinnati Reds edged San Francisco Giants 3-1, Houston Astros routed Atlanta Braves 9-8 and San Diego Padres blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0.

The Pirates, who stumbled through an April slump, losing eight of 13 games, have now righted themselves to their world championship form, winning eight of the last 10.

But Virdon warned that the Cards, last in the East with a 10-19 record, are not to be counted out. "We had a streak of our own where everything went wrong," the Pirate manager said. "Things turned around for us and I suspect that same thing will happen to St. Louis. They're too good a team."

Home runs by Vic Davalillo and Manny Sanguillen led Pittsburgh's highest scoring output of the season and Jacie Hernandez threw three runs and Roberto Clemente two in the barrage.

Rookie John Milner, filling in for injured left fielder Cleon Jones, bashed a two-run double and three-run homer to pace New York's 17-hit explosion that made matters easy for Gary Gentry, who allowed just four Montreal safeties.

The Giants lost their sixth in a row and Juan Marichal lost his seventh straight game thanks to Joe Morgan's two-run homer for the Reds. It was the Reds' seventh straight win.

Argos Use Precedent

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian Football League ruling last year which allowed Montreal Alouettes to sign a United States-born athlete as a non-import is being made use of this year by Toronto Argonauts.

The Als last year signed John Carlos, former United States Olympic track star, as a non-import pass-receiver, after proving that Carlos had no previous football experience in high school or college.

The Argos said Wednesday they have signed Bill Hernandez, 27, a lawyer from Lexington, Ky., who also has no previous football experience but does the 100-yard dash in 9.4 seconds.

Hernandez, six foot and 205 pounds, will try out as a defensive halfback. He had a brief tryout at the Cincinnati Bengals training camp in the National Football League last year, but that will not affect his non import status.

Carlos also had a tryout with Philadelphia Eagles in the NFL before signing with the Als who released him this year.

Claim Settled

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Sharon Hughes, wife of former Detroit Lions flanker Chuck Hughes, has been awarded $40,250 as settlement in her claim for workman's compensation after the death of her husband last Oct. 24.

Hughes died of a heart attack in Tiger Stadium during a game between the Lions and Chicago Bears. He had run a pass pattern when he collapsed on the field.

Standouts Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting—John Milner, Mets, drove home five runs with a double and a homer as New York routed Montreal Expos 12-2.

Pitching—Larry Dierker, Astros, fired a four-hit shutout, hurling Houston past Atlanta Braves 9-8.

Dainard Drafted By Peterborough

Two local minor hockey stars will have a chance to try to make the Peterborough OHA Junior A league next season.

Belleville defencemain Wally Dainard and Trenton centre Don Armstrong were chosen in the over-age midget draft Wednesday by the two clubs generally accepted to be the class of the Junior "A" loop.

Dainard, a rushing rearguard, was tapped on the 12th round by the Peterborough Petes, who captured the league championship this year before bowing out to the Cornwall Royals in the Memorial Cup final.

"Wally's a good rusher and he handles the puck really well. He was one of the guys we counted on," offered Belleville midget coach Rob Burrows. "He had always played well, but he learned to control his temper last year and it really helped to improve his play."

Armstrong, the scoring hub of Trenton's midget all-stars was the eighth-round choice of the pennant-standing Trenton to Marlboros. The Trenton High School athletic standout tallied over 100 points this season for the midgets. An excellent skater, Armstrong may decide to opt for education rather than Junior hockey.

A total of 128 over-age midgets were selected by the 10 Junior A teams along with 58 juvenile and junior-age players.

Hull Hurls Landslide Win

There was little consolation for the Consolidation entry in the Industrial softball league Wednesday as they were bowled 25-8 by the Independents. In other games played last night, RADIO stopped Brooke Bonde 10-7, while UIC ripped Canadian Tire 18-1.

Wally Hull batted the Independents to their win, helped by a six-run explosion in the second that boosted his team into an early 9-3 lead. Doug Skelly reached base four times for the winners.

ADCO slipped a three-run rally in the final frame to maintain their 16-7 win over Bell.

Pete Hamilton and Gary McBurney pitched UIC to their top-sided win, losing their shutout bid in the sixth frame. They gave up nine hits and one walk, while whiffing five batters. Paul Williams and Andy Prudden worked on the CTC mound, yielding 21 hits and five walks, while striking out two men.

Blaine Bird had a single, double and homer for the winners while Calvert connected for two singles and a double in a losing cause.

United Wins

Belleville United had on their scoring sheet Wednesday night as they recorded a 9-1 Bay of Quinte soccer win over Warkworth.

Chris Johnson paced the winners with four goals while Mario Colliogh and Stu Hadley had two each. Nino Del Grosso added the final goal for United who had fashioned an 8-0 lead before Rogers counted for Warkworth.

Esso Midgets Swamp Cadets

A and D Esso midgets swamped the Sea Cadets in Belleville Minor Soccer action last night. The Esso team got five goals from Roger Chapman to pace them to an 11-1 win over the Sea Cadets.

Jim Scott added three goals to the winning total with David Drake counting twice and Gord Wilcox adding a pair of goals.

In the other midget game contested last night it was the Audio Dealers edging Stu Lack by a 2-1 count. Rick Bartress and Steve Muldoon scored for the winners with Dave Dalan getting the single for Stu Lack marker.

Dairy Queen crushed bad an easy night as they trounced the 77's Men 8-1. Jeff Bandman led the attack with four goals

Lee Fogolin Jr. Pick of Litter

TORONTO (CP) — Lee Fogolin Jr., a six-foot-one, 198-pound right defenceman, was the first player drafted Wednesday in this year's Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A jockey draft of over-age midget hockey players. He will report to Hamilton Red Wings' camp this September.

The owners, general managers, coaches and scouts of the 10 OHA Junior A clubs drafted a total of 128 over-age midget players.

Mark Howe, son of former Detroit Red Wings star Gordie Howe and brother of Toronto Marlboro defenceman Marty, was the second player chosen—by London Knights. The Knights moved into the second draft position after Montreal Junior A franchise withdrew from competition for the 1972-73 season. The teams take in reverse order of the 1971-72 regular standings.

Sault Ste. Marie, which was granted an expansion franchise Tuesday at the Junior A council meeting of owners, was placed 10th in the draft order.

Greg Neeld, the controversial defenceman who played for the Marlboro farm club, Markham Waxers, the OHA Junior B champions, was picked third by Sudbury Wolves. Sudbury, which played in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league last season, purchased Ilap Emms of Niagara Falls franchise last month.

Emms recently closed a deal in which he purchased St. Catharines Black Hawks franchise.

Emms made a statement when selling the Niagara club that in return for Wilf Parliament, St. Catharines would relinquish its first-round midget draft choice to the Wolves.

Wolves chose Neeld, a player Marlies originally placed on their midget protection list. However, the owners had voted that he would be a free agent in the draft.

Fogolin, who played the 1971-72 season with Thunder Bay Vulcans, Tier Two Junior A team champions, is the son of former Detroit Red Wings, rearguard, Lee Sr.

Harry Neal, coach of Hamilton Red Wings, was emphatic in his assessment: "Fogolin is going to be a great one."

"I watched the finals of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs and I know what Detroit teams had good to them. Big, strong defencemen are the key to success. And that's what makes the difference."

Nick Durbano was positive in his reasoning for selecting Fogolin. "He is the best player in Ontario!"

Doug Pratt, London Knights general manager, indicated he would rather have Howe play for him than trade him to Toronto.

"London is a good place to play and his mother and father could travel to games in a short time," Pratt said.

But Mark's parents previously made it clear they wanted Mark to join his brother Marty with Toronto Marlboros next season. They suggested that if that was not possible, Mark would attend a U.S. university on a hockey scholarship.

Marlboros general manager Tommy Smythe said: "We've had no trouble discussing trades with London management in the past. They will want a good player in return, naturally, but we will be reasonable, not ridiculous in our discussions with the Knights."

Junior Schedule Same

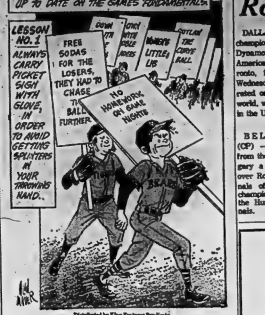
TORONTO (CP) — Owners of the Ontario Hockey Association 10 Junior A franchises ratified their schedule for the 1972-73 season Wednesday.



The teams will play a 51 game schedule, the same as last season.

Each club will meet the other nine seven times, with three games at home and three games away.

The seventh game will be played according to a draw for home ice and gate receipts will be split between the two teams.

When the teams travel north to play Sudbury, they will play Sault Ste. Marie on the same road trip.

Prentice Packing It In

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dean Prentice, a veteran of 20 years in the National Hockey League, announced his retirement Wednesday. Prentice, 39, played for New York, Boston, Detroit and Pittsburgh before joining Minnesota last season.

But Alex Delvecchio, elder statesman of Detroit Red Wings, has decided to try one more season—his 22nd in National Hockey League.

"I'm taking it one year at a time," the 40-year-old centre said. "I didn't consider retirement at the end of this past season, but I can't say that I won't a year from now."

Delvecchio's one-year pact with the Red Wings is reported to include a bonus.

McKenney Coach

CONCORD, N.H. (CP-AP) — Don McKenney, for 13 years a forward in the National Hockey League, has been signed as coach of Concord Eastern Olympics of the New England Hockey League. He retired from professional hockey two years ago to coach players at North-eastern University after suffering a leg injury while playing for Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Arbour Re-hired

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Al Arbour has signed a two-year contract to continue as coach of St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League, the team announced Wednesday. Arbour, 43, took over for the second time as Blues' coach last season when they were in sixth place in the NHL West and led them to the semi-finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Soccer Roundup

DALLAS (AP) — The Russian champion soccer team, Moscow Dynamo, will play in five North American cities, including Toronto, it was announced Wednesday. The Moscow club, rated one of the top 10 in the world, will play the other games in the United States.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (CP) — A goal two minutes from the end of play gave Hungary a 2-1 victory Wednesday over Romania in the quarter-finals of the European soccer championships and advanced the Hungarians to the semi-finals.

"The way she's always running after person, I thought maybe she'd like to have some of my old ones!"

Liquori Licked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marty Liquori's impatience for an injury to heal and his dedication to his Villanova team-mates have combined to knock the top United States miler out of the Olympics for 1972.

Tallon Joins Pros

The 21-year-old star with Vancouver Canucks shot a 76, four over par in a $2,000 pro-am event.

Tallon finished out of the money-list, was relatively satisfied with his effort. The big right-winger has played only four rounds of golf this year because of an injury suffered March 7 when St. Louis Blues defenceman Barclay Plager crashed him into the boards in a game at the Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver.

Tallon said he has not completely recovered from the injury, diagnosed as torn knee ligaments. He played his second Wednesday with the aid of an electric golf cart.

Taylor's Amendment Defeated

Ontario Civil Servants Hint at More Protests

TORONTO (CP) — Angry leaders of the Civil Service Association of Ontario hinted at further protest action today against a controversial government bill that prohibits their right to strike.

"The right to strike isn't illegal yet," said George Gemmell, president of the CSAO, as he stalked from a legislative committee meeting Wednesday where a clause-by-clause discussion of the bill had been taking place.

No Special Benefits

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Ingram, a former salesman with a Toronto office supply company, said Wednesday he did not feel he received any special benefits because of his friendship with an official of Ontario's department of public affairs.

Published public accounts show the department did 13 times as much business with Cambrian Stationers Ltd. of Scarborough as all other government departments combined from 1965 to 1971.

Mr. Ingram, who worked for Cambrian during those years and received the government orders, said in an interview he was "an old friend" of Stanley Irene, the municipal affairs department. He met Mr. Lyons more than 20 years ago when they both worked in the department.

The collective bargaining bill, which has already had two of the required three readings in the legislature, will affect about 23,000 Ontario government employees.

For the second straight day Wednesday, almost 200 CSAO members picketed in front of the legislature, carrying placards and a mock coffin and playing laments and dirges over a loudspeaker.

Optimism after the first day of hearings Tuesday turned to anger Wednesday as association leaders learned that the committee was making only minor adjustments in the bill's more odious clauses.

Specifically, they were furious when the committee did not make significant changes in a section which limits the areas of negotiation.

Association members say areas of negotiation should be unlimited.

An amendment supported by two Progressive Conservative members of the committee, James Taylor (Prince Edward-Lennox) and John Rhodes (Sault Ste. Marie), which would have widened the negotiating areas, was defeated by the other PC members although supported by New Democrats and Liberals.

After the hearing Harold Bowen, CSAO general manager, termed the bill "foolish legislation." He said some sections will probably have to be tested in the court and that the association will take any action necessary to fight them.

If the amendment supported by the two PC committee members had been accepted, he said, the association could probably have accepted compulsory arbitration and prohibition of the right to strike.

But W. A. B. Anderson, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said the government had gone "a good, long way" to give a wide range of leeway to the association.

Road Work Stopped

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Transportation and Communications Minister Gordon Carton has ordered all work on extension of Highway 406 to stop and will investigate why it had not been halted while public hearings were being held.

The work had been ordered halted when three hearings were scheduled after area residents objected to the proposed route of the highway.

At a hearing Tuesday night, a St. Catharines resident said provincial officials were continuing surveys and land purchase negotiations.

Lincoln MPP Robert Welch, provincial secretary for social development, said he discussed the issue with Mr. Carton Wednesday and the minister ordered all work halted.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, May 19

Aries (March 21-April 19): Concentrate on matters which only you can do; make a positive attempt to get through them. Allow others to manage their affairs.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Letting well enough alone is a fine art. This is more favored as a day for thought. Items like may encounter tension which needn't amount to much.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): An old puzzle is clarified and you wonder if you really need to be clear of the mystery. Try it—and be willing to create a little at a time.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Going no farther than the pressures of your work require, you can nonetheless get good progress out of today's activities.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Time for reflection and reevaluation; pull back far enough for a major change of direction, comfort up. Late hours are for fun.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Let today be unburdened. Find time to count your blessings. There are preparations to be made for the coming week.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Today is more rewarding if you don't try to make so much of it—event & developments. Treat them as phases of normal development process.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Temptations to launch sudden alterations should be resisted. Work out the implications; test for feasibility; then choose a later time.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Use your head more than your manual dexterity; think what might be done to prepare for tomorrow. Do what is necessary instead of seeking reinforcements.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Contemplation is your main path to growth and future happiness. Take care of routines, leaving others free to do likewise.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Closer co-operation is practical but you must let it develop spontaneously. Be a good listener; take what you hear seriously.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Do what you must to clear up the week; get rest and recreation as soon as you can. Give yourself a treat; see your favorite people.

Comfort Is Aim With Heel Spurs

By O. C. THOSTESON, MD

Lots of questions deal with heel spurs but they all boil down to the one question: How can I be more comfortable?

A "heel spur" is a small accumulation of calcium that usually wouldn't cause any trouble except for its location: It's on the bottom of the heel, and usually the result of an old injury or inflammation which left the calcium in the healing process.

Some of these "spurs" are no bigger than a grain of sand but they always feel bigger, the way a very small pebble in your shoe can be painful just because you have to walk on it. Your weight presses the flesh down around it.

Usually a padding in the heel of the shoe is very effective. It softens the surface of the shoe and shifts weight off the heel and slightly forward.

Sometimes an injection of hydrocortisone successfully relieves the trouble. Sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes ultrasound helps. Sometimes not.

If you can find a method that will keep the pressure off the core place, that's an answer. If you can't, skillful surgical removal of the spur may be necessary.

Frankly, I am in favor of whatever method happens to work for a person, and I do not care to insist arbitrarily that any particular way is "best." Heel padding is the simplest one that gets results and is to be preferred to surgery.

Here are letters from three readers who have found satisfactory relief where quite different solutions:

From Green Bay, Wis.: "I taped a small amount of raw sheep wool on my heels and in a couple of months the trouble which caused me much pain has even't had trouble since.—G.K."

From St. Louis: "There are two kinds of inserts. The leather ones, which cost over $30, I could not wear because of the bulk. I needed shoes open-toed. Then I went to a podiatrist and he gave me plastic heel cups which could be worn in my dress shoes. Now I do not need even them. They cost $39 a pair. —F. G.

From Detroit: "A podiatrist x-rayed both feet and showed me the spur that had grown straight down. He recommended surgery but pointed out a different approach as to how which might or might not do the trick.

"I went to my medical doctor who gave me a shot of cortisone and told me to keep off my feet on x-rays. It taught me a lesson: for foot troubles, go to a podiatrist.

"I had foot surgery which was satisfactory and I was never off my feet. I did experience discomfort for the first few weeks, like-twelling, but as with every operation the healing process must follow. My foot was not put in a cast nor was I laid up for weeks.—Mrs. K. C."

Far mild cases, sometimes a home-made pad of one sort or another, with a hole cut in the middle, is sufficient. But sometimes such simple things won't work and it is time to get skilled help.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Let's say you're in six spades and West leads his singleton heart. You win with the ace and cash the A K of trumps, hoping to find the suit divided 2 2, in which case you would concede a heart to East and easily capture the rest of the tricks. ♠

But with East showing out on the second trump lead, this method of play must be abandoned. for it is sure to lead to defeat.

One way of trying to salvage the contract would be to lead the queen of clubs in the hope that West, holding the king, would win the trick and in that way provide you with an entry to dummy to utilize the diamonds. However, when you consider that West might see through your scheme and ask the queen, you hesitantly abandon that line of play.

Another possibility is to lead a low club towards dummy, instead of the ace and king, would surely be successful if West cooperated by also playing low. But if he very smartly went up with the king and returned the suit, you would eventually find yourself going down two.

The only other possibility—and the play certain to do the job—is to lead the ace of trumps at trick four, forcing West to win with the ten.

This extraordinary move, where you deliberately lose a trump trick that you don't have to lose, has everything in the world to recommend it. It guarantees the slam beyond the shadow of a doubt, since if forces West to relinquish either a club — on which you would play dummy's ten — or a diamond. It is therefore undoubtedly the right play to make, despite its highly unusual character.

Tomorrow: Double - dummy problem.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold issues on the Toronto stock market turned fractionally lower while prices in other sectors of the market moved higher in active mid-morning trading.

The industrial index was up .56 to 201.59, base metals .51 to 97.13 and western oils .50 to 213.95. Golds dropped 1.74 to 81.94.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 868,000 shares, up from 798,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Trading resumed in the shares of Unas Investments after a brief delay at the opening. Slater, Walker Canada said it now owns about 68 per cent of the company and has proposed a merger.

Advances outnumbered declines by two to one, 176 to 85, with 170 issues unchanged.

Banking, chemical, communication, merchandising, steel and food processing issues scored moderate gains while industrial mining, trust and loan and oil refining stocks drifted lower.

Rank was up ¼ to $38¾, Moore ¼ to $44¼, Texas Gulf Inc. ¼ to $17⅞, Patino ¼ to $33, Labatt ½ to $26¾ and Falconbridge ¼ to $75⅛.

Teaco Industries gained ¼ to $19¾, Scottish and York ½ to $17, Pacific Western ½ to $21½, Bethlehem ¼ to $28 and Bank of Montreal ⅜ to $21⅝.

Fraser Companies lost 1½ to $33, Dynasty ¼ to $16⅝, Chieftain 10 cents to $9.30, Bell ¼ to $44⅝ and Campbell Red Lake ¾ to $36¾.

On Wednesday, golds climbed to their best level in almost two years as prices in most major sectors closed higher in active trading.

No Changes

OTTAWA (CP) — Changes in immigration law are unlikely at this session of Parliament, Allan MacEachen, government House leader, said Wednesday.

He was replying in the Commons to Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto-Greenwood) who asked when the government would bring in legislation to "remedy the horrendous mess in the field of immigration which has resulted from the government's inaction over the years."

Queen's Car Fails

AVIGNON, France (Reuter) — Queen Elizabeth arrived in this ancient town in a cloud of steam Wednesday after the open-topped limousine in which she was riding burst a water hose.

The car, which the French government had provided for her motorcade from nearby Arles, overheated and steam was pouring from under the hood as it pulled up in front of the old Papal Palace here.

"I didn't think it would make it," said the French chauffeur, who has often driven French President Georges Pompidou in the same car.

The chauffeur changed the faulty vehicle for an identical car brought along to meet just such a mishap.

MINERAL FOUND

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A rare mineral, pandait, containing eight per cent barium oxide, has been discovered within the crater of an ancient volcano on the western slope of the Ural Mountains. The mineral had previously been found only in Africa and South America. Barium and its compounds are used in the automotive and chemical industries, medicine and agriculture.

Drug Recommendations

Text of Le Dain Conclusions

OTTAWA (CP) — Text of conclusions and recommendations in the report on cannabis by the Le Dain inquiry into the non-medical use of drugs:

1. Although research has not clearly established that cannabis has sufficiently harmful effects to justify the present legislative policy towards it, there are serious grounds for social concern about its use, and this concern calls for a continuing policy to discourage its use by means which involve a more acceptable cost, than present policies, to the individual and to society.

2. The focus of our social concern should be the use of cannabis by adolescents, and the principal object of our social policy should be to restrict its availability to them as much as reasonably possible by the methods which appear to be most acceptable on a balance of benefits and costs.

3. The only policy which can impose a significant restriction on availability is a prohibition of distribution. Under a system of administrative regulation or licensing, availability would be virtually unrestricted.

A policy of making cannabis available to adults would have the effect of making it more available to minors. This is the lesson of our experience with alcohol. It would also make cannabis appear to be relatively harmless.

Further, there is no reason to believe that we could effectively control potency and encourage moderate use by a system of administrative regulation or licensing. People will consume the quantities they require to achieve the desired level of potency or they will seek other more potent forms, if necessary, in the illicit market.

Moreover, our present knowledge about cannabis would not permit a policy of legal availability that could be accompanied by suitable assurances as to what might constitute moderate and relatively harmless use.

4. The costs to the individual and society of maintaining a prohibition of distribution are severe but they are justified by the probable effect of such a prohibition on availability and perceived harm, in contrast to the likely effect on both of a policy of legal availability.

5. The costs of a policy of prohibition of distribution are only acceptable, however, if the possible penalties for illegal distribution are reasonable in relation to the relative seriousness of the offence.

Having regard to the potential for harm of cannabis in relation to other drugs, the extent to which young people are involved in its distribution, and the general level of penalties in other countries, the present penalty structure for the illegal distribution of cannabis is grossly excessive.

In some cases it does not leave the courts sufficient discretion and in others it leaves them too much.

6. We recommend the following changes in the law respecting the illegal distribution of cannabis:

(a) Importing and exporting should be included in the definition of trafficking (as they are under the Food and Drugs Act), and they should not be subject to a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment. It might be appropriate, however, to make them subject to somewhat higher maximum penalties than other forms of trafficking.

(b) There should be an option to proceed by indictment or summary conviction in the case of trafficking and possession for the purpose of trafficking.

(c) Upon indictment, the maximum penalty for trafficking or possession for the purpose of trafficking should be five years, and upon summary conviction, eighteen months. It should be possible in either case to impose fine in lieu of imprisonment.

(d) In cases of possession for the purpose of trafficking it should be sufficient, when possession has been proved, for the accused to raise a reasonable doubt as to his intention to traffic. He should not be required to make proof which carries on a preponderance of evidence or a balance of probabilities.

e. Trafficking should not include the giving, without exchange of value, by one user to another of a quantity of cannabis which could reasonably be consumed on a single occasion.

7. The costs to a significant number of individuals, the majority of whom are young people, and to society generally, of a policy of prohibition of simple possession are not justified by the potential for harm of cannabis and the additional influence which such a policy is likely to have on perception of harm, demand and availability.

We, therefore, recommend the repeal of the prohibition against the simple possession of cannabis.

8. The cultivation of cannabis should be subject to the same penalties as trafficking, but it should not be a punishable offence unless it is cultivation for the purpose of trafficking.

Upon proof of cultivation, the burden should be on the accused to establish that he was not cultivating for the purpose of trafficking, but it should be sufficient for him, as in the case of possession for the purpose of trafficking, to raise a reasonable doubt concerning the intent to traffic.

9. The police should have power to seize and confiscate cannabis and cannabis plants wherever they are found, unless the possession or cultivation has been expressly authorised for scientific or other purposes.

Heads Body

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Rick Prain, an instructor at the Ontario Police College in Aylmer, was elected president of the Ontario Traffic Conference at the close of the three-day conference Wednesday.

SEALED TENDERS, 8 copies, addressed to the Secretary, 620 University Ave., Toronto, 181, Ontario, and clearly marked:

"TENDER FOR FUEL OIL HANDLING AND STORAGE FACILITIES — MECHANICAL, ELECTRICAL AND INSTRUMENTATION WORK — LENNOX GENERATING STATION"

will be received up to 4:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time on for the furnishing of equipment, material, and labour required in facilities for the fuel oil handling and storage system. This work will include:

Mechanical Equipment
Installation
Piping
Insulation
Electrical Instrumentation
Painting

Work is scheduled to commence September 1, 1972 and be completed by December 31, 1973.

Tendering documents may be obtained, in person, on or after May 16, 1972, at the office of the Director of Supply, Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Room 1700, 620 University Avenue, Toronto 182, upon payment of $20.00 per set, which sum will be refunded on the return of each set in good condition within two months of the award of contract. Telephone inquiries regarding tendering documents should be addressed to the Director of Supply, 620 University Avenue, Toronto 182, (416) 598-4707. Inquiries required to be directed to Toronto 368-4707, local 31156. Tendering documents may be inspected at the offices of the Toronto Construction Association, the Kingston Builders Exchange and The Construction Record of Canada.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque or bank draft, or a tender bond that includes the tenderer and The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for a sum calculated as follows: on tenders over $100,000 but not over $500,000 10 per cent of the amount of the tender; over $500,000 but not over $1,000,000 the sum shall be 10 per cent of the first $500,000 plus 5 per cent of the balance of the amount of the tender by the terms of the contract appears in the tendering documents.

The successful tenderer may be required to furnish a performance bond, in the form approved by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, issued by a bonding Company licensed as such in the Province of Ontario and acceptable to the Commission, for 50 per cent of the amount of the tender.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

E. R. ELLSON,
Secretary.

Marijuana Worse Than Alcohol?

OTTAWA (CP) — Are marijuana and hashish more dangerous than alcohol?

That key question, says the Le Dain commission's report on cannabis, cannot definitely be answered with present data.

The report tabled Wednesday in the Commons says use of cannabis, from which marijuana and hashish originate can retard an adolescent's emotional maturity, impair the ability of automobile drivers, cause mental problems and lead to the use of other drugs.

The report describes these as the four main areas of social concern. But alcohol causes problems for society, too, and the report asserts, in a delicately-worded and heavily-qualified sentence:

"On the whole, the physical and mental effects of cannabis, at the levels of use presently attained in North America, would appear to be much less serious than those which may result from excessive use of alcohol."

That comparison is between present cannabis use and excessive use of alcohol.

No comparison is made between excessive use of the two substances, perhaps because of the difficulty in defining what is normal or excessive cannabis use.

Also, the commission warns that "conditions of relatively easy availability" will lead to an increase in "the levels of use presently attained in North America."

Whatever the comparison between alcohol and cannabis, the report leaves no doubt that the commission believes cannabis presents serious dangers.

"The regular use of cannabis by adolescents has, in all probability, a harmful effect on the maturing process," it says, identifying this effect as the major social concern.

"It seems completely unrealistic to assume that adolescents, beginning as early as the age of 12, can persistently resort to cannabis intoxication with its hallucinogenic effects without seriously interfering with the capacity to cope with reality that is an essential part of the process of maturation."

It says alcohol intoxication is different than cannabis intoxication. While alcohol intoxication blunts perception and lessens inhibitions, "a hallucinogenic experience may lead to an extreme intensification of the processes of perception as well as to qualitative distortion of space-time relationships."

"Such experiences are often also associated with striking changes in one's perception of his own body image and personal identity. This special nature of hallucinogenic experiences conceivably may have a lasting traumatic impact on the maturation of a 15- or 16-year-old who is probably not yet capable of assimilating this kind of experience without suffering harm."

New Board Room Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to extend the Great Lakes shipping season year round and improve various harbors and channels were made Wednesday before a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee.

Edward Goodsell, executive director of the Great Lakes Commission, urged that con-

$2,800,000 be appropriated for the year starting July 1, an increase of $ 1,673 million over President Nixon's budget re quest.

The funds include $2.5 million for a demonstration program and survey study of the feasibility of extending the shipping season through the winter months.

Another 200,000 was asked for work on the Great Lakes connecting channels. The administration has budgeted only $27,000.

Other projects include $100,000 for the Lake Erie-Lake Ontario Waterway and $50,000 for additional locks on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Representative John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.) said "the shilmale goal of this legislation is to lower the cost of ..US.-made goods abroad, relieve chronic unemployment in the region three to four months out of the year and to stem the export of jobs to cheaper markets overseas."

Tax Cuts Said Insufficient To Bring Auto Price Parity

SASKATOON (CP) — Canadian car prices won't drop to the levels of United States car prices in the foreseeable future, Bill Wilson, general sales manager for Ford of Canada, said Wednesday.

Mr. Wilson, commenting on a remark by Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin that Canadian car makers use new tax concessions to help lower the price of cars to a level comparable to those in the U.S., said "such an idea is unrealistic."

He said the new tax breaks to industry, announced in the May 8 federal budget, will help to ease price increases in many industries, but the deductions come nowhere near a level which could allow for price parity with the U.S.

Many other factors which increases costs in Canada must also be considered.

Volume of sales in the U.S. lessens the cost per unit, he said. Almost all costs of producing and selling cars in Canada are greater than those in the U.S. and these add to price differences.

He said the Canadian federal excise tax has risen to 12 per cent from 11 per cent in 1964 while the U.S. has eliminated its excise tax, which was 10 per cent in 1964.

WCB Officials Said Quitting

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says five senior officials of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board have resigned.

The newspaper says the legislature's standing committee on natural resources was told two weeks ago that the board's retirement policy allows board employees to use accumulated sick leave credits before retirement. But this policy may be changed as a result of the committee's investigation.

The committee was investigating, among other issues, the resignation of former vice-chairman John Cauley. Mr. Cauley said the government agreed to keep him on salary for 38 months providing he resign to end a long-standing dispute with board chairman Brice Legge.

The board and former Labor Minister Dalton Bales said Mr. Cauley was not kept on salary but was given accumulated sick leave credits instead.

Civil Service regulations restrict retiring government employees to six months in accumulated sick leave credits, no matter how much time they have built up.

The newspaper says that at least one of the five officials who recently resigned will go on official sick leave at full pay for two years before his retirement takes effect and he goes on pension.

William Kerr, assistant executive manager of the board refused to comment on the resignations because the board is still the subject of an investigation by the legislature.

New Inquest Ordered in Indian's Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the British Columbia Supreme Court Wednesday ordered a new inquest into the death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt, 35.

Chilliwack lawyer David Hinds, representing the attorney-general's department, which asked the court to order the inquest, said he expects the inquest to open in Kamloops July 4.

Mr. Justice Wilson's order quashes the previous inquest proceedings held in Williams Lake in January. The William Lake coroner's jury returned a verdict of unnatural but accidental death.

Quilt died in hospital there on Nov. 30 from an abdominal infection resulting from a rupture of the small intestine. His wife, Christine, had alleged that he was kicked and beaten by one of two RCMP officers who had pulled him from the family's pickup truck near Alexis Creek two days before his death.

Report Is on Sale For $3

OTTAWA (CP) — The 426-page report on cannabis—marijuana and hashish—published Wednesday is the cumbersome Le Dain inquiry into non-medical drug use is on sale for $3.

The soft-cover book can be had at information Canada book stores in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver or by mail from Information Canada's office here.

Private book stores also have stocked it.

This second main report—the first dealt with treatment of non-medical drug users—has a mainly-white cover with the word cannabis spelled out in green above the legal title of the inquiry. The color is appropriate to the origin of cannabis from the tall leafy green marijuana plant, known colloquially as grass and pot.

The report itself is 333 pages long but an extensive bibliography and references add nearly 100 more pages.

Grant on Way

OTTAWA (CP) — The secretary of state's department has no intention of holding back money from the Canadian Indian Centre in Toronto.

Ernest McEwen, chairman of the department's native citizens' development program, said Wednesday the reason why the centre did not receive its $15,000 interim grant was because "they just didn't do their homework."

Mr. McEwen said the centre failed to fill out a departmental form for renewal of the grant. But the program had been revised, he said, and the money was on its way to the centre.

No Changes

OTTAWA (CP) — Changes in immigration law are unlikely at this session of Parliament, Allan MacEachen, government House leader, said Wednesday.

He was replying in the Commons to Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto-Greenwood) who asked when the government would bring in legislation to "remedy the horrendous mess in the field of immigration which has resulted from the government's inaction over the years."

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — At the service at Westminster United Church on Sunday, the Rev. John Burton spoke on "A Stranger in Our Midst". Mrs. George Bilham conducted a solo. In honor of Mother's Day, flowers were placed in front of the altar in memory of Mrs. Denike and Mrs. Wellman.

Miss Wendy Jones of Toronto spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jones, sisters Kathy and Christine and brother Jimmie.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bush and Michael of Whitby spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bush.

Unit one meeting of Westminster UCW was held on Tuesday with Lorraine Smith, Laura Bush, Queena Leavens and Muriel Bilham attending from Bayside.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCracken of Montreal spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson.

Many friends/relatives/ Many from this district attended the Rev. Hunter's memorial service at the Memorial Arena on Monday evening.

Bayside Bible Study group met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Jack Gross with a good attendance of members. Mrs. George Bilham contributed a solo.

Doctors, Lawyers Criticized

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Doctors, lawyers, nurses and civil servants were in the news from provincial legislatures Wednesday:

—In Winnipeg, an NDP backbencher called doctors "a group that is becoming the greediest bunch of professional tycoons in Manitoba," and said they should be put on salaries ranging from $25,000 to $50,000 a year.

—Legislative Minister Jerome Choquette said the Quebec Bar Association has signed a $300,000 contract with an advertising agency to fight proposed legislation setting standards for various Quebec professions.

—Liberal members accused the New Brunswick Progressive Conservative government of giving the 10,000 residents of the Miramichi Valley a poor deal in nursing education.

Mr. Choquette made his statement during a health discussion with Francois Cappeau, spokesman for the Quebec Federation of Lawyers, while the legislature's justice committee studied a proposed legal aid system.

Opposition against the bill to govern professional bodies came earlier from doctors, lawyers, surveyors and dental technicians. Mr. Choquette said adoption of the bill has been postponed until the fall so committee hearings can continue.

At Winnipeg Cy Conick (NDP — Transcona) told the legislature the only way to control doctors' growing share of the tax dollar is to get rid of the fee-for-service form of payment.

Army Use In Riots Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Spokesmen for two separate organizations Wednesday attacked use of military forces to cope with civil disorders in Canada.

"In a democratic country, the armed forces have no role in stopping insurrections," said Dr. Norman Alcock of Oakville, director of the Canadian Peace Research Institute.

Dr. Ursula Franklin, a member of the national executive of the Voice of Women, said she had grave reservations about using the forces for domestic peacekeeping operations. They should rather then help the resolution of underlying social problems, she suggested.

The peace institute and the VOW were two of four groups represented before the Commons defence committee as it continued its study of last year's government whitepaper on defence.

The other two were the World Federalists of Canada, represented by national president Henry Wolks of Toronto, and the National and Provincial Parks Association, represented by president Gordon Nelson of London, Ont.

Bomb Threat Seems Hoax

NEW YORK (Reuter) — British bomb disposal experts flown to the luxury Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth 2 in the mid-Atlantic found nothing overnight in a stem-to-stern search for six bombs said to have been planted aboard.

Cunard Steam-Ship Line officials now are beginning to feel that an anonymous threat to blow up the pride of Britain's passenger fleet as it steamed toward Cherbourg, France, carrying 1,438 passengers and 830 to 900 crew, is a gigantic hoax.

But, to make doubly sure, the bomb search was being continued. The 65,000-ton liner docks at Cherbourg Saturday.

In New York, a ransom of $350,000 was kept ready in a bank, in case the mystery extortionist calls again.

The caller, in a five-minute conversation on Wednesday with an executive of Cunard, claimed he had two confederates aboard the liner—an ex-convict and a man with terminal cancer. They would detonate the bombs on his orders unless $350,000 was handed over, he warned.

Cunard officials at their London headquarters made arrangements with a New York bank to have the money ready in $10 and $20 bills. Then they tensely waited for a second call to tell it has been done.

The British defence ministry flew four bomb disposal experts from Britain to the liner as it steamed across the Atlantic at top speed—30 knots—on a voyage that began in New York Monday.

The men were parachuted into the rolling ocean near the ship, which had slowed down, and were picked aboard one of the liner's motorboats. They then transferred to the Queen.

Almost all of the passengers stood on deck and watched. Many took pictures. Nore gathered even though they had been told why the demolition experts were coming.

A New York Times correspondent aboard the liner said RAF planes circled for 25 minutes before the four demolition experts parachuted into the ocean. The men, dressed in rubber frogman suits, went below immediately after they came aboard.

W. Pringle, Belleville, On Liner

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A Belleviilian is among the passengers aboard Queen Elizabeth 2, as the luxury liner docked port after yesterday's bomb threat.

He is William Pringle, 30, 278 Dundas St. West, who is on a summer vacation voyage to Europe.

Mr. Pringle, a son of the late Robert Pringle, who was Belleville's city solicitor for many years, is a brother of Mrs. Sidney Murray, who recently opened law practice in Belleville as the area's only woman barrister.

Mrs. Murray said she last heard from her brother Monday night when he phoned from the pierside terminal at New York, while waiting to board the Queen Elizabeth.

Barricade Smashed At Derry

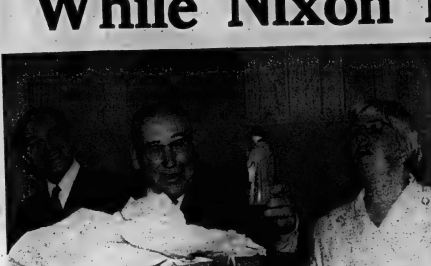
BELFAST (CP) — British troops swept up to a guerrilla stronghold in Londonderry early today and smashed down barricades aimed at extending the frontiers of the bastion.

The army reported "minimal opposition" from either guerrillas or any of the 35,000 Roman Catholics living in Free Derry."



The Irish Republican Army, during a day of fierce shootouts in Northern Ireland, thrust forward Thursday from its Bogside stronghold and erected street barricades within 20 yards of the city centre.

This extended Londonderry's "No-go" area—which troops and police don't enter and where the writ of British law does not run—by a quarter mile.

Eight 16-foot street joists were driven into the roadway across William Street, main entery to the stronghold. They were set in concrete while about 150 stone-throwing youths jeered soldiers firing back rubber anti-riot bullets.

A crane was commandeered to hoist the poles into position. A steel hawser was strung across the road and steel sheets swung into place.

Army bulldozers, however, tore through the crude barricade before dawn today.

Wife Certain Wallace Will Walk

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — In his wife's eyes, Gov. George Wallace is a scrapper who may walk again just because his doctors tell him there isn't much chance of it, but "who doesn't need a pair of legs to use his mind or speak out and say the things people want to hear."

The thing about George," said Cornelia Wallace, "is that he must have a challenge and what God has given him is the challenge of his life.

Already he has begun to meet it. Mrs. Wallace told The Associated Press in an interview. And if the final verdict from his doctors is a probable lifetime of paralysis, she said, "he will take that as a challenge to show them they're wrong."

Dr. James Galbraith, neurosurgeon on the medical team, said Wallace was "resting well and feeling a little better" Thursday.

Therapists are moving Wallace's crippled legs at regular intervals to flex the muscles, in the faint hope he will not be permanently paralyzed. Doctors say he has less than an even chance of regaining the use of his legs.

Jailed Unionists Request Release

QUEBEC (CP) — Resumption of bargaining for a Quebec public service contract moved another step closer Thursday when three jailed labor leaders requested temporary release from Orsainville prison.

A union spokesman said the pending the jailings and Wednesday it was up to the government to assure attendance of the leaders at negotiation sessions.

Earlier Thursday, thousands of workers heeded a common front call to return to their jobs after nine days of protest.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette and Solicitor-General Rejy Fournier confirmed late Thursday that the justice department had received requests from Marcel Pepin, Louis Laberge and Yvon Charbonneau for their temporary release.

Mr. Choquette said justice department officials will rule on the requests and decide conditions.

No action would be taken until today when he intended to present a complete picture of the situation in the Quebec national arrempily.

The requests also covered 33 lower-ranking union officials who entered prison Wednesday after receiving their bail releases, preferring to serve their jail terms in support of the three chieftains.

"Each request will be studied . . . and a report will be submitted within the shortest delay," Mr. Choquette said in a statement.

Fernand Daoust, secretary-general of the QFL, said Wednesday the liberation of the three leaders was a condition for the resumption of contract talks between the provincial government and unions representing 210,000 Quebec public service employees.

"O.K. I promise! If we're not enjoying ourselves, we'll leave early."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Most of Ontario will have sunny and warm weather for at least the next two days. In general daytime temperatures will range from 75 to 80 and minimums 45 to 50. Showers and thunderstorms are forecast for the country between Lake Superior and James Bay as a series of disturbances moves east across the extreme northern fringe of the province.

Doctors Urged to Form Unions

HAMILTON (CP) — Doctors should form unions and be prepared to strike to deal with governments, Dr. G. E. Mosher of Winnipeg, former president of the Manitoba Medical Association, said Thursday.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Medical Clinics, Dr. Mosher said only medical trade unions "with a hand-picked willingness to accept society to get their point of view heard, will roll back this obstruction in communication between our political masters and those of us who are called upon to provide health care.

Dr. Mosher also suggested patients be required to pay the first $100 of medical expenses to prevent overuse of health services.

Moscow Trip Begins Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — As administration sources reported a U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms-control accord virtually ready for announcement, President Nixon moved into a final round of conferences today prior to his departure Saturday for his Moscow summit talks.

A secret session with the Soviet ambassador to the United States preceded Nixon's planned meeting today with congressional leaders and with Vice-President Spiro Agnew, just back from a Far East tour that included a Vietnam visit.

Accompanied by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, Soviet Ambassador Anatoliy Dobrynin flew by helicopter in the wee hours Thursday to the secluded Camp David, Md., retreat where Nixon had been since Tuesday preparing for his talks beginning Monday with Soviet leaders.

Dobrynin and Nixon conferred for about an hour Thursday, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said.

Ziegler wouldn't divulge what was discussed, but the mountaintop conference was believed to have included movement toward an agreement to check the missile race.

Administration sources said they anticipate a strategic-arms-control accord will be ready for announcement during Nixon's eight-day Soviet visit.

The President flies Saturday to Salzburg, Austria, where he will rest until Monday when he travels on to Moscow. He has scheduled brief stops in Iran and Poland en route back to the United States.

Administration sources said agreement has been reached in principle on a first-step arms control pact. They added that U.S. and Soviet negotiators are working at an intensive pace in Helsinki with a goal-barring any last-minute snags—of completing drafts in time for the Monday summit. The proposed accord is said to be in two parts. One is a treaty which would limit U.S. and Soviet anti-ballistic missiles. The second is an interim agreement which would put ceilings on land- and submarine-launched missiles.

Besides arms limits, Nixon's talks in Moscow with Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and other Soviet leaders are likely to range over the countries of East-West conflict or tension in Vietnam, the Middle East and Europe.

Also high on the agenda are Soviet-American trade talks, including the Soviet Union's Second World War lend-lease debt to the United States.

Joint Space Trip Likely

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are ready to sign an agreement on a joint manned space flight during President Nixon's visit to Moscow next week, space agency sources say.

In addition, there are reports the Russians have solved the problem which killed three cosmonauts last year and are ready to launch their second Salyut space station, possibly while Nixon is in the Soviet Union.

The mission is expected to take place in June, 1975, with three American astronauts scheduled to fly a modified Apollo spacecraft to a linkup with a manned Salyut station in earth orbit.

For two days, the astronauts and three cosmonauts would remain in space together, working in both spacecraft.

News Briefs

Kontum Attacked

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam's central highlands attacked the outer defences of Kontum today, but anti-personnel mines and U.S. bombers and helicopter gunships drove them back in disarray, field reports said.

Frank Hall Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Hall, 78, once Canada's most powerful labor leader who fought the railways for better working conditions, died at his home here Thursday night. As chief negotiator for 18 unions of non-operating railway employees, he built them into a joint force and took on the railways in a bitter 11-day nationwide strike in 1950.

Stirling Suddenly Symbol of Stress on Stability

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

STIRLING — On Aug. 12, 1920, protected from sunshowers by an ancient maple, Arthur Meighen rose to acknowledge thronging cheers.

For more than a month he had been prime minister of Canada and during those summer weeks Canadians had expectantly awaited some indication on their new leader's policies.

The Stirling rally was an old-fashioned political picnic and the village (populace 840) was then an obscure point on the national map. But the prime minister's presence had drawn thousands, lured national reporters and a new branch of the media: silent-movie news cameramen.

It was Meighen's turn to speak — and speak he did, suddenly for the first time expounding his administrations intentions — a detailed outline that set journalists furiously writing and describing, the long 5 awaited news across the country under a Stirling dateline.

It was probably the last time this quietly prosperous Quinte community made national banner headlines of such proportion.

The old maple is gone — almost as forgotten as Meighen's policies.

But Stirling, now with 1,678 people, remains, no longer obscure. Not as unobtrusive as some might prefer. But, neither so dramatically changed as to stimulate recruitment in a centre where community stability seems to set the pace of life.

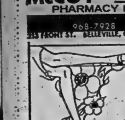
For this reason, watch Stirling.

Many already have, as is obvious from the bright new homes emerging among the stolid dwellings of earlier days.

Suddenly this village — which has never overtly courted growth — may be a symbol of an era which now often suspects steady expansion, particularly when it involves major industrial settlement.

For that reason it's inevitable that Quinte dwellers will be viewing the lifestyle of this village, nestling neatly between some of the best farmland in Hastings County and the Oak Hills recreation area.

Oddments, even teenagers, agree it is a good place to live.



And it's not for such amenities as having piped-in sparkling pure water; two doctors and a dentist, a creek to fish and the only Quinte centre without a single random dwelling. It's also the spirit of the place, fostered by an intimacy which is changing — but slowly. Change is seen here as a gradual process.

Reeve Robert Anderson puts it plainly: "I think we're small — and we should remain small. . .If we had a lot of growth, we'd have a lot of problems. And we can't stand those kind of problems today."

Donald Rodgers, reeve for six years, a former county warden and now president of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council adds: ". . . I don't think anyone would object too strenuously to a major industry. But I think they would prefer the industry was located somewhere else (within commuting distance) so that we could retain the amenities we have."

Fundamentally, what both men mean is this: Stirling, old enough to have strong local traditions — its history dates to 1878 as one of the earlier interior settlements of Upper Canada — has evolved slowly but steadily. Drawing much of its solidity from surrounding rural townships, both as a service centre and retirement colony for farmers, it has greatly prospered. Some manufacturing it now has, but industry has not become dominant. Now with the costs of modern services — sewage, water, road systems — a centre this size could not comfortably digest major industry without considerable change.

But general social change enters the picture. Modern Stirling is a crossroads for Highways 14 and 2, within easy driving distance of major work centres in the Trenton-Belleville zone.

Thus, it emerges as a mecca for commuters in an area where the daily work journey still is free of the exhausting bumper-to-bumper grind.

Stirling's location is one of its assets as far as Hugh Iles is concerned.

Mr. Heslip, a one-time production manager at Belleville's Dekoro Stellite, was a welcomed here earlier this year when he decided to launch the village's second only manufacturing enterprise in years — Centenary Manufacturing Co., Ltd., a small, light industry making fiberglass automobile components and boats.

A tireless worker, Mr. Heslip is investing his aggressiveness hopefully building up his enterprise as a going concern.

It's also the sort of enterprise the village can handle, indicates Reeve Anderson.

Local merchants would like a greater industrial assessment since it enhances business, he believes.

"I agree with this because you have to have a good shopping centre — and we have one. If you lose your business section, you won't get a town."

But major industry appears an unlikely prospect.

The stumbling block: Sewage installations, the costs of which would strain public resources even in a community which, former reeve Rodgers says has the lowest per capita debt of any municipality in the area, with many of its service installations paid for or close to it.

But there is reason for careful husbanding of the community budget, Reeve Anderson indicates. The percentage of retired residents in the community . . .

The village's official plan, now ready for council's approval, quotes 1961 figures that show the percentage of residents 65 and over "considerably higher" than the averages for Hastings County and Ontario.

Assistant village clerk and treasurer and part-time newspaper owner Robert Hubli believes such percentage patterns are changing.

But, notes Reeve Anderson, a "lot of our residents are living on fixed incomes. These people can't afford steady tax increases year after year."

Despite a 2.4-mill increase in school rates this year, village councillors managed to meet the deficit without adding to the tax rate.

Thus, he foresees a pattern of gradual growth, mostly residential, with the big industrial spread confined further south in the Thurlow-Sidney townships to Belleville-Trenton frontage area near the Bay of Quinte.

Reeve Anderson says he's not "jealous" of such a prospect.

"If some small secondary industry comes along we'd be glad to have it — but handle it . . .without causing problems."

Similarly Stirling's pattern of "fairly steady growth" has raised the need for expanding its lagoon-type sewage disposal system — which will cost about $150,000, he estimates.

Again, there's a problem with residential growth: Once all the serviced land is developed it can become expensive. Like the reeve, Mr. Rodgers leans to the theory that future growth will be mainly residential. But even that can become costly. "If it's moderate, it's fine," he adds.

Does such caution and careful budgetary shepherding reflect communal frugality, or just plain sense and economy?

Community facilities are good, pointer, and Reeve Anderson points them out.

Among them: a recently renovated arena, a lighted ball field, Belleville-like concrete tennis, lawn bowling and "one of the best equipped libraries in Hastings County".

As a bonus, on the nearby flanks of the Oak Hills there is a golf course, ski slopes, a flying club, Skirlaw and the 4-year-old Trent Valley Jamboree makes it a bi-monthly fiesta for hundreds of country music fans.

But a community life style calls for participation from its citizens. Residents here are readily respond to projects which complement local government efforts, visited the Lyons and Rotarian Ed Klompmakers.

As the village's only service club the Rotary itself serves as a good example of citizens at work. It sponsors summer swimming classes for youngsters; it holds an annual street fair; it works with crippled children, presents minor hockey, donated bleechers in the town's ballpark.

Members of the town's Canadian Legion branch, its volunteer fire department, United Church groups from here and neighboring Rawdon township take turns running the arena's canteen — "and it's booming at a profit," says Mr. Klompmaker.

Different folk articulate it differently but a consensus seems to indicate a community spirit does exist here.

Retiring village clerk W. L. Pollock, who first came to live here from his Rawdon farm in 1953 forthrightly calls it "a darned nice place to live. Nice friendly folks."

Then there's H. C. Martin, dignified dean of local businessmen who's been operating an insurance agency since 1908 — the longest - established agency in the county — which he inherited from his father.

Stirling to him is "closely-knit with no 'too factions', ideal for living, a centre that is "being improved all along," run by successive councils that have been "very fair."

The area attitude which focusses in Stirling is also noted by another industrialist — Ken McCaughan, secretary-treasurer of the village's only other — and biggest — manufacturer, which arrived here in 1950 and currently employs about 200.

Recently, Elaine Footwear in common with much of the shoe industry, was hard-hit by low-priced imports — at the same time the workers unionized into the Boot and Shoe Workers Union were negotiating pay raises. In an uncommon gesture, both labor officials and management twice deferred seeking pay increases.

"This possibly would not have happened in a larger centre," where the situation might have provided a strike, he agreed.

Personnel, incidentally, he reports has stepped up at the plant in recent weeks.)

"It's because it particularly in the last three or four years. You used to know everybody but now over half of the people you don't know and most of the older citizens remark about this . . .

Yet Stirling will contine to be "a good place to live".

Mr. McCaughan, beginning to realize that industrial and residential development are not entirely compatible. And if you can get the advantages of both — it made it a little better place for living," says Mr. Rodgers.

Reeve Anderson will confident of his community's future economy, based on gradual planned growth.

Yet, somehow, whatever the pattern of change and how it affects the spirit of this industrious community, it's hard to believe something unique in local flavor will disappear.

Mr. Heslip may well symbolize that as he briefly pauses during the steady chore of trying to build an inspiration into a thriving enterprise. Beside his busy workshop on the village's southern limits, is flanked by Stirling Creek.

"The only place," grins Mr. Heslip. "The only place I know in the world where you can walk out the back of your plant and fish trout."

Water Safety Season Starts

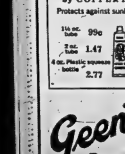
Traditionally, the Victoria Day weekend is the beginning of the summer water sports season — and it is also the beginning of the season for many tragic water accidents and drownings.

For this reason the Red Cross Water Safety Service urges residents to play it safe now and throughout the summer.



The Safety service urges that water craft be in good running condition.

"Give your boat a thorough spring check-up. Take the water rust off all equipment, inspect docking facilities and the condition of your governmental approved lifejackets, and make certain that everyone, including children, knows how fi ua them."

She Blew It

At Belleville detachme.nt OPP Open House Thursday, Breather Project Service School student Barbara Wickens, 11, of Glen Miller, faced patrolman Gail arrest by Constable R. G. Burkholder, when she blew more than .08 on the breathalizer machine. How ever, the officer had expected the meter a little, and the "suspect" was not detained. Several hundred youngsters visited the detachment and Front Street station to be fingerprinted, and given tours through boating, identification, breathalyzer, motorcycle, snowmobile, radar, safety displays and the radio headquarters.

New Tax Laws Need Expert Interpretation

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Ontario may be the place to stand, but Alberta will soon become the place to lie down in, a succession tax expert said Wednesday.

Larry A. Eddy, a chartered accountant and member of the national tax department of Thorne, Green, Bellwood and Christenson of Toronto, Wednesday intimated that Alberta, with no death duties, could become the tax haven of Canadians.

He spoke to about 100 insurance agents, chartered accountants and their guests at a dinner at the Four Seasons Hotel sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Life Underwriters Association.

Eddie planning was his theme, and Mr. Eddy led his listeners through the complicated maze of only a portion of Ontario and Canadian succession duties and capital gains tax laws introduced since Jan. 1.

All Canadian provinces except Alberta have death taxes to be said. But for every one rushes off to Alberta, he warned later, there are complications such as residency requirements to be satisfied.

Mr. Eddy was mum on specific tax dodges.

"That would be giving free advice, and that's against my principles" he said.

But later he qualified his remarks, saying that the circumstances read his speeches to discover what loopholes to plug.

"And when I tell a questioner that a certain course of action is generally good, he may go out and apply the advice to his own exemption," Mr. Eddy commented.

He promised to give tax reforms "an accountants' relief act."

"I salute our new union negotiator, who has seen to it we are going to have a job and retirement income for many years to come," he said.

The Ontario government has promised to gradually reduce its succession taxes as the federal capital gains tax increases, but Mr. Eddy expressed his skepticism about this policy.

"I find it hard to swallow that Ontario will eliminate the succession duty act and at the same time set up an expensive committee to advise government on it."

He did offer a few areas of investigation for estate planners.

One led his listeners back to Alberta.

"Some are now using a double set of companies," he said, "instead of leaving your company to your children, leave it to another company, which your children just happen to own, and which happens to be in Alberta."

But if the prairies and foothills don't turn you on, there is another possibility, Mr. Eddy's company is now doing a study of the United States as a tax haven for Canadians. His brief outline of some of the laws of both lands that make this a possibility left his listeners', imaginations boggled.

Mr. Eddy's explanation of the Ontario gift tax laws captured his listeners' attention.

A person can give away $1,000 a year to each of five people, and the gifts will be tax exempt, provided the aggregate of the gifts does not exceed $10,000 and they are given away within a period of five years before his death.

"This is one of the most effective ways of reducing an estate," said Mr. Eddy.

As an example, he cited the hypothetical case of a man who wants to give his $20,000 house to his son.

"Sell your house to your son and daughter-in-law jointly for a non-interest bearing note of $15,000 from each," he advised.

Then forgive the loans at the rate of $2,000 a year each. If the loan is forgiven five years before your death there is no succession tax."

Mr. Eddy cautioned insurance men and accountants against setting up permanent, inflexible estate plans for their clients. Tax laws change so frequently, he said, that estates should be reviewed often.

"A wise client should have his position reviewed every three to five years."

New Board Room Unveiled

Separate school trustees Tuesday night held their first board meeting in their new home — a basement board room incorporated in the addition built this winter at the rear of their 158 George St. headquarters.

The new room replaces the old one, a former recreation room by the original house, whose capacity was restricted by the fire marshal to 20 people.

The new 35-by-20-foot room is approved for unlimited capacity, and is 200 square feet larger than the former room.

The addition contains 10 new offices, storerooms, a library, a committee room and a room for business machines.

The consultants for music, special education and catechetics will move into the new offices within a week or two.

The extra space was built at a cost to the board of $18,000 from surplus capital money — funds recovered from last year's sales tax rebates.

The federal government's winter works program paid for labor. The board received $84,000 in grants this winter, and undertook 20 projects, including replacing lighting in some schools, installing fire alarms, painting most schools in its system, and building the addition to the board office.

The board employed more than 50 people on its projects during the winter.

The board office addition consists of a basement and two upper storeys, and was constructed to take a third floor if necessary at a later date.

Walls are panelled in dark wood, and gold carpeting has been laid throughout. The winter works money extended to cover cost of hiring a seamstress to make gold-colored draperies for all windows, and to redecorating the rooms in the original house.

The former board office will be converted for use as a staff lounge.

Masons Visit Temple Lodge

Temple Lodge 668, AF and AM, was host last weekend to a reunion of the eight Temple Lodges in Ontario.

Henry G. Birkenshaw, Master of Temple Lodge here, welcomed members of surrounding lodges from St. Catharines, Hamilton, Toronto, London, Oshawa, Ottawa and Kitchener.

Registration took place Saturday morning, followed by luncheon catered to by members of Minerva Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Harold Mott and Charles Sloan gave talks on Masonic education during the afternoon while their wives were conducted on a tour of CFB Trenton with lodge members as guides.

A reception and banquet in the Holland room of the Legion Hall was held in the evening, with Mayor J. Russell Scott, a charter member of Temple Lodge, and head to welcome more than 200 visiting Masons and their wives.

A breakfast meeting at the Four Seasons Hotel Sunday climaxed the fraternal weekend.

City Host For Youth Conference

More than 1,000 youth from across Ontario will converge in Belleville this weekend to participate in the Sound of Youth Quinte regional conference sponsored by the United Pentecostal Church International.

The convention will get under way Friday evening, May 19, at the United Pentecostal Church, 54 North Front St., with a songfest and on Saturday at 2 p.m. moves to Belleville Collegiate Auditorium with the concluding service Monday evening at 7.

Main features of the conference include open air rallies at Zwick's Island and on the Market Square, a youth banquet and Bible quiz tournament.

Principal speaker for the conference will be Rev. Steve Barley, youthful revivalist and missionary from Venezuela, South America.

The general public is invited to attend all services.

St. Lawrence Community

Brockville is a community we know rather well and its main street on a Saturday in May has a relaxed atmosphere compounded of weekend shoppers, early summer vacationers and relatively clean air wafting up from the nearby St. Lawrence. Belleville might be seen in relation to Brockville as Toronto is to Vancouver.

At the marina beside the dairy bar the status of the water is somewhat more malignant, but a teenager and his girl are getting their canoe under way there and even a couple of ducks seem able to survive.

King Street, meanwhile, looks tidy — and complete, which is more than we can say for our own Front Street after successive fires in recent years. A number of new businesses have sprung up to join those that have been there for many years and Canadian Tire has moved to new premises next door to the arena.

Blockhouse Island has that air of a place where folks can really unwind. Like Zwicky's Island, the "island" is a mainland: a causeway links Blockhouse with Water Street beside the old railway tunnel to Westport and you can make the slow circuit of the island as many do, or park and sit on a seat or on the grass or watch the yachts and power boats. When we were there, a single sculler was easing out into the channel from the rowing club and a family moved along the water's edge seeking fresh fishing spots.

Smoke rose from a waterfront plant 11 miles or so away at The Burg (Ogdensburg, N.Y.) as a ship was manoeuvred up there. Over in sleepy Morristown, a siren wailed, presumably in practice. If it had signified anything else nobody on the Canadian side was paying any attention. For was it that the Russians were indeed coming? For, as it turned out (and we think the siren came later anyway) the big freighter now entertaining was a Soviet vessel. There was the strange lettering on the bow and in English on the bridge from which the captain, presumably, was taking in the shoreline scene with his binoculars. If they were powerful enough, and the English good enough, he could have read the historical plaques that tell of forays across the ice between American and Canadian forces when times less friendly than these parts. A hammer and sickle further identified the ship's origin and there were a dozen or so men and women passengers enjoying the scene from the top deck. Nobody seemed to recognize the interesting visitor (home port Murmansk): not the carload of people from New York state, not the two well-dressed couples — the girls in summer dress — not the small boy with their fishing rods ("Russian," one exclaimed when we told them), but there it was, the first we had seen from that part of the world.

Out of the Past

Man's inhumanity to man, in war or in more subtle everyday ways, takes many forms. In the first world war there was, among other niceties, gas. It has never been used since but we all recall the gas mask drills of the last war — and now and again one hears that first we veterans are troubled by the lingering effects even today. Such a man is veteran British comedian Bobby Howes who to the younger generation over there would be just a name but to their parents was one of the great comics of his day. His daughter, Sally Ann Howes, herself a well-known actress and at 42 a very attractive woman, is a frequent visitor to What's My Line on CBS. Mystery guest Billy de Wolfe, who is Welsh - born, mentioned that he knew her father and she was asked if he were still performing. Miss Howes replied that he was not and added that the effects of being gassed in the 1914-18 war had caught up with him. As if this were not enough, he has now had another constantly, despite his family's efforts to get him to stop. Bobby Howes . . . yes, there is a name that will mean nostalgia for many an exile from Britain.

Want to Quit

Grove Secondary School in Peterborough used a dummy in a recent anti-smoking experiment. "The dummy can't quit," observed the picture caption as Karen Darling and Carol Riches observed the effects of smoke pumped through the glass lungs of a plastic boy. The fibre - filled lungs showed the tars from cigarette smoke and damage to lung tissue. As Marshall McLuhan would say, the medium is the message.

'Union with Greece' Call Revived

Makarios Under Pressure From Fellow Bishops

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Where are the Greek Orthodox and ecclesiastic leaders who founded many of the world's new postwar nations? Many of the most famous have gone. Dead are Jinnah of Pakistan, Nehru of India, Nasser of Egypt, Sukarno of Indonesia and only last month Nkrumah of Ghana.

A few are old and retired. Israel's Ben Gurion is a very old man living a secluded, private life. Only Cuba's Castro is going just as strong as he did before winning the Cuban Revolution in 1959.

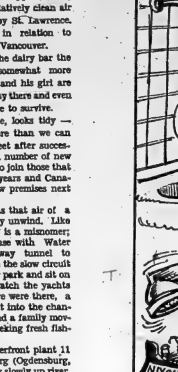
One other, Archbishop Makarios, President of, Cyprus, survives, but now is under attack from a curious quarter, his fellow Greek bishops. The three bishops of the Cypriote Orthodox Church, technically under the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of Makarios who is their archbishop, want him to resign to make way for Cyprus to join Greece.

Makarios is opposed to "enosis" or union with Greece. In fact, the three bishops have been after Makarios since 1960 to step down from politics and restrict himself to religious duties. More important, the three bishops believe Internal in a larger "Hellenic union" which means Cyprus united with Greece.

In this, they are apparently supported by the fabled guerrilla leader, Gen. George Grivas, ardent believer in "enosis" with Greece. He returned to Cyprus last summer after a long exile, apparently to live in retirement.

Usually, co-leaders of, underdeveloped countries are overthrown by military coups, or in a very few places, by elections. Bishops as "revolutionaries," especially there from the ultra-conservative Cypriote Orthodox Church, add new excitement to the career of Makarios which has been exotic in its own right.

Makarios, as much as Nkrumah in Ghana or Sukarno in Indonesia, was the chief architect of his country's independence. He pursued it, with a rigor unequaled and out-of-place for a churchman. Often he would say mass in a Cypriote Greek community after first surrounding the church with armed troops for security.



That security was against members of the Turkish population of Cyprus. Moslems and naturally oriented toward Turkey, they make up about 18 per cent of the 650,000 population and are irrevocably opposed to a Greek union. Their actions in the new Republic of Cyprus led in the past to the mobilization of Turkish troops to protest them and the continued need for a United Nations peacekeeping force in the island.

Most Canadians know our forces have been a major element in Cyprus' peacekeeping. Even our 1970 pullback from NATO in Europe did not include the withdrawal of our troops in the Cyprus UN peace force.

We still are there in ward of, without firing a gun; life possibility of a new blow-up between Greeks and Turks on the island. The pressure of the bishops on Makarios to resign could very, very well start the shooting again. Even more tragically, it would split the Greek Cypriote community as well, since the archbishop-president and his followers are opposed to a union with Greece.

The newest element in the Soviet Union wishing in the wings to see if strongman Makarios will go. Thwarted in recent efforts to set up an excellent dockyard facilities for their Mediterranean fleet, the Russians might be interested in a naval base on Cyprus.

The Cypriote bishops with their impatience to oust Makarios, may be lighting a fire they won't be able to control.

Trying to Protect the Sucker from Himself

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

One of the more exotic forms of government is the consumer protection division of the ministry of consumer and commercial relations.

This division, you might say, is the see-that-the-sucker-gets-an-even break wing of government.

It is an expanding division and it is probable that the breath will continue steadily, for the affluent society is apparently producing a great crop of suckers and an equally big crop of entrepreneurs anxious to clip them.

This division was started only a few years ago to regulate the pedestrian fields as used car, real estate and door-to-door selling. Its main purpose was to protect the public against borderline fraud. But now the sucker game gets more sophisticated, the problems of the division in turn are more sophisticated and more plentiful.

Its latest move, for example, is into the field of payment and referral sales. As you may have read, there now is legislation before the house which would control these. Referral sales are to be banned entirely. They are the gimmicks where a reduction in price is offered if a buyer provides a number of people who in turn buy the product. Pyramid sales are where "distributorships" are sold, usually for several thousands of dollars, and the buyers are promised substantial cash bonuses if they recruit other purchasers.

These are to be brought under strict controls.

Eric Winkler, the minister who directs this division, says that government "has the clear responsibility to move against business practices which do not deliver what they promise, intentionally mislead the public or deprive it of the misunderstandings of the average citizens".

Just how much need there is for this is illustrated by the notorious promoter in the U.S. This man, whose career has been featured in national magazines, has made millions in a few years of pyramid sales. He has two jets, estates in Florida and New England and a large personal entourage. He has produced several distributing companies but few products. Essentially he deals in distributorships.

One company will be started to distribute beauty products. Buyers of distributorships find they can't get the products. When they complain, they are offered a franchise to sell distributorships in another company, perhaps supposedly in discount cards for local stores. They try to recoup by peddling distributorships in this company.

It has gone on and on: more companies but little to sell except franchises. This will be stopped under the new legislation but undoubtedly there always will be something to watch in this area, and, in turn, to be curbed.

For won't there always be a sucker?

Trenton Austerity Program

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

With deep concern the Quinte District Labor Council has a Council in its latest frantic austerity binge.

Firstly — The School Crossing Guards.

The manner in which the Town Council handled this affair leaves much to be desired. The Labor Council is not alone in this belief.

Secondly — The Fire Protection.

According to information received by the Quinte District Labor Council the Trenton Town Council is still considering the removal of the pyrmaster fire department. They are using the "cut off your nose to spite your face" attitude.

Town Council is seriously thinking of curtailing the present protection of lives and property.

The security one has knowing that such professionals as the fire fighters are at instant call has no dollar value. If the permanent fire fighters are subject to Town Council's whim, the increase in fire insurance would very possibly offset any saving a tax payer may receive.

Councillor Greer, a union member on the Town Council, knows the value of compromise in the act of bargaining is good faith. In the manner of austerity he forces the Labor Council to publicize whether the elections this year. Councillors Trip and Kelcheson stand in the same bad light.

A vote of confidence in this instance goes to Mayor Mac Donald, Councillors Parker, Brown and Aziz.

Facts such as these must be remembered by the Trenton voters this December and shall be called to mind again at that time by this Labor Council.

Other towns are improving facilities such as those for the tax payer. Why not Trenton?

REGINALD LOADER,
President, Quinte District Labor Council, CLC

Politics, Parties, Absolutes

Reg Stackhouse in The Canadian Churchman

Three men face each other in a television debate watched by millions about to choose their next government.

But are they really given a choice?

The viewer watching these party leaders vie with each other is impressed more by how much they seem alike than how much they differ.

There is a sameness about them, as though they or their advisers had concluded there is only one image the public will support.

The spokesman for the right has therefore let his hair grow a little longer, and put on a sports jacket with wide lapels. The leader of the left, on the other hand, has cut his sideburns back and wants so much to appear like a rising young executive he has started smoking cigars. The third man looks exactly right — the middle Canadian whose presence is no more noticed than his absence.

When all three speak, it is clear the centre of the political stage is a crowded place. Their opinions representing a common mix of a little Keynesian liberalism here, a dash of practical economizing there.

All three accept the principle of the welfare state, the only difference being that one party leader wants the public to believe he can do it better or faster or cheaper.

The day seems over when the name of a political party gave the voter some idea of what it stood for. It seems almost over when the public could be sure parties had any serious difference apart from one side "in" and the others "out".

It would be easy to condemn party leaders and their followers for this but it might also be hypercritical. We're living at a time the centre is the result of their sensing that's where the majority of people are. If they seem to lack convictions, it's mainly because they detect what people lack them too.

In some ways this is not bad. Convictions, strongly held, can do as much harm as good and the way some countries are being torn apart for the sake of convictions demonstrates it.

There is something good about the pragmatic approach which opts for whatever happens to have a consensus supporting it at any given time. At least it avoids the disastrous impact of an irresistible force striking an immovable object, leaving the next generation to pick up the pieces.

But the trouble with that approach is it can justify anything. Even the Nazis gained a pragmatic credibility from the way their policies succeeded, and lent it only when it became clear they were taking the whole German nation over the side with them.

There have to be some fixed points by which people can know if they are heading towards their rightful social goal or away from it. Pragmatism in politics is justified if it means leadership flexible enough to tack this way and that way in order to move the ship of state ahead against the wind.

But something else is needed too.

That something else is the basic morality the church must uphold without shilly-shallying. Otherwise people can't have the fixed points by which they can know if they are moving ahead or back.

Wieners More Nourishing

Ottawa Journal

Faith in big government is reassured when officialdom comes to the aid of something as lowly as the wiener. The government's first order promise requirements will presumably mean frankfurters will be those who eat them. Now that industry has been sent off to prime the pump, the government would do Canadians great favor if it would bring in more of French fries: the flavor returned to ham; a ceiling on the price of bacon; and the meat restored to bacon and cream pot back in ice cream.

David Lewis and Vietnam

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your editorial on David Lewis' remarks on the U.S. planting mines of the coast of North Vietnam must unfair. In it you ask, "are we to assume that he is a puppet of the Communist world, a frontman. . for Moscow or Peking?" Just because Mr. Lewis adheres to a political creed common does not make him a Communist. At one time the present Prime Minister was a member of the NDP. Are we to assume that he, too, is a Communist puppet?

You also say that President Nixon's critics offer aid to the enemy. Yet, as Senator Mansfield, notably Dr. Benjamen Spock and Rennie Davis have made trips to Hanoi to bring back U.S. pilots held captive by the North Vietnamese.

You compare Nixon's threat to the U.S.S.R. to that of John F. Kennedy. This is not so. Kennedy objected to the use of Cuba as a launching pad for the beginning of a Soviet attack on North America. Nixon however, is warning the Soviets not to supply North Vietnam with weapons which will be used to subjugate South Vietnam with weapons and troops for eleven years.

Finally you speak of "the enemy" slaughtering civilians. I know of no enemy to the Canadian people now, unless of course you are referring to the North Vietnamese army or the Viet Cong who are the enemy of the South Vietnam and, hence, the United States and the United States Congress.

Progress Pleases Workshop Leader

PICTON (Staff) — Seeds for the Flowers of Hope campaign this year are being packaged by seven trainees of Prince Edward's adult retarded training centre workshop on Glenava Road.

L. Lloyd George, workshop supervisor, yesterday explained this project is one of several eagerly tackled in the past few weeks since ABC Industries opened in the county.

The workroom scenes process play darts, package seeds, and enjoy radio music when not busy at their jobs. The workshop has screened several pieces of antique furniture for refinishing and repair and also trainees are cutting stamps from envelopes for a Belleville firm.

It is expected that one trainee will eventually make a small engine repairs at a workbench built by Mr. George.

The new workshop is not "all work, no play" as trainees enjoy dart games, baseball, records, and special excursions.

Mr. George noted several records have been acquired and he hopes a record library can be started.

Musical tastes among trainees ranged from country and western to Elvis Presley. Tom Jones was not voted a popular favorite.

Mr. George observed he feels Prince Edward County has supported the new workshop "one hundred per cent" and added several church women's groups have expressed interest on the project.

The members of PEYMH recently presented the workshop with a cheque for $3,100 and it is expected the fiscure will be encouraged to be boosted by the new training centre's opening.

Mr. George recalled the first ballgame in the spacious yard behind the workshop and commented "the first day no one could hit the ball or, literally, lay a glove on it."

Last week the supervisor witnessed a home run during a practice session.

Be proudly referred to this as the progress which makes the workshop an exciting and worthwhile venture.

The next project for trainees will be the cultivation of a small vegetable garden behind the workshop.

"There is something to be said for a slow start," said Mr. George as he monitored the step by step progress evidenced at the training centre.

He predicted that a certain number of trainees will eventually find places in the community and win acceptance on which is all-important to them.

"I'm really amazed at how much I'm enjoying this job," reflected the supervisor. His enthusiasm is quickly generated among trainees who respond readily to his encouragement and advice as they package seeds for the flowers of hope.

Mr. George remarked a recent trip to the sugarbush had been enjoyed by all trainees and said other excursions will be planned for them.

Many persons in Prince Edward have volunteered to assist in workshop activities but no program has been organized for them to date.

Open house is being held at the workshop this week in mark Mental Retardation Week.

Visitors are encouraged to observe the facilities of the workshop and the enthusiasm of its trainees.

Young Artists Can Win Trip

The Canadian UNICEF Committee this week announced the details of the UNICEF International Children's Art Exhibition which could result in some talented Quinte area child winning a free trip to Paris.

All Canadian children between eight and 15 are eligible and 12 entries will be submitted for international exhibition in Paris. One of these 12 will be selected as the principal Canadian exhibit and the artist, accompanied by his or her parent will be eligible for the trip to Paris — courtesy of Air Canada. Closing date for the entries is July 31 in Toronto.

The main purpose of the 1972 Paris exhibition is to encourage children everywhere to enjoy expressing themselves through painting and through joining in the exhibition with other children throughout the world, learn something more about the international community which they will inherit.

Trustees Get Education On Playground Toys

Managing a modern school system is a complex business, but no one told separate school trustees before their election that they would one day have to wrestle with the relative merits of buck-a-bouts, saddle mates and whirl-a-ways.

It took a brace of staff reports, some diagrams and several illustrations to familiarize the trustees with the meaning of the terms at their board meeting Tuesday night.

But what it boilded down in was playground equipment to be installed at the north end of St. Michael's schoolyard through a co-operative effort of the board and the Belleville Recreation Department.

The whirl-a-way will probably be eliminated, but the other 10 pieces of equipment, including the space platform and the eagle's cave and eagle's cliff got the trustees' nod of approval.

The city's recreation department will use the property formerly occupied by a double house at 18 and 20 Hillcrest St. behind St. Michael's as a community playground for young children — those of kindergarten to grade 4 age.

The playground will be available to pupils during school hours and to the community at other times.

The city will buy the equipment, worth $2,151, and install it on the board - owned land. The equipment will be approved by trustees and staff.

The whirl-a-way came under fire from trustee Zdenek Kvarda, who claimed it is dangerous.

"There is a similar piece of equipment at Zwick's Island and I wouldn't have it on any playground," he said. "It whirls at a high speed and the force generated throws children off."

He said the resulting injuries include cuts, scrapes and broken arms. Trustees directed the staff to investigate the whirl-a-way further before approving its purchase.

The saddle mates, an animal-headed jumper on a coil spring, met with approval. So did the eagle's cliff, a fence - like climbing device.

The eagle's cave is a tunnel-like device, also for climbing activities.

The space platform was a bit of a mystery, introduced in the manufacturer's promotion with: "Imaginations soar with anticipation as children scramble up the all-galvanized ladder to reach the 66-inch diameter flaming red disc that can be a space ship, control tower of flying saucer." It turned out to be a slide.

Only one piece of equipment would be familiar to the trustees who ran the little red schoolhouses of the past. It is a common, school ground swing.

Students to Work For Police Force

The provincial government is spending some of its summer works program to promote better liaison between youth and the police and Belleville is getting a piece of the action.

Three university students will work with the city police department for three months this summer under the Youth and the Law Summer Works Program administered by the Ontario department of correctional services.

They will each be paid $100 a week, and will be employed doing, among other things, survey work on high accident locations and their peer group view of the police.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today that his department will employ two men and a woman, but their names will not be announced until a later date. The three are among 80 selected for the program across Ontario, and were chosen from among the 4,000 students who applied.

"As university students, they have seen only one side of the law picture," says the program outline from the Ontario Police Commission. "Now let them see the enforcement side."

Purpose of the program, says the commission, is to give the students "an understanding and sympathetic appreciation of police and law enforcement responsibilities which they will communicate to their fellow students."

"We'll gain a lot, and they will gain a lot," commented Chief Crosbie.

School Needed But How Big?

Declining enrolments in separate schools is perplexing Hastings-Prince Edward counties trustees.

The four - room school in the Nipissing district village of Whitney is suffering from dry rot and should be replaced, but the number of pupils is steadily decreasing. In about four years the enrolment will be about half the present 137. Permission could be obtained from the department of education to build only a two-room school, too small for present needs.

In addition to the dry rot in floor joists, the school has antiquated washroom fixtures and a lack of good water. There is no general purpose room for indoor play and the school grounds are strewn with large stones, making it difficult to grade.

J. J. Sheridan, supervisor of plant for the board, recommended buying a new site and putting up a modern school, but in view of the declining enrolment the project may have to be shelved. The staff will prepare further reports on the situation for the June meeting, to be held in Whitney.

We Know You're TIRED OF STRIKES So ... We Won't Strike IF We Get Full Bargaining Rights

THE CIVIL SERVICE ASSOCIATION OF ONTARIO (INC.)

15 ST. MARY STREET,
TORONTO 5, ONTARIO, PHONE: 962-6850.
May 15th, 1972.

An Open Letter to:

The Honorable John T. Clement,
Chairman, Administration of Justice Committee of the Legislative Assembly,
Queen's Park,
Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Your Administration of Justice Committee will be dealing with Bill 105, An Act to Provide for Collective Bargaining for Crown Employees. The Civil Service Association of Ontario (Inc.) brings to your attention the inequity of a situation where the Government by legislation removes the right to strike to settle disputes and in the same legislation prohibits bargaining on many items which are normally bargained for in other jurisdictions. In addition, the legislation presumes to direct an arbitration board as to what criteria it shall use in reaching its decisions.

The Civil Service Association of Ontario (Inc.) has already made representations to the Honorable Mr. Charles MacNaughton in which it indicated that CSAO would surrender the right to strike PROVIDED that it was guaranteed a real collective bargaining climate with both parties having equal rights at the bargaining table.

The present state of unrest in other jurisdictions provides an opportunity for the Ontario Government to set an example to all other jurisdictions by providing for a mature and responsible approach to the rights of Ontario employees. This cannot be done by imposing prior and unacceptable conditions such as those outlined in Sections 17(1), 13, 15(3), 16(1) and 16(2) of Bill 105. The Association cannot and will not accept a strike prohibition with heavy penalties aimed at the union and its members coupled with a prohibition which seeks to protect only management in removing from the bargaining table items which are part of the total working conditions and compensation for work performed.

Yours sincerely,
The Civil Service Association of Ontario (Inc.)
C. T. Gemmell,
President.

Interested readers who agree that collective bargaining should be freely carried out, particularly when the RIGHT TO STRIKE IS SURRENDERED are invited to clip this advertisement and mail it forthwith to their local Member of the Legislative Assembly, Queen's Park, Toronto.

Police Chief Speaks At WHA Meeting

Police Chief D. T. Crosbie was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary held Tuesday May 9.

In opening the Police Chief stated that there is a marked increase in crime not only across the country but in the City of Belleville. This seemed to be a trend of the times but Canada is well below the crime rate in the States.

He noted that there is a 100 per cent increase in vandalism (destruction for no reason) and 258 bicycles were stolen last year. On the other hand, the assault rate was not climbing as fast as other crimes.

Chief Crosbie went on to say that housebreaking caused much emotional distress to the victim who felt that the security of the home had been violated. He stressed that he wished that citizens would call in if they noticed anything out of the ordinary. He would rather receive 1,000 false alarms than not be able to prevent an incident.

The youth officers dealt with 365 cases last year. Only 5 of these came to court. Some were referred to welfare agencies, others referred to the Psychiatric Clinic at the hospital where there is now excellent co-operation with distributed children.

On the drug scene the use of heroin across Canada has doubled, speed increased 50 per cent but marijuana shows a slight decrease. The RCMP are now training local police in drug detection work. In Belleville there is now sufficiently trained officer and two on course. The department is sending lecturers to the public schools.

Chief Crosbie stated that the public school age child is at the formative age and this is the time when life patterns are set. The family unit is the most important at this time and church families, according to a Toronto survey, have the least trouble with the drug problem. He also pointed out that the most youth of youth are good kids."

The Police Chief, in conclusion, announced that in October the local police force will be linked up with the Canadian Police Information Centre (the OPP will be connected some months before). With this computer service it will take three minutes to get information on wanted persons, stolen cars and so forth, all across Canada. In June the first woman officer will begin her duties and others will be hired as telephone operators to release police for outside work. He also noted that bicycles are to be licensed and inspected for safety.

Mrs. M. C. MacLeod introduced the speaker and Mrs. D. G. Burr expressed sincere thanks and appreciation.

Preceding the speaker, Mrs. J. E. Nelles, president, conducted the business portion of the meeting. Mrs. A. B. Duffy reported that there were now 278 members, with 36 new members.

Mrs. G. B. Bochnek in her report on the new Gift and Coffee shops stated that although the shops will not be open until September there will be two orientation meetings at Educational Hall — Gift Shop on June 7 at 7.30 and Coffee Shop on June 12 at 7.30. This will be for anyone interested in volunteering to work in the shops, including any teen-age girls who will be over the age of 16 in September.

The corresponding secretary read several notes of appreciation from patients for Easter flowers which were distributed by Mrs. Allan Twigg and her committee. This committee also distributed books to patients every Day. They were much appreciated and she read a special note of thanks to her knitters, especially four from Madoc who sent in such beautiful work.

Mrs. J. B. Durrat reported that the Auxiliary had given 400 hours service in the hospital and distributed 1711 books and 1,000 pencils from the Liberty Cart. She also stated that treewage volunteers were needed for the summer — about two hours work a week.

The Bulletin committee prepared and sent out 386 Bulletins.

There was discussion concerning the decoration of Education Hall and it was decided to provide drapes, paint the walls and look after the repairing of the ceiling.

Mrs. Nelles reported that Dr. Potter had agreed to speak at the annual meeting in January and also she could be bringing greetings from the Auxiliary to the graduating class of Lakeortsy Technicians on June 2.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, headed by Mrs. G. G. Fields.

Only Women Meteorologist At Forces Base

WINNIPEG (CP) — Carole Klaponski of Winnipeg is the first and only woman meteorologist at a Canadian Forces base.

She has been at Canadian Forces Base Winnipeg's weather office for less than a year but already pilots have heard about her from such distant bases as Shearwater, N.S., and Comox, B.C.

Although unique to the armed forces, Miss Klaponski is not alone as a woman weather forecaster. Women have been forecasting at civilian airfields for several years, although there are still only a few in the field.

Miss Klaponski, who graduated in mathematics from the University of Winnipeg in 1970, became interested in the weather through summer jobs with the federal transport department. After completing a nine-month course in Toronto and Trenton, Ont., she was asked if she would mind being posted to a federal defence base.

Women in the past have asked to be posted to forces bases but were always turned down. They were afraid, says Miss Klaponski, that there were no facilities available or that they would have to give their weather briefings in locker rooms or that pilots wouldn't pay attention strictly to the weather, if a woman was briefing them.

So far, she said, she has found all these things untrue and has enjoyed her job at the base. She has flown in a forces' Dakota aircraft and has also taken the high-altitude indoctrination course; her next aim is to fly in a jet trainer to understand better some of the problems of high-altitude weather.

Being one of 10 forecasters at the base, Miss Klaponski issues forecasts, gives briefings to pilots and works all shifts.

Opera Star Relaxes In Her Kitchen

NEW YORK (AP) — When Metropolitan Opera star Elinor Ross feels she is getting stale, she heads into her kitchen and whips up a fancy dish like lamb with artichokes and egg sauce.

"I find cooking relaxing, said the singer whose soprano voice has been variously described as thrilling, dramatic and "true Verdi."

"It takes a certain amount of courage to try out a new dish on a table full of guests, but it is a challenge. I find hard to resist," she said.

Courage is something Miss Ross does not lack. In June, 1970, she made her Met debut in a Puccini role that many singers shy away from.

The feat prompted the New York Times music critic to comment: "There are few sopranos in the world who would choose the title role of Puccini's Turandot for a Metropolitan Opera debut. But Miss Ross made her quiet appearance with the company in the spectacular part and managed the feat well."

Even more remarkable, Miss Ross sang the role on two days' notice after the regular star fell ill. And she performed the difficult role while her husband of 16 years lay stricken with a heart ailment that was to claim his life a few weeks later.

Cooking poses hazards for the singer who has been wrestling with a weight problem for years. She now belongs to Weight Watchers, an organization of persons waging a war with calories.

Miss Ross did not take up cooking seriously until after her marriage.

"I learned because I had a young husband who had to be fed and in those days we couldn't afford to eat all our meals in restaurants."

Today she cooks for herself, her longe son and friends who are always dropping in at her apartment overlooking Central Park.

"I still make mistakes," she said, "but I love to cook, and I learn as I go along."

CAS Expenses Overwhelming

HAMILTON (CP) — The director of child welfare in Ontario, Betty Graham, questions whether services provided by Children's Aid Societies can be maintained at their present level.

The expansionary affluence of the recent past had its price tag, she told more than 1,000 delegates Wednesday at the 60th annual conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies.

"We all feel the effects of rising taxes and for the societies, as for any other services, the question must be asked: Can we afford that kind of service now, in the light of straitened resources and other demands?

"Is it in the public interest for private societies to spend more than $40 million of provincial funds plus another $15 million or more of municipal funds?"

Miss Graham said communication between CAS boards and local municipal councils is often inadequate.

Since the societies would have difficulty in getting along without municipal funds, the attitude that municipalities should have no part in the running children's aid societies is getting policy was self defeating.

Changes which mean "a return to dependence on the volunteer" are not the answer, she shift to full integration within the regional municipal structure.

Miss Graham was roundly attacked by several delegates for her speech.

Robert Bergson of Cornwall, president of the Stormont Dundas and Glengarry CAS, said her position as child welfare director demanded more than she had told the delegates.

"The tone was totally negative and don't hesitate to give concrete suggestions for improving," he said.

A delegate from Oshawa said he had been impressed by contributions made by municipal representatives to the CAS board, but other delegates said some municipal members on their boards attended few meetings.

One delegate said municipal members only attended when there was a budget discussion and seemed to be "a watch dog on the budget."

Miss Graham said there might be better relations with municipalities if they were given equal representation on CAS boards.

In a workshop session, Tom Swaaf, director of the Norfolk County CAS, said Canadians shouldn't expect immigrants to make all the adjustments.

Mr. Swaaf, born in Holland, said integration is a two-way process. Integrating ethnic groups would not come about until Canadians changed.

In other business at the three-day conference, Uno Vinnari of the Thunder Bay CAS was re-elected president of the association.

New Look for Ontario Place Hostesses

College students working at Ontario Place will be wearing new Canadian - designed uniform costumes when the entertainment centre opens for the summer on May 20, according to Petra Adams, recently - appointed hosting manager for Ontario Place.

Last year's yellow costumes will be replaced by new outfits created by designer Marilyn Brooks and made entirely of Canadian fabrics, said Mrs. Adams. She described this year's costume as a versatile "watercolor blue" ensemble consisting of basic blazer, blouse, pants and skirt that can be varied according to the weather and occasion.

"The tunic top is 100 per cent Arnel, washable drip-dry," said Mrs. Adams. "It carries a polka dot motif of happy, smiling 'hippos'. The tunic has a back sewn-in belt, short sleeves and a 22 - inch front zipper that allows it to be zipped up to a full closed neck, neck or worn open as a casual collar on the blouse.

"The blazer features the wider lapel, single-breasted style, and has a suppressed waist and side vents. Front pockets are pleated. The cuff has a slight curve and can be worn turned back. The blazer buttons are of bronze-like finish."

The pants dress the slimmer look with a back seam for a snoother fit. There's a 24-inch flare and a 2-inch cuff. The skirt has a slight A-line, with double seaming. The basic blouse of Arnel print also has the "happy hippo" polka dots, using blue tones to match the other three pieces. And for a lift, there's a splash of sunshine yellow on some of these items. All will be available, along with a touch of white, all on a sand-tone background.

The hosts will wear basically the same type of outfits worn by male students last year with the addition of the Ontario Place crest on the breast pockets, blue slacks and dark shoes. This year, instead of dark-blue turtleneck sweaters, they will wear white shirts and blue ties. Marina crewmen will wear dark-blue windbreakers, T-shirts, blue slacks and dark shoes."

College students from all over the province, who will work at Ontario Place in hosting, maintenance and other capacities, are taking an instruction and orientation course from May 12 to 19, to prepare them to meet and assist the public during the Ontario Place summer season, May 20 through Thanksgiving Day, October 9.

New Ensembles for Hostesses

A versatile new "watercolor blue" ensemble will be worn by the hostesses at Ontario Place when the entertainment centre opens for the summer season on May 20. Designed by Marilyn Brooks, the costumes can be worn as blouse and skirt combination, blouse and pants or jacket, blouse, skirt or pants, according to the weather and the occasion. The hostesses are college students from many parts of the province who will be working at Ontario Place until it closes on Thanksgiving Day, October 9.

Reader Believes in Mind Influences

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: At 72, I also believe that the mind is the most powerful thing in the world. I have not taken any specific mental training, although I have scoffed several of the principles involved, as taught by Edmund Shaftesbury, and issued by the Ralston University Press, Meriden, Conn., in a set of volumes on Personal Magnetism. Very interesting.

I remember one time I went for a medical examination for an insurance policy, and the doctor could not detect a heart beat for several seconds — I got a funny look for that one. My dear wife used to say "I can't hear or feel your heart" although her ear would be on my chest.

I have also had a few bad gashes when using tools — with very little loss of blood — and splashed boiling water and melted solder on my skin without blistering. Hence were all accidents, but I believe that through concentration (which I had practiced), I was able to prevent any serious damage.

About 20 years ago, I decided to quit smoking for no reason except that I had run out of cigarettes. I have not smoked since. I cannot stand the smell of tobacco, and detest anybody smoking in my home. — Mind and Body.

Dear Mind and Body: Reminds me of the Indian yogis who can stretch themselves on a bed of sharp nails without harming a hair. Under our Westerners who can do it too.

The mind and the body are remarkably and forever linked up and locked up together and that's for sure. But then there be, around here, who can make use of the connection in the extent that you describe!

Dear Doris: I shall be obliged if you could share with me with the humorous happenings of 1987.

I have been asked to make a speech at a silver wedding. — Quarter Century.

Dear Quarter Century: Humorous? Perhaps not entirely humorous, but a few mighty interesting things happened in '87.

In March of that year a new comet was discovered by the Harvard Observatory in South Africa. In April Henry Ford (who brought out one of the horse-and-buggy days) died. In July Prince Elizabeth became engaged to Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten — great excitement, you'll remember.

Then in August a Russian parachutist topped the International record by bouncing over eight miles from the stratosphere. In November Elizabeth married Philip, and the whole world enjoyed that event.

Naturally, the couple to be honored at your silver wedding occasion will be delighted when you declare that tying the knot in their case topped them all.

Dear Doris: My feet hurt so much I may have to quit work while I can't afford. I bought shoes that were supposed to give me support and the salesman put in extra pads to help, but this is no good.

At home I slip into soft house slippers, and feel much better. But I can't wear soft slippers to work. You seem to help with so many problems: I wonder if you have an answer for me. — Weak Feet.

Dear Weak: While my medical consultant immediately thought of "flatfoot", he would dream of diagnosing at a distance.

Your first visit should be to a foot specialist; then to the store which will fit you according to his instructions. He will probably also give you foot exercises to strengthen muscles.

Sometimes flat heeled, broad-toed shoes do a better job by leaving toes free. But the most important part of the cure.

Ann Landers

This Marriage May 'Go to The Dogs'

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago my wife died, leaving me with four children ranging in age from 16 to five years. These dogs have been like children to me.

Recently I married. My present wife has a dog and she is as devoted to Dolly as I am to my dog. The problem is that Dolly and my dogs are at each other's throats every time they get. We have to keep my dogs in the basement and Dolly upstairs or there's hell to pay down there. We cannot turn all the dogs loose in the fenced yard at the same time because the barking disturbs the neighbors.

My dogs have had a lifetime of companionship with me so I must spend a lot of time in the basement with them or they get very unhappy and cry. Neither my wife nor I can give up our dogs—it would be like giving up children.

Do you know of a tranquilizer we might give our pets to help them get along together? Our marriage is suffering and I am not pulling your leg. Please give me some help, Ann.—Serious Dilemma

Dear Dil: My Chicago canine experts tell me tranquilizers will not solve your problem, they say. You'll have to wait till the dogs die. I hope your marriage outlasts them. It seems to me that both you and your bride have a strange sense of priorities.

Dear Ann Landers: If you say I am overly sensitive I will never bring this subject up again. But I do feel I have a legitimate complaint. It's my husband's sister. She has a beautiful home about 20 miles from here. The house has a large living room, a nice size dining room, a roomy kitchen, two bedrooms and two bathrooms.

To this day we have never been entertained in the living room. We've only seen it while passing through. She always asks us to sit in the kitchen. The kitchen chairs are comfortable but it's a pleasant room but I feel this is an insult, almost as if we're not good enough to sit on her upholstered furniture. My husband says it's old-country custom but this sister picked up from her mother. His sister was born in this country and I say she ought to know better. Should I tell her how I feel? Sit in the living room next time?—Mrs. Long Face.

Dear Mrs. Sure. If you want to. Maybe she thinks you are more comfortable in the kitchen and appreciates your keeping the living room means so much to you, tell her so.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you settle an argument please? My husband and I received an invitation to a silver wedding anniversary party. It is being given by the children of the couple. The invitation is engraved. At the foot of the invitation it says, "No gifts, please."

This in my opinion is in terrible taste and I say no ethical printer would produce such a ciddish invitation. After all, people who are in the business know what's right and if they are halfway ethical they will protect their customers against such ignorant mistakes. What do you say, Ann?—Vermont Readers

Dear V.: I agree it is not in good taste to mention gifts on an invitation of any kind, but the printer's job is to print. If asked for counsel a printer might indulge in a little guidance. But most people go to the printer with their minds pretty well made up.

Confidential to Have Now Brews Cow: You haven't had 20 years' experience. You've had one year of experience 20 times. Talk to your immediate supervisor and find out why you've made so little progress. Even a clock that isn't working is right twice a day.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Do women shy away from violence?

ONLY those women who can't stand anything that smacks of violence (of course, many men react the same way). On the sexiness, though, just about as many women as men will witness violence if they can't avoid it. Indeed some women will steel themselves to remain at the scene of a fight thinking they will just prove that they are not squeamish; and in many cases they are able to endure it with less aftereffects than some men experience.

Can mental defenses cause neurosis?

THAT depends. Many mental ploys or defense mechanisms help a person control instinctive urges. For instance, because of an inordinate urge to hoard, someone may become overly generous. Dr. Van Buren O. Hamnett says, in "Inside Psychotherapy" (Exposition Books), edited by Adelaide Bry, "lots of good results come from defense mechanisms." Trouble may follow, though, if the defense is so formidable that it prevents normal functioning.

Should a smart child ever 'play dumb'?

OF COURSE not, although a child will sometimes think it is wrong to be intelligent he might have more friends. He might believe the others in his class resent his being able to answer questions that stump them. A teacher should alert the smart child's parents if he suddenly "plays dumb." His inability to make friends could be due to a personality problem that no one has noticed because he is so intelligent.

Family Cooking

Molded Rice Adds Variety to Meals

By ALICE DENHOFF

If there is one indispensable kitchen staple it is rice. Just couldn't go the cooking route without it.

Rice, just well prepared, is an practically every dinner table as the alternative to potatoes or pasta with meat or fowl.

Then there are the desserts, the rice puddings, the custards, the concoctions.

Today, rice plays a major role in delicious salads, so right for spring and summer meals. First:

TUNA RICE SALAD IN AVOCADO RING

2 cups cooked rice
1 can (6½ ounces) each tuna
2 cups cooked rice
1 can (6½ ounces) each peas, drained
½ cup chopped onions
1 cup sliced celery
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Dash Tabasco
½ cup mayonnaise
1 package (3 ounces) lime gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 large avocado, peeled, pitted and mashed
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sour cream
½ teaspoon Tabasco
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon salt

Combine first nine ingredients, mixing well. Chill.

Dissolve gelatin in water. Chill until of heavy syrup consistency.

Beat remaining ingredients until smooth. Blend in gelatin. Pour in lightly oiled nine-inch ring mold. Chill until firm.

Unmold and fill with tuna rice salad.

Makes eight servings.

RICE SALAD PIQUANT

3 cups hot cooked rice
¼ cup minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup minced celery
½ cup minced green pepper
½ cup sweet pickle relish
2 tablespoons minced pimiento
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Combine first five ingredients. Let stand while preparing remaining ingredients. Add remaining ingredients; toss lightly. Spoon into six-cup mold; pack lightly, pressing with back of spoon. Chill; unmold on cold serving plate.
Serves six.

SPRING GARDEN SALAD

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup lemon juice
1 cup diced cucumber
½ cup diced green pepper
½ cup diced pimiento
1 cup thinly sliced celery
2 cups cooked rice
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise

Soften gelatin in water; dissolve over low heat. Add next four ingredients. Chill until partly thickened. Beat until light and fluffy. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a one-quart mold that has been lightly coated with mayonnaise. Chill until firm. This should be presented at once, garnished. Thin cucumber slices, ripe olives or cherry tomatoes all add DELICATE avocado-lime palette ring lightly chilled salad of tuna, rice, celery, peas gently dressed with mayonnaise.

Home And School News

PARKDALE HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The last general meeting for the 1971-72 year for the Parkdale Home and School Association was held recently.

The election of officers for 1972-73 are as follows: president, Mrs. S. Bochnek; past president, Mr. F. Wooster; vice-presidents, Mrs. S. Newman; 2nd vice-president, Mr. P. Stephenson; recording secretary, Mrs. S. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Bushell and treasurer, Mrs. M. Clayton. Others appointed were: Mrs. B. Morrison, Mrs. J. Noble, Mrs. S. Green, Mrs. L. Bailey, Mrs. M. Williams, Mrs. M. Drouler and Mrs. B. Wright.

A report was given that the annual Fun Fair held in March was a great success.

There was also an informal discussion on programs for the Home and School for the '72-73 year and also electives for the students.

Achievement Night on Thursday, May 25 will be in the form of an open house commencing at 7 p.m. All parents are invited to attend.

Awards Presented to 4-H Girls

STIRLING — On Saturday May 13, nine 4-H Girls Clubs convened in Stirling Junior Public School under the direction of Mrs. Elaine Silverthorn, home economist.

Sportswear from coast to coast was the theme of the project at which approximately 80 women and girls were in attendance for the afternoon program.

The exhibits and dress reviews were as follows: Sidney South I — becoming knits, Janet Atkins; Bay of Quinte — dress review by all of the members: Sidney South III — Knacks with Necklines, Kathy Coe; Wallbridge and Sidney South II — dress review by Annette Vandevelde; River Valley — Sportswear for all Seasons, Bryce Whyte; Mount Pleasant — Know Your Knits, Linda Hoard; Stirling — a dress review by several members and Kendal — Sportswear for all Seasons, Mary Ellen Thompson.

The home economist from Toronto, Mrs. Marion Smith the theme of the presentation on this year's commentary on Canada. She explained the improvements and congratulated the girls and their leaders for their display.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, president of Hastings' West District Institute presented County Honor Girl Pins to Linda Hoard and Vicki Shickle; Sidney South II Laura May and Dana Wright and Wallbridge, Irene De Bruin.

She also presented Provincial Ribbons to May Akins and Virginia Pollock of Harold Club; Karen McCosh, Sidney South I and Leslie Best of Sidney South III.

Five clubs then presented dress reviews of various sportswear and showed what had been accomplished in their winter project.

A special presentation of Canada Council 4-H Club Leadership Award for 19 years of leadership was presented to Mrs. Gerald Brooks, River Valley by Mrs. Struthers.

At the close of the afternoon, the presidents of the nine clubs were each presented with a certificate of achievement for "Sportswear from Knits" and each club member that completed the project received a sterling silver 4-H spoon.

PC, NDP Assail Voting Cost Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Two opposition spokesmen showed Thursday night they want even more restriction on election campaign expenses than the government is proposing.

Conservative and New Democrat spokesmen criticized the bill only limits the spending of individual candidates—not parties.

They commented on the bill after Privy Council President Allan MacEachen said the bill would go far to put all candidates on an equal footing because it would remove the advantages richer candidates have had in the past.

The bill would limit individual election spending on paid advertising. It limits TV and radio time to a total of 5½ hours on any one station for all parties during a campaign, provides for reimbursement of some individual expenses and calls for disclosure in general terms of the source of campaign expenses.

Mr. Benjamin said the worst hole in the legislation is the failure to limit party spending. This not only detracted from the bill but "causes me more worry and doubt about the government's sincerity."

Mr. Macquarrie said: "Let's not pretend we are really putting a limit on what parties will be spending."

The bill calls for disclosure of names of contributors to the funds of individual candidates but requires only broad description of the sources—unions, corporations, individuals—who make donations to parties.

Mr. Benjamin said party expenditures should be limited to 30 cents an elector. He said this would amount to a limit of $4,200,000 for each party if the census figures of last June were used.

The bill would limit campaign expenses for each candidate to $1 for each of the first 15,000 electors in a riding, 50 cents for each of the next 10,000 and 25 cents for each elector thereafter.

government for not limiting the amount of money political parties could spend in a campaign.

Conservative Heath Macquarrie (Hillsborough) and New Democrat Les Benjamin (Regina-Lake Centre) observed that

Trade Talks Not Delayed Says Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is ready to meet U.S. trade representatives "at any time," Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Thursday.

There is no deliberate delay on Canada's part in resuming trade talks, broken off early this year, he added.

T. C. Douglas (NDP-Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) asked what recon there is for a delay since President Richard Nixon and Mr. Trudeau reached an apparent agreement during Mr. Nixon's visit here in April.

Mr. Trudeau said their agreement was that each side would look at its trade package and see whether modifications could be made tending to lessen differences. Canada had done this and was ready to get back to the bargaining table wherever the U.S. had done the same thing on its side.

Stanfield Impatient

TORONTO (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says he is becoming impatient waiting for Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau to announce an election date.

"He must be getting tired of having his ear to the ground and I'm getting tired of pawing the ground," he told the Toronto Progressive Conservative Businessmen's Club.

Trudeau Praises Bourassa's Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday the Quebec government may want to talk to him about federalism now that its current troubles are on the wane.

He made the statement in a news conference after reiterating remarks in the house that the government of Robert Bourassa had acted well during the recent Quebec labor trouble.

He said in the news conference that he had refrained from troubling Mr. Bourassa during the recent disruptions in the province.

But now Mr. Bourassa, whose government has expressed some concern about recent federal moves, probably would contact him about the matter.

Rush to Get Out Big Cheques For Old Causes Election Talk

OTTAWA (CP) — If two reluctant senators decide to co-operate, the federal bureaucracy will roll into action later today in a drive to get faster-than-usual pension cheques into the hands of the elderly, disabled veterans and their dependents by the end of June.

Two bills to institute pension increases retroactive to January will be wrapped up in a rare Friday sitting—permitting preparation of cheques—if the Senate adheres to a rush government schedule and continues to bypass its own, slower rules of procedure.

Suspicions were voiced Thursday that the haste was part of the Liberal government's re-election campaign.

Two Conservative senators objected Thursday to being asked to rubber-stamp the legislation.

Opposition Leader Jacques Flynn and Senator Orville Phillips (PC—Prince Edward Island) took up most of Thursday's Senate proceedings with their protests.

Despite their objections, the Senate whipped through the bill to raise old-age pensions and supplements in routine first reading, general debate and committee study in about five hours.

The bill to raise pensions and allowances for disabled veterans and dependents also began its passage through the upper chamber Thursday.

The Commons earlier had completed passage of the two bills in an hour each by all-party agreement.

The lower chamber then turned to debate of a bill to regulate election expenses and was scheduled to resume debate on that today.

Government officials said part today was the deadline necessary to get the relatively hefty payments in the mail before the end of June. If the bills were stalled until Tuesday, cheques could not be issued until the last week of July.

That would be too late for full effectiveness in a July 17 vote. July 17 is the most-talked-of date for a summer federal election.

It may all depend on Senators Flynn and Phillips.

June pension cheques, if the legislation is passed today, would be relatively big because retroactive payments, provided for in both bills, would be included on top of the new monthly payments.

Cheques would vary from $97.25 for single pensioners living only the basic rate to $419.99 for couples receiving maximum guaranteed income supplements.

Cabinet Holds Session

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet spent a lengthy session behind closed doors Thursday amid rumors that Parliament would be dissolved today for a federal election.

A spokesman in the prime minister's office would say only that the cabinet ministers met for about seven hours altogether to "finish up a number of matters."

The meeting began about 10 a.m. EDT, continued through lunch, broke for the Commons question period and reconvened prior to the dinner hour. It ended about 7 p.m., he said.

Prime Minister Trudeau only attended part of the meeting, he said.

Orders Falsified By OPP

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police falsified "top secret" orders to "fit the cars" to have the charged against the previous fiscal year, the legislature's committee on public accounts was told Thursday.

The cars were charged in the province's budget in the 1967-68 fiscal year, which ended in March, although they were not delivered until April.

"There is no arguing the fact that dates were changed and certifications made to bring the items within the 1967-68 fiscal year and the errors in judgment cannot be justified," says a letter from W. H. Armstrong of the provincial police.

Norman Ellison of the auditor's department, who tabled the letter, said that when his department questioned the invoices for the cars, the police department falsified them further.

The police, he said, added to the invoices the words "invoice date changed, goods received in March and properly chargeable to 1967-68 fiscal year."

Delivery of the cars had been delayed by an auto strike.

Committee members have charged that government departments purposely increase spending toward the end of the year to use up money remaining in their budget.

Air Better In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Control programs for the air pollutant sulphur dioxide have produced a marked improvement in Toronto in the last six months, Environment Minister James Auld said Thursday.

"Air-quality monitoring in Metropolitan Toronto over the past few years shows us that ambient sulphur-dioxide levels have fallen from one part to 10 parts per cent of air to half that level," Mr. Auld told the legislature.

University Enrolments Will Decline

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario universities face a major drop in enrolment for the coming academic year, not the four-per-cent increase projected by the government, a legislature committee was told Thursday.

Ted Roumell (NDP-Windsor West) said he found a "pretty grim picture" after telephoning registrars of 11 of Ontario's 14 provincially-assisted universities.

For Equality

TORONTO (CP) — George Kerr, minister for colleges and universities, said Thursday he favored church-affiliated university colleges getting the same financial support as non-denominational ones.

Under questioning during the review of the estimates for his department, Mr. Kerr said he thought colleges such as St. Michael's, Victoria and Trinity at the University of Toronto sort of support as their parent institutions."

No Third Tongue

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government opposes the establishment of any language other than English or French as an official language of instruction in the province. Education Minister Thomas Wells said today.

Warm Days Ahead

Parts of British Columbia and Newfoundland can expect below normal temperatures for the remainder of May and the beginning of June, with the rest of the country receiving above or near normal readings, according to the 30 - day weather outlook of the United States weather bureau. Precipitation will be moderate in the West and light in the East. This is not a specific forecast and changes may occur. (CP Newsmap)

Importing Iron Ore From U. S. Protested

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government should have intervened in the decision of Algoma Steel and the Steel Co. of Canada to import iron ore from Marquette, Mich., Jack Stokes (NDP—Thunder Bay) said in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

He told a committee debating estimates of Resources Minister Leo Bernier that the government should have convinced the companies "in the interests of the Ontario economy" to use iron ore from Ontario.

The decision "only aggravates an already-tenuous balance-of-payments situation with the United States . . . while we've got iron ore coming out of our ears and the people of northwestern Ontario are crying for development," he said.

Mr. Bernier said that it was more economical to import the ore, which will provide 2,500 jobs at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and use a non-renewable resource of another country.

Shulman Says Accused Man Used Pseudonym

TORONTO (CP) — A man who confessed to 10 Toronto bank robberies was charged under a pseudonym with the knowledge of the Crown and the police, Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP, Toronto High Park) said Thursday.

He told the Ontario legislature the pseudonym used was David Wilson and asked Attorney-General Dalton Bales whether pseudonyms are used in criminal proceedings "to protect the reputations of certain individuals."

Mr. Bales said he will investigate the case.

Outside the house, Dr. Shulman said the man charged as David Wilson is from "a prominent family" and he made a deal with police to confess to other robberies if he was charged under a pseudonym.

Asked how he found out about the case, Dr. Shulman said "a policeman phoned me—he was somewhat upset."

David Warriner Wilson, 35, is to be sentenced today for 10 bank robberies involving $27,000. He pleaded guilty in provincial court May 9 to the Toronto robberies committed between 1967 and 1971.

During his court appearance, the man also said he robbed a number of Montreal banks and trust companies of $17,000.

He said he gave himself up to police because he was "fed up" with robbing banks and didn't know where it was going to end.

In an interview later, Supt. Adolphus Payne of the Metropolitan Toronto police said it is not unusual for a person to appear in court using an alias because "some have been known to have 20 aliases" and the accused often doesn't give a correct name.

Another senior police official admitted that Wilson's real name appeared in the official alias was used in provincial police files. But the official declined to comment on why an

U.S. Is Asked to End Pot Penalties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Public Health Association and two other groups Thursday asked the Nixon administration to remove all federal criminal penalties for both use and sale of marijuana.

They said the same request, backed by court suits if necessary, will be made in 38 states where laws follow the federal model that allows penalties to be downgraded or removed by administrative action.

The three groups argued that current federal penalties are unjustified and illegal in light of recent government findings that marijuana appears to be harmless when smoked less than once a day.

Under the 1970 catch-all federal drug law, marijuana is classified with heroin, LSD, mescaline and other known drugs in Schedule I, the most dangerous group.

Possession is punishable by up to a year in jail and $5,000 fine, and sale carries penalties of up to five years in jail and a $25,000 fine. Judges may award lesser penalties. For second convictions the maximum penalties double.

CP News Briefs

Firms Must Meet Consumer Desires

WINNIPEG (CP) — Unless business responds to a rising consumer expectation, the free enterprise system is jeopardized, president of the United States' Council of Better Business Bureaus said Thursday.

H. Bruce Palmer told the first annual meeting of the Better Business Bureau of Canada there is "a new consumer consciousness extending into the marketplace" which is "triggering rising consumer expectation."

Unless business "monitors these changes and responds with the way people are thinking, our whole free enterprise system is jeopardized," he said.

Mr. Palmer said there may be a "full-scale consumer revolt" if business doesn't act soon.

Consumer tolerance has reached its limit with contests that don't really contest, discounts that don't discount, miracle products that are not miraculous and new features that are nothing but a rehash of existing products, he said.

"Consumers want the truth, they want guidance, they want knowledge, they want sufficient facts to judge products on their merits, their serviceability and their value."

W. D. Ardell of Toronto was named the new president of the bureau, succeeding Cedric A. Edson of Winnipeg.

Still on Council

OTTAWA (CP) — Marcel Pepin, one of three Quebec labor leaders jailed for contempt of court, remains a member of the Economic Council of Canada, council chairman Andre Reynauld told a Commons committee Thursday.

Expansion Seen

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner's recent budget should promote expansion in the economy, Chairman Andre Raynauld of the Economic Council of Canada said Thursday.

Mines May Open

TORONTO (CP) — Rising gold prices may mean that some of Ontario's idle gold camps will go back into production, Resources Minister Leo Bernier said Thursday.

GE Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Electric Co. has been charged with restraint of trade by using reciprocal purchasing arrangements with suppliers and customers, the U.S. justice department said Thursday.

Pay Raised

BARRIE (CP) — The Simcoe County separate school board has ratified a salary agreement with its teachrs which provides for an increase of $50,000 for the total package.

Duke Ill

PARIS (Reuter) — The Duke of Windsor, 77, was too ill to have tea with Queen Elizabeth when she called on him for a family reunion Thursday.

Ship Aground

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) — A 370-foot Swedish freighter ran aground Thursday off the head of Wellesley Island in the St. Lawrence seaway. The U.S. Coast Guard said none of the crew was injured in the accident.

Bomb Found

MONTREAL (CP) — Italian community leaders say that a dynamite bomb placed outside an Italian social and community organization Thursday may have been the work of the Italian revolutionary front, described as a left-wing, anti-clerical group.

The bomb, consisting of three sticks of dynamite, a detonator and a timer, was dismantled by police shortly before it was set to go off outside the Casa d'Italia Inc., an Italian cultural organization.

Pay Is Tops

HAMILTON (CP) — The city's 497-member police association has accepted a 11.8 per cent pay raise in a new two-year contract.

Don MacFarlane, association president, said the increase makes Hamilton's policemen the highest paid in Canada this year but will put them a little lower down the scale in 1973.

The raise will give probationary or fourth-class constables an immediate $3,760 starting salary. First-class constables will receive $11,672.

Nine-and-a-half per cent of the raise is effective immediately and retroactive to Jan. 1.

Pact Ratified

OTTAWA (CP)— Canada has ratified an international treaty prohibiting nuclear weapons from the seabed but has made clear that in so doing it is not giving up any of its rights as a nation to contribute to misunderstanding among us."

Diefenbaker Honored

WINNIPEG (CP) — About 1,000 persons packed into the Manitoba Centennial Centre Thursday to pay tribute to John Diefenbaker's 27 years as a member of Parliament.

The former prime minister was presented with a four-week-old cairn terrier, and Manitoba Progressive Conservative organizers of the tribute said a national campaign will be set up to name the animal.

Army to Help

TORONTO (CP) — Military engineers will help the provincial government erect two Bailey bridges across the Petawawa River, a spokesman for the department of national defence announced Thursday.

The department considers the spanning of the river with two 200-foot bridges as excellent training for engineers from Canadian Forces Base Petawawa, he said.

Mild Reprimand

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A conference of United Church ministers and laymen issued a "mild reprimand" Thursday to Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer, over his editorial comments on the Middle East situation.

Delegates to the three-day Bay of Quinte Conference took a last-minute shift in stance Thursday and qualified their support of Dr. Forrest's editorial freedom. They gave priority to relations with the Jewish community and cautioned the editor to exercise "the care and ... necessary ... so ... [illegible]

Schreyer Hints At Wage Ceiling

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A wage ceiling may be advisable for senior civil servants in Manitoba, Premier Ed Schreyer said Thursday, touching on a labor area that has caused major readjustments in Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Schreyer expressed concern about the amount of recent salary increases to senior civil servants.

"I am not ceiling for a pay freeze," he said. "But future pay increases must be lower than they have been in the past eight years."

Without giving figures, he said that while these salaries are higher than ever before in Manitoba, they are still well below those paid by Quebec, Ontario and by the federal government.

Feature Looks Fast

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Saturday's featured ninth race alone could be worth the price of admission to the Quinte Exhibition Raceway's first card of the season.

The Belleville harness racing group has managed to come up with seven starters for the first-eight feature, the largest starting field in recent years.

Local driver - owner Jack McDonnell will have a closer look at the field than most of the expected 1,000 - plus racing fans. McDonnell will be starting Dominion Lad, a nine-year - old gelding which he co-owns with Al Byrnek, for the first time on the Belleville track.

The pacer has been racing at Greenwood and Frontenac Downs this winter after being purchased by the Belleville pair last year. Dominion Lad's first Quinte start promises to be a tough one however.

Among the seven starters will be L. N. Wann, a full brother to the late R. Yankee Wann, who compiled a sparkling track record throughout Canada and the northern United States. L. N. Wann, owned by the West stables of Peterborough, holds the Vernon Downs mark of 1:57.1 and is an $8,000 claimer.

Another top contender figure to be in Canal View Way, driven by Hugh Wemp. The mare has recorded a 2:08.4 mile at Kingston this year. Jim Cochrane's Mary Bing is another starter that figures to be in the thick of the feature battle.

Entries have come from as far away as Gananoque and Mississauga, while a huge crowd of spectators is anticipated, particularly since there will be no racing in Peterborough this weekend.

The first of nine races is expected to get under way at 8 p.m. at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway.

No Easy Opener

Belleville's Jack McDonnell prepares Dominion Lad, his nine-year-old pacer, for a final workout before Saturday's opening Quinte Exhibition Raceway meet. McDonnell's charge will have his work cut out for him in the featured ninth race which will include some of the best harness entries in the area. Post time at the Belleville track will be 8 p.m.

Saylor Ends Drought with Gold Cup

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

"This is almost like work-ing," observed Ron Saylor after sweating through four hours of tournament bowling to capture The Intelligencer Gold Cup Classic Thursday.

If the veteran five-pinner had to work for his $28 first prize money, he at least made sure that he didn't have to put in overtime. Saylor rolled through 11 consecutive wins - the minimum number of games he could have played, to defeat the cream of the local crop in head - to - head competition.

Last night's win marked his first major tournament win since 1953 when Saylor captured the fourth of his "Mr. Bowling" titles. It was the first time ever that he has managed to win the match play Intell tourney. His best previous effort was a quarter-finals berth.

"I had an idea I was going to win it before it even started," admitted Saylor, "it was one of those night's when everything was going right."

Certainly everything had to be going right in the semi-final round when he knocked out Jack Calnan, who had been the hottest bowler in the competition until that point.

Calnan totalled over 1300 points in his first four games, a feat that has been accomplished only twice during the 14 years that the Quinte Classic League has been in operation. (The Quinte Classic is the only league that regularly rolls four games per night).

The defending champion had averaged 306 in his first seven tournament contests, with only one game under 300, until his meeting with Saylor. Despite a 329 his first game, Calnan was beaten as Saylor came up with a 369-effort. The eventual champion handily won the second game to sweep the series.

"When the runner's on the line, he's always in there," said Saylor's semi - final opponent, "I started both games with three straight strikes and he still came back to win. It isn't quite as bad being beaten by someone who's bowing as well as that."

In the final round of play, Saylor was tested in the first game by Leo St. Louis before finally emerging with an eight-pin win. A 321-game in the second finals meeting wrapped up the win.

St. Louis had made the finals by ousting Jim Begley in two straight semi-final bouts, while Saylor was disposing of Calnan.

Saylor had swept Jack Resnick in the quarter-finals, while Calnan was doing the same to Cec Hardwick. Begley and St. Louis were extended to the full three games before beating Art Butler and Larry Towns in their quarter-final series.

A total of 24 bowlers started in the event, with eight advancing to the semi-finals on the strength of their record of the first five games. Saylor was the only unbeaten bowler in the opening round, while Calnan, Butler and Begley managed 4-1 records.

Gold Cup Winner Ron Saylor

Driver Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Veteran auto race driver Jim Malloy of Denver, Colo., died Thursday of multiple injuries suffered last Sunday in a fiery crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Malloy, who would have been 37 years old next Tuesday, never recovered consciousness after his car crashed into the concrete retaining wall as he came out of the northwest turn at a speed that may have approached 175 miles an hour.

He was practicing for the May 27 Indianapolis 500 race. He was trapped in the crushed body of the car for almost a half-hour. He finally was pried out with a new hydraulic tool being used at the speedway for the first time. He was taken to hospital by helicopter but never recovered enough to be moved from an intensive care section.

Free Win

INDIANAPOLIS (A P) — Freddie Lewis sank two free throws with nine seconds left Thursday night to give Indiana Pacers a 100-99 victory over New York Nets. It gave the Pacers a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven American Basketball Association Championship playoff.

Top Four NHL Teams Sweep All-Star Berths

MONTREAL (CP) — Hoosers just keep piling up for defenceman Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins.

Orr, along with team-mate and centre Phil Esposito, came within an eyelash of polling perfect scores when the National Hockey League announced its annual all-star selections Thursday.

The Boston pair drew 208 of a possible 210 points each in the poll conducted by the Professional Hockey Writers' Association members in 14 NHL cities the four teams which had the most points during the regular season—Boston, New York Rangers, Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens—swept all 12 berths on the first and second all-star teams.

The voting was based on a system of five points for a first-place choice, three for a second, and one for a third. Each member of the first team receives $2,000 with the honor, and members of the second squad $1,500 apiece.

Following is a list of the first and second team selections with points received in the balloting in brackets:

If a third team had been selected on the strength of the voting, it would have looked this way:

Orr's selection and the $7,675 that goes with it brought his total award money from the NHL this season to $25,250. Broken down, the total looks like this: $15,000 as a member of the Stanley Cup championship team; $2,500 for the Dodge "first-place finish in the East Division; $2,000 for his selection as a first-team all-star; $1,500 each for winning the Hart, Norris and Conn Smythe Trophies; $750 in the individual scoring race, and $500 for being a member of the winning team in the All-Star game.

Orr's selection, his fifth straight to the first team, gives him a total $69,875 in award money in six NHL seasons.

Only one defencemen in the 42-year history of NHL all-star teams has a longer string of consecutive selections than Orr —Doug Harvey of the Canadiens. Harvey was named to the first team seven times from 1951-52 through 1957-58.

Red Kelly, now coach of Pittsburgh Penguins, was named five straight centers while with Detroit from 1950-51 through 1956-57. Pierre Pilote of Chicago also had five straight first-team selections from 1962-63 through 1966-67.

Orr earlier was awarded the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player, the Norris as top defenceman, and the Smythe as the best performer in the playoffs.

Phil Esposito made history of his own as he became the first player ever named to the first team at centre for four consecutive years. The rangy native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who led the scoring again this season with 65 goals and 133 points, was the second-team centre in 1967-68.

Hull's selection to the first team for the 10th time ties him with Harvey as runner-up to Gordie Howe of Detroit in number of first-team selections. Howe was named to the first team 12 times and to either team a record 21 times during a 25-year stretch.

This is Hull's 12th selection to either team, the most by an active player.

Orr and Phil Esposito are the only players to repeat their 1970-71 selections to the first team, while Stapleton and Cournoyer repeated second team status.

Four members of the second team are making their first appearances on all-star lists. Dryden, previously chosen rookie of the year, White, Ratelle and Hadfield. Dryden, is the first rookie to make it since Orr in 1966-67.

Tony Esposito is making his second first-team appearance in three seasons. Park has been a first-team choice twice and once a second team. This is Gilbert's first selection to the first squad.

Gilbert was named to the second team in 1967-68. Stapleton and Cournoyer received their third selections to the second team.

Following is a complete list of players who received votes:

Goal—Tony Esposito, Chicago 161; Ken Dryden, Montreal 135; Gerry Cheevers, Boston 28; Lorne (Gump) Worsley, Minnesota North Stars 19; Gilles Villemure, New York 14; Rogie Vachon, Buffalo Sabres 12; Bernie Parent, Toronto Maple Leafs 5; Ed Giacomin, New York 4.

Defence—Bobby Orr, Boston 208; Brad Park, New York 194; Bill White, Chicago 95; Pat Stapleton, Chicago 86; J. C. Tremblay, Montreal 75; Dallas Smith, Boston 17; Ted Harris, Minnesota 13; Garry Bergman, Detroit 8; Rod Seiling, New York 6; Carol Vadnais, Boston 7; Tom Reid, Minnesota 7; Guy Lapointe, Montreal 6; Barry Gibbs, Minnesota 5; Jim Neilson, New York 4; Dick Redmond, California Golden Seals 4; Jim McKenny, Toronto 3; Doug Mohns, Minnesota 3; Barclay Plager, St. Louis 3; Gilles Marotte, Los Angeles Kings 2; Dale Tallon, Vancouver Canucks 2; Jacques Laperriere, Montreal 2; Don Awrey, Boston 1; Jocelyn Guevremont, Vancouver 1; Dave Burrows, Pittsburgh 1; Darryl Edestand, Montreal 84; Richard Martin, Buffalo 10; John Bucyk, Boston 1.

Howes A Package

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Gordie Howe said Thursday the chances of his son, Mark, playing next season with London Knights of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series are slim.

In a telephone interview from Detroit with The Free Press, the former National Hockey League star said he is "very, very doubtful" his son would play in London.

"I want to emphasize it has nothing to do with London, its operation or anything else," the former right winger for Detroit Red Wings said.

But based on plans made by Mark and another son, Marty, "more than a year ago," London appears to be out of the question, the senior Howe said.

Marty, a defenceman, played for Toronto Marlboros Junior A team last season.

"The boys agreed they'd like to play with "the same team," Howe added.

When Marty joined Marlboros, United States players were exempt from the OHA Junior A draft.

"All of a sudden they're not," Gordie said. "We were surprised that American players would be exempt. Then they threw a wrench into it. It puts us in an awkward position."

Adams Draws Support Blank

Garnie Adams has been having his pitching problems this year. However, none of them involve opposing teams.

In two exhibition appearances this season the little righthander has yet to yield a run to his New York State Baseball League opponents. His problem? Garnie's Kingston CKLG teammates have failed to provide a single run in support of his brilliant mound work.

The former Belleville Junior and South Hastings league star was at his best Wednesday with a 2 one-hit, 23-strikeout effort against Watertown. The best he could earn was a tie, however, as the teams battled to a 0-0 deadlock that was called after 11 innings. A fourth - inning single was the only hit yielded by the Kingston rookie, but his teammates could manage only one safety off a quarter of Watertown hurlers.

Adams' other appearance this year came Sunday when he delivered five innings of shutout ball against the Liverpool Chiefs. It wasn't good enough for a win however — his teammates also delivered five innings of scoreless "support" during his pitching stint.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, May 20

Aries (March 21-April 19): Improve your home and workplace before you involve yourself in somebody else's problems. You may have to skip a personal project.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Puzzling expenses can be checked out; no point in getting upset yet. You can manage your share of family decisions fairly well.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Tangible and abstract rewards are available in current career ventures. It's up to you to share both the activity and the returns.

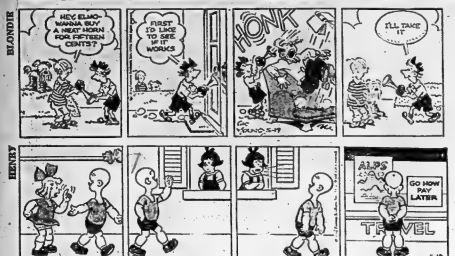
Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your sympathy goes out to an older or less fortunate friend. Keep busy, knowing that your own welfare deserves first attention.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Completion for your time, attention, money comes abruptly. Think about what you really want to do and waste no time getting to it.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is natural for you to assume leadership in the midst of general concern. Kindness counts more than most other behavior.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Trips produce peculiar results, perhaps good financial prospects. Pace your efforts for a more productive day, longer hours of effective contact.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Consider suggestions from all sides; a stranger without your prejudices may see things more objectively. Your reaction should be delayed for second thoughts.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Prompt and diligent reactions open opportunities for you. Set out personal activities; do one thing at a time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Leave financial games aside. You discover that your friends are willing to help bring a cobwebbed plan into reality.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A stroke of luck is likely when you least expect it. It might be a positive addition or save you from some scorched obligation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Try to enjoy social contacts; tense and cater to needs of family for special consideration. See bickering as an expression of that need.

Toenail Fungus Hard to Combat

By G. C. THORSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorsteson: Would you write about a fungus under the toenails? — Mrs. J. D.

Fungus, like moss in the shade, flourishes anywhere it finds conditions that suit it.

Fungus involvement of the nails usually can be traced to long standing or recurrent fungus infections, such as various kinds of athlete's foot. The fungus, you see, thrives in a warm, moist climate, such as inside your shoes.

Once the fungus has invaded the nail and nail bed, there is no rapid way to drive it out.

A word of warning: first make certain that it is a fungus, and not psoriasis or some other skin disease. Scrapings can reveal whether it really is a fungus.

The fungus yields in many cases to nail fungus medications, of which griseofulvin is the best known. The kind of medication should be chosen to suit the type of fungus.

The medication must be continued for a long time, simply because the nails grow slowly, and the fungus cannot be cleared until the nail has grown out fully; otherwise some of the fungus will remain and begin to spread again. This obviously means a matter of quite a few months.

In some severe cases removal of a nail, or nails, with accompanying medication may be necessary.

Dear Dr. Thorsteson: Do you have advice on prevention and cure of gout? — Mrs. C. E.

Well, there's no known way of preventing it or curing it, but in most cases it is quite possible to prevent it from bothering you. This is by keeping the uric acid level low in your blood, and this is primarily accomplished by medication.

Dear Dr. Thorsteson: Do parakeets carry any diseases that a human can catch? We have had two die, and my wife and I are having some stomach troubles and wonder if there is a connection. — J.C.

Parrots, parakeets and some other birds are infamous for carrying psittacosis or "parrot fever" which can be transmitted to man.

If you have any of the birds listed, have a veterinarian examine them.

And better have your doctor take a look at you and your wife. Psittacosis acts much like flu. A chest x-ray may show lung involvement.

It is my understanding that birds sold through reliable chemicals are pretty well screened for psittacosis, but since many probably are distributed or sold through irregular channels.

Dear Dr. Thorsteson: Does egg white have any nutritional quality? I am fond of this, and frequently make a sandwich of it. I don't like the yellow part as it leaves an odor.—J.M.

Egg white is primarily protein, representing about four grams, or 15 calories, plus a trace of calcium. So yes, it has nutritional value. In calories alone, it represents about 30 per cent of a whole egg. Some people avoid the yolks as means of avoiding cholesterol.

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Double - Dummy Problem

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2♣ | Pass | 3♣ | Pass |
| 3♠ | Pass | 4♠ | Pass |

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Assume you're in six spades and also have the benefit of seeing the East-West cards. How would you play the hand?

Win the club and lead a trump. With West showing out, you might be pardoned for thinking this is not your lucky day, but since the condition state that East has the hand he has, including six trumps, you proceed with the battle by cashing both red AKs and drawing three more rounds of trumps to produce this position:

North

♦Q
♣A9

West
♣310

East

South

When you now lead the ace of trumps, West is in a sorry state. Let's assume he discards the queen of hearts. In that case you discard the jack of hearts from dummy and lead the jack to beat ten next, forcing West again to make a fatal discard. East collects a trump. With West above and the line, but that is the only trick you can take.

The outcome is the same if West discards the queen of diamonds in the three-card position. He gets squeezed in identical fashion when you next fire the ten of diamonds at him. There is no escape from the third round.

Nor is West any better off if he discards a club in the diagramed position. In that case you discard a red jack from dummy and cash two clubs to produce the required twelve tricks.

Tomorrow: Super defence.

Take Off Fat With Home Recipe Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then two tablespoonfuls twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Diet.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blues disappear when you feel better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Dodgers, Astros Play Like It's September!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Can you have a crucial baseball series in May?

Los Angeles Dodgers and Houston Astros, a preseason pick to fight it out in the National League's West Division this season, certainly think so.

The Dodgers and Astros opened an important, if you don't believe crucial, four-game set in Los Angeles Thursday night and even this early in the season, there was an air of tension to the game.

Houston finally won it 4-3 in 11 innings on Tommy Helms' sacrifice bunt. But there was plenty of drama before that happened.

First there was Don Sutton of Los Angeles working on a one-hitter into the ninth and leading 3-0, Sutton, looking for his sixth straight victory, surrendered a leadoff single to Jim Wynn and walked Bob Watson with one out. Then, with two out, Doug Rader crashed a three-run homer to turn the game around.

TOMMY HELMS

The drama belonged to the Dodgers next and Frank Robinson, who had singled home a run earlier, came through with a two-out double in the bottom of the ninth, sending the game into extra innings.

Jim Ray, 7-6, escaped a two-on- two-out spot in the 10th before the Astros broke through for the winning run in the 11th. Lee May reached base on Bill Grabarkewitz's error and pinch runner Bobby Fenwick came around on a hit by Watson, a walk to Rader, and Helms' bunt.

Cincinnati, which doesn't buy the theory of a two-team race in the National League West, won its eighth straight, whipping San Francisco 8-5. It was the seventh consecutive loss for the Giants.

In other National League games, New York Mets topped Montreal 5-3 and Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis Cardinals 6-4. In the only American League action, Detroit Tigers whipped Boston Red Sox 7-2 and California Angels topped Oakland Athletics 4-3 in 12 innings.

The victory—their fifth straight—moved Houston one full game ahead of Los Angeles in the West race.

Hal McRae delivered his first two hits this season—a single and double that drove in four runs for the Reds. Cincinnati tagged Sam McDowell with his first loss after five victories.

Bobby Bonds drilled a three-run homer for the Giants, last year's West Division champions, now 11 games off the pace.

The Mets, who have won seven straight and 21 of 28 this season, got the only runs they needed in the first inning against Montreal when Willie Mays opened with a walk and Ted Martinez tripled. Mays upset catcher John Boccabella on the play at the plate and the ball got away for an error, enabling Martinez to score the deciding run.

Jim McAndrew earned the victory, working the first six innings with relief ace Tug McGraw nailing it down.

Don Kessinger drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Ken Rudolph's key triple delivered two more as the Cubs knocked off the Cardinals.

It was the eighth straight loss for St. Louis.

Syd O'Brien opened the 12th inning with a double and came on to score the winning run on the two-out single by Mickey Rivers as California topped Oakland.

O'Brien, who came in the game as a pinch runner in the seventh following Ken McMullen's double, had scored the tying run in that inning on a pinch single by John Stephenson.

Step on Father Time

Willie Mays, 41-year-old National League veteran, has the jump on the ball as he scores from first on triple by New York Met teammate Ted Martinez in the first inning of Thursday afternoon game with the Montreal Expos at Shea Stadium in New York. Ball got away from Montreal catcher John Boccabella, left, also allowing Martinez to score. Watching play is John Milner, next scheduled Met batter. Mets won 3-1. (AP Photo)

Preakness Trainer Has Choice

BALTIMORE (AP) — Riva Ridge and Upper Case come battling through the stretch, with the rest of the field far back, when suddenly Upper Case's jockey pulls him up and Riva Ridge wins the Preakness. It could happen Saturday—legally.

But it won't happen, according to trainer Lucien Laurin, who said Thursday: "Let the best horse win."

Laurin is confident that Riva Ridge, the Kentucky Derby winner, is the best horse.

But Laurin does have until 45 minutes before Preakness post time at 5:48 p.m. EDT to take advantage of a rule which allows a trainer to declare in advance which member of his entry he would have win in the event both are 1st in front. The bettors are not affected because an entry is a single betting interest.

The rule has never been used in a Preakness but twice there have been declarations in the Kentucky Derby, one of which backfired.

In 1921, Col. E. R. Bradley had the entry of Black Servant and Behave Yourself in the Derby and declared Black Servant. But jockey Charlie Thompson forgot himself and urged Behave Yourself to a head victory over Black Servant. Bradley still won the Derby but lost a big bet in the winter book which did not recognize an entry.

Bradley declared Bubbling Over to win over Baggeobag, gape in the 1938 Derby and the two finished first and second respectively.

Richard Marsh, chairman of British Rail, examines telex facilities on a new conference train called 'Inset Europe' which is touring British business centres. The seven-coach train contains a television studio, reception area, four conference rooms, a club room, exhibition areas and the latest audio and visual aids. During its tour of Britain business executives will participate in working sessions held on the train towns, on how to handle the opportunities of British entry into the Common Market. (CP Photo)

Poor in Toronto Have $7 Weekly

TORONTO (CP) — A survey of 534 poor families in Toronto shows that a family of four has $29 a week for all expenses, including food, after paying for housing, credit and medical costs.

The study shows that if the family decides not to spend anything on recreation, transportation or household furniture, it still does not have sufficient funds to purchase adequate food or clothing.

"If that same family spends according to the typical Toronto expenditure pattern of 21.1 per cent of net income for food, they would have only 30 cents per person per day for food," the study says.

The results are from an income-supplement program run by an east-end community centre which decided last Christmas to give cash grants instead of traditional food hampers to the area's poor.

Program officials say the 534 families which applied for the aid have incomes fairly close to the average for the poor in the area."

"Obviously, these financial data can prove nothing about the nutritional adequacy of the diets of these 534 families," the study says. "But the clue it gives should not be ignored. There is need for more investigation."

The study says the average family income after taxes was $61 to $130 less than the Statistics Canada monthly poverty line of $171 for one person, $283 for a family of two and $457 for a family of five.

CLC Old Guard Stands Its Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — The old guard of organized labor in Canada stood its ground against all comers at the Canadian Labor Congress conference Thursday, but its ranks were drawn tighter, perhaps, than ever before.

Challenges to the authority of the congress executive focused on its leadership during the receding labor crisis and also on the issue of admission to the CLC of unions once considered pariahs.

The Quebec situation was raised by Marcel Pepin, head of the Montreal Labor Council, who denounced the convention for complacent inaction.

Delegates approved an emergency resolution Monday intended as a statement of support for the common front of Quebec unions in their battle with the provincial government, but which left open the course of action the congress might take.

Mr. Perreault protested that such a stand was hardly enough.

"We (the Quebec caucus) felt more should be done but you said you had done all that's what you want, then we'll continue on our own."

Other speakers were strong in support of the outspoken Quebec delegate.

"It seems to me that we're going to fight the same fight within a couple of years," warned one Ontario steelworker, "and we're sitting here with no demonstrations and no finances for the brothers in Quebec."

Another Ontario delegate, John Clout of the St. Catharines labor council, said newspaper reports indicated the solidarity of the Quebec common front is breaking up.

If so, he said, "it is the fault of the leaders of the Canadian labor movement that we have failed to get behind the workers in Quebec."

He said the congress should have threatened a general strike across Canada in order to win the release from jail of Quebec union leaders.

The big fight of the day, however, was over admitting the 7,000-member United Fishermen and Allied Workers, based on the west coast, and the 29,000-member United Electrical Workers.

Both unions were drummed from the central labor body during the 1950s in anti-Communist purges but continued to exist and retain reputations for unparalleled militancy. The congress executive easily resisted demands that they be re-admitted at the 1959 convention in Edmonton.

This time the leadership apparently thought it wiser to avoid an open floor fight on the issue.

At first, a constitutional committee composed of top CLC executives, recommended that the resolutions be defeated.

Then William Mahoney, CLC vice-president and Canadian director of the Steelworkers, said the resolutions were unconstitutional as only the executive council has power to certify unions in the CLC.

Mr. MacDonald agreed, but did not rule the resolutions out of order. The explanation came from Joe Morris, chairman of the committee, who admitted that "if we had asked you (Mr. MacDonald) to rule them out of order, it is impossible to imagine the riot on the convention floor."

In the resulting procedural battle, the resolutions eventually were referred to the executive council for consideration despite a solid wedge of steelworkers from Hamilton and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who shouted their defiance

U of T Yields To 20 Pickets

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto, through vice-President Robin Ross, capitulated Thursday.

It agreed that an unused campus clubhouse, occupied for the last six weeks by parents who want it turned into a day-care centre for children of students and administration staff, may be used for that purpose.

Mr. Ross gave in under some pressure. He had been kept out of his office for 10 minutes by about 20 protesting pickets.

Grumbled Mr. Ross: "Uncivilized bullies."

Nixon Commences Journey to Moscow

Peace Aim Of Visit

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon headed for his Moscow summit session today voicing hope for "some progress" in laying foundations for "a world peace."

"We are not going to make headlines today and solve all U.S.-Soviet differences," Nixon told well-wishers at a brief departure ceremony as he took off on the first leg of his journey.

But "we do expect to make some progress," he said, in improving relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and in establishment a "better chance for peace tomorrow and in all the years ahead."

He talked of a "a world of peace, a world of progress for all."

The president's first stop will be Salzburg, Austria, where he was due to arrive tonight. He will go to Moscow Monday morning.

The presidential farewell ceremonies were held in a hangar at Andrews Air Force Base as rain pelted down.

Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew headed the well-wishers. Others included cabinet members, congressional leaders of both parties and diplomats.

At an informal reception Friday night for reporters, Nixon displayed high hopes for the success of the summit although he cautioned that results could not be nailed down until after he met Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist party chief.

The president gave an extensive review of what he hopes to achieve during his eight-day visit to the Soviet Union.

He spoke with great optimism about Brezhnev's attitude, as it was set out in a letter delivered to him Thursday by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Nixon said it showed a positive approach towards bridging differences between the United States and the Soviet Union.

There were three main areas which offered considerable promise and on which he saw the possibility—although not a certainty—of agreements or understandings.

These were in limiting nuclear weapons, greater trade and space exploration.

The strategic arms limitation talks have made considerable progress, the president said, although there "are still some very difficult problems that remain unresolved. . . ."

On trade, Nixon said: "I would say the chances for some positive results are good—not certain, but certainly good."

Prince Edward Trail Opened

The Prince Edward County portion of the Quinte-Hastings trail was opened officially yesterday afternoon with a hike including trail organizers and municipal officials. Stops included Roblin Mill, Mountain View, the Big Swamp Lumber Road and Lake-On-The-Mountain. Hikers enjoyed the scenery, admired spring flowers, took photographs and sketched beauty spots like that in the above picture.

'Inadequate' Says President

Bell Canada Awarded Healthy Rate Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada has won a healthy rate increase which will raise basic monthly telephone charges five per cent and boost other tariffs.

The Canadian transport commission Friday granted Bell about 60 per cent of the total additional revenue sought by the company. The rate increase would bring to $47.2 million if in effect throughout 1972 while Bell asked for $78.1 million.

Immediate reaction came from Bell president R. C. Scrivener in Toronto, who complained of the decision to grant Bell $31 million less than it sought.

He said that while the amount awarded would allow extension of direct-dialling on the fringes of metropolitan areas, it would not be enough for many capital plans for 1972 "and is clearly inadequate for 1973."

The increase is Bell's third since 1969. The company obtained increases of $27.5 million out of $52.8 million requested in 1969 and $22.5 million out of $30 million sought in 1970.

The new rate increases will take effect 45 days after the company submits a detailed tariff list to the commission. The list, based on the decision, probably will be submitted next week.

The increases will apply to Bell territory in Ontario, Quebec and parts of Labrador and the Northwest Territories.

The cost of basic monthly service will climb an additional 75 cents to 20 cents for individual residential lines and 35 cents to 45 cents for individual business lines in most Bell exchange areas.

A new regrouping plan approved by the commission will lead to some exceptions in Windsor, Ont., Quebec City, Ottawa, the fringe areas of Montreal and Toronto and some smaller centres.

Other changes:

—A six per cent boost in charges for auxiliary services, such as touch-tone dials, will reap the company about $9.7 million annually.

—Bell will get about $12.2 million a year from increases in long-distance tariffs.

—About $4.1 million yearly will enter company coffers because of higher service charges.

The commission also set an upper limit of 8.2 per cent on the rate of return on total average capital. The new rate increase will give Bell a 7.8-per-cent rate of return. .... ..... .

Quebec Criticized
Labor Treaty Said Violated

QUEBEC (CP) — The World Confederation of Labor has lodged an international protest against the Quebec government because it appears "certain fundamental liberties were violated" in recent labor disputes, the group's secretary general, Jean Breuck, said Friday.

Sent here by the group representing 29 million workers in 22 countries to study the current dispute between the Quebec government and about 200,000 public service employees, Mr. Breuck said the protest was lodged with the International Labor Organization in Geneva on the basis of available information.

He said Quebec legislation ending an 11-day public service strike last month contravened the spirit of an international labor convention ratified by the Canadian government, and he has asked the federal government if Quebec is in accord with the convention.

During the public service strike last month, emergency back-to-work legislation, adopted April 21, ordered the workers back on the job the next day. The legislation included a provision to impose a two-year contract if none is negotiated by June 1.

Mr. Breuck said the legislation was in opposition to the spirit of the international labor convention ratified and signed by the Canadian government last month.

He said he has asked the federal government whether Quebec agrees with the convention which specifies freedom of union association.

Mr. Breuck said the protest was lodged in Geneva when it was learned that three union presidents had been jailed for contempt of court resulting from injunctions violated during the public service strike.

The three presidents received one-year sentences for controlling the violation of back-to-work injunctions intended to provide maintenance of essential services.

Two Children Killed Playing with Gasoline

KITCHENER (CP) — Two children died Friday night after matches they were playing with touched off a gasoline explosion in the basement of a partially constructed home.

Dead are Stephen Ranzlel, 6, and Lauder Luke Mauger, 7.

Derrick Chamberlin, 6, who had been playing with the boys was not injured.

He told a Record reporter the other two boys had discovered a can of gasoline in the south-end home and had poured its contents down the basement stairs.

The Chamberlin boy said he stayed outside and watched through an open basement window while the others played with matches just prior to the explosion.

James Quiring, a neighbor, heard the explosion, and attempted to enter the basement but was repulsed by flames and smoke. He was slightly injured.

Another neighbor, Douglas Evans, wrapped himself in a water-soaked blanket and entered the basement, bringing out one of the boys before firemen arrived. Firemen removed the other boy.

Damage from the explosion and subsequent fire was confined to the basement.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Little change in weather conditions is forecast for the next two days. A number of weak disturbances are moving eastward across Northern Ontario giving rise to a few thunder storms and a temporary halt to the heat wave there. The southern part of the province is still under the control of a ridge of high pressure and will continue sunny and warm throughout the weekend.

Youth Shot

BELFAST (Reuter) — A 17-year-old Londonderry youth was shot to death and more than a dozen persons injured Friday in a day of bomb and gun violence across Northern Ireland. The army said it hit a gunman after he fired on a military observation post from the Roman Catholic Bogside area of the city.

Security Stiffened

WASHINGTON (AP) — While FBI experts continued today to search for clues in debris from an explosion in a Pentagon restroom, the United States government stiffened security for all federal buildings because of the bombing.

Airliner Crashes

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A Soviet Antonov 10 airliner, capable of carrying up to 100 passengers, crashed Thursday near Kharkov, killing all aboard, Pravda reported today. There was no word on how many people were on the four-engined turboprop plane at the time.

Woman Dies In Montreal Hotel Blaze

MONTREAL (CP) — A woman died early today and a man was injured when a three-alarm fire forced evacuation of guests from the downtown Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel.

Police said Mrs. Gertrude Doyle, 85, originally from Ottawa but a permanent resident of the hotel "for years," was found dead in her bed on the third floor.

A police spokesman said 632 persons—guests and staff—were evacuated within 10 minutes.

He said 22 persons were taken to hospital but most were released within hours after treatment for smoke inhalation.

One man suffered a broken leg and cuts after he jumped from the fourth floor to a fire escape at the second-floor level.

Peking Attacks U.S.-Soviet Ties

HONG KONG (Reuter) — Peking radio marked the departure of President Nixon for Moscow today with an attack on the United States and the Soviet Union for "dreaming of controlling the world."

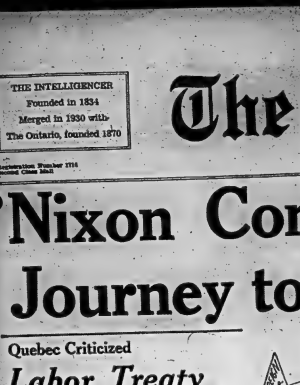
The official government radio added that "newly-risen nations" will shatter the dreams of the two powers for world domination.

Peking radio, like other official Chinese news media, made no mention of Nixon's Moscow visit.

But the timing of the statement was seen as an indication that Peking views the trip with disfavor.

Illegitimate Babies Brought Half Century in Asylum

DEWSBURY, England (Reuter) — Two nuns young women were banished to a mental institution 50 years ago after having illegitimate babies, and were freed only this year, a welfare worker says.



Frank Sheridan, director of social services in this Yorkshire town, disclosed the story to a local social service group. One of the women was sent to the institution when she was 18. She now is 68. The other, now 74, had been there since she was 24.

Sheridan said in each case the parents had approached the local authority which, at that time, had no power to deal with the situation except for committing their daughter to an institution. They had not left it because they had nowhere to go. They now are living in a hostel.

Construction Pitfalls

The boom in residential construction helped bog this heavy crane in the soft earth at Bellerive's westend HOME project. The operator had to extend his boom, raising his front wheels in the air. Broken concrete blocks placed under the wheels then gave him traction.

Red Soldiers Spring From Rubber Forests

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of North Vietnamese infantrymen backed by tanks sprang from the rubber plantations north of Saigon today in a fight to stop a South Vietnamese drive to lift the siege of An Loc.

Advance elements of a government relief force were less than two miles from linking up with the weary and shell-battered defenders when the North Vietnamese struck. In a 44-day siege, the An Loc defence force has withstood more than 20,000 rounds of artillery, rockets and mortars to hold out the ruined provincial capital 90 miles north of Saigon.

President Nguyen Van Thieu has ordered his army to keep An Loc at all costs. For three days, the South Vietnamese relief column had moved up Highway 13 toward An Loc with little opposition. It was the biggest advance since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30.

But just as dawn was breaking today, the North Vietnamese counter-attacked. Seven tanks were reported knocked out.

About 4,000 artillery, rocket and mortar shells were fired into An Loc Friday. Field reports said eight South Vietnamese were killed and 38 were wounded.

Muscle Disease Cripples Big Dogs

TORONTO (CP) — A disease that cripples large dogs is sweeping North America, a Toronto veterinarian said Friday.

"It's getting to be a very serious problem," said Dr. Alexander Hroncok in an interview.

"In some giant breeds, over 80 per cent of dogs are affected to varying degrees."

The condition, in which one of the major hip muscles fails to develop, is known as dysplasia. The shaft of the leg bone continues to grow, but it does not fit properly into the hip socket.

A 1971 study in Indiana showed that 98 per cent of St. Bernards examined by one veterinarian suffered to some extent from the disease.

More than 75 per cent of some other large breeds were also affected.

OSD Closes First Time For Holiday

For the first time in its history, Ontario School for the deaf has closed for a long holiday weekend. None of its 300 students remain on campus.

The reason is the department of education's decision last fall to subsidize county boards for transportation costs of home-going pupils from residential schools for the deaf and blind.

The transportation subsidy has even affected the weekend scene in downtown Belleville. With 300 students going home every weekend, there are fewer young people from the school patronizing downtown stores.

Buses take pupils home every weekend to the Toronto, Ottawa and Brockville areas and every other weekend to Ben goes as far as Cornwall. This bus originates at the Brantford school for the blind and drops off pupils along the way before picking up OSD's contingent here.

To get children in the north home for long weekend, three buses left Friday morning for Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and Timmins. The few pupils from the area west of Sault Ste. Marie are spending the weekend in the Belleville district, guests of friends, relatives and staff members.

Home-going transportation costs are minimal for county boards of education. They pay OSD for the cost of weekend transportation for the pupils from their area attending the school, and recover most of the money through direct government grants.

A Taste of Expo '72

It wasn't as big as Montreal's Expo but there was the same kind of enthusiasm and hard work as students of Queen Mary Public School displayed wares and foods of 16 countries. Gordon Shewfelt, a principal for 33 years in Toronto, spent his time yesterday touring the booths, pausing here for a taste of cocoa served from the Ghana - Egypt booth by 11-year-old Judy Lucas. Classes took turns during the day visiting the show place.

Curriculum Decisions Now Made by Area Committees

When Johnny started to high school, he was stuck with "typing" the same novels, plays and poems he had studied in grade 8 - maybe even grade 7.

More often than not, he covered the same counties in geography, grade after grade, in the concrete, extinction of others. He repeated English history, for example, in Shakespeare, year after year, despite promotion in his report grades, and he drew the same diagrams, memorized the same dates and even played the same games in phys. ed.

If the situation sounds familiar, it's because it has gone on in Canadian schools for generations.

But now something is being done about it. Through a new curriculum committees, now set up in Hastings county in each associated school group. An associated school group is a high school and its feeder elementary schools.

By getting all teachers, from kindergarten to Grade 13, together to plan their courses of study, wasteful duplication is avoided pupils are exposed to an orderly sequence of learning.

One such exercise took place Thursday at Centennial Collegiate Secondary School in Madoc, when 16 curriculum committees met in the afternoon to plan their courses.

The school board has set up its own curriculum committees to advise the board, and a member of the post-secondary committee, MacDonald Smith of Belleville, travelled to Madoc Thursday to sit in with the English teachers who had a reason. During the trustees' meetings with professors at Queen's they were told students were unable to express themselves in English unable to write clear reports, unable to spell or use correct grammar.

"There is an obvious argument to explain this but we're retaining more students who in the past would have dropped out of school," he said. "But this doesn't apply to these students as a result of the failing birthrate.

"Teachers are being set in competition against one another to build courses that are more attractive to students so you won't have to lay teachers off," he said. "Being laid off because enough students don't take his courses is one of a teacher's greatest fears."

"We have more model building in history, more projects in geography — instead of a teacher.

But before he left, Mr. Smith had an encouraging word from his post-secondary committee's findings.

"Industry and the universities say they are getting better-educated, better prepared students than ever before," he told the English teachers. They had only one complaint: lack of facility in expressing themselves."

Police Find Abuses At Outlet Park

PICTON (Staff) — Outlet Provincial Park, officially opened for visitors last weekend, was patrolled by constables of the Picton detachment of the OPP throughout Friday night as numerous liquor violation charges were laid.

A spokesman for the OPP today said several criminal charges and juvenile delinquent act charges also were laid against park visitors during the night. Heavy vandalism including a number of broken windows was reported in the park as well. A regular OPP patrol in the park area is organized each summer but last night it was essential for constables to remain on the scene until daybreak.

Obituaries and Funerals

GORDON GEORGE BOYLE

Believed the last surviving Belleviliian who shipped the Great Lakes aboard sailing craft, Gordon George Boyle, 80, 364 Oak St., died in Belleville General Hospital today.

Mr. Boyle, a native of Belleville, had led a varied and active career life, dating back to the days when sailing vessels still played a commercial role on Ontario's waterways.

Born in Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyle, he became a sailor as a youth, working on both steamers and sailing vessels in the Great Lakes trade.

In 1911 he quit as a sailor and last same year, as a millinaan, he was a member of the Canadian artillery team which went to Britain to participate in gunnery competitions. The Canadians won a majority of the prizes, including the Canada Cup.

That same year he went to work as a brakeman with the Grand Trunk Railway, which some years later was nationalized inlo the system that became Canadian National Railways. He retired as a railroader in 1957 — by that time a conductor.

Even in retirement he still remained active, serving for a number of years as a school crossing guard.

He was a member of the Great Lakes Historical Society, of Cleveland, Ohio, and a member of the Masonic Order Minden Lodge, 330, Kingston Frontenac and Cataraqui chapters Royal Arch Masons, King Baldwin preceptory, Belleville. He also was a member of Ramesses Shrine, Toronto.

Mr. Boyle is survived by his wife, the former Ethel Anderson, a son William C. Boyle, Trenton and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Fair, Toronto.

Resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel where service will be conducted Monday at 2 p.m. by Canon R. B. D. Wright. Interment in Belleville Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

MARNER — In loving memory of our dear sister and sister-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Marner, who died 2 years ago, May 21, 1965.

Time heals the years of pain,
Loving, giving, the whole of life was in her.
Memories are all we have to cherish.

Happy memories, fond and true,
Are the most treasured gifts of you.

—Ever remembered by Daisy and Ethel.

MARNER — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ruth Marner, who died 2 years ago today, May 21, 1965.

Mother dear, you were the best,
Heaven has another angel now,
But we have an empty place in our home.

—Sadly missed in our family chain is broken.
She has gone from our home but not from our hearts.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter-in-law, Dorothy and family.

MUIR — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Jessie Muir, who died May 21, 1971, Harold away from us one year.
Sadly missed by Jessie.

It's one lonely year since you left us,
It's one lonely year since we last saw you,
We have never been the same since,
We have never forgotten you.
Sadly missed, always loved,
Remembered by Sandy and David.

All Swimmers Gain Medals

To ensure adequate swimming standards, students and instructors attended a water safety through their paces Sunday, under the auspices of the local area Red Cross supervisor and Royal Life Saving instructor from Toronto.

A class of 14- to 17-year-olds came through with flying colors, as all 19 members achieving Royal Life Saving Society bronze medals.

The medal qualifies individuals to act as guard anywhere in the province at the age of 17.

The 10 are Danny Crosswskii, Lorna Hooper, Eric Bennett, Betsy Hallett, Jane Siler, Doug Hill, David Greer, Bob Jeffrey, Ken Moulton, Peter McLaine and Scott Waines.

Emmanuel Power conducted the classes.

Twenty-two attended the combined Red Cross-Royal Life Saving Society water safety clinic, with all being rated good for water safety instruction.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors for all their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of Bereavement. A special thanks to Dr. Ross, Dr. Hutchinson, Dr. Bennett, Dr. Wright, also our staff nurses from 4N of Belleville General Hospital.

The Lucciola family

To the nurses and staff of the Belleville General Hospital for their kindness and care during the illness of Dewers and cards, also to Drs. Horne and Hutchinson for their visits while I was ill in hospital. Much appreciated.

Isabel Hubbard, Verney, Edward.

Cannifton Club Has New Owners

Club Cedars of Cannifton, for years a popular locale for weekend dances and special events' parties, has new ownership.

The new owners are Roy and Molly Baigent, formerly of Big Island in Prince Edward county, who took over the business about two weeks ago from John and Gerry Skurka.

They welcome all former patrons as well as new customers," Mr. Baigent told The Intelligencer.

Originally of England, Mr. and Mrs. Baigent came to Canada about eight years and settled on a Big Island farm. From the farm, however, they branched out to operate a teen club in Picton for a couple of years.

Mr. Baigent said operation of Club Cedars would remain basically the same as under the previous owners.

Aside from the regular weekly dances, Club Cedars caters to special-event fund raising dances and to wedding parties.

Red Arrows Here

TRENTON (Staff) — Quinte residents will be treated to aerobatic displays by Brigadier General Jack Dunn, the Red Arrows, next month, but perceptive people in the area will be able to get sneak previews of the RAF aircraft practising in the area in the next few days.

Ten Hawker-Siddeley Gnats and two Hercules (support aircraft) that comprise the Red Arrow group are due to arrive at CFB Trenton this afternoon, following an island hopping trek across the Atlantic.

Military spokesmen here say the Royal Airforce team will be training for North American shows in this area May 26 to 31 before departing for Washington, D.C. the morning of the 25th.

Red Arrows return to Trenton June 8 to stage several precision performances, the one here slated for June 10 at 1:30 p.m., as part of annual Armed Forces Day activities at CFB Trenton.

Red Arrow return to Britain June 12 from where to base.

Sidney Mill Rate Down This Year

1972 mill rates are down 2.3 mills in Sidney Township following approval of a new budget Tuesday.

Spending will increase by $138,338, allowing the township to go ahead with plans for a new municipal garage and fire hall. Sleeves will also be installed at nine intersections under Highway 2 for later connecting to main sewerage and water lines.

Residents of Batawa will pay the highest rates, sewerage facilities bringing the tariff to 134 mills for public supporting residents and 148.1 for

Land Swap Declined

Trustees of the separate school board took no action last night on an offer of a school site in a new Trenton subdivision.

The 3.2 acres in Brett Park in northwest Trenton between Front St. and the Murray public supporting commercial enterprises. Corresponding figures for those contributing to separate schools are 146.5 and 162.

Other public supporting will receive a levy of 103.9 mills while commercial enterprises will pay 118 mills.

In Belleville, the assessment to separate farm and residential ratepayers is 113.7 mills, to separate commercial ratepayers 128.7 mills. Trenton's separate rates are 117.2 and 132.6 mills.

In addition, all farm and residential dwellers are required to pay a waste disposal fee of $9, covering costs for the entire year. Last year's fee was $8 for only part of the year.

Prospective tax lighted areas will be charged an extra sum depending on the location involved.

Reeve Jack Bush was pleased with the new budget. "There are some added things, more than we had last year," he said, "but we still maintained lower rates".

Another factor in the mill-rate decline was a surplus of $22,172 carried over from the 1971 budget.

Tourist Group Meets May 24

John Smith, MPP for Hamilton Mountain and parliamentary assistant to Hon. John White, Minister & Industry and Tourism, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner for the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region.

The dinner and election of officers will be held Wednesday evening, May 24 at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, 39 Queens Street, Trenton.

Book Exchange Shows Profit

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

STIRLING—"There's a novel — if temporary — touch to this village's long-established business district these days.

It's Lits — the inspiration of 19-year-old Elizabeth Ridley, who conceived the idea of a used book store and exchange as a summer project.

Elizabeth, who's family came to the area from Ottawa ago from Toronto and operates the Wingfield project for retarded children and adults on the Campbellford Road northwest of here, set up in business with books from her grandfather's collection and volumes and magazines donated by friends.

Lits — named after Elizabeth — is also an outlet for handcrafts made by Wingfield residents.

For the moment, while Elizabeth attends Quinte Secondary School in Belleville, the store is minded earlier in the day by her older sister Ruthanne, 19-year-old University of Toronto student.

Although the enterprise is still in its early stages, both girls are satisfied with the response to their stock, which ranges from comic books to paperbacks and hardcovers.

While a majority of the customers thus far have been younger people some book dealers also have come calling — and bought some of the older books on display, reports Elizabeth.

So far "we've been quite surprised with the profit we made the first week," says the young proprietress. "So it is going well."

Drawing the Line

When a man enters the medical profession he can look forward to financial security but at the same time he says goodbye to much if not all of his private life.

More and more today he is also seeing inroads into his profession by government. This is necessary to some degree for the organization of medical services. At the same time there is a danger of government involvement becoming a bureaucratic dream world — a jungle of petty officialdom and little Caesars who are long on red tape and short on the kind of insight that knows where to draw the line between administrative necessity and bureaucratic despotism.

An example of what doctors may be facing has come from Dr. G. E. Mosher of Winnipeg. A former president of the Manitoba Medical Association, he says civil servants are setting up barriers between patients and necessary investigation and the patients do not even know the barriers are there. Moreover, he says their doctors may be reluctant to order investigation "because of fear of reprisal by the surveillance apparatus." The physician speaks also of attempts by Manitoba politicians to coerce several groups of doctors into setting up community clinics, not in the north but in areas well supplied with doctors and diagnostic services. A new hospital that was needed, he alleged, was denied approval for some months as a means of pressuring practitioners into forming a community clinic.

This is all disturbing enough — but even more alarming is Dr. Mosher's warning that since organized medicine was inadequate when face to face with politicians perhaps only "the development of medical trade unions, with a hard - headed willingness to disrupt society to get their point of view heard, will roll back this obstruction in communications between our political masters and ideas of us who are called upon to provide the health care."

At this point Dr. Mosher begins to lose our sympathy. For one thing his words reveal a lay bias. To suggest the medical oath that a doctor does not refuse to treat a patient. We have already seen, in Quebec, the consequences of work stoppages in hospitals. If the doctors were to quit also it would be a serious blow to the integrity of the profession as well as to patients and hospital services. At the same time government must have a right to respect of the doctors in this period of medical evolution. The two arms must complement each other rather than operate in a climate of suspicion and hostility.

Travelling Couple

Described by The Globe and Mail's Zena Cherry as "a couple of Canada's architects, Dr. Omond McKillop Solandt recently married Vaire Wollaston Pringle, widow of Alexander Pringle of Kent.

The widower Mrs. Solandt is a medical doctor who after the first war was chairman of the Defence Research Board in Ottawa for ten years. Subsequently he was director of research for the CNR, based in Montreal later moving to Toronto as vice - president of de Havilland and Hawker - Siddeley. He was also Chancellor of the University of Toronto until 1971. Another position he has held is chairman of the Science Council of Canada; in fact his term with it is just ending.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Solandt have grown up families from their previous marriages and both share contrasting interests in travel and the outdoors — from far off fields to virgin territory at home. Their wedding trip was to Guadaloupe in the Caribbean and then right around South America. This summer the couple will go canoeing in Quetico Park in Northwest Ontario on the border of Minnesota. Dr. Solandt has retraced miles of old fur trade trails all over the country.

Police Week

This has been Police Week and we take this opportunity to pay tribute to our local force and to the Provincial Provincial Police officers in our midst. The protection of property and the citizenry is a 24-hour job and it is one that is performed with tact, efficiency and resolution by the law men. Police work and services have been on call in the area this week and it was the real thing one day when Chief Crosbie and several of his men were called on to subdue a knife - wielding pair downtown.

Former Cabinet Minister's Challenge

Paul Hellyer Assails Canada's 'Drift Into Socialism'

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The question about Paul Hellyer is not how many MPs he might elect under his Action Canada party flag, but how many Liberals he might be an influence in defeating.

Not that many politically exigent Paul Hellyer to defeat them directly, but rather by draining off enough Liberal votes in some back-and-gone constituencies to elect Conservatives or even New Democrats.

Paul Hellyer might be brushed off as a maverick but his Action Canada as a movement that will move only into political oblivion.

Except that his political credentials are absolutely first class.

Think of it.

In Pearl Commons 22 years and still only a politically young 49.

Initially a member of the Liberal cabinet as Associate Defence Minister 15 years ago.

Served in the cabinets, as Defence and Transport minister, of three prime ministers, Louis St. Laurent, Lester Pearson and Pierre Trudeau.

Resigned not in pique, but in principle, from the Trudeau cabinet, protesting that federal government consideration policies were weakening the central power and fracturing the country provincially.

Remained decently silent as a Liberal backbencher for two years, indulging in no petulant Tuesday-hailing or vengeful government-sniping.

Exemplary conduct, becoming a politician of stature who had been among the leading challengers at the last Liberal convention for his party's leadership.

But it was no secret during his two years of self-imposed silence that Paul Hellyer was increasingly concerned by what he worried was a Liberal drift into socialism and a lack of constructive Conservative counter-action.

So finally he could tolerate it no longer, left the party as he had left the cabinet, spoke out strongly and organized Action Canada, a party which even now has no place to go, except perhaps into the unlikely alliance with the Conservatives or Social Credits.

But Paul Hellyer himself, because of his undented stature, remains a political figure of consequence.

Especially to his old colleagues in the Liberal cabinet and the party's back benches and back rooms.

They must have wondered, as they listened to him the other day as he attacked them in a speech at Niagara Falls to the National Conference of Industrial Managers, why Prime Minister Trudeau had not made more of an effort to accommodate his cabinet views.

More than making up for his silence of the past, Paul Hellyer came thundering out in his opening sentences with this anti-government blast:

"It is becoming increasingly obvious that the Trudeau administration is determined to destroy the Canadian middle class. A series of legislative changes push inexorably in this direction."

Then he ticked off tax "reform," capital gains, the new unemployment insurance scheme, and the redigging of "the Lougheed agreement."

All of them, charged Paul Hellyer, deliberately calculated to strip-mine the self-supporting working taxpayer.

"It is all part of a pattern," he warns. "Soak the middle class and use the money for a2 kinds of counter-productive hare-brained schemes."

"The is to pay people for not working when there is so much useful work to be done."

The Trudeau "drive into socialism," charged Paul Hellyer, only four years ago one of the prime minister's most trusted cabinet captains, "has gone so far that there are more people now drawing unemployment insurance than there are unemployed."

Ultimate aim of the "redistribution" as Paul Hellyer calls the clique around the prime minister, is to use taxes to "drive the wealthy into tax havens, force farmers off the land, close small businesses and turn the workers into a tax-producing machine."

"Then," gloomy Paul Hellyer, "the government can do anything it wants and the Montreal intellectuals will be supreme."

And all this from the man who had more years of Liberal cabinet service than any of his current members save Senator Paul Martin, government leader in the Senate.

Stratford Scene

Two of Stratford, Ontario's white swans take to the cool waters of the Avon River as they begin their annual summer of graceful gliding along the shores of parks and walkways. Every year, thousands of tourists come to Stratford for the Shakespeare Festival, seen in the background. The swans were released earlier than usual this year, to mark the 400th birthday of William Shakespeare.

Political Violence Not Confined to U.S.

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The shooting of George Wallace will, rightly or wrongly, serve to worsen the reputation of the United States in the world at large, especially after the assassinations and other forms of political violence there in the last decade.

Wallace's views on race greatly lessened the impact made abroad by the attempt on his life, especially in comparison with the shock caused outside U.S. borders by the killing of the Kennedy brothers and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

But the reaction this time resembled the effect of the earlier violence in the way it has prompted widespread comment on the alleged sickness of U.S. society. The U.S. is again pictured as torn by deep internal conflict and lording in the self-confidence usually associated with it prior to the Indochina war.

Again the world has been jolted by the seeming inability of the U.S. democratic process to survive a federal election year without the intervention of the bullet.

As in 1968, the newest flare-up of gun violence occurred against a background of continuing war in Vietnam and controversy over U.S. military policy there.

But one of the more disturbing factors, in the estimation of some foreign observers, was the confusion about the motives behind the murder attempt and the possibility that the act didn't directly reflect the pattern of current political controversy in the U.S.

If the shooting was the act of a "lone - end drifter" resembling Lee Harvey Oswald or Sirhan Sirhan, this in itself might indicate a possibly widespread neurosis in the rootless society of the United States.

Thus the Wallace case was swiftly acted on by a Communist commentator in Hungary as additional proof of American political "decadence" while Soviet sources noted the "ominous regularity" of election-year shootings in the U.S.

But one of the more suggestive comments came from an Amsterdam newspaper which reasoned that events such as the Wallace shooting threatened to give the U.S. a reputation for chaotic and inflammable politics similar to that of the Balkans before 1939.

This remark is enough to indicate as well that there is already unprecedented about the violence of U.S. politics and that the present image of American history might even signify merely another stage in the long process of maturing on the part of a republic as yet only 200 years old.

In the Old World the first half of this century was often rearped by assassinations, reaping from the killing of Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand in June, 1914, to the murder of right-wing extremists of German Foreign Minister Walter Rathenau during the lifetime of the ill-fated Weimar Republic.

Moreover, besides the European-oriented violence of two world wars, there is even now, within the ostensibly serene United Kingdom, one region — Northern Ireland—which has amassed in the last three years a record of politically-motivated killing which far surpasses even the U.S. race riots of the mid-1950s for savagery.

Italy and West Germany — scarred by the two 20th-century wars — have again suffered through periods of political ferment in the last four years, though there were much less severe than the Ulster trouble, and France in 1968 saw street disorders more widespread and less lethal, than the U.S. racial disturbances earlier in the decade.

The violence which has repeatedly shocked the U.S. since the assassination of President Kennedy in 1963 is therefore far from being a unique phenomenon in the contemporary West. The world, a fact which might give anyone tempted to gloat over America's misfortunes food for thought.

Victim of Lawlessness

Peterborough Examiner

It's ironic, or perhaps significant, that the governor, who has demanded law and order and who has built up a large following in the country, may become a victim of the same lawlessness against which he warned American.

Mr. Wallace's ideas about race relations in the U.S. have been toned down greatly during the past few years. Recently he has campaigned against high taxes, overspending in education the busing of children and too much power in government.

His campaign has been successful. He has gained what some circles attached to him, his ideas and common-sense appeals to life in the U.S. have been shared by many.

George Wallace Still Casts Shadow Over Rivals' Hopes

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gov. George Wallace's impressive victories in two state primary elections Tuesday could give him a greater voice in the Democratic national convention but the consenus of the pros still is that he hasn't got a chance for the presidential nomination.

It is one of the many inconsistencies of the American electoral system that although he now leads in the popular vote and is second in pledged delegate strength he is largely discounted as a threat to his chief rivals.

But his potential role as a "spoiler," and as an influence in the writing of the party platform fit the July Miami convention are greatly enhanced by the surge of his anticipated victories Tuesday in Maryland and Michigan.

The speculation, even before the Alabama governor was shot Monday, centred on the two the two primaries, was that he would win big—but that that would be the end of his impressive string of primary campaigns.

He isn't even on the ballot in the vital state of California, although he could get some write-in support, and his hopes are pinned also in New York state. Nor was he expected to do much in Rhode Island and a handful of other lesser primaries.

Although aides talk optimistically about Wallace returning to the campaign trail, in a wheelchair if necessary, others discount the possibility in view of his serious condition and the possibility he may be paralyzed. As for a stand-in to carry on what has been called "the Wallace movement," observers point out that Wallace is the personalized no one but Wallace has the political clout.

In some states where Wallace scored best the primaries simply mirrored the popularity contest with no promise of delegate support. And although he now has 322 convention delegate votes pledged to him, many are uncommitted supporters who go through the first ballot at Miami Beach before free to vote as they wish. At this point Senator George McGovern of South Dakota has 405 and Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota 307. It takes 1,509 votes to win nomination. Wallace supporters insist his strategy is to deadlock the convention in the hope of a "draft" by delegates on the floor.

In the 1968 presidential election, as the candidate of an American Independent party, he hurt the Democrats by splitting the traditional Democratic vote in the south, helping President Nixon to a razor-thin victory.

This time, as a Democrat, he is also a problem for party regulars.

They cannot ignore the fact that Democrats who have voted so far, more have supported Wallace than any other candidate. Although there is an element of "protest vote" in the primaries that will largely disappear in the real election in November, it remains that many of Wallace's registered Democrats have supported Wallace's philosophy.

Whereas in 1968 there was a broad open contest for the U.S. campaign he now presents himself as the candidate of unity. And his rallying against school busing for greater racial balance is the opposite sentiments of "big government" from the needs and desires of "plain folks," high taxes and the like have obviously struck a responsive chord with many Democrats.

If he is physically able, it is a threat he will carry to the convention floor where—in view of the support he has already registered—he is bound to have an impact.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 30, 1952

John Locke, BA is graduating today from the School of Chemistry, Toronto.

Among those attending the graduation of Gordon Bankier at McMaster University, Hamilton, on Monday, were J. D. Bankier and son, Harold, of this city.

Mary M. Hillier, assistant professor of the School of Nursing, University of Toronto, who is in the city visiting the Health Department, is the guest of her sister.

Margaret McAlpine was a weekend guest of relatives in Merryville.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holway and Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Creak were dinner guests of the 1932 nurses' graduating class, held at Rickerson Lodge, Picton.

30 YEARS AGO

May 28, 1942

At a meeting of the Belleville Board of Education it was introduced as a motion that all city members of the teaching staffs of Belleville schools be retired at the age of 65 years, while female members are to be superannuated at 60 years. However, in the case of the present principal of BCI, he is to be allowed to complete 40 years of teaching service before calling him to attain a maximum pension.

A number of city fishermen left Thursday night and early the next day for the various fishing grounds, and likely will tell the story of whether or not the elusive pickerel is plentiful, whether they were biting or not, and about how many big ones that got away.

The Rev. R. C. Blagrave, Rector of St. John's Church, Peterborough, and formerly Rector of Christ Church here, is spending a few days as a guest at Sidney Cottage, the home of Lt.-Col. W. N. Poston, Trent Rd.

At the annual meeting of the YMCA the retiring president, Harry W. Ackerman presided, and the following officers were elected: president, Md. George Ostrom; vice-president, Russell Woodley; recording secretary, R. F. Jennings; treasurer, M.P. Duff.

Parisian Tradition is Ended

The Christian Science Monitor

We felt a touch of nostalgia when we learned that one of the familiar figures of Paris — the peroxoxanne or ticket puncher of the metro — was to disappear. By 1974 all metro punching will be automatic and the services of this rather formidable ladies will no longer be needed.

We found ourselves regretting the decision to remove them because they have been so much a part of tradition that we couldn't imagine Paris without them. They have, in fact provided a kind of link with the virtuosos of the French Revolution.

But we confess that we have no such regrets over the news that another well-known Parisian figure has passed into the past. That is the chaise à cabinet.

Who that has day - dreamed on a park chair under the chestnuts at the Tuileries or the Luxembourg has not had his reveries broken by the request by the chaisiere demanding so many centimes for use of the chair?

Even the cost of chairsitting has suffered inflation. Instead of paying up over the years from a few centimes to 2 francs for an ordinary metal chair or 90 for one with arms.

Happily the chairs are to remain, but Jean Verdier, the director of the Tuileries declares that having to pay for their use is contrary to the spirit of the age. So it is "liberté" to the chaisiere — not "au revoir".

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 30, 1972 . . .

Charles Lindbergh set out from New York 45 years ago today—in 1927—on the historic first-ever solo flight of the Atlantic. Thirty-three hours and 29 minutes later Lindbergh landed his Spirit of St. Louis in Paris to the roaring welcome of 20,000 Frenchmen at the airfield. The flight won him a prize of $25,000 and the acclaim of Europe and America.

1822—Legislation was introduced in the Commons in Ottawa to establish a Naval Department.

1948—Canadian flying ace Buzz Beurling crashed and died on a flight to Rome.

1946—A plane crashed into the 58th floor of the Empire State building.

1935—Amelia Earhart Putnam became the first women in history to make a solo flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

Catholic Theologians Preach Duty of Opposing Authority

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Do not remain silent . . . Take a stand . . . Do something yourself . . . Act together . . . Seek provisional solutions . . . Wherever ecclesiastical authority acts in a way that clearly fails to correspond to the gospel, resistance is permitted and even required . . . Don't give up."

This pungent advice comes from a group of 30 noted Roman Catholic theologians who say their church is in a state of "stagnation and resignation" and who urge unflagging and forthright action to overcome the crisis.

"Precisely in a phase of stagnation it is important to persevere with confident faith and endurance," they said in a 2,400-word statement. "There can be no renewal without a struggle."

Some leading church thinkers in the U.S., Canada and Europe were among the signers, including:

Rev. John L. McKenzie of Chicago, a noted Bible scholar; Rev. Richard P. McBrien of Pope John XXIII Seminary, Weston, Mass.; Rev. Gregory Baum, Toronto; Rev. Edward Schillebeeckx, Nijmegen, the Netherlands, and Rev. Hans Kung, Tubingen, Germany.

They said the church is "suffering at many levels from a crisis of leadership and confidence . . . Those in authority seem to know only how to warn and lament and take arbitrary reprisals. . . . Growing numbers of priests are abandoning their ministry. . . . Many Catholics feel simply at a loss. . . . The credibility of the church . . . has decreased to a disquieting degree."

The crisis, they added, is largely due to "an ecclesiastical system which in its development has retreated behind the times and still exemplifies numerous qualities of monarchial absolutism. . . .

"Pope and bishops remain for all practical purposes the exclusive rulers of the church. . . . Bishops are still chosen according to the criterion of conformity . . . in secret. . . . Without the co-operation of the clergy and people concerned. . . .

"Freedom is demanded for the church outside, but it is not granted inside. Justice and peace are preached, so long as the church and its leaders do not have to pay the cost. . . .

In many ways, the statement added, the church does not "follow the footsteps of Him in whom she constantly appeals."

"For this reason a curious contrast can be noticed between great interest in Jesus and utter lack of interest in the church."

The theologians urged a middle road between apathy and rebellion to "overcome the present stagnation" and offered five guidelines for action.

Under one suggestion to "seek provisional solutions," they cited the example of a priest who marries despite the celibacy law against it, and says he should no longer withdraw from his office in secrecy. He should promptly inform his congregation. If his parish desires that he remain in their spiritual leader, they should try all legitimate means to keep him."

Other points of advice:

"Do not remain silent. Bishops who regard certain laws, rules and measures as harmful . . . should express their disagreement . . . more forcefully. . . . Theologians, too, have to take a stand wherever crucial issues . . . are at stake."

"Act together. . . . A single parishioner . . . may not count for much; but five can make an impression, and 50 can change the situation. . . ."

Churches Need Better Fishermen

by
The REV. GORDON C. SMITH

The first sign of Christianity was an age of repression and persecution. Christians needed a secret code words and symbols by means of which to communicate with one another.

One that could be innocently traced on the ground with a stick, as people passed by, was the fish. It was adopted because the Greek words for fish — "ichthus" was an acronym for Greek words meaning "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior." It was adopted because of the significant role of fishing in the Gospels.

For instance, Mark reports that, at the beginning of his public ministry, Jesus walked along the beach of the Lake of Galilee, near the city of Capernaum. He was recruiting that day. He saw two fish merchants, Peter and Andrew. He said to them, "Follow me and I will make you become fishers of men."

Three years later, Jesus confirmed his resurrection by a number of appearances. One of these is reported in the closing chapter of John's Gospel. The Master was the kind of guide described in T. Morton in a book about his travels in Palestine.

He came upon two men fishing off the shores of the Lake of Galilee. No one man would set out from the shore and 'was casting a bell net into the water. Time after time the net came up empty. While he was waiting for another cast, his colleague shouted to him from the beach to fling the net to the other side, in the clear water, he could see a shoal of fish moving swiftly that way. The man did so and drew up a net full.

It is a pity that more churches are not comprised of better fishermen nowadays. Robert McAffee Brown has pointed out that many an individual says in effect, "I joined the church in the last town in which we lived. The first thing they did was put me on the bowling team and my wife in the kitchen. Now I am going to settle down and be a comfortable pagan."

Jesus calls men and women for vital discipleship. Do we merely offer them secular or social activities? Is there anything distinctive about the fellowship expected of them? Have we caught the vision of Jesus who wants the Church to be a model for the community and a ministerer of the potential of humanity? What has happened to the sign of the fish?

A congregation is, ideally, an ecumenical society. It promotes the kind of unity in mind and heart that personal and social unity rejoices in diversity.

A congregation is, ideally, a school. His school is the world's supreme teacher. He expects it to have the best equipment, books, and continuing programs in order that all age groups may grow in the knowledge of God and in ways of bringing the Christian conscience to bear on decision - making bodies shaping the future of the locality.

A congregation is, ideally, a family in which helpfulness and reconciliation are obvious. Each individual offers the talent, gift, skill or experience for the fulfillment of its mission. Its members are loyal to its worship and customs. They cherish its memories and rejoice that they can plan for the needs of those who will come after them.

A congregation is, ideally, orientated in a global direction. Phillips Brooks, the eminent American preacher, was once asked what he would do if he became the minister of a run-down church. He thought for a minute and said, "I would gather whatever people I could get together. I would preach the best sermon I could on 'Missions.' Then I would take up an offering for work overseas."

A congregation is the individual writ large, just as the Church Universal is people. If we have been lolling with little or no success, if we are discouraged, maybe our ideals need mending. At any rate, there is only One who can tell us where to cast our nets and fill us with the joy of discovery, and that first we must obey his words, "Follow me!"

Women's Institutes

Eldorado and Bannockburn WI

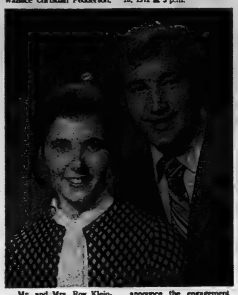
President Mrs. Cyril Shaw opened the May meeting of the Eldorado and Bannockburn WI which was held in the home of Mrs. Floyd Blackburn.

The roll call "What's your best" was answered by 19 members and six children.

Mrs. Melvin Johnson, the convener for agriculture began her program with a poem. A reading about butter was given by Mrs. Hugh Barker. Mrs. Wayne Blackburn spoke on the topic of the rabbit industry. She gave an interesting talk on the rabbit from the beginning to the time you find it on the meat counter. Questions were asked and thoroughly answered by Mrs. Blackburn.

Mrs. Gerald Blackburn provided a humorous reading and a contest closed the program.



A delicious lunch including samples of barbecued rabbit was served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held June 14 in the form of a bus trip.

Engagement Notice

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Thomson, RR 6, Belleville are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Jean, to Mr. Wallace Christian Fedderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fedderson, Islington. The marriage will take place in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 10, 1972 at 3 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kleinsteuber, Belleville, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Donald Charles Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Moore, RR3, Belleville. The wedding will take place on June 24, 1972 at 2 p.m. in Hallowy Street United Church, Belleville.

FAILED TO CURE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuter) — Two Indians were each fined $200 here for pretending to have supernatural powers. They treated two sick women by taking them to a local cemetery where the women heard wails and screams which, they were told, were spirits demanding money. They paid large sums but remained sick.

Social And Personal

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Elizabeth Anne, only daughter of Mrs. Jean MacLeod, Foxboro and Mr. Joe Schwager, Thomasburg, to William Albert Dempsey, eldest son of Mr. Allen Dempsey and Dr. Ethel Dempsey of Redeerville. The marriage will take place on June 24, at 3 p.m. in Redeerville Church.

Club Activities

KINETTE CLUB

TWEED — The May meeting of the Kinette Club of Tweed was held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir with 11 members in attendance.

President Carol Norris chaired the meeting. It was decided to have a "Good Used Clothing Sale" on May 26 and 27 with Kinette Brenda McGuire as convener. Proceeds from this sale are to be used to obtain playground equipment for Bridgewater School, at Actinolite.

The end of the year social event will be a joint Kinsmen and Kinette two-ball/ four-some to be held at Stoco Golf Course, Sunday, June 25.

The Kinette Club visited Bridgewater School Wednesday, May 18 with the hope of offering a volunteer program starting in September.

May meeting is election night with the new slate of officers as follows: past-president, Carol Norris; president, Merv Witherden; vice-president, Shirley Coveney; secretary, Faye LeSage; directors, Brenda McGuire, Linda Baker, and bailiff/in editor, Elizabeth Walker.

Installations for these officers will be on June 8 at the Kinsmen's Ladies' Night with new 1972-73 Deputy Governor Keith Stevens of Campbellford and new 1972-73 Liaison Kinette Carol Norris officiating.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Can minor squabbles destroy love?

NO, although seemingly insignificant spats can make it seem that love is over. The man and woman, however, will soon realize that they weren't in love in the first place if they let little flareups destroy their relationship. When the minor squabbles cause the woman to feel that the man "doesn't care about me," she is more concerned about herself than she is about him—the exact reverse of how she would feel if her love was real.

Do people get too hurt to forgive?

RARELY. Oddly, too, those who have been hurt unjustly are the quickest to forgive. Sometimes when a person who believes he has been hurt and refuses to forgive, his reluctance to let bygones be bygones may stem from reasons more complicated than outright resentment or injured feelings. Perhaps he unconsciously thinks that if he were to forgive, he would be admitting that the one who "hurt" him was justified.

Must kids be 'sold' on education?

NOT the way goods and services are sold in the various media. As a matter of fact, just a hint that education is being "sold" will turn the young people off—even if they believe that education is every bit as good as its "advertisers" claim. If children can be shown how education has helped parents and other adults to achieve a fuller, more meaningful life, the children might "sell" themselves on "hitting the books."

Successful Living

Husband Mistrusts Without Cause

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Please tell the lady who signed herself "Myra-Uncle" not to feel lonely for I have the same problem with my husband, and his jealousy is much worse. It knew he loves me as much as he is able to love anyone, but his mistrust is hard to live with.

We have learned to be somewhat considerate, of being unfaithful. (In fact, I have actually caught him putting me into situations so he could say these things).

When I tell him what I have heard, he vehemently denies every word.

To be everlastingly humiliated by a marriage partner to whom you've given the best you know how, and to be insulted by love affairs you never dreamed of having, is enough to drive any woman off her rocker.

Doris, what do you do when a person doesn't even want to be helped? Many times I can actually see by his countenance and actions, the turmoil inside. — Bewildered.

Dear Bewildered. It is a strange thing, but the person who has a personality conflict usually turns on the one he should cherish most. He or she should express his inner turmoil by rudeness to his friends and even worse to those near and friends. But from long experience he knows you will stand by him.

For your own comfort you should be talking to someone who can help you to see this thing clearly — perhaps a trained counsellor. Little help can be brought in your husband while he believes he has no need of any such thing.

Dear Doris: I am to convene my sorority's fall tea. My husband and I will stand in the receiving line along with the president and her husband.

Could you please tell me in

Church Groups

ST. COLUMBA CHURCH WOMEN

A most enjoyable and uniquely different meeting was held by the Catholic Women of St. Columba Church on Monday evening, the theme being Africa.

Many of the women came suitably dressed in African attire — long colorful skirts, turbans and beads were the style of the evening.

Mrs. Pat Hesselfelt opened the proceedings with an African Quiz Game which mostly proved how little one knows of the social structure of Africa. Mrs. Jean Murphy showed a display of African articles, pictures etc. which enhanced the theme of the evening.

Mrs .Trudy Smit told a delightful story of the beginning of Christianity in the Congo, after which Mrs. Bev McKerracher and Mrs. Pearl Packard enacted a skit portraying a native village maiden and a native amorous swain who had previously left the village to receive a western education and had returned as a school teacher adopting many of the western cultures. Marriage was the question at stake but was doomed because of lack of understanding on both sides.

An energetic discussion followed this presentation on the ways in which members could help the African villages through western culture and education, without drastically upsetting their way of life.

The evening concluded with the serving of a delicious African meal.

A short business meeting was held and convenors were named for the next project which will be a strawberry festival and bake sale in the near future.

what order we stand and what sort of conversation we engage in with our guests? — Stuck For Words.

Dear Stuck: The sorority president is first to shake hands with each guest and her husband stands next to her. Then comes the convener — you — and your husband.

There's not much time to say anything, much less engage in conversation, unless you want those who are still in line to start shifting from one foot to the other.

Settle for something like, "How do you do?" or "Mary, I'm so glad you were able to come!" As the guest moves on, a conductor has to your husband and count on him for a smile, a friendly "Hello there" and a word or two of his own.

Confidential to T.S.: Remarkable to say the least, the way Mother shipton was right on the button when it came to a number of prophecies we have seen fulfilled.

But has it occurred to you that there may have been a heap of other things she said, which nobody thought to make a fuss over because what she said was going to happen, didn't? Perhaps she, person, possess a gift of foretelling the future unwittingly themselves say that they are not always right, or that they may fail to interpret certain signs correctly.

(Canadian resources exist to help with many of today's problems of daily living. Doris can advise and direct you.)

Ann Landers

No Outside Interests

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 72 years old and has been retired for several years. He has dropped out of everything — has no outside interests, does nothing but eat, sleep and read. He refuses to stir himself to get dressed for an evening at the theatre, a concert, a lecture, a movie, a civic meeting or an evening with friends. I cannot invite anyone here because he will not shower, shave and dress to meet them.

Every six months he has a complete physical examination and the doctor says he is in very good physical condition. I am beginning to think perhaps he has had some sort of a mental breakdown.

If I stayed home with him night and day I would lose my mind. I try to keep busy on my own and accept invitations to be with women friends for afternoon events. Sometimes I go out in the evening, and I feel terribly guilty when I leave him alone but I know of no other solution. Can you think of some way I can make a better life for him? — Bewildered In Belleville

Dear B.: Your suspicion that the man has had some sort of mental breakdown is correct. His behavior ought to investigate the possibility. Inform him privately of your intuition in your husband's personality. Tell him you love him and stop feeling guilty. I know of no way you can make a better life for him. My suggestion is that you make a better life for yourself.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in response to the man who said the world would be better off if we didn't try to save people who attempted suicide. According to him, there are too many people in the world as it is and we don't need any more screwballs. The real problem is that we don't need any more people like him. What we do need is human beings who care about other people.

A relative of mine committed suicide and it broke his parents' hearts. They will never get over it. He was a darling young person who had a lot to live for but he had a mental breakdown. During a period when things looked black, he put an end to it all. Like so many young people, he masked his feelings so successfully that no one had an inkling.

I hope the man who wrote that heartless letter never walks into a room and sees someone he loves lying on the floor in a pool of blood with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head. I would not wish this on anyone, even a person who signs himself "Hitler's Buddy." Have mercy on his soul. — Forever Lonely

Dear Lonely: Thank you for a lovely letter that expresses the feelings of a great many people, including me.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting married soon and I have a problem that has been keeping me up nights. Mom and Dad were divorced three years ago. Mom didn't want the divorce but Dad did. She took it awfully hard.

Six months ago Mom started to date. She now has a real sweet boyfriend who treats her like she was made of Dresden china. I'm sure Mom would love it if I would ask him to give me away at the wedding, but I'm afraid my dad would be terribly hurt.

I owe my mom more than I owe my dad but I want to do the right thing. How shall I resolve this problem? — See Saw Marjorie Daw

Dear Marj: If you want your Mom's sweet boy-friend to be present as a guest, I see no reason why he shouldn't be invited. But your father should give you away.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

THE BIRDS OF SPRING

"One of the most reassuring sounds on any spring or summer morning is the chorus of birdsong that greets the sunrise." — Hal Borland.

As we crossed over the Salmon River at Shannonville while driving some university students to Kingston, my husband remarked over the sight of a flock of swallows hovering just above the surface of the water, having a feast, as he said, "of insects on the wing."

This immediately touched off a subject of which all showed concern and interest, ecology. "In fact," said one student enthusiastically, "I'm gathering material for a term paper, on the part birds play in their everlasting battle on noxious insects.

"But," she enquired, "Aren't insects helpful? Like bees, for instance?"

"True, some are necessary for plant life. But there are Millions of others simply inhuman terms, pests. And birds are their only natural enemies!"

"That's the truth," exclaimed another. "There are more insects than any other form of 'visible life' on this earth. They multiply unbelievably. One million to one, and we would all be eaten alive by insects, birds; that is, of course, if we didn't starve to death, first."

"What is more," added another young student ecologist, "birds not only help us in the garden, the fields, the woods, are bad remedies against bad pests. For pesticides are fatal to all birds who thrive on insects. Birds also tremendously feed their young tremendous quantities of insects, grubs, worms, caterpillars and beetles. Often the first young batch just will not survive the slaught of insects comes. So, you see, birds are not only needed but necessary from the very start. As one naturalist put it, 'These tiny feathers in a red fur are eternally marvellous.'"

When we ventured that Leopold Stokowski, the famous conductor, recently interviewed on TV, said that one of bearing the song of birds during an hour's walk was the supreme joy of his life, one of the group said:

"Great! I'm with him: a beautiful joy it is. But the song of birds in spring is really a bonus. All of us who value our lives and health should love and cherish the birds. For without their continuous feeding on insect food (which is high in protein and vitamin D), none of us would long survive an end to birdsong in the Spring."

Here are a few facts garnered from our discussion, one led from the naturalist Hal Borland's research:

"One flicker eats more than 5,000 ants a day along with some dozen grubs and borers.

"Half of a robin's food is worms and insects as well as fruit and berries.

"Bluebirds eat a mouthful of 100 to 125 for every two mouthfuls of insects such as caterpillars, grasshoppers and beetles.

"Orioles eat tent caterpillars, all of which indescribes it, weevils, aphids, grasshoppers and borers.

"The tree-breasted grosbeak is the gardener's special friend: it eats potato bugs, cucumber beetles, leaf beetles of all kinds, caterpillars, cutworms, locusts, army worms, even cabbage butterflies."

All of which indicates if the lives of birds are endengered by pesticides, our lives are endangered, and mine, for without the birds, insects win.

CNR On Track Intell Presses

Mead Johnson rallied to defeat CNR and Brooks Bond couldn't quite stop the Press gang in Industrial Softball league action last night.

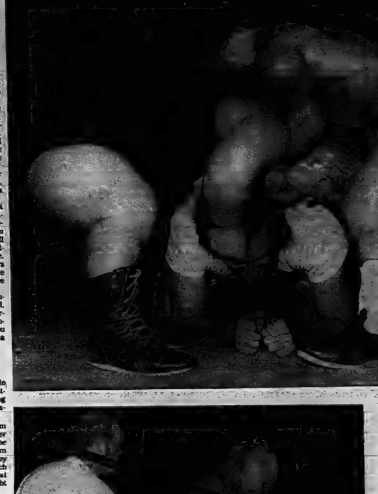
CNR rode the nine-hit burling of Mark Sheridan to a 10-4 victory over Meads while The Intell used a similar effort by John Edwards to squeeze out a 4-3 win.

A four-run outburst in the first inning provided the Atkinson's winning margin, as Sheridan barred the win. He had five strikeouts and as many walks. Losing pitcher Ken Osborne was touched for 10 safeties, while walking three batters and whiffing five.

Catcher Bob Davidi was the offensive leader for C.N.R., blasting a triple and three singles in four trips to the plate. Bob Lloyd had a single and double for the winners, while Sheridan added his own cause with a triple.

Jim Sopha crunked a homer and single for Mead Johnson, while Osborne chipped in a triple.

Edwards pitched himself out of a two-out jam in the bottom of the seventh to preserve his one-run margin over Brooke Bond. The Intell hurler struck out seven batters and walkers only one. Losing pitcher Bob Chambers yielded 10 hits and three walks, while acting three men down on strikes.



Ron Poste had a single, double and triple for the Intell, while Joe Edwards and Terry Hiddleston added two singles each. For the losers, Lou Rivers led the way with a triple.

Wrestling

Eric the Red managed to pin Angelo Mosca in the featured Friday night wrestling bout, with help from manager Bruce Swayze.

In the midget tag team match it was Little Bruiser and Little Cowboy defeating the best two-of-three falls from Baby Johnson and Cowboy Lang. The women's match saw Rachel Dubois defeat Carmon Monge in a fast eight minutes.

The tag team entries of Vic Rossettani — Chief Little Bear and The Beast-The Wildman were disqualified for fighting outside of the ring. Bruce Swayze then pinned Ken Doner in the opening match.

Mosca Reverses Familiar Role

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

It couldn't have happened in Montreal, Ottawa, Rough Rider fans would have treated him like a leper. Even in Hamilton, a drinking problem and indigestion — well, Argo fans wouldn't have been more shocked if Harry Abafis had signed with the Jane Taylor dancers.

Angelo Mosca, the giant whose scowling presence in TV commercials ("Tell it to my face") sends shivers up and down the spines of small children and large quarterbacks was being cheered.

Angelo — the 260-pound defensive tackle of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats; the terror who terrified Wilbur Fleming from the 1965 Grey Cup contest; the assassin who re-arranged Greg Barton's facial features and taught Argo quarterback Joe Theismann that silence is indeed golden after the rookie had publicly doubted Hamilton's toughness — Angelo Mosca was receiving full - throated solicitude from 1,500 wrestling fans at the Belleville Memorial Arena Friday night.

It was a complete reversal of roles for the man who, except for Dave Stalleworth, is used to playing the "heavy". In the quiet minutes before Friday's main bout he admitted that "The fans don't bother me. They have their own attitudes and there's nothing I can do to change them. There is a difference between football and wrestling fans, however. I've been cut, had pins stuck in me and been bitten by wrestling fans, but in football they can't do much except yell."

The wrestling crowd in Belleville was almost entirely pro-Mosca, however, thanks to the antics of smirk Norseman Eric the Red and his accomplice "Beautiful" Bruce Swayze.

Mosca's 225-pound opponent left him gasping for air with a series of choke holds before the match was even officially under way. Angelo brought the crowd to their feet later by bouncing Eric and Bruce around the ring like a pair of rookie offensive guards. He was in the process of finishing off Eric Nasmith when Clamdig Bruce's meat trip brought down the curtain. As Swayze's rear attack sent Angelo skidding across the canvas on his posterior, Eric the Red was on hand to administer the coup de grace.

Not content with a simple victory, Eric and Bruce began worrying the huge prostrate form with a series of kicks, punches and gouges that would have brought tears of joy to the eyes of many a CFL offensive guard.

Help arrived in the form of Vic Rossettani, who aided a revitalized Mosca rout the deadly duo. The stage was then set for a return tag team bout in Belleville next Friday between the same four participants.

It's been four years now since Mosca first began locking horns with demented Norsemen, neo-Nazis and illicit old ladies with hat pins. He wrestles from December until June averaging about 150 bouts per year in Canada as well as American centres like Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

To be 15-year CFL veteran was introduced to wrestling by the late Ed Quinn, a promoter of the sport. "It takes a long while to learn the different holds and moves, but I think that the two sports (wrestling and football) complement each other."

Angelo joined the CFL in 1958 with Hamilton before moving to Ottawa for the 60-61 campaigns. After his return to the Tiger Cats he helped lead Hamilton provide the nucleus of a perennially-tough Hamilton front line and stayed in the sport after his tackle counterpart retired in an executive position with the Argos.

He admits that "this could be my last year in football," but plans to continue wrestling after he hangs up the gridiron gear. After all, he proved in Belleville Friday that this is one sport where a guy can draw cheers, even when he's on the road.

Hayes Takes Second

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Ron Hayes gave the Apollo Barbell club a big lift as the Canadian weightlifting championships got under way Friday.

The Belleville teenager managed a second place finish in the 132-pound division of the national championships which are also doubling as Olympic trials this year.

Hayes' total of 573 pounds was just over five pounds behind the winner, Allan MacDonald of Nova Scotia. The winner set a Canadian clean and jerk record by hoisting 248 pounds on top of his lift.

Enos Evans of Belleville added a sixth place finish to Hayes' showing in the 132-pound class.

The competition continues today in the heavyweight section where Vince Morris has already met the Olympic standard and Apollo teammate Gary Walt will be attempting to obtain the necessary total for a trip to Munich.

Staub Helps Mets Maintain Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I think the rain and the wind helped," said Rusty Staub, the New York Mets' little pitcher Of course, home runs by Jerry Grote and Rusty Staub didn't exactly hurt, either.

Grote, who gave Capra the assurance and advice he needed to shut down Philadelphia Phillies' bats Friday night, also gave him the runs he needed to pick up his third victory of the season.

The New York catcher piled his second and third home runs of the season, the first a two-breaking solo shot in the sixth inning, the other a three-run job in the ninth.

And Staub drove in three runs, one of them with his fifth homer this season, to push the Mets into a 2-3 tie in the fifth inning.

Capra, meanwhile, allowed eight hits in his seven innings of work before giving way to Danny Frisella, who mopped up for his third save of the season.

And when the action, delayed an hour and a half by rain, was over, the Mets had more than just an 8-3 victory. They had run their winning streak to eight in a row, had equipped their 11th triumph in 13 games and 21st in the last 28 and had solidified their hold on first place in the National League East.

In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates walloped Montreal Expos 6-4, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Chicago Cubs 4-3, Los Angeles Dodgers edged Houston Astros 2-1, Cincinnati Reds shmeared San Diego Padres 14-4 and San Francisco Giants outlasted Atlanta 7-6.

The Bucs did it with brilliant pitching by Bob Moose and clutch hitting by Willie Stargell Moose bested 4-3 perfect innings performer Steve Arlin, who dropped hefty fifth in a row then settled for a four-hitter.

Stargell drove in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Pirates won their fourth straight, "If we continue to play like everybody will work out," said Virdon. "The division race doesn't even start until August as far as I'm concerned."

The Cardinals, batting an eight-game slide that dumped them into the Eastern cellar, turned back the Cubs on Joe Torre's towering three-run homer off Canadian star Fergie Jenkins in the fifth inning.

The Astros had their five-game winning streak snapped but still managed to hold onto first in the West—a scant eight percentage points ahead of the Dodgers. Claude Osteen calmed Houston with a six-hitter and Billy Buckner gave him help with his run with a third-inning double.

Cincinnati, reeling off its sixth victory in a row to move within 1½ games of the Western leaders, got its lone run on Johnny Bench's first-inning sacrifice fly. Jim McGlothlin didn't need any more, blanking the Padres for his first win against 3 losses.

Dick Kelley gave him help with a three-hit relief job over 3⅔ innings.

The Giants finally managed to get their hitting going under seven straight times and it took a six-run seventh inning to do it. Ron Bryant, aided by Bobby Bonds and Garry Maddox highlighted the scoring against the Braves.

Changes Help Royals to Rout

Amos Otis changed his batting stance, Bill Gogolewski changed his pitching delivery and the results were there for all to see Friday night.

Otis belted a single, two doubles and a homer and drove in five runs to pace Kansas City Royals to a 16-1 rout of Oakland Athletics and a team scoring record.

Gogolewski, who has allowed only five earned runs in 32 innings since adopting a no-windup delivery, limited Minnesota Twins to four hits as the Texas Rangers edged the Twins 2-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, Ted Stottlemyre of New York Yankees blanked Boston Red Sox 6-0, Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers 2-1, Chicago White Sox edged California Angels 3-2 behind Wilbur Wood and Milwaukee Brewers' Bill Parsons and Baltimore Orioles' Dave McNally 4-2.

"That was fun that was real lovely," said manager Bob Lemon after the Royals had matched the club record with 20 hits in walloping the Athletics.

"This pitcher is on a roll. We haven't been able to score runs behind him. He's a great pitcher. We've been getting hits but we've been leaving runners out there. That's our big problem so far."

Besides Otis' slugging, John Mayberry belted two home runs, Lou Piniella had a homer and four singles, Freddie Patek two singles and a double and batting pitcher Paul Splittorff three singles.

The Royals tagged Rhe Moose, Odom for three runs in the first inning and one in the fourth, Otis' homer off Roland Fingers and Don Shaw for five in the fifth and Splittorff for seven more in the seventh.

Gogolewski, who had a 20.25 earned run average after a 10-hit loss to the White Sox last month, decided to experiment without a windup two weeks ago and has since beaten Detroit, Baltimore and Minnesota.

Gogolewski allowed a fourth-inning run driven in by Bobby Darwin's single. The Rangers scored both their runs in the fifth on Joe Lovitto's single, a double by Lenny Randle, Toby Harrah's infield out and a single by Elliott Maddox.

The Twins argued long and loud when Randle was called safe at second and Rod Carew, who applied the tag, called the decision by umpire Hank Morgaswick "the worst call I've ever seen."

Errors by Detroit pitcher Les Cain in the first and fifth innings led to both Cleveland runs. Cain threw Tom McCraw's leadoff dribbler over the head of first baseman Norm Cash for a three-base miscue and Eddie Leon followed with a sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Cain couldn't handle a throw at first base, again on McCraw, Fitch runner Chris Chambliss eventually came all the around on Leon's single and Alex Johnson's forceout.

Milwaukee's Billy Conigliaro singled home two runs in the first inning against Baltimore's McNally and then scored in the third on Mike Hegan's double. Ferraro added two singles, before the first Brewer this season to get three hits in a game.

Chicago's Wood, with ninth-inning help from Steve Kealey, outdueled California's Eddie Fisher, making one of his rare starts. Wood, who posted his seventh triumph, also singled in the third inning and scored the game's first run. Fisher's shutout when Syd O'Brien cracked a pinch homer in the eighth.

Stottlemyre's shutout of Boston was his second of the year, third in his last four starts and third of his career, tops among active American League pitchers.

Manager Ralph Houk, who has been with the club since 1947 in various capacities except for three years as a minor league player, called Stottlemyre "the best right-handed Yankee pitcher I've ever seen—better than Allie Reynolds, better than Vic Raschi and all the rest of 'em.

The triumph was Stottlemyre's 32nd, passing Reynolds for seventh place on the all-time Yanks victory list.

Triple Crown For Riva Ridge?

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tommy Ennis will watch the 97th running of the $138,000-added Preakness today from the vantage point on a ladder in the Pimlico infield.

As soon as the result becomes official, Ennis will begin his ceremonial task.

On a weathervane, which stands atop the replica of the old Pimlico clubhouse that was destroyed by fire in 1966, Ennis will paint the colors of the winning owner on a metal horse and jockey.

"I mix all the colors for each silk," Ennis said, "and go from there. As soon as the race is official, I throw away all but one, and start painting. I fill in the number on the saddle cloth, and then color the silks."

"The only time I had any trouble," Ennis said, "was when I had to wait about a half hour because of an inquiry." He referred to 1963, when Gerald Mosey edged Ridan by a nose and survived a foul claim by Manuel Ycaza, who rode Ridan.

Should Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge take the Preakness as expected, Meadow Stable's blue-and-white colors would go up.

Riva Ridge, seeking to become the first Triple Crown winner since 1948, ran as an entry with stablemate Upper Case in the 1 3-16-mile test scheduled to go off at 5:46 p.m. EDT.

With 10 victories in 13 career starts, Riva Ridge entered the Preakness with earnings of $781,350 and could add $137,300 to that winning again. The purse would gross $189,800 if nine start as expected.

Rain was forecast but an off track was unlikely to affect the outcome, because only long shots Bee Bee Bee, Freetex and Hesh's Image were expected to be bothered by a slow underfooting.

Television coverage was scheduled from 5 p.m. 4 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:25 p.m. - 5:45 p.m.

With only four starts in 1972, Riva Ridge has a chance to become the first Triple Crown champion since Citation in 1948, as trainer Lucien Laurin deliberately restricted his activity early in the season.

Three colts in the past six years have won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, only to have soundness problems end father in the Belmont-scheduled this year for June 10. They were Kauai King, 1966; Majestic Prince, 1969, and Canonero II a year ago.

Ron Turcotte was again aboard Riva Ridge, with Ray Bonsard riding Upper Case. Robby Stadler is back to The Mist, with Braulio Baeza up, was expected to offer the chief opposition.

Key To The Mint won the Derby Trial and Preakness Prep after recovering from a hip injury suffered March 15, and was listed at 2-1 in the pre-race odds. Joseph H. Strauss' No Le Hace, the Derby runner-up, was listed at 8-1 with Phil Rubbicco in the saddle.

Sports on All Fronts

CALGARY (CP) — Jennifer Dischon won a bout with the virus, but Andre Simard found himself in a hole because of a previous injury.

The all-round senior champions for the last three years headlined the opening session Friday at the Canadian gymnastics championships, also classed as summer Olympic trials for senior women.

Miss Dischon of Toronto battled sickness throughout compulsory routines but still led at the halfway of the all-round category with 36.55 points.

The 18-year-old performer, who took part in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City, collapsed at the end of the floor exercise but still got 9.30 points out of a possible 10.

Sisters Teresa and Nancy McDonnell, both of Toronto, were second and third with 35.75 and 35.70 points respectively.

Lise Arsenault of Ste.-Anne-de-Bellevue, Que., who was second in the all-round program last year, held fifth place with 34.80 points—behind Lenka Svajcarova of Edmonton.

All-round points include total scores from individual events which comprise four for women

YONKERS, N.Y. (CP) — Canadian-trained Strike Out, the 4-to-5 favorite with his entry-mate Alley Fighter, was narrowly beaten in the $197,697 Cane Futurity for three-year-old pacers Friday night at Yonkers Raceway in the first leg of pacing's Triple Crown.

Strike Out, shared in owner ship by John Mayes of Oshawa, and Montrealers Bob and Conrad Shapiro, led every step of the mile in the steady drizzle and was just beaten in 2:02 2-5 by Hilarious Way, owned by Clarence Caines of Lexington, Ky.

Hilarious Way paid $22, $8 and $5 while Strike Out returned $3.20 and $2.60. Keystone Pebble paid $9.80 to show.

Driver Kevin Waples of Durham, Ont., an infrequent New York driver, sent Strike Out to the lead and ticked off fractions of 29.2, 59.4, 1:31.2 to the three-quarter mile. In the final yards, John Simpson, 29-year-old driver who won the Hambletonian with Timothy T., urged his Bret Hanover colt just past to win it.

Alley Fighter finished seventh and Shadow Star, owned by Dr. George Boyce of London, Ont., was eighth.

Waples last won a major New York stakes in 1967 when he took the Belle Acton with Timely Drummond. He was assigned all drives this year on Strike Out by the colt's owners and so far has won one race in four appearances.

Strike Out had won a Florida stake in 1:59 4-5 and his earnings to date are $41,954.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "Winning isn't in my mind right now," host pro Bert Weaver said before starting the third round of the $175,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis open golf classic today.

The 48-year-old Weaver, who took a surprising one-stroke lead when he fired a three-under-par 69 in Friday's second round, didn't specify the reasons of his pessimism.

But there were two good ones —Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino—just two strokes off the leading pace.

BRANTFORD (CP) — Toomy Woodall of Toronto shot a par 72 Friday to capture the Ontario Golf Association's Champion of Champions tournament.

The 51-year-old golfer from the Malton golf club shot a one over-par 37 on the front nine and, despite hitting three sand traps on the back nine, came in with a one-under-par 35.

Woodall slammed into trans on holes 10, 12 and 18 at the Brantford Golf and Country Club but scrambled for pars on each of them.

* * *

PARIS (AP) — Mickey Van Gorbig, of Palm Beach, Fla., crept under par on both rounds Friday and won his first two matches in the French amateur golf championship. In first-round action, Ian Caldwell of Britain beat Louis Mohrer of Don Mills, Ont., 2 and 1.

Hull Has Agreement with WHA

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks' yearbook says Bobby Hull "is synonymous with Chicago," but if Chicago work out, Hull could be playing for Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association next season.

Hull told the Chicago Tribune Friday that he has a verbal agreement with the club and that if they come up with the money he'll go to work for them next season.

"I've made a verbal agreement with Winnipeg, and if they make good on it I'm gone," Hull said, and he stressed that if Winnipeg makes the right offer there's no chance for him to stay in Chicago.

Jets' owner Ben Hatskin told The Tribune, "We'll have the money . . . we'll meet with Bobby and his agent next week."

Hull is reported seeking $1 million in advance for his first year's service and $1 million more for four more years of play. Hull's recently-expired contract with the National Hockey League Black Hawks paid him about $125,000 a year.

BOBBY HULL

Hull said he and his agents conducted preliminary contract discussions with the Hawks, but that nothing ever came of them.

"It makes me feel that they're not really interested. I'm sure that Arthur Wirtz (chairman of the Hawks' board) and his enterprises could well satisfy me if they wanted to . . . They have to sign me, I don't have to do them. Hatskin has taken the initiative and that's why I agreed to sign if they come up with the money," Hull said.

Hull conceded his decision may be easier because of the apparent indifference of the Hawks' front office. "They've never made good on their contract promises," he complained.

"So far, the impression I've gotten from them the Hawks' front office is that if I go to the other league, fine, and if I stay here, fine," Hull said.

Hawks' coach Billy Reay said, "I will only believe he's going to leave whenever he leaves. I don't think he's been looking around."

Reay said he had not seen the Tribune story. Members of the Hawks' management were not available for comment.

WHA owners recently offered Hatskin assistance of about $200,000 per club to finance his quest of Hull. Most officials gladly have said the signing of one or two NHL stars would insure the success of the league.

Munro Against Legal Pot

HAMILTON (CP) — Federal Health Minister John Munro told secondary school students Friday he disagrees with the Le Dain Commission recommendation that simple possession of marijuana be legalized.

"I'm not prepared to say right now that the offence for simple possession should be removed," Mr. Munro said. "Marijuana is a definite mental deterrent. It retards the maturation and development process in the adolescent."

He agreed with a student who criticized "the double standard" in the Le Dain recommendation. The commission suggested removal of penalties for simple possession, but retention of penalties for trafficking.

"The chairman of the commission (Gerald Le Dain) has acknowledged the inconsistency, but his studies have shown that making simple possession an offence is not 'retarding people from using it,'" Mr. Munro said. "You find a better answer," he said. "This is the only answer he could come up with."

Mr. Munro, who visited three Hamilton secondary schools during the day, told one group legalization of possession of marijuana is not going to solve the drug problem. "We could pass 100 laws tomorrow but the problem is still there."

Educating persons not to use drugs would be a better course to take.

Thief Identified

TORONTO (CP) — A man who, for what he termed "humane reasons," sought to conceal his identity when he gave himself up to police May 1 to face 16 bank-robbery charges was sentenced Friday to 10 years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

He was identified in court records as Joseph Donald Reddy, arrested under the name David Warriner Wilkins, 36, of no fixed address.

In the legislature Thursday, NDP member Dr. Morton Shulman said a policeman complained to him of a "deal" between police and Reddy to save a prominent family from embarrassment.

Revived!

MENDOZA, Argentina (Reuter) — A woman's heart continued beating Friday after stopping 67 times following a heart attack in this Argentine city hospital sources said. The woman had suffered a heart attack. Drugs and electric shocks of up to 6,000 volts were used to restart her heart 67 times. She still is undergoing treatment, sources said.

Doctor Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. J. E. Sheriton, whose rejected bid for a staff appointment at North York General Hospital precipitated the provincial Grange committee inquiry into the granting of hospital privileges, has again been turned down by the same hospital.

17 Injured

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Two bombs exploded Friday in the main building of the Axel Springer publishing house while 3,000 persons were inside. Police said the blasts injured at least 17 persons and ripped out walls on two floors.

Study Bottleneck

PEKING (Reuter) — Chinese and Soviet officials engaged in a series of interlocking logistical planning sessions with North Vietnamese and Mongolian representatives here Friday in efforts to defeat the American shipping blockade of North Vietnam.

Objective Same

TORONTO (CP) — George Kerr said Friday the province's commitment to make the Ontario College of Art a first-class art institution hasn't changed despite the college's current problems.

The minister of colleges and universities was referring to the suspension of college president Roy Arnott, by the governing council for alleged mismanagement.

Militia Pay Low

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Col. William Redmond, Liberal MP for Toronto-Lakeshore, called in the Commons Friday for militia recruits to be paid the federal minimum wage.

He said they now receive $1.50 for every hour of training they undergo, and asked when their pay would be raised to match the federal minimum wage of $1.75 an hour.

Woman Killed

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury decided Friday that Erna Martens, 36, was killed by an assailant who struck her on the head.

The verdict was opposed to the opinion of pathologist Dr. Frederick Jaffe who said at the original autopsy that the woman had struck her head on the concrete floor of her apartment garage accidentally.

No Summer Election -- Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has once again cooled Parliament's election fever, saying MPs will work until the end of June and then have a "prosperous, sunny, election-free summer."

He told reporters Friday to check him again on an election date in late summer.

"I hope now you will relax," he added as he walked away from a crowded news conference that ended a week of wild speculation about an election. Rumors grew as the government pushed two pensions bills through to royal assent.

He told reporters that he sensed there were election expectations and he told his cabinet and caucus that he was sticking to his previous decision.

There was considerable legislation left—the government has introduced 25 bills and only six have been passed—and he looked forward to a normal session ending in June.

He specifically mentioned legislation dealing with foreign takeovers of Canadian business, election expenses, privacy, agriculture, housing and labor.

"Also, I don't think I could see fit to inconvenience Canada, barring a major crisis or special circumstances, by having a summer election."

The prime minister chose to make his announcement before reporters in front of his Centre Block office only after the Senate had given third and final reading to bills increasing old age pension and veterans payments.

In the Commons members debated a bill designed to limit election campaign expenditures.

It is doubtful that the legislation will become effective before a future election.

The bill was finally called the election, but Robert Kaplan (L—Toronto, Don Valley) pledged himself to follow the provisions anyway, provided his Conservative opponent agrees. It seems likely that the opposition will agree since in 1968 Mr. Kaplan reported campaign expenses of $68,389—highest of any candidate in Canada.

'Too Damn Many Specialists'

TORONTO (CP) — There are "too damn many" medical specialists in the province today, says Ontario Health Minister Richard Potter.

"We need to concentrate more on training family physicians," he said Friday during debate in the legislature on his department's estimates.

And he was elected to his third full term as president of the 1.7 million-member labor body, Mr. MacDonald described a two-cent-a-month increase in membership dues as one of the most important accomplishments of the convention.

MacDonald Re-elected

OTTAWA (CP) — A sizeable increase in the number of workers belonging to unions is the main goal of the Canadian Labor Congress over the next two years, Congress President Donald MacDonald said Friday.

Ship Free

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) — The Swedish freighter Birgit Ragne resumed its journey through the St. Lawrence Seaway to Montreal Friday after freeing itself from rocks on which it had run aground.

Potter

Dr. Potter said he agrees with the need for establishing more medical schools, but said it takes at least 10 years to establish a school and "the majority of medical schools over the years have become specialist-oriented."

The health minister said universities at the present time are being asked to "insist" that 60 per cent of their graduates become interested in family practice, "or at least work toward that figure."

Introducing the new Uniroyal Fastrak 4-PLY POLYESTER

5 big reasons to buy now!

1 4-ply polyester cord for strength with ride comfort. The tire cord material for up-to-date strength, safety and durability. It meets today's most demanding needs for a smooth, comfortable ride.

2 Modern 78 series gives the low, wide, husky look that is so in demand. Engineered for stability and steering control.

3 12/32" tread depth. Thousands of tread edges in each tire form an aggressive tread design for traction and skid resistance. Combination of 12/32" tread depth and 78 series design insure long, dependable mileage.

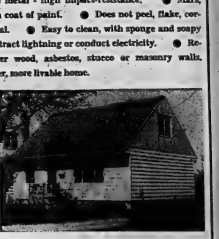
Hard Proof! Geon VINYLS

Of the permanent beauty of MASTIC Solid Vinyl Siding

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THESE HOMES...



and check the workmanship and beautiful designs ... would you like to see your Home with the spring look of Mastic Solid Vinyl?

Why homeowners call it the one siding material that measures up to every beauty and maintenance free requirement of PERFECT siding.

- Never need paint - durability is built in, not painted on. ..
- Does not dent like metal - high impact-resistance.
- Mars, scars, abrasions don't show.
- Solid color clear through - 40 times thicker than a coat of paint.
- Does not peel, flake, corrode or rust.
- Does not absorb or retain moisture like wood, or sweat like metal.
- Easy to clean, with sponge and soapy water and simply hose down.
- Does not support combustion.
- Does not attract lightning or conduct electricity.
- Resists damaging effects of acids, salt water, sun, rain, oil, etc. —
- Goes on easily over wood, asbestos, stucco or masonry walls.
- Insulates against cold or heat.
- Muffles outside noises — assures a quieter, more livable home.

Deseronto Council To Hear Proposal

TORONTO — A new provincial government proposal, with prospects of lower costs to taxpayers, will be made to Deseronto town council next week over the municipality's controversial water supply system.

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, revealed the proposal includes increased government financial assistance, promising 50 per cent of capital costs in a water-supply project.

The letter, outlining senior government suggestions, will be forwarded to town council from the ministry of the environment.

It is the latest move in a controversy over improving the town's water supply, which has been unresolved despite an OMB municipal Board hearing in March. Core of the dispute is the cost of new installations, which could have meant an annual $150 charge in taxpayers' pockets, compounding the situation it the cost of recently - installed sewage treatment facilities.

The proposal covers two separate projects: (1) For a combined industrial - domestic water supply, estimated in cost $221,700 — with the province paying $410,800.

(2) A domestic supply system only, costing $726,500 — the government paying $369,-

"As a result of these changes," says the text of the letter, "the total estimated typical home charge has been $115."

Calculations have been made on a "standard basis."

When "actual conditions that obtain in the municipality have been taken into consideration, it will be possible to lower the homeowner charge to less than $100 per annum," adds the text.

"In both of there cases the charge is inclusive of the existing charges on the existing system in addition to the charge for the new works."

The letter adds the proposal is subject to Ontario Municipal Baord approval.

Fees Help Nicholson Over Financial Hurdle

While tuition fees do not cover the complete cost of running Nicholson Catholic College, in their first year of existence, they have helped the college over a financial hump.

Sister Mary Teresa, principal and teacher at Nicholson, admitted "we could never begin to manage on the tuition fees".

"The board saw we couldn't continue to function without additional help, and this was brought to the attention of the parents," said Sister Nicholson principal.

Senior students in grades 11 to 13 were asked to pay a fee of $120 for the year which could be paid in one lump sum or could be spread over the 10 school months in payments of $12.

"We received a strong response to the call for fees, and everything is working out nicely," said Sister Mary Teresa.

More than 160 students enrolled in the college this year had to pay the fee.

In some cases where the family could not afford the cost of tuition, special arrangements were made through the school to admit the student.

"We had people donating funds to the college, to aid people like this," she said. "Some families paid for their one student and chipped-in another tuition fee extra, to help out with some one else."

From the college's year to the current year, Nicholson Catholic College lost 10 to 60 senior students representing 25 per cent of the senior student population.

Still, the system remains and "all is well and will be continued to augment the support of the college".

Enrolment for the coming year has increased from 161 to 192.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, May 21

Aries (March 21-April 19): Get out and make the rounds early; do your share in community life as you go. You can meet much pleasure and connection.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Where you had worked out elaborate plans, much goes more directly to the point. Use every opportunity to get effective contacts with serious students.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Forget getting postmortems of past squabbles. Bring your loved ones, friends and neighbors together for celebration. The spark of romance may gleam.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Reach beyond regular affiliations for a larger set of resources. Commercial affairs should be laid aside. Business contacts can follow later.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Friendship leads naturally to sharing of experiences. Be willing to extend hospitality, views of your expectations for future growth.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make your amenities wherever expected, peace where difference can be healed. Thanksgiving is a mood for any day, not just for on holiday a year.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In the calm of a routine Sunday your intuition will set into play some final piece of a long-standing puzzle.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Put aside weekday concerns and enjoy a real break. Visiting, particularly going out to those who are not free to travel brings satisfaction.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 22): The path to symbolically reconcilie heights now is open if you really try. Home figures strongly in your thinking.

Capricorn (Dec. 23-Jan. 19): Get some extra rest. A complete switch from yesterday. Unfinished correspondence needs your attention if it is ever to be of value.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Specific plans can be presented, and if you have nothing precisely worked out, let things take their natural course. Everything is likely all right.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Do what your community expects of you. From the many-faceted discussions you get fresh insights to build ideas. Listening well pays off.

Monday, May 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): Since nobody seems ready to compromise see what you can do alone. Let promotions, pleas for help pass by without notice.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your friends are all impatient today. Financial improvement is feasible on confidential deals. Courtesy in any travel is essential.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Difference of opinion over funds or family resources are widespread only by great care and candor on your part.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): It may seem that opposition to your plans is more important than the activity being planned. Divert energy to constructive results.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Resistance comes from unexpected directions. There's no advantage in confronting those who disagree. Re-examine your program.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cooperation now is priceless, may be among those who normally are beyond reach. Make the most of it while it lasts.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Those emotionally linked with you may see your activities as competitive; may hinder career progress a little. Try to get an even balance.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Any unusual action will cause comment, even doing some ordinary thing ahead of time. Your money is restless to get loose.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Try to discipline your tendency to speak bluntly. You have access to important people. If you will make the effort.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Expect a slow-starting Monday. Do the most important work first; be edited while you are at it. Save details for tomorrow.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Put yourself into whatever you do fully; make a game of even routine things. Family, social contacts require extra care, perhaps some apology.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Arrange your schedule carefully; plan your expenses, as there is a drift toward extravagance. You may have last-minute help in resolving tension.

Tuesday, May 23

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your considerate manner helps ease some of the rough edges left from yesterday's harsh start. Impulse tempts you away from the best path.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Both people and tools react. People vacillate. Tools require special care, even minimal maintance. Steady effort is lads cated.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Make up your mind as your time for effective action is running thin. A time is coming when you must decide several issues and leave them settled.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Charge for the sake of change is out. Stay with the familiar while you refine plans. Loved ones deserve a surprise this evening.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Much of your future benefits depends now on how well you cope with interference. Original ideas can be put to immediate use.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's time to see most issues in a new light but not yet time to alter your terms. Discussing ideas helps solve business details.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Patience, humor for more of, for story. Any quarrel now, two more days of revision before going into use. Have fun in the evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Expect interruption every time you get ahead of your schedule or the range of others' convenience. Passive acceptance of routine makes improvements possible.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Being patient now is not easy, but worth the tension. Start, hurry, stop, wait seems to be normal pacing. Home life is better.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Whatever what you have started before switching to anything new. Reflect before reacting, as a decision is involved in that reaction.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bright ideas and short cuts succeed, may be required by today's conditions. Your sense of humor gets things off dead centre.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Be wary of any deal that has to be done in a hurry, particularly if there's family or group money involved. Your impulses run to creative ideas.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
Is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three X's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Opening lead — two of diamonds.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever, said Keats, and this hand — featuring exceptional defense — is a shining example.

North - South got to four spades, despite the ruinance bid of three diamonds, and West made the irregular lead of the two of diamonds — instead of his fourth-best diamond.

East knew at once that the deuce was not the lead of a level — West could not possibly have jumped to three diamonds with only a four-card suit.

So he very reasonably concluded that his partner was attempting to convey a message of some kind by the unusual lead, and he promptly addressed himself to the question of what that message was.

After considering the matter at length, East arrived at the sensible conclusion that West was void of clubs. To exploit this possibility to the full, he played the queen of diamonds on the opening lead, instead of making the more normal play of the ace.

This worked out beautifully after the queen held the trick. East returned a club, ruffed by West, and West returned a diamond to the ace to get himself a second club ruff. Declarer saved something from the wreck by later taking a trump finesse, but in spite of this he finished down one.

Had East won the opening diamond lead with the ace and returned a club, West would have had to guess whether to undertake the ruff of diamonds at trick three or try to rush it instead. Had he elected to cash the king, declarer would have brought home the contract.

But East's play of the queen at trick one prevented West from going wrong later on, and effectively steered the defense in the right direction.

How to Help Girl In Epileptic Fit

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend and I witnessed a teen-age girl having an epileptic seizure recently. The girl appeared to be swallowing her tongue, or trying to swallow it.

What is the correct procedure to aid such a person? I wanted to help but was afraid of doing the wrong thing.—Mrs. W.M.

Bless you for wanting to help. Too many people are frightened and don't think of helping.

There isn't too much to do but there are many things.

First, if the person is standing or sitting, help get him flat. The first consideration is to keep him from injuring himself in the convulsions and thrashing around. Keep the person away from hot objects, if you can.

Open a tight collar, if there is one.

As to the tongue, just keep the head turned to one side to prevent swallowing the tongue.

Once a seizure starts, there is nothing to do to stop it. Fortunately, it doesn't last long.

Put a folding coat or pillow under the person's head to keep the head from being banged against the floor or ground; don't stand by.

If the person's teeth are clenched, don't try to force anything between them. There used to be a notion that you could put a pencil or some such object between the teeth to prevent biting the tongue. Unfortunately, too many people took this as gospel, and they did much unwilling harm to teeth and gums, trying to jam something between the teeth, when actually there was no real point in it.

There may be moments when breathing appears to have stopped. Don't panic; breathing will resume.

After the attack is over, the person usually is drowsy and exhausted; let him rest and reassure him that he is all right.

The main thing is to keep calm yourself and do the above simple things to prevent the person from hurting himself.

It's trouble enough having epilepsy without having folks around you getting into a panic or being frightened or trying to do the wrong thing. Most of the things you can do are, you see, dedicated to preventing or protect to let the person hurt himself.

Dear Sir: Is there anything that can be done to decrease the size of my breasts? They are so heavy they pull my shoulders down. I have a cough which I believe comes from crowded lungs.—Mrs. A.S.

I have some doubts about "crowded lungs" causing the heavy breasts. Perhaps you have your doctor check you over first to see what is causing the cough.

We discuss with him whether weight reduction will ease your problem. What is your weight? Finally, if your weight is within reason except for the breasts, surgery is possible to reduce them in size. It's not a simple or inexpensive procedure but it is done when that is the real answer to the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes fungus growth that leaves white spots on the nails? What cure is there?—M.E.L.

White spots on the nails aren't necessarily due to fungus. Nails are very hardy. White spots may be due to nail polish, injury (as in manicuring), strong soaps or household cleansers or chemicals.

If fungus is present, usually there will be signs other than just the white spots.

So find out what your trouble really is. See a dermatologist. If he identifies fungus, there are treatments he can give you.

Nixon, Brezhnev Confer

U.S., Russia Agree To Fight Disease

Pollution Also Target

From AP-REUTER

MOSCOW (CP) — The Moscow summit produced the first modest results today with Soviet and American negotiators agreeing to sign blueprints for joint action against dread diseases and to counter environmental pollution.

The signing ceremony was to take place following an afternoon session between President Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev, the Communist party chief.

Nixon and Brezhnev, and full delegations from both countries, held their first formal summit talks for nearly two hours today.

It was expected that the afternoon meeting would involve far fewer people—perhaps just Nixon, Brezhnev and one or two aides.

One of the initial agreements, it was learned, would aim at joint American-Soviet health research efforts with emphasis on compatting such major diseases as cancer and heart trouble.

The second would provide for collaboration in helping to clean up the global environment.

The formal opening of the summit took place in a cordial atmosphere in what the participants called a search for pathways to world peace.

Moments after a far - away chime sounded the hour of 11 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT), Nixon and Brezhnev entered the ornate Ostharine Hall in the Grand Kremlin Palace from opposite sides of the big room and, leading others in their delegation, met at the midway point for handclasps, small-talk and smiles.

Once the two leaders sat down facing each other across the conference table, Nixon was flanked by State Secretary William Rogers and Henry Kissinger, the president's assistant for national security affairs.

Sitting on either side of Brezhnev were Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and Premier Alexi Kosygin.

With such liberals as Vietnam, the Middle East and strategic nuclear arms on the agenda, the negotiations promised to be tough. But both sides made it clear they meant business, exchanging welcome pledges Monday night to work together for world peace.

Few observers here, however, expected any dramatic progress on either Vietnam or

Blacks Found Opposed To Rhodesian Accord

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, announcing that the majority of blacks have rejected Anglo-Rhodesian settlement terms, said today that economic sanctions against Rhodesia will be continued.

However, he told the House of Commons, doors against Rhodesia will not be shut.

"It may be that on further reflection the majority of Rhodesians, African and European, will decide to choose the way of compromise and to work together for orderly political change.

"I devoutedly hope so for the sake of all southern Africa."

The foreign secretary made the statement as he tabled the findings of the Pearce Commission which, after sampling opinion in Rhodesia, reported that the majority of black Rhodesians are strongly opposed to the proposals which would have lifted sanctions and given the Ian Smith-government official recognition by Britain.

Opposition spokesman James Callaghan sought to pin down Sir Alec to a commitment that any further discussion on settlement with Smith must be based on the five principles which include a demand that the settlement would be seen to be acceptable to the Rhodesian people as whole.

Douglas-Home said there is no question but that the five principles would be retained, though he hedged on how they might be applied in assessing Rhodesian opinion.

Callaghan charged that he was undermining his position by that statement. Douglas-Home countered that the matter is not an easy one and that members should reserve their views until they have read the Pearce Commission report in detail.

Douglas-Home said that the British negotiations with Smith last November, followed by the Pearce report, "have created a situation in which many new doors will be current and in which positions which hitherto have been inflexible could become more fluid."

"It is clear therefore that in these circumstances there must be time for reflection, particularly by Rhodesians, for the problems of Rhodesia can essentially only be solved by Rhodesians themselves."

Third Break Away

Quebec's CNTU Torn by Schism

QUEBEC (CP) — A long-simmering split within the Confederation of National Trade Unions widened dramatically today when a majority of more than 1,000 dissident CNTU labor officials voted to break away from the group and form a new labor federation.

As a closed-door meeting supporters of the CNTU's vice-president, Paul-Emile Dalpe, treasurer Jacques Dion and services director Amedee Daigle voted 778 in favor a new group, 266 for revamping the CNTU with election of new leaders and 15 for maintaining the status quo.

The officials came from about 270 unions and several of the 11 union federations belonging to the CNTU. They represent more than 50,000 members—about a third of the CNTU's membership.

CNTU economist Yvon Valois said the majority of the union executives at the meeting already have clear mandates from their members to act.

"Those who didn't," he said, "will be going back to their locals and asking for ratification of their votes."

In a statement Sunday from Orsainville prison where he is serving a one-year term for contempt of court, CNTU President Marcel Pepin denounced the "treachery within our ranks" and called for "counter measures" against the three dissident leaders.

Fernand Daoust, secretary general of the Quebec Federation of Labor and chief spokesman for the public service common front freed briefly by Mr. Pepin and two other jailed presidents, warned there could be a return to labor disruptions "if it begins to look like we have been betrayed and if the union leaders are not freed under acceptable conditions."

The May 9 jailing of Mr Pepin, QFL President Louis Laberge and Yvon Charbonneau of the Quebec Teachers Corp sparked province-wide illegal strikes and demonstration.

Washington Sees Splits In Hanoi Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, concerned about reports that the new U.S. bombing and mining in Vietnam has had little effect on life in the North, says splits are starting to show in Hanoi's leadership. A White House official who would not be identified by name told a small group of reporters Monday that "the stress in the regime is much more intensive" than it was before President Nixon ordered his new military policy two weeks ago.

Russian 167 Years Old

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet Union's oldest inhabitant turned 167 Tuesday and celebrated by joining his 88-year-old grandson in one of his native Azerbaijan's dances, the Tass news agency reported. The agency said Shirali Mislimov is still cheerful and lively. His wife is 107.

Two Fires in North

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Two large bush fires are burning out of control in northwestern Ontario, one of them in a rugged and beautiful portion of Quetico Provincial Park near the United States border. Al Baxter of the department of natural resources said in an interview that firefighters in the park have been able to collar the 1,000-acre fire a bit but the terrain is rugged.

Ports Believed Closed

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Times correspondent Anthony Lewis reports from Hanoi that the crossroads of foreign observers now is that the American mining has effectively closed North Vietnam's ports.

Derry IRA Split

LONDONDERRY (AP) — An enraged demonstration by Roman Catholic women, sickened by years of violence, opened up a wide split today among guerrilla forces in this key Northern Ireland city.

The traditional nationalist Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army seized on the women's unrest to demand that the militant Official IRA get out of the IRA citadel of Free Derry.

The open revolt against the IRA's crime behind the six trenches and concrete barricades of Free Derry, where Northern Ireland's guerrilla warfare was first spawned three years ago by Catholic civil rights demands.

Free Derry is ruled absolutely by the IRA. It uses the enclave as a major power base in its fight to force Ulster under the rule of the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish Republic.

Two hundred Catholic housewives convened Official IRA men Monday and demanded an end to violence. The women have become sick over the weekend killing of a 18-year-old British army private, William Best, home on leave from his unit in West Germany.

Best was a Catholic. He was hooded and killed for "selling out the people's cause." The women said he had been tortured.

Sniffles broke out as the women, some pushing baby carriers and others carrying their children, tangled with the IRA men.

Mary Bell said: "We were always with the boys until now. Best's innocent boy has been shot dead. The shooting must stop."

The Officials admitted responsibility for his death.

'Pull Plug' Doctors Are Urged

WINNIPEG (CP) — Doctors should be allowed to "pull the plug" on patients who suffer extreme brain damage, as well as some of those being kept mechanically alive.

That was the consensus Monday of a panel of doctors, nurses, social workers and clergymen at the opening session of a medico-moral institute, sponsored by the Catholic Hospital Association of Canada.

The institute, the first of its kind to be held in Canada by the Catholic hospitals, was called to discuss such matters as death and dying, abortions, contraception and sterilization.

The two-day meeting has attracted about 250 delegates from Catholic hospitals across Canada.

Monday's opening session was led by a panel discussing death and dying, which agreed that cessation of heart functions should no longer be cited as the only sign of death.

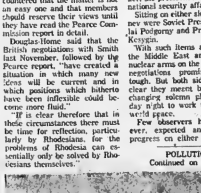
As well, the panel agreed that terminal patients should not be allowed to live indefinitely by "unnatural" means if a doctor is prepared to rule them mentally dead.

Monsignor N. J. Chartrand, chancellor of the archdiocese of Winnipeg said many doctors still believe in keeping patients alive as long as possible for fear of being accused of supporting euthanasia.

Laser-guided Bombs Wreck Vietnam Bridges

From AP-REUTER

SAIGON (CP) — The U.S. command disclosed today that U.S. fighter-bombers, using their new laser-guided "smart bombs," destroyed six bridges on North Vietnam's railway line to China and set off five large secondary explosions in an attack on a power station in the Hanoi area.



In the ground war in North Vietnamese troops and tanks battled government troops for Hanoi and a third consecutive day north of Hue, the former imperial capital.

South Vietnamese forces repulsed new attacks on the north-central defence line at the My Chanh River and on An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. But much guerrilla fighting was reported in the Mekong delta 65 miles southeast of Saigon, and Viet Cong forces there were reported to have seized about 30 per cent of Dat Do, a district capital.

The U.S. command said American bombers flew more than 1,000 strikes against targets in North Vietnam during the last three days.

The northwest rail line, one of two over which China sends supplies to Hanoi, was reported hit Monday in an area about 110 miles northwest of Hanoi and about 50 miles south of the Chinese border.

The air force F-4 Phantoms used laser devices to direct their bombs within five feet of the bridges, military sources said. Laser guns mounted on the supersonic jets fire their concentrated light beams across the target, and the bombs homed in on the beams.

First Lazy Holiday Afternoon

The Victoria Day weekend, first holiday of the summer, provided perfect weather for hundreds of campers and vacationers flocking to the Outlet Provincial Park, occupying almost all of the available camp sites. Here, Tony Harris of Main Street, Kingston, floats down Outlet Creek on a rubber air mattress. Cool winds and cold waters kept many campers from swimming from the beach while the sheltered, warmer creek accommodated fishermen, boaters and swimmers alike.

Indians Must Preserve Culture

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Only the Indian people themselves can propagate their native culture since their young are denying the teachings of school systems had clergy, the Bay of Quinte Mohawks were told here Sunday by a leading Indian scholar and spokesman.

The white man must also accept the cultural identity of native peoples and not try to change them, cautioned Walter Currie, director of Indian studies at Trent University.

Prof. Currie was keynote speaker at a day-long series of events celebrating the 175th arrival and settlement of the Mohawks here.

Annual ceremonies marking the landing drew hundreds to the Bay of Quinte shoreline near Deseronto earlier in the morning for the customary — and colorful — parade and outdoor remembrance service around the memorial cairn near where the Mohawks first touched shore. The events were given an extra romantic touch as Mohawks, led by Chief Earl Hill, paddled five canoes a mile down the Bay, in symbolic recollection of their ancestors' voyage.

Today, many young Indians want to know of their heritage, Prof. Currie told the Mohawks and their guests at a lunch which followed in the basement of the reserve's new — as yet unfinished — community centre.

But the Indian heritage is a total way of life and awareness of it now can only be handed down through the parents and adults of native communities, he said.

Yet Indians have turned their children over to school systems, clergy and churches and "have no say in what happens".

"Our schools have failed to pass this knowledge on to our young people — and this is a shame," said Prof. Currie.

Many younger Indians "to a great extent" now reject the teaching of schools and clergy.

"We have stopped being fathers and mothers, and then we wonder what happened to our people. This must change. Our young people tell us this," he said.

Cultural survival also relies on the attitude of the white man, and Prof. Currie had this to say to the neighbors surrounding Indian communities:

"Our culture can only survive if you allow it to be. If you accept us for what we are and don't try to change us into something else."

Guests at the luncheon including Clarke Rollins MPP Hastings and Len Gerlitz, MP Hastings, were also shown a film outlining proposals of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians to the federal government.

The association, now representing eight reserves with 20,000 Indians in Ontario, is opposed to any surrender of federal jurisdiction in Indian affairs to the provinces.

Capt Bruce Tyendinaga councillor who is current association president, said the association hopes its proposals for changes in the Indian Act are the "beginning of something that is long past due."

More Cruises Planned

TRENTON (Staff) — The waters surrounding the Trent-Severn and Rideau canal waterways will soon be a tourist-dollar battling ground for two pleasure boat companies.

Several weeks ago word was received that the American-Canadian Line would be operating pleasure cruises in the area. Their ship, accommodating American tourists, would make its first trip in two weeks. A second cruise will start in the fall.

Today, The Intelligencer learned of a second company's plan to start cruises with Trenton, Belleville and Picton as stopping points.

Ronald Strong, an Ontario Hydro employee in the Bruce Nuclear Generating plant on Lake Huron, operates cruise boats on the upper Trent-Severn system between Trent Ferry and Healey Falls.

One of his 50-foot, 60-passenger boats is at present being removed from winter storage on Lake Ontario.

Man Arrested

A minor fracas on Front Street early Monday morning has resulted in the arrest of an Ottawa man.

John Frederick Vince, 38, of 214 Bay Street, Ottawa, has been charged with causing wilful damage. The charge was brought after a man smashed his fist through a plate glass window at the Modern Cafe.

Police made the arrest in the General Hall led at the corner of Bridge and Front Sts. where two passersby were holding the injured man. He was treated for a cut hand.

Rotarian Jack Weatherell signs in Judy Meeks, second finisher while John Reid, the first finisher looks on. John's $144.50 pledges helped toward the over $2,000 that will go toward the Crippled Children's fund. Over 250 students from local schools participated in the walk.

Board, Teachers Agree On Salaries, Benefits

Hastings - Prince Edward separate school board and its teachers signed a two-year contract Monday afternoon — one of the few two-year salary contracts for teachers in the province. It covers the period from September 1972 to August 31, 1974.

The increase to the board over the next two years will be 13.5 per cent. Every member of the teaching staff will receive a salary increase based on experience and years of service with the board, ranging from a low of $300 to a high of $650 a year.

Principals will receive responsibility allowances based on the size of their schools, to a maximum in the second year of the contract of $4,500.

The board will pick up two-thirds of the cost of Ontario Health Insurance. It formerly paid half the cost.

It will pay 50 per cent of the cost of a group life insurance plan the first year of the contract and 75 per cent the second year. This is the first time a group insurance plan has been offered to separate school teachers.

The new travel allowance, effective in September, will be 12 cents a mile for the first 500 miles and 12 cents a mile for any additional mileage beyond the first 500 miles travelled in any one month.

The salaries of all teachers in the separate school system remains the same as in 1971-72, but additional annual allowances have been given at 12 levels for each of the two years of the contract.

Allowances for 1972-73 are: pre-level and level 1, $250; levels 2,3, and 4, $300, and levels 5, 6 and 7, $450.

In 1973-74, the second year of the contract, the teachers will receive an additional $200 at pre-level and level 1; $300 at level 2, 3 and 4 and $400 at levels 5, 6 and 7, $450.

Principals' responsibility allowances, over and above the salary for their levels, are $400 the first year for each room for the first six classrooms and in the second year $300 for the first 10 rooms; $250 for the next six rooms during the first year and $375 for the next four rooms during the second year and $150 for any additional rooms during the first year and $175 the second year. Maximum allowed during the first year of the contract is $4,250 and in the second year $4,500.

In announcing the signing of the contract, both teachers and the board said it was a fair and equitable agreement that will guarantee maintenance of high standards of education for the children in the system.

the Middle East, although there was a strong possibility of an agreement to limit certain high clear weapons.

Nixon arrived Monday to a friendly but restrained welcome on the first visit to Moscow by an American head of state. His last Pathway he notched up another first for a U.S. president by visiting Peking for summit discussions with Chinese leaders.

Little more than two hours after his plane touched down in Moscow, he began talks with Brezhnev, with only an interpreter present. Soviet television screened film of the world's two most powerful men seated opposite each other at one end of a conference table, each apparently at ease in the other's company.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the two leaders had a "businesslike and frank" conversation during which they discussed the outline of the agenda for the four days of formal talks that began today.

Deer and Bee Road Hazards

TWEED (Special) — An animal and an insect disrupted the weekend plans of motorists in the Millbridge area this weekend, with two separate accidents attributed to a bee and a wandering deer.

Kenneth L. Vivian of RR1, Ayr, sustained $100 damage to his car when he struck a doe while driving on Highway 62 about six miles north of Millbridge Monday. Police report that the doe died instantly, but Mr. Vivian was uninjured.

A bee sting caused Earl Labossiere of Belleville to go out of control and hit a rock on Highway 62, two miles north of Millbridge about 1:30 p.m. Sunday. As passenger in the car, Connie Ellis of Belleville sustained cuts and bruises.

A truck-car collision 4½ miles north of Tweed on Highway 37 sent six people to hospital about 10 p.m. Saturday night. The half-ton pick-up truck driven by Bernard O'Coin of Flinton and Tored to came into collision with a car driven by William James Bell of Scarboro, causing $2,000 damages to each vehicle.

Bernard O'Coin and Mrs. Martha Bell were both admitted to Belleville General Hospital and released Sunday. Michael O'Coin, a passenger in the truck, Mr. Bell and his daughter Maureen and another passenger, John H. Wood, were all treated at BGH and released.

Bay Bridge Deck To Be Replaced

PICTON (Staff) — James Taylor MPP Prince Edward-Lennox announced that the minister of transportation and communications will call for tenders this week for the replacement on Bay of Quinte bridges one and two on Highway 14.

Mr. Taylor noted he has urged a new Bay Bridge but added that "roads are not currently available for a new structure."

He has requested the minister, however, to prepare some preliminary proposals for the ultimate replacement of the bridge.

Mr. Taylor also said the athletic commissioner has approved boxing matches for the Bloomfield AOTS Men's Club Minor Softball in their sports program and will ship one dozen softballs and half a dozen softball bats.

No Injuries In Collision

Two drivers were uninjured in an accident at the corner of Victoria and Ann at 4 p.m. on Monday.

Witnesses said a Volkswagen car was knocked from the centre of the intersection, rolled onto its side and came to rest on it sidewall.

City police report Michael Coughlin, 22, of 19 Forin Street, was proceeding east on Victoria in his 1971 Volkswagen driven by Clifford S. Gerow, 75, of 176 George St., came through the intersection from Ann and struck the south side of the vehicle, $400 to the Weston car, Constable Garnet Goodwin investigated.

Damage Minor In Hotel Fire

City firemen report a guest who fell asleep Saturday afternoon while smoking in bed caused a minor fire at the City Hotel on Front Street.

The guest, who was identified as Gelson MacLean, 72, was taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering from smoke inhalation. He was admitted for observation.

Fire officials report another guest, Ronald Slade, gave assistance during the brief fire. He was given oxygen for minor smoke inhalation.

While the mattress was burned, only smoke damage to the hotel was reported. The manager declined to comment on the incident.

Christ Church Now Historic Site

TYENDINAGA RESERVE (Staff) — The Mohawks here, who first settled Christianity in the Quinte district, Sunday finally had their Anglican church designated an official historic site.

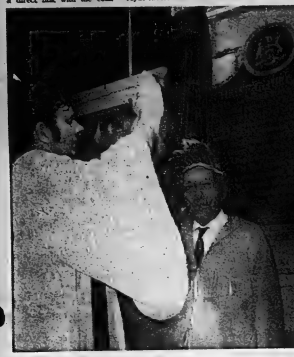
Scene of the formal ceremonies was the weathered, limestone Christ Church, a landmark at the east end of the reserve, overlooking the spot where the Mohawks landed, in 1784.

Unveiling of a plaque, placed on the churchfront by the province's Archaeological and Historic Sites board was a highlight of this year's annual ceremonies recalling the first landing.

The church was called "one of the most important" of Ontario's historic sites by board official S. F. Wise.

It is a link with the "great events" which shaped modern Ontario and Canada and a direct link with the country's original inhabitants.

The coming of the Mohawks here followed their expulsion from the Mohawk Valley in present New York State, after the American Revolution. Adopting the Christian religion early in the 18th century they were possessors of the first limestone church believed built in North America.



Immediately after their landing here they held a thanksgiving service on an upturned canoe, later built a log church nearby and then a larger wooden edifice — Christ Church — in 1843. This served not only the reserve but surrounding settlements for many years and burned down in 1908, to be rebuilt in its present form within a year.

It is also believed to be one of only two Chapels Royal outside Britain and holds several historic gifts marking royal favor.

These include a bell, a triptych and coat of arms, presented by George III.

The plaque was unveiled by two of the elders of the Mohawk community, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doreen, married 58 years, both of whom can recall the original wooden building before it burned.

It was dedicated by the reserve's chaplain, Rev. Cyril J. Betts.

History Becomes Official

Rev. Cyril Betts, Quinte Mohawk chaplain, dedicates plaque officially designating Tyendinaga Reserve Christ Church as Ontario historic site. Plaque was unveiled Sunday during annual celebrations of 1784 Mohawk settlement by community elders, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doreen.

Greeks Have Ball In Belleville

Ontario and Quebec members of the Order of AHEPA gathered at the Bon Valley Motor Inn here this weekend for their 37th annual convention.

The two-day convention was climaxed Sunday night with a ball, attended by about 270 delegates and guests, among them the Hon. R. T. Potter, Hastings MP Lee Grills and Mayor J. Russell Scott. Representatives of the Supreme Lodge from Washington, DC, Edmonton, Regina and Vancouver were also present.

A special church service was held Sunday morning at the Seventh Day Adventist Church with Bishop Theodosios officiating.

AHEPA stands for Anglo Hellenic Educational Progressive Association and the Belleville chapter is the youngest of district 23. It was founded last year and was successful in bringing the annual convention here with the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Scott.

Officers elected for the coming year are: district governor Anthony Demakos of London, Ont.; lieutenant governor Alex Pasopulis of Montreal; secretary Jim Anas of London; treasurer, Alex Mantzaris, of Belleville; district marshall, Gus Aspros of Toronto; district advisor, George Kostogiannis and district athletic director, Jim Adams of Ottawa.

The London, Ont., chapter was judged the best chapter in the district, and a Belleville man Peter Zegouras, was chosen best Ahepan of the of the year. Convention chairman was John Zikopoulos.

Police Busy

Officers of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police were kept busy over the weekend, responding to 49 occurrences of liquor violations and vandalism in the Outlet Provincial Park.

A spokesman for the detachment said this morning, of the offences, 26 included liquor seizures and of these, 20 involved minors.

All were charged with having liquor in a place other than their residence and drinking under age.

A camper was charged with littering when he was apprehended, kicking over a garbage can, spilling its contents over the ground.

Aerobatic Spectacular

Several hundred Quinte-area residents were treated to a spectacular demonstration of precision flying by the Royal Air Force's top aerobatic team yesterday. In rehearsal, the Red Arrows thrilled sky watchers with a practice air show twice in the morning. Rehearsals are scheduled again for today and tomorrow. The team performing are scheduled at Expo 72 at Dulles Airfield, Washington D.C. from May 26 to June 4, will highlight Armed Forces Day, CFB Trenton on June 10.

Announcing
GUARANTY OPTION 5 CERTIFICATE
a new idea in investment certificates

Interest rates go up each year for 5 years.

You can cash in a Guaranty Option 5 Certificate on any anniversary date.

Available in amounts from $500.00.

Why an Investment Guaranty Option 5 Certificate
Some of our customers were looking for something new in investment plans. They were looking for a plan that paid well and gave them solid security. They wanted to invest for a definite period at guaranteed rates, yet they wanted an option to cash in should their circumstances change.

So we invented the Guaranty Option 5 Certificate. We call it the GO-5 Certificate.

GO-5 is the answer
The GO-5 Certificate is a five year investment certificate with interest rates guaranteed for each of the years to maturity. However, if you find later that you need money for other purposes, you are free to cash in your GO-5 Certificate on any anniversary of the date of your purchase. That gives you five options to refuse—a real advantage if your financial plans change and you need cash.

Interest grows
Your interest increases each year at the guaranteed rates and is paid to you every six months. Check the example in the chart. It shows what will happen to a $1,000 GO-5 Certificate in five years at current rates.

| Year | 1st | 2nd | 3rd | 4th | 5th |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rates* | 6¼% | 6¼% | 6½% | 7¼% | 7¾% |
| Interest | $62.50 | $65.00 | $67.50 | $72.50 | $77.50 |
| Total interest to maturity ..... $345.00 | | | | | |

*Effective from April 29, 1972 until changed.

Only Guaranty Trust has the GO-5 Certificate
GO-5 was created by Guaranty Trust and can only be bought at Guaranty Trust branches. Contact the manager of the Guaranty Trust branch nearest you and he'll tell you all about the advantages of the GO-5 Certificate.

Soviet World

Before us are half-a-dozen copies of Soviet Weekly. They have been sent to us by D. M. Cole who describes herself as a student of history and, as an elderly woman, remembers much of the Soviet world. She suggests we read them, adding, "then perhaps you will not make such ridiculous statements in some of your writings."

This we cannot answer adequately, for the writer has offered only a blanket condemnation. However, if we have reminded readers on occasions of some aspects of the Soviet political system that are incompatible in terms of our own free democratic western society, so be it. Freedom of speech and of political expression is not the norm either in the Soviet Union or in its satellites. And the need for many, including Soviet writers who dare to challenge the system is consignment to labor camps, if not asylums for the insane. There was a reference in that on this page recently to a letter from an area citizen who fled the Communist society of eastern Europe to come to Canada, as have countless others.

Aside from these skeletons in the Soviet closet (we have them here too — but that is our problem). Soviet Weekly, which incidentally is published in Britain, is an admirable journal. True, there is the inevitable propaganda material, but it also reflects many interesting facets of everyday life and social and economic progress throughout the vast Soviet world. In this respect it is like Soviet Union Today which comes to this office. D. M. Cole, whose letter appears on this page today, has also seen something of the Soviet world for herself and is going back. What she sees though will not be the whole story.

The vast majority of the people of the Soviet Union and the younger generation of its satellites know no other political system than Communism, but the intellectuals there know better and it is for that reason the State seeks to keep them in subjection. In our part of the world capitalism may not be perfect, but the individual is still free to choose.

Against All Odds

Retired Bell historian Arthur Gosselin, in an address here, has made the point that artificial eyes are still beyond the reach of science. Whether such a development is indeed possible he did not say, although he noted that it is possible to prevent up to 75 per cent of all blindness caused by disease, trauma and neglect.

Meanwhile, the University of Toronto's publication, Graduate, we have been reading an article by former speech teacher Dorothy Dew about the first deaf - blind person to graduate with honors from that school. Described by her psychology professor as "the gutsiest girl I know," she is Mae Brown and on June 1 she will have the Bachelor of Arts degree conferred on her through manual touch language.

The daughter of a bush worker and his wife, Miss Brown was born near Thunder Bay. She has two sisters and a brother and as Mae, the youngest, she is the only one in the family to have had academic learnings. However, her early schooling, by correspondence courses and after that only sporadically, was hampered by the onset of both of her right eye and deterioration of her hearing on that side. By the time she was in grade 9 her sight was failing so rapidly she had to leave. It was found she had a brain tumor and while an operation saved her life it also rendered her totally blind and deaf.

There was a long period of recovery and rehabilitation and her academic achievement (she is described as a very bright student, especially in history and English literature) took in all 12 years. Seven of these were spent at Sarborough College of education at Clarkwood residence for the blind and five at Scarborough College.

Assisting the young woman is Mrs. Joan McTavish, a lawyer's wife and supply teacher who has been appointed by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. At lectures Mrs. McTavish communicates with her by touch language and she replies vocally, for she still has the power of speech although it is impaired to some extent.

Wearing a mini dress and blazer, her curly blonde hair impeccably groomed and complemented by pearl earrings and earrings, Mae Brown in class is a picture of concentration and a symbol of courage and determination. Her success is a tribute also to the countless hours devoted by willing helpers. In September she takes up the position of Ontario supervisor of a new department established by the CNIB, to care for and develop the capabilities of the deaf - blind who total nearly 400 in Canada.

Bilingualism Costs Taxpayers Minimum of $115 Million

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Unless you live in the National Capital, certain small sections of the Atlantic Provinces, tiny enclaves of the Prairies, or Montreal, bilingualism to you is just another federal government program.

Possibly your only direct contact with it is the use of the "two official languages" as the government designates English and French, on the cornflakes box or soap label.

No trivial matter this, though since a supermarket chain is being prosecuted in Quebec for having some canned foods on its shelves under unilingual English labels.

But even so, not to worry, you say.

Except that in the operation of only one of the government's sprawling and spreading empires of departments, boards, bureaux and assorted federal agencies, it is already costing you more than $115 million a year.

And that, the way the government keeps its books — becoming more secretive by the year — that $115 million looks suspiciously like only the tip of the bilingual spending potsherd.

Year by year the books in the form of the Main Estimates reveal less and less about federal spending because the government, in the name of consolidation and simplification, leaves more and more details out.

But the Secretary of State Department comes right out with three cost figures for bilingualism.

Its "Bilingualism Development Program" comprising largely grants, contributions and transfer payments to the provinces, runs $90 million.

Its "Language Training Program" concentrated here in the Capital, goes another $19 million.

And its "Translation Bureau" again centred here in Ottawa, adds a further $15 million.

There is a hidden cost that must be added to that $15 million, though, the price of delay, inconvenience and confusion that results from the necessity of translating every single word that comes out of the non-stop government gab.

For every last piece of printed matter — and it would make a pretty respectable mountain — that comes out of Ottawa in government bills, reports, press releases, Commons and Senate debates, pamphlets, periodicals, the Canada Year Book, the Budget and yes, the Estimates, too, goes through the Translation Bureau.

Last year the Bureau estimated it processed 125 million words.

For the Bureau's $15 million operational cost that works out to nine words per dollar, nine or every 10 of them from English into French.

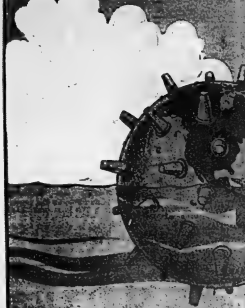
But figure it on the basis of the total $115 million cost of the State Secretary's three bilingual programs and it comes out at just a shade less than $1 the word.

In Ottawa, nothing is cheap. Especially talk.

The Bureau has a central pool of some 86 translators, with small divisions in each of the government departments of about 15, making a total of 750 full-time staff translators, with a back-up of 200 available for emergency, rush-rush particular work.

Each department maintains its own special branch of the Bureau's main translation pool that expertly handles bloated in specialized vocabularies.

Specialization is necessary, because while a trained translator can rattle through an average daily 5,000 words of straight - running French or English in the Commons or Senate Hansard, translating complex technical documents for, say, such departments as Energy Mines and Resources or the Defence Research Board is not such easy going.



There it gets down to a labored 1,000 words a day.

This business of translating everything from one "official language" into the other — at just under $1 the word — results in the Official Languages Act requiring simultaneous printing in English and French of every load of document.

A costly and slow process so slow that when Auditor General Max Henderson was called before the Public Accounts Committee to explain why his report was two months late, he simply said they should ask the Translation Bureau!

So bilingualism is more than two languages on the can of corn or the box of soap flakes.

It is $115 million of your tax money — and that is just for starters.

Chiang Kai-Shek's Influence Declines Further

By JOHN HARBRON

More than the long years away from China and his old age now press down on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, the republic of China, based on Taiwan since 1949, dwindles in world importance as more and more nations switch their diplomatic recognition to the People's Republic of China.

Chiang now is a very old man. He is 82 and was reelected last March for his fifth presidential term over the Republic of China, or more accurately, over Taiwan.

As his ambassadors come home, never to return to such countries as Canada, Italy, Norway and Belgium, which have opened or will open missions in Peking, the unreality of the two Chinas will be impressed itself even on this determined Chinese leader.

Possibly taking their lead from President Nixon, who now uses the word "China," the American press has ceased to differentiate between "Red" or "Mainland" China on one hand, and the "Republic of China" on the other.

Possibly the best reason to end the game with words was Canadian rather than American-oriented. This was the now famous phrase that Canada "takes note" of Peking's claim to Taiwan, since the Communists had insisted Canadian acceptance of their claim over the Island was a precondition for diplomatic relations.

When Peking accepted the Canadian formula which did not include outright recognition, the door was open, and still is, for any country to negotiate with China on diplomatic relations.

Chiang is also plagued with a growing independence movement within Taiwan, which by now is largely native Taiwanese, and most of its resident leaders, forcing many others to live in exile.

The exiles see the Chinese Nationalists, who fled to the island in 1949 after their defeat on the mainland, as the latest of many invaders of Taiwan. The Portuguese gave the Island a new name, Formosa, meaning beautiful. It has stuck until modern times as an alternate name for Taiwan.

The Japanese ruled the island from the beginning of this century until 1945, bringing much development and the first real industrialization. Chiang, his army and his bureaucrats brought more harsh rule and still more industrialization.

The latter was courtesy of Chiang's American aide who turned Taiwan into a major military base (in conjunction with Chiang's forces) as well as economic showpiece. Many results of the latter have been spectacular.

Taiwan competes with Japan and Hong Kong and soon will compete with Communist China for inexpensive but generally well-made goods, primarily textiles and electronic equipment. The big island has become a favorite stamping ground of aggressive enterprise and has hotels, people and atmosphere reminiscent of the Japan in recent years.

What will happen when Chiang has gone? His son and presumed successor Vice President Chiang Ching Kuo, who has taken more and more power in the last few years, will presumably take over. Chiang's forces, well-equipped with U.S. jets, tanks and small arms, are aging. Younger cadres of officers and NCO's, who didn't share the struggle on the mainland against Japan and the Chinese Communists, may have other goals and leaders in mind.

Chiang, in spite of the Nixon visit to Peking, can still cohort on a major U.S. presence in Taiwan. While lesser nations will use the Canadian formula for recognition, Washington still accepts, if it doesn't emphasize it these days, the two Chinas.

So it seems only a matter of timing at the highest levels until the realistic comes in diplomatic relations. This will be a slow easing out, by some formula as yet not devised, to permit Washington and Peking to exchange ambassadors. Even if it takes another decade, that event is inevitable.

Russia at First-Hand

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I am sending you a few copies of "The Soviet Weekly" which I hope you will take time out to read, then perhaps you will not make such ridiculous statements in some of your writings.

You can pick these papers up in London, England, like we can our papers here at corner street boxes.

I am no Communist, but I went to Russia last year just to see for myself, and was amazed at everything I saw there, they have certainly came a long way since their revolution. I found it a beautiful country and liked it so well I am going back again this year.

I am a student of history and being an old lady, can remember so much of theirs which has been very tragic; but I think they have come out on top with no help from any one. Every one was afraid of the word socialism.

"Their Ballets and Operas' are beautiful, the same with their circus.

Strikes By Civil Servants Banned

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

It has been a long time coming but finally we are to see it: strikes by civil servants are to be banned.

Legislation brought in by the government sets a lead in Canada by establishing that its employees can't strike.

There are two basic reasons this action is justified.

One is that a strike by public servants differs from one in the private sector in that it hits a large part of the whole community. A strike in the public service cripples activity across the board and in some areas, if earlier long enough, conceivably could bring the whole community to a halt.

The second justification is that the usual balancing factors don't prevent in public-service strikes. A strike in the private sector is essentially an economic conflict. The strikers disrupt production, cut off revenue and force the employer to consider settlement.

In public service strikes this factor of force isn't there. Government is not affected by a strike. It carries on and this major incentive for settlement is not present.

Actually Ontario can take quite a bit of pride in that our government has been ahead with this legislation.

Correct as it is, and few will dispute that it is, still consideable courage was involved. To Interfere with the right to strike is not a casual exercise.

Conceivably this could have had this legislation several years ago.

In the early '60s we received our civil service legislation to make arbitration compulsory. At the time it was said the intent of this change was to outlaw strikes.

There are two basic reasons this action is justified.

U.S. Sales Body Will Mean Competition for Canada

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — Canadians have been hearing a lot about "DISC" in recent weeks and there is every indication that we will hear much more in the future. The word is an abbreviation for Domestic International Sales Corporation, a new kind of corporate organization which was created in the United States by the passage of the Revenue Act of 1971.

The reason that Canadians are so concerned about DISC is that the chief purpose of the new U.S. legislation is to stimulate United States exports and, as a result, Canadian manufacturers may be facing even tougher competition in the future in their efforts to sell their goods in Canada and in the rest of the world.

The main feature of the DISC program is a tax deferral provision. Once a company decides to set up a DISC operation and is able to, qualify under the complicated regulations, it is entitled to defer tax payment on 50 percent of its income from exports. This deferment may be maintained indefinitely.

A DISC can then lend these tax-deferred funds to any domestic company—probably to its parent company in most cases—for use in expanding facilities and to add to exports. It may also use deferred taxes to extend financing to its foreign customers to build up its inventory of products to be exported or to invest in facilities that help its business. The chief gain from' tax deferral is the additional capital that can be used for increasing the volume of export trade.

Under the new regulations almost anyone can form one of the new DISC corporations. All that is needed to start is a minimum capital requirement of $2,500. This low requirement was intended by the U.S. lawmakers to attract small firms in the lure of tax deferral—small and medium-sized companies into the export business.

The regulations are quite complicated and anyone in the U.S.A. planning to form a DISC corporation is advised to consult with his tax lawyers and exports. Even at this early stage, it is apparent that a new field of business consultation, the DISC expert, is evolving in the United States.

As yet, there is little indication how many DISCs will be formed although there are estimates that between 2,000 and 3,000 companies will take consideration over the next five years

There is also no clear picture as to the extent of the DISC incentives will stimulate U.S. exports, although one figure mentioned is that of $1 billion a year in new exports. The U.S. administration would regard this as a worthwhile start on slicing into the $3 billion trade deficit the United States faced last year.

Naturally, Canada stands to be hit harder than any country by the DISC program, having regard to our large trade with the United States. Our government and business men are afraid that it will discourage direct manufacturing investment in Canada by American companies who will be able to get tax deferral for their investment dollar under the DISC incentives in their own country.

What also bothers the government, and particularly industry, trade and commerce minister Jean-Luc Pepin, is the difficulty for Canadians to get any form information from U.S. companies on the government about the extent of DISC and its likely effects on any particular segment of our industry.

Teachers' Turnover Declining

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

MADOC — Teaching is becoming an aging profession, with less and less new blood being infused into the system each year.

And teachers' organizations will have to give thought to maintaining the health of their profession and the high state of motivation that existed in the 1950s and 1960s when the educational system was expanding.

The gloomy forebodings were presented to Centre Hastings teachers last week by assistant deputy minister of education George Waldrum, a former inspector in the area who returned to Madoc to address a curriculum meeting.

Mr. Waldrum made his point by asking all the first-year teachers present to raise their hands. He counted about a half dozen in a gathering that would have included more than 30 new teachers 11 years ago when he was an inspector in Centre Hastings area 3.

All elementary, secondary and separate school teachers in the area gathered at the Riwenis Centre for the dinner meeting that followed the afternoon curriculum discussion.

With the average age of the majority of teachers in Ontario increasing year by year, leaders in the educational field will have to develop good management techniques, Mr. Waldrum said.

"A good manager is one who ensures feelings of personal growth, achievement and responsibility among his employees and sees that they receive recognition. That sounds like the qualities of a good teacher," said the department of education official.

As the declining birthrate leaves classrooms empty, teachers will have considerable public relations work to do to overcome public criticism, he said.

"We will have to spend more time with the public, with the business world and with municipal councils to prove we're doing a better job."

During the boom days of the 1950s, Mr. Waldrum said, education budgets expanded, capital spending on schools increased, teachers became mobile, with about a 25 per cent turnover of staff each year, promotions were rapid and the profession experienced a high state of morale.

During the past 20 years educational costs spiralled and Mr. Waldrum listed the reasons. Among them were the effects of inflation, expanded educational services and programs, the rising birthrate (enrolment in secondary schools increased by 222 per cent) an increase in the student retention rate (from 20 per cent 15 years ago to 85 per cent now) the creation of 29 "isolated community colleges at great cost", and the effects on salaries of rising teacher qualifications and upgrading programs.

Actual increases in the cost of education have been blamed by the public on larger units of administration — the county boards instituted in 1998, Bob, said Mr. Waldrum, the department of education was aware of the rising annual increases many years ago and creation of the county boards was an attempt to control the situation.

"The 1966 increase in cost was 15.33 per cent over 1965," he said. "In 1967 the increase was 13.32 per cent; in 1968, the increase was 20.44 per cent. In 1969 the annual cost increase fell to 14.71 per cent and in 1970 it was 13.88 per cent.

"The department has made an effort to equalize the cost burden as well as the quality of education," declared Mr. Waldrum. "The problem is: people want service, but don't necessarily want to pay for it."

Mr. Waldrum had high praise for the state of education in Hastings county.

"Trustees and administrators have done a wonderful job — absolutely outstanding."

He said, comparing the situation in 1951-65 when he was an inspector, to the situation today: "In no other place in Ontario could you see so many changes in this period of time."

Flour-rent Issue Talks Under Way

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Talks which may lead to realigning terms of a 19th-century land lease with 20th-century values opened here Friday.

Discussions between spokesmen for the Quinte Mohawks and an industry which inherited the 999-year lease with purchase of a Shannonville canning factory, will centre on its 149-year-old annual rental terms: 38 barrels of flour for 200 acres of land.

Mohawk Chief Earl Hill said earlier this week the talks will be a closed session to seek ways and means of reaching a satisfactory contemporary redrafting of the lease with as few problems as possible.

He will be talking with Ronald Hyatt, Cherry Valley canner and president of Virga Foods, which last year began operations at the Shannonville canning factory. The factory is the successor to the original leasehold operation — a mill on the Salmon River.

Since that time, 200 leases were granted various settlers on the 200-acre tract, much of which became the core of what now is the hamlet of Shannonville. The consequences of these later developments on the lease will also form part of the discussions.

Neither Chief Hill nor Mr. Hyatt expected here, in what he describes as an advisory capacity.

Mr. Hyatt expected today's talks to produce an immediate solution to the issue, which were described as exploratory.

S. C. Knapp, regional economic adviser of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, was also scheduled to attend today's meeting here, in what capacity.

"Hear Canada Singing" Song Writing Competition.

Sponsored by the Canadian Conference of the Arts and supported by Molson Canadian, this competition offers the winners a share of $17,500 in grants to further their music careers, and a tremendous chance to have their songs heard.

Here's the "big opportunity" for Canadians who write their own songs about life in Canada. Because the Canadian Conference of the Arts and Molson Canadian believe that Canadian life is well expressed by the song writers of this country, they believe more people should be given the chance to hear them. And that's the reason for the song competition.

All songs entered in "Hear Canada Singing" will be judged for merit by an independent panel of some of the nation's top professional musicians. The songs judged to have the most merit will be recorded, and records distributed and promoted to radio stations. Publicity kits on the songs and the composers will be sent to newspapers and radio stations. And as an added incentive the writers of the top songs will share $17,500 in grants to further their music careers.

A chance to have songs heard! Personal publicity! The Hear Canada Singing Song Writing competition is the dream-come-true break for any career.

Send your name and address to:

Pieta Can Be Restored

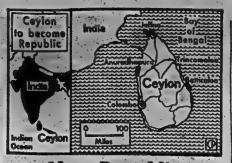
VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's art experts said Monday they feared the vandalism which disfigured Michelangelo's Pieta might be contagious and endanger other masterpieces in St. Peter's Basilica.

"We can restore the Pieta," said Bishop Giovanni Fallani, president of the Vatican Commission for Sacred Art, "but who can stop this wave of violence?"



Despite the fears caused by Sunday's vandalism, only the naval Virgin Mary holding the dead Christ. They chanted hymns of penance.

The vandal meant to break off the whole head of the Madonna," Bishop Fallani said. "Luckily, visitors stopped him in time."

But the hammer blows broke off the tragically expressive left arm of the Madonna at the elbow, broke the nose and shattered the left eye and part of the veil.

Bishop Fallani said the man with the hammer, Lazlo Toth, 34, remained cool and polite through eight hours of questioning during which he insisted he was Jesus Christ and also the Archangel Angel of the Apocalypse.

Toth, a Hungarian emigrant to Australia whom spectators caught by his shoulder-length hair, is in Rome's Queen of Heaven jail.

New Brunswickers Form Francophone Association

FREDERICTON (CP) — Delegates to a conference of French-speaking New Brunswickers voted Monday to set up a new provincial Francophone association.

Participants in the first general conference of Acadians agreed that such a body was necessary to defend the Acadian interests in the province. They gave the job of organizing the new group to the National Society of Acadians, which represents Francophones in all three Maritime provinces.

In a tumultuous closing session delegates refused to vote on additional resolutions that would have defined the association's aims and suggested possible action it could take.

Speakers from the floor said delegates had not had enough time to study the resolutions. The conference voted overwhelmingly to continue talks at the local level and send the results to the NSA by July 1.

In workshop sessions earlier Monday, delegates voted 381 to 11 in favor of the association. The decision on the new body came after the 1,000 delegates spent three days discussing economic, cultural and political issues facing New Brunswick's 240,000 Francophones.

New Republic

Ceylon became an independent socialist republic on Monday. The country was renamed Sri Lanka.

Liner Sails Again

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The Queen Elizabeth 2 sailed for New York Monday with 1,300 passengers, including sickeny movie star Twiggy and a corps of beefy security men to guard against further bomb scares.

Cunard, owners of the 65,000-ton luxury liner, said security precautions had been stepped up but declined to give details. The company spokesman refused to comment on reports that bomb-disposal experts were [illegible].

Cunard reported no cancellations for the voyage in the wake of last week's antiatlantic threat that six bombs would explode unless $350,000 ransom was paid.

Ceylon Now Republic

COLOMBO (Reuter) — Pretty girls danced in the streets, monks chanted prayers and musicians blew long hollow notes on giant conch shells in a colorful ceremony as Ceylon transformed itself Monday into the independent socialist republic of Sri Lanka.

Trip Assailed

HONG KONG (AP) — A North Vietnamese broadcast attacked President Nixon's trip to Moscow today as a "dark and despicable political-diplomatic attempt to undermine the solidarity of those who support the Vietnamese in their struggle against U.S. imperialist aggression."

Bomb Threat

TORONTO (CP) — A phoney bomb threat cost its shadow briefly over otherwise sunny celebrations Saturday as Ontario Place, the provincial government's waterfront entertainment showcase, opened for its second season.

The island's 157-member Continent Assembly voted 139 to 18 for a new constitution, ending a 157-year link between Ceylon and the British crown. The country remains in the Commonwealth.

The new constitution, provides for a free, democratic, socialist republic.

The Speaker of the Constituent Assembly, Stanley Tilakeratne, signed the constitution document during the ceremony in the capital Monday afternoon, attended by 1,200 persons, including political and religious leaders and the diplomatic corps.

Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, 56, Ceylon's last prime minister, took the oath of office as Sri Lanka's first premier, and now hosted William Gopallawa, 72, as its first president. Gopallawa, who was the last governor-general.

Firecracker Fires Kill Two Children

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fires apparently caused by firecrackers tossed into backyard tents killed two children and injured five others in similar incidents in Alberta and Ontario early Monday morning.

At least one other death resulted from firecrackers as Canadians celebrated Victoria Day Monday.

Lael Innocenti, 13, of Toronto died of burns suffered when a firecracker device exploded near her home during a display in a city park.

In St. Alberta, Alta., Kimberley Hammer, 9, and Diane Rosenberg, 10, died when a tent in which five children were sleeping caught fire.

Police said they believe a firecracker may have caused the fire.

In Toronto, a 10-year-old boy received burns to 90 per cent of his body in an almost identical incident. John Murney was listed as being in critical condition during a display in a

A second boy, Marcus Brown, 5, also was taken to hospital where his condition is satisfactory. Four other boys, three teen-agers and John's eight-year-old brother Michael Murney, escaped unhurt.

McGovern Seeks Endorsement in Two States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator George McGovern of South Dakota seeks a trans-continental presidential primary doubleheader victory in Rhode Island and Oregon today to give him momentum for his California showdown in two weeks with Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

McGovern was favored in an eight-man field to win Rhode Island's 22 delegates to the Democratic national convention in Humphrey and Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, who both appeared in the state last week, are considered his top rivals.

Although McGovern did not campaign in Rhode Island, a late April poll showed him the leader.

In Oregon, Humphrey in effect conceded the contest for 34 convention votes to McGovern with a decision to start campaigning for the 271 California delegates.

In both Rhode Island and Oregon, supporters of Gov. George C. Wallace ran television and radio commercials in the last day before the primaries on behalf of the Alabama governor,

Paid for Listening to Client Abuse Him

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto lawyer has been awarded $200 for time spent listening to a dissatisfied client calling him dirty names.

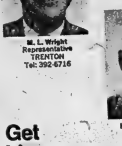
The dispute arose between lawyer Mathe Reiter and Wesley G. Mercer of Nagagee over a legal bill for $2,640.50. Mr. Reiter had represented The client said he had been Mr. Mercer in a $30,000 lawsuit against Mr. Mercer's former partner in an antique business. Court awarded $10,000 in the case.

quoted a fee of $1,500. Mr. Reiter said $3,000 had been agreed upon.

Gordon C. Saunders, an Ontario Supreme Court taxing officer who made his ruling last week, said he didn't believe either of them.

But he said the client was obviously displeased because he "harassed this solicitor by his many late-night and obscene phone calls. . . .

"Even though these calls had nothing to do with the action," Mr. Saunders wrote in his decision, "a solicitor is entitled to be paid for his time . . . as long as she discussions do not deal with personal matters."



He awarded the $200 for time spent listening to abuse, but reduced the bill to $2,564.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W.I.

The May meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held in Scott's Uniondale Hall, 6th Concession of Sidney, with Mrs. Ross Fleming as hostess.

Mrs. F. Tracey, president, conducted the business portion of the meeting. Correspondence included an invitation from Hastings and Prince Edward Advisory Board C.N.I.B. to their annual dinner in Belleville, a letter from Mrs. Guthrie of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, listing the purchases made with the donation sent from Uniondale Branch in support of work in an institute in the North West Territories. Also included was a program of the 71st annual meeting of Hastings West District Women's Institute to be held May 16, 1972, at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. The theme of this annual is "Everyone is a Key Person."

It was decided that a copy of Ontario Women's Institute Story" be donated to the following libraries; Frankford, Batawa, Stirling and Belleville.

Conveners' reports were given by Mrs. A. Bonisteel, Mrs. K. Faul, Mrs. H. Richards and Mrs. G. Sine.

Mrs. M. Mallory gave a humorous reading.

A paper prepared by Mrs. A. Sine on the topic, "Our Eyes," was read by Mrs. G. Sine. This described the structure of the eye, how each part functions and diseases of the eye. A periodic examination was recommended.

Appreciation was expressed to the hostess and lunch committee.

The June meeting will be held at Scott's Uniondale Hall with Mrs. A. Sine as hostess. Guests will be most welcome at this meeting when films on cancer are to be shown followed by a question and answer period.

PINE GROVE W.I.

Pine Grove Women's Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Decker on Wednesday, May 10. The president, Mrs. Harold Decker opened the meeting. The roll call was answered by each member giving a current event article that related to an interesting event from local and surrounding areas.

The president congratulated Elizabeth Irish Stirling and Karen Clare on their results in the Stirling Music Festival.

Mrs. Ivan Clare will be the delegate for the District Annual. Mrs. Parl y Lindenfield gave her report from the Guelph Conference. The theme of the conference was "Members — See — Officers Posses". Her report included several future suggestions. The current events should come under "World Affairs and Citizenship". Parts of the new handbook should be studied at each meeting. Institute membership cards should be given to members each year for their receipts. Also, Institute pins should be worn for each meeting.

Following the meeting, an auction sale of plants and bulbs with Mrs. Clare as auctioneer was held. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Nutrition Canada Survey Held

Approximately 69 residents in the Rawdon area participated in the Nutrition Canada Survey Clinic conducted at the Rawdon Township fireball, Springbrook on May 13. The four-hour examination consisted of an interview and examination by a team of professionals and those included doctors, nurses, dental hygienists and dieticians.

The hall was turned into a portable hospital with portable screens as partitions separating the various areas of examination.

Dental hygienists checked the condition of the gums and mouth which indicate the nutritional status while anthropometrical tests which measured height and weight were taken. Blood and urine tests and general health were also tested.

Public health nurses Mrs. Eleanor Bicknell, Mrs. Melanie Barnes and Mrs. Norah Cunningham were on hand at the clinic to assist the team who came from various parts of Ontario.

The results of this survey will not be released until 1973 when the final evaluation of the tests taken of 25,000 Canadians from coast - to - coast will be released.

"All in all, the clinic was very successful," remarked Mrs. Bicknell, public health nurse for the Marmora and Stirling districts. "The people who said they would come, when we interviewed them, came. They were very responsive for this clinic."

The purpose of the Nutrition Canada Survey is to provide answers to food legislation involved in food enrichment and attitudes towards food. This nation - wide survey is the first effort between the National Health and Welfare and individual provincial Department of Health and Welfare.

District Church Groups

ST. MICHAEL'S CWL

St. Michael's Catholic Women's League held a membership meeting in the parish hall with each member is asked to bring an item. In the fall there will be a panel discussion and a family night is planned for October. Mrs. George McAleesy has agreed to look after the social for the coming year.

The annual tea is to be held in the parish rectory on June 21 with Mrs. James Brennan and Mrs. John Trudeau convening.

FRANKFORD CWL

FRANKFORD — The Catholic Womens League held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, May 10 in the Parish Hall. Preceding the meeting, Mass was offered by Father McGarvey.

Following this, the president Mrs. P. McKeown congratulated the meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. C. Finlayson and the secretary's report read by Mrs. J. Bird.

Two ladies of the parish, Mrs. M. Baker and Mrs. M. Carter, were invited as delegates to the CWL Regional meeting which will be held in Kingston May 27 and 28.

Plans were made for the annual fall bazaar which will be held on Wednesday, October 18. Tickets for the annual draw will be on sale shortly and may be purchased from any CWL member.

Father McGarvey closed with prayer and lunch was served.

ST. ANDREW'S WMS

The May meeting of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, met on Tuesday afternoon in the church hall with a good attendance.

Mrs. C. Hauser vice-president opened the meeting and called them to order.

The program Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. F. Sheffield and Mrs. V. Wee to present the study course "Coming to Terms with Change." From the current study book. The many rapid changes which have taken place in Africa in the past few years have brought about problems and dilemmas which African people are seeking to solve.

Swift transition to independence, over 700 languages, ed ucation, shortage of skilled labor, unconstitutional changes in (21 coups, since 1958) are a few of their major concerns.

The missionary church was one of the most potent factors for social change because of its many activities in education, health, agriculture, and welfare, but the main purpose was to spread the Gospel, and to improve the quality of life in the whole community. The church and the State were too closely related often resulting in using colonial policies to justify church decisions. This African was treated in the slow learning child, his culture and plea for more responsibility was ignored.

Today the movement from mission to church is almost complete. The older and larger overseas mission boards have handed over both leadership and financial control to the African church.

Members were reminded of the Spring rally on Wednesday May 31 in St. Andrew's, Stirling. Mrs. J. Barnett, president of Council will be the guest speaker.

Yacht Club LA Luncheon

Freshly cut spring flowers provided a colorful setting on Wednesday afternoon when the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club held its annual luncheon and bridge.

Adding further accent to the spring decor was an artistic arrangement of spring blooms flanked with green and purple candles which graced the buffet table.

Warmly greeting the large number of guests who attended was Mrs. Lenora Andrus, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The tasty luncheon was prepared and served by other members of the group and these included: Mrs. Lynn Annis, Mrs. Peggy Day, Mrs. Gena Hughes, Mrs. Jo Anne Wood, Mrs. Kaye Smith, Mrs. Sandra Weeks, Mrs. Carol Sears and assisted by Mrs. John Bush and Mrs. Joan Bennett.

Card prize winners were: Mrs. Dorothy McGlashon, Mrs. Jean Adams and Mrs. Kay Lack. A number of door prizes were also awarded and drawn on jewelry, an electric ice cream maker; also for the floral arrangement and a boutique tissue dispenser.

Senior Citizens

TWEED — Eighty members of Tweed Senior Citizens' Club, No. 289 went by buses to Toronto on Tuesday, May 16 and in spite of the intermittent rain, it did not dampen the high spirits of the group, they visited Casa Loma and then Black Creek Pioneer Village, stopping in Oshawa en route homeward to have their evening dinner meal. They were under the presidentship of Mr. E. Harris Jenkins and the two faithful members who looked after the extra details, were Albert McTaggart and John Burns.

Do-it-Yourself Test On Use of Alcohol

Dear Ann Landers: Occasionally you print a do-it-yourself test. I ran into a good one last week. A friend sent it. I was resentful at first, but now I realize he was trying to tell me something. Please print it.

The Am-I-In-Trouble? Test

1. Alcohol is in addictive drug.—True or False

2. As few as two drinks a day can lead to alcoholism.—True or False

3. The attitude of a drinker is as important as the amount he drinks.—True or False

4. Some people can handle a quart a day and live a normal life.—True or False

5. Moderate drinking will eventually cause physical damage.—True or False

6. Most older people should cut back on alcohol.—True or False

7. Women can't hold their liquor as well as man.—True or False

8. Vodka and gin do not produce hangovers.—True or False

9. Drinking on an empty stomach intensifies drunkenness.—True or False

10. A person who drinks only wine or beer will not become an alcoholic.—True or False

11. A person who is drunk behaves exactly like his real self.—True or False

12. The ideal arrangement for an alcoholic is to set a limit at one or two drinks rather than try for total abstinence. He will then feel as if he is in control of himself and less depressed.—True or False.

Th answers are as follows:

I. True. Alcohol is an addictive drug.

2. True. For some people. But the real question is not how much a person drinks, but how much he depends on it.

3. True. Too many people fail to recognize the importance of their attitude toward drinking. This is what separates the social drinker from the alcoholic. When drinking becomes part of a person's life style he is in trouble.

4. False. Heavy drinkers, no matter how normal they seem, are not normal. Some people can hold a great deal of alcohol and not show it, but they can't fool their internal organs.

5. False. Moderate drinking will probably cause no damage, even over a lifetime. The problem lies in the interpretation of the word "moderate."

6. True. A heavy drinker who is past 35 won't be able to handle alcohol as well over the next 35 years—if he lasts that long.

7. True. Women generally weigh less than men. The less a person weighs, the more quickly his body is affected by alcohol.

8. False. This is a lot of malarky.

9. True. Food cushions the effect of alcohol by slowing down the rate at which it is absorbed by the body.

10. False. See statement in response to No. 8.

11. False. Alcohol releases the inhibitions and exposes the underside of the alcoholic man. This does not mean it is his "real" self, but rather his uncivilized, animal self.

12. False. An alcoholic should not have even one drop of alcohol.—Daily Reader

Dear Reader: In my opinion the most valuable part of the test is the last sentence in the response to the third question. It's worth going back to and reading again.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Should the calendar be changed?

YES, and, fortunately, calendars are being changed more and more. Not that anyone has changed the number of days in a month, week; nor is there any switching of months or days of the year, but many types of calendars are getting away from the old format of mainly four rows of squares. People are becoming more alert when they consult a calendar, rather than almost-mindedly thinking Sunday is always the first square on the left.

Can fear of boredom block marriage?

THAT could be the profound reason why a person is a confirmed bachelor or bachelorette. Yet such an individual's fear is probably hasn't matured enough to take on the responsibility of marriage, especially since he cannot accept his single status without making excuses for not marrying. Any person like this face the fact that into every life some sameness must fall, whether a person is married or single.

Do teachers want quiet classes?

NOT the dedicated teachers. They don't appreciate disruptive classes, it is true; but they would rather have a behavior problem than have a whole classroom of quiet, unresponsive children. Earnest teachers have been trained to meet the challenge of fostering and keeping alive their students' thirst for knowledge. They believe they can not only cope with disruptive children, but they also feel they can channel the youthful energy into a desire to learn.

What Will You Do When You Retire?

By DORIS CLARK

"The rest of Your Life" is 25-minute film dealing with thoughts about getting older. For some retirement is a bad word as they would prefer to keep right on at the job; have never known anything else.

But the film narrator suggests we look at it this way: for most of us retirement is the first time we can do what we want with out lives. There are some who are scared, some who are excited; for some it will be the time of their life!

A letter from a friend is read: "People age because they give up stimulating influences. Keep alive; keep interested in things around you!"

After reading this letter a husband and wife are shown resolving to plan their retirement now.

'Nuff said?

Dear Doris: My son, 32, married a girl who has a son (illegitimate) five years old. He intends to adopt the boy.

Should I tell my friends? My husband feels it is my son's business and as he lives out of the city there is no need. However, if visitors and neighbors call it could be embarrassing.

Incidentally, my son's friends and colleagues know. I feel badly over this but try to overcome my feelings. The little son is a sweet child. — Disturbed

Dear Disturbed: It's a blow — but join the club! The question of sexual relations has really experienced its own revolution. Even high school girls and boys fail to understand that there is anything wrong with sexual relations during teenage years.

This is not easy for a member of an older generation to accept, and yet it would be wrong if we were to allow the little ones, born of such unions, to suffer.

If you son is now 32 he is marrying this girl because he feels that he cares about her. Doubtless they have had long discussions about what happened to her earlier and it is his concern. That's for sure.

Most you enlighten friends about just how your son happens to have a child? Once he adopts the child, he is no longer illegitimate. What has happened is in the past and you should leave it there.

Enjoy your sudden status of grandmother!

Dear Doris: The reader signing "Not So Old" requested the song "I'd Rather Have Jesus".

It can be found in quite a few of Stamps Baxter Music Books, or in The Chuckwagon Gang, or in the Soul Stirring Special song book by R. E. Winsett, Dayood, Tennessee. It is a very old song so may be out of print now. — Faithful Reader, and a Friend.

Dear Friend also Dear Reader M and Several Others: I have now had copies made and have forwarded one to "Not So Old". Further details to anyone asking. Thank you, all of you.

There is always something to do about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris, a Canadian social worker, is a step in the right direction.

Diabetic Group Meets

The regular meeting of the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association was held in the College St. Public School, Trenton, Wednesday evening, May 10.

The president, Ronald Shetler, welcomed the 70 members and visitors present.

Dr. R. B. Brain, DPM showed slides and gave an interesting talk on the diabetic foot, which was followed by a discussion.

A social half hour closed the evening.

The next meeting is planned for June 21 in the Sir John A. MacDonald School, Harder Dr., Belleville.

Lambs Chops Served on Picnic

By ALICE DENHOFF

From "down under," comes a wonderful suggestion for fried lamb chops, good hot or cold, to serve just like fried chicken. It's a great favorite in New Zealand for picnics, and is served in an edible bread basket.

LEMON FRIED LAMB CHOPS

6 rib lamb chops (cut ½-inch thick)
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ cups soft bread crumbs (see below)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon crumbled thyme
¼ teaspoon crumbled rosemary
Oil for frying

Toasted Bread Basket (recipe below)

Chops may be frozen or thawed. Combine egg and lemon juice. Combine crumbs with seasonings. Dip chops in egg mixture, then in crumbs, coating all sides. Heat an inch of oil in very hot (375 degrees F.) in a deep skillet. Fry chops about four minutes each side, if frozen; 3 minutes on each side, if thawed, until well browned. Serve hot or cold.

Makes three or four servings.

TOASTED BREAD BASKET

Unsliced loaf of firm white bread
Melted butter
Garlic salt (optional)

Cut off top half of loaf except for a one-inch strip in the center; width, which will be the handle. Now hollow out the bottom half of the loaf, leaving a one-inch shell, and carefully cut out the bread under the "handle."

Brush inside with melted butter and sprinkle with garlic salt, if desired. Toast in 350 degree F. oven until golden. Use the hollowed out bread for the soft bread crumbs needed in the fried lamb chop recipe. Whirl in blender or crumble on grater.

DEVILED RIB LAMB CHOPS

8 New Zealand rib chops, ¾-inch thick
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Chops may be frozen or thawed. For medium rare meat, broil about 11 minutes each side, if frozen; about 8 minutes each side if thawed. Place chops on rack and broil first side, four inches below heat.

Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients. Turn chops and broil eight minutes longer, if frozen; five minutes longer if thawed. Then spread each with crumb mixture and broil about three minutes longer.

LEMON gelatin holds together mayonnaise, chopped eggs, and sliced pimiento, olives, pepper, celery for dots of color.

B.C. Liberals Select Leader

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — David Anderson, the 34-year-old back-bench lone wolf who represents Kingsmat-Saanich in the House of Commons, became British Columbia's new Liberal leader Sunday as the party elected itself for a provincial election expected later this year.

Mr. Anderson, a frequent critic of federal Liberal fathers in Ottawa, was an easy winner over Mayor William Vander Zalm of Surrey at a weekend leadership convention in this Okanagan Valley city.

The final count gave Mr. Anderson 388 votes to 171 for the 36-year-old Surrey mayor, who drew most of his support from the party's disgruntled right wing and delegates angered by the seeming pre-ordination of the Vancouver Island MP.

It wasn't much of a contest. Mr. Anderson had the unanimous support of the five-man Liberal caucus in the B.C. legislature, including that of Dr. Patrick McGeer, the outgoing leader who held the job for only 44 months.

Ford May Have to Close While Car Pollution Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. may face plant shutdowns for up to three months as the result of unauthorized maintenance on cars being tested for pollution reduction, the head of the Environmental Protection Agency said Monday.

EPA director William D. Ruckelshaus told a Senate subcommittee Ford's only chance of avoiding a massive dislocation might be through emergency action by Congress.

Ruckelshaus said top Ford executives last Tuesday withdrew the company's application for EPA certification in a statement in which they said consumer protocols had confirmed unscheduled and unauthorized maintenance had been performed on the prototype test fleet which make the results of the tests legally invalid.

Eric O. Stork, director of EPA's auto emissions program, told reporters that Ford executives were shaken and visibly disturbed when they reported that some one in the company's engine foundry plant had given orders to perform what Stork said was considerable unauthorized maintenance on the test cars. The company called the lapse entirely accidental.

Ruckelshaus suggested Congress might modify existing law to permit Ford to ship and sell its 1973 models, subject to possible callbacks if the cars were found not to meet present emission standards.

Ruckelshaus said the earliest th..l new tests could be completed and the cars certified would be September or October.

THE STRONGEST BELTED TIRES ever made!

and get ours at prices that can't be matched anywhere!

CANADIAN TIRE

1922 ▼ 1972 50 YEARS OF SERVICE

Undeniably, the original glass-belted tires introduced on new cars in 1969—built with 2-ply cord body and 2 glass belts—upped potential mileage by 50 to 100%. Even more important, they brought a new degree of vehicle stability, on-track steering, improved braking. Since then, newer materials and advanced technology have stepped up their high-speed performance. That 2/2 construction is still the car-maker's top choice for new cars. Canadian Tire offers it in Polyester cord—at about half the manufacturer's list price...or the safer-than-ever DuPont '66' Nylon at no extra cost. Compare with tires offered elsewhere at so-called special sale prices. You will likely find we save you an additional 25%. And our Super-Lastic tires are guaranteed unconditionally—even against punctures, run- flats, or wear-out.

Before you buy, investigate our new 4+2 NYLON - it's the strongest and the safest!

4+2 (6-ply) STEEL-BELTED Tire . . .

4 body plies of Polyester PLUS 2 steel belts—the much talked-of, super-performing tire. They are expensive so there are few around. But we've got them, and you'll find the after-trade price is right.

4+2 (6-ply) Nylon GLASS-BELTED Tire . . .

4 body plies instead of 2 – PLUS 2 glass belts—the strongest and safest glass-belted construction. More of everything—including lowest-cost mileage. These tires are in short supply elsewhere, so beware of substitution. Look for the inscription: "Tread 6-plies" engraved on the tire's sidewall. Otherwise it's not a 6-ply tire.

2+2 (4-ply) Nylon or Polyester Glass-Belted

The wide wide glass belt. Up to ½" wider tread. The type of construction used for original equipment on 1972 cars, with the stronger-than-ever glass belt—PLUS Polyester or Dupont '66' Nylon body plies.

Festival Theatre To Do Misalliance

George Bernard Shaw's play Misalliance named one of Shaw's warmest of comedies will appear in Kingston for three performances June 8, 9 and 10.

The Shaw Festival Theatre will perform the play in the Grand Theatre and it is expected to be seen by around three or four thousand people, Jack Abernathy, Grand Theatre manager remarked. "If these aren't the best plays around, there aren't any."

This cast of nine versatile actors has appeared in Europe and the U.S. as well as all across Canada. "They are qualified actors and each has appeared in well - known productions," remarked Mr s. Jean Schwerger, vice-chairman of the Grand Theatre Management Board and chairman of the Shaw Festival Theatre.

The theatre's home territory is Niagara - on - the - Lake and they will return there following this tour which includes: Ottawa, Montreal, Rochester, and Washington, D.C.

The Canada Council and the Ontario Council of Arts have given subsidies for this group in Canada, which is similar to Stratford Festival Players which presents Shakespearean plays. This is the third year for the Shaw Festival Theatre to perform in Kingston.

Brian Dorrity, founder of Shaw Festival Theatre who is "a bit like" his love Shaw's writings and was inspired to form a group which would perform Shaw's plays which are relevant in today, from women's lib to the generation gap. This theatre group presents Shaw's light and easy, yet forthright plays.

Performers to appear in Misalliance are: Wenna Shaw, Malcolm Armstrong, Betsy Leighton, Heath Lamberis, Toni Kneebone, Angela Wood, James Valentine, Noel Howlett, Ronald Drake, Maurice Skrlec, and Hilary Corbett.

Margaret Rutherford Was Grand Old Dame

LONDON (Reuter) — Margaret Rutherford, grand old dame of the British stage and screen who won fame in countless roles by playing an eccentric English woman, died at her Buckinghamshire home, aged 80.

Her face, with jutting jaw and five chins, was her fortune—and she knew it. To film-goers in the English-speaking world, those chins, together with the long tweed cloak and father sized white hair, could belong to no one else.

In January, 1967, she was made a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire to mark her services to the theatre.

Earlier, in 1964, Dame Margaret won an Oscar as best supporting actress for her role as a dotty, brandy-swigging duchess in the film The VIP's with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Dame Margaret spent six months in hospital last year with a broken hip and had been living quietly at her home in Cahfont St. Peter, 40 miles from London, for the last few months, though she refused to retire.

"The theatre is my life—I don't know life without it," she had recently said.

She was 33 before her stage career began. She first won acclaim as Madame Arcati, the medium in Noel Coward's play Blithe Spirit.

Coward said Monday: "I'm terribly sad to hear of the death of my old friend Margaret. She created one of the funniest characters I ever wrote."

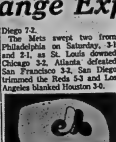
Mauch Feels Weather May Change Expo Luck

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mild Torres was at a cross-roads with the manager of Gene Mauch when the baseball season opened. Monday afternoon any doubts about the pitcher's status were erased.

Torres increased his National League mark to 4-1 as Montreal turned back Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 to snap an eight-game losing streak.



"If there was any doubt that he could win, it was erased," said Mauch of Torres' performance. "He has pitched six good games, how much more proof do you need?

"I wasn't sure he could win at the start, but I'm sure now."

In other games Monday, Houston Astros swamped San Diego Padres 7-0 and San Francisco Giants, behind Dave Kingman's two home runs, edged Los Angeles Dodgers 9-8.

The Expos weren't so fortunate earlier in the weekend. Sunday they lost a twin-bill to Pittsburgh, 1-0 and 5-3, after getting shelled 6-0 by the Pirates Saturday.

In other Sunday games, Willie Mays cracked a two-run homer to give New York a 4-3 win over the Phillies, Chicago Cubs nipped St. Louis Cardinals 4-3; Houston took the Dodgers 3-1, and in twi-night action San Francisco edged Atlanta 2-1 after losing the opener 6-4 in 10 innings and Cincinnati Reds rebounded from a 7-0 opening loss to knock off San Diego 7-2.

GENE MAUCH

Mauch said he hopes the warm weather will change the fortunes of his Expos, who got away to a fast start before heading into their tailspin that leaves them 11½ games behind New York in the East Division.

"The only thing that bothered me . . . was that our pitching wasn't as consistent as it should be," said Mauch of the losing streak.

"I understand our hitting problems, but, with the warm weather the hitting will right itself."

Ron Fairly's three-run homer in the fifth inning provided the margin of victory after the Phillies had jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first inning off Ken Sirs by Torres. Denny Doyle and Tim McCarver and Greg Luzinski's sacrifice fly.

Larry Dierker scattered four hits and the Astros got home-run support from Bob Watson and Lee May to stifle the hometown Padres. It was Houston's seventh win in nine games and kept the club atop the West standings.

Dierker was in command all the way and didn't allow a runner past first until the ninth inning. He struck out four in seven innings.

Sam McDowell, touched for a two-run homer by Willie Davis, got the victory—his sixth in seven decisions this year—as the one-time American League ace whose fastball earned him the nickname Sudden Sam with Cleveland Indians, scattered seven hits and walked two before getting relief in the eighth.

A grand slammer by Kingman in the third inning, his second of the year, wiped out a 2-1 Dodger lead. Kingman also hit his homer in the third as San Francisco jumped on Bill Grabarkewitz and starter Tommy John.

Davis' shot in the fifth tied the game 6-6 before Kingman's second homer with one man aboard in the sixth off young Mike Strebler sent the Giants ahead to stay.

Chicago Slugger Atones for Sin

"I had to do something after I dropped that simple fly ball to put us behind," Carlos May said. He did exactly that.

In the first inning against Texas Rangers, Chicagoan produceful left fielder clubbed a double to put the White Sox ahead 1-0.

But the Rangers tied it in the bottom of the inning, then May misplayed Elliott Maddox's routine fly in the fifth, setting up Three Veterans double that gave Texas the lead.

To atone for his sin, May capped a four-run seventh with a bases-clearing double that boosted the Sox to a 5-2 lead.

But the Rangers still weren't through, though, scoring once in the bottom of the seventh, then going ahead 6-5 in the eighth.

So it was May to the rescue again, this time singling for his fifth run-batted-in of the game to tie it in the ninth.

That more than made up for his one misplay. Then it was atonement time for Tom Egan. The White Sox catcher had given the Rangers a pair of eighth-inning runs when he threw away a potential double play ball.

So he rid himself of his goat's horns with a tie-breaking double that gave the White Sox their 10-inning 7-6 victory.

In the only other American League game Monday night, Oakland Athletics defeated California Angels 6-3.

Ted Williams, manager of the Rangers, all but gave the White Sox the victory that kept them half a game ahead of the Athletics in the race for supremacy in the American League West.

In the bottom of the 10th, as Toby Harrah and Dave Nelson singled, Chicago manager Chuck Tanner summoned plate umpire Larry Barnett and said: "I've got Mincher batting out of order."

Barnett looked at his lineup card, noted that Tanner had named Mincher out and waved Herrah back from third to first. That filled the Rangers' ranks and saved the victory, Chicago's fourth straight and 10th in 11 games.

Williams was furious, racing to the plate and shouting Barnett his card that had Mincher batting ninth and Harrah third.

"I thought the umpire understood me," Williams said later. "I gave him the criss-cross sign, meaning I was flopping Mincher and the pitcher wasn't batting came in for Frank Howard in the ninth.

"The umpire even came over and asked me and I said, 'The pitcher.' Maybe he thought it was Mincher. Maybe I didn't make it plain enough.

"Williams," Barnett recalled, "gave me the straight-up-and-down sign, meaning he wanted the order to stay the same."

After cooling off, Williams turned a bit philosophical.

"Whether it lost the game," he shrugged, "nobody will ever know."

Then he wondered: "Can you imagine what Mincher thinks of me? The guy has been in a slump and now he gets a hit taken away."

Turcotte Absolved of Blame

NEW YORK (CP) — Trainer Lucien Laurin said Monday he does not think jockey Ron Turcotte gave Riva Ridge a bad ride in the Preakness in Baltimore Saturday in which the favorite finished fourth.

Laurin, Canadian-born exjockey, was quoted in several reports Sunday as saying said Turcotte should have sent Riva Ridge after the leading horse, Bee Bee Bee, which went on to win the race.

But Laurin said Monday: "I never said Ron gave my horse a bad ride. Of course I was hot after the race. Wouldn't you be?

"But those who quoted me in the papers misunderstood what I said. I've just watched the rerun. The winner was the best horse . . . .

Turcotte, a native of Grand Falls, N.B., told reporters Monday Riva Ridge "stepped out of the gate in a tangle."

Laurin added: "He didn't hit the ground fully on his feet. I had to give him a chance to find his feet. It would have been an entirely different race otherwise. I really intended to go for the lead with the horse."

The jockey said Riva Ridge got out of trouble going into the first turn, "we got position on the backside and . . . I guess the rest is history."

Laurin, a native of St. Paul, Que., said he does not believe the trouble at the gate was Turcotte's fault.

"I know he did a helluva job on the clubhouse turn squeezing between horses," the trainer said, adding that if Turcotte had sent his mount after the leader, Riva Ridge might have stopped at the three-eighths pole.

"I don't know. I'll never know.

Riva Ridge, winner of eight stakes including the Derby, went to the post 1-5 favorite to reach the winners circle and head into next month's Belmont a sure-fire bet to nail down U.S. racings triple crown, the first horse to accomplish the feat since Citation in 1948.

Just hours before the race Laurin had scratched Riva Ridges stable mate, Upper Cace.

The Maryland-bred Bee Bee Bee was racing on local minor league tracks only eight months ago and trainer Del Carroll didnt enter him in the Derby because the son of Bettie Bee-Bee and Traitor Del Carroll to start.

But Bee Bee Bee showed enough under the steady hand of jockey Eldon Nelson on Saturday to earn a shot at the Belmont.

The 135,000 winner's share of the Preakness was about $50,000 more than the three-year-old had earned in 16 previous races.

Riva Ridge and Key To The Mint were well placed in the 13 1-4 mile Preakness, but the expected collapse of front - running Bee Bee Bee never materialized.

After taking a four-length lead into the stretch, Bee Bee Bee held off the usual late drive by No Le Hace to win by ¼ lengths.

Even before the posting of the winning mutuel of $30.40, the biggest Preakness payoff since 1928, the tote timer on the tote board showed the dimensions of Bee Bee Bee's performance.

His time of 1:55 3-5, on a track rated sloppy after two days of rain, was the fifth best since the classic was changed to the current distance in 1925. record of 1:54 was set last year on a fast track.

Of the Maryland single-call record of $821,890 bet on the Preakness, $467,370 was bet across the board on Riva Ridge, and nothing came back when he finished out of the money. A crowd of 48,721 attended the event.

Canonero IIs record of 1:54 was previous stakes victory this year was in Maryland-bred only event, was brought back by Pimlico by trainer Carroll after showing poor form in Florida.

Bee Bee Bee won two of three starts at Pimlico, where he broke his maiden in 1971, but was a badly beaten fifth in his last start.

Crozier Named Coach

HUFFALO (AP) — Joe Crozier, interim coach of the Buffalo Sabres for the last half of the 1971-72 National Hockey League season, was named the club's permanent coach Saturday. He succeeds Punch Imlach who remains with Buffalo as general manager. Crozier took over the club in January after Imlach suffered a heart attack.

CAHA President Wary Of Federal Intrusion

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will provide strong opposition to any government intervention in the control of amateur hockey, CAHA president Jon Krycuka of Calgary said Monday.

Speaking during the second day of the national association's six-day annual meeting, Mr. Krycuka cautioned delegates about "a mere afoot to create some more bureaucratic groups who would be paid commissioners, or the paid employees who would run hockey in this country."

A complete disruption of amateur hockey would be the result of government intervention, he said later in an interview.

A report prepared by Dr. John Meagher, physical education professor of the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, was the cause for concern, Krycuka, a Calgary lawyer, told the delegates.

The report, presented to the federal health department last year, called for creation of a new structure whereby the country would be divided into regions and a commissioner of hockey named, "plus paid regional commissioners."

"Amateur hockey operates in this country because of the volunteer . . . the guy who stands in the snowbank with the kids, who then gets involved at the administrative level," Krycuka said.

"If you ever destroy that grass roots structure and replace it with paid civil servants or some other commission, the people who are gladly volunteering their time are going to say they don't want any part of that kind of an organization.

Any such government move would be "an unwarranted intrusion into amateur hockey," he said.

Krycuka told reporters Canada is making another attempt to have the International Ice Hockey Federation adopt open competition.

His report on CAHA participation at the IIHF in Prague, which he described as "ground-work for the summer congress in Romania," was expected to be tabled today.

The IIHF would be asked to allow "that any person who is a citizen of his country would be eligible to compete for his country" in world competition, passage of such a resolution would result in Canada re-entering world hockey competition, he said.

Canada withdrew from international competition two years ago after dispute with the IIHF over the use of professionals.

Krycuka said if there is a Canadian citizen, "he should be able to play for Canada."

NHL Grants Over $1 Million

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association showed a financial surplus at the end of the 1971-72 season, the first time it has operated in the black for four years.

The financial statement, tabled at the annual meeting Monday, showed a surplus of $49,935 from the season's operations. The CAHA operated a deficit of $35,658 the previous season.

The CAHA received $1,128,500 from the National Hockey League in development grants, draft proceeds and payments for players turning professional. NHL support for the previous year was $996,500 for distribution to the association's 11 branches and developmental funds.

Ontario Ranks Swelled Most

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The number of players participating in organized hockey in Canada last season increased by 108,464 over the previous year, says a report submitted to the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Monday.

The registration committee reported that 540,837 players engaged in organized hockey during the 1971-72 season.

The Ontario Hockey Association had the greatest increase with 76,384 players being added to OHA rolls.

Some 21,276 teams participated in competition provided by the CAHA's 11 branches and their affiliates, an increase of 1,640 over last season.

Raiders Pad Roster

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Schultz, no- shirking wallflower on the ice, showed during the week he's not all verse to triggering sparks between the National Hockey League and the no-holds-barred style of the Ground World Hockey Association.

The 22-year-old thumper from Waldheim, Sask.was one of two players signed by the Philadelphia Quakers of the WHA to multi-year contracts.

The announcement followed by days one out of Philadelphia to which the NHL's Flyers said Schultz had signed a two-year pact with them.

In two American Hockey League seasons, Schultz showed a tendency to hibernate for much of the year in the penalty box.

With Quebec Aces in 1970-71 he set an NHL standard of 382 penalty minutes and followed it up last year at Richmond with 325 minutes in the sinbin for the Robins.

Veteran Bill Flett, 28, joined Schultz in the Raiders' signings after five years in the NHL, most of them spent with Los Angeles Kings before moving to Philadelphia last season.

Los Angeles Sharks gave the signing acts an international flavor, placing two Yugoslavians and a Hungarian on their player rosters.

And New England Whalers continued to pad their list Sunday with goaltender Bruce Landon putting his signature to a two-year contract.

Landon performed with Springfield Kings of the American League this past season.

The Whalers earlier raided the NHL to sign forward Larry Pleau of Montreal Canadiens and defenceman Brad Selwood of Toronto Maple Leafs. They also picked up forward Tim Sheehy from the U.S. Olympic team.

The WHA is scheduled to begin operations this year in at least nine North American cities, including four Canadian franchises in Edmonton, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Quebec City.

The Europeans picked up by the Sharks include goalie Jorgen Antero Gale and forward Rudy Hitti, members of Yugoslavia's national team, and centre Zoltan Hevesh, top scorer for the Budapest team in Hungary.

Trevino Back On Track

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Trevino, bold and brassy as ever, is back. He's winning again. And, he warns, he's playing golf better than ever.

"I'm hitting the ball better now than I was a year ago," Trevino said after scoring his first victory of the year Sunday in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic. "I'm probably hitting it better now than I ever have my life.

Trevino had just fired a course-record, five-under-par 67 on the double tough Colonial Country Club course and won by an easy four strokes at 281, seven under par. It brought him $25,000.

Two Canadians finished well in the money.

George Knudson of Toronto was in a four-way tie for 29th spot at 295, earning $2,913 while Winnipeg's Wilf Homenuik was another two strokes back, worth $1,652.

Catches Big One

Bill Clapp of RR 1, Carrying Place won the prize for catching the largest fish in competition in Trenton Legion Branch 110's annual fish derby over the week-end. He's shown displaying the 12.2 pound northern pike after the real struggle he had hauling it in from the waters of the Bay of Quinte.

Yardmen Kick Up Heels

Belleville Yardmen midgets entry in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association was kicking up the dust around home plate, Sunday, pulling across seven runs to take a 7-5 exhibition verdict from Peterborough.

Ron McTaggart worked on the winners' mound, allowing 10 hits, walking two batters and blowing third strikes past nine. Rick Welch and Doug Lamin were touched for six hits by Belleville.

Bob Moore collected three hits for the Yardmen with others going to David Dent, John Masterson and Don McTaggart.

Mohawk Is Tops

Harold Brant, 19-year-old Quinte Mohawk who became Canada's 1971 junior heavyweight wrestling champion and toured Europe with a Canadian team, Sunday received a Tom Longboat Award — given annually to top Indian athletes. Harold received award for southern Ontario region from Russ Moses, special assistant to Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, during celebrations of 1794 Mohawk Quinte settlement.

Indy Names Stay Same

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bobby Unser, Peter Revson, Mark Donohue. The names are the same. They're living on the same street for a while again, although their house numbers have been changed.

They are the front-row sitters for Saturday's 56th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Unser has the pole position, Revson the middle spot and Donohue the outside.

If it all sounds like a replay of last year, it almost is. For that one, it was Revson, Donohue and Unser.

The similarity ends there. Unser, who is beginning to accumulate more speed records than any other driver around, shot the Indianapolis Motor Speedway course records out of sight during the first full season of qualifying trials and, taking their cues, everybody else followed.

The 36-year-old Unser drove one lap at 195.678 miles per hour, 17 m.p.h. faster than Revson's standard a year ago.

By Sunday, when every spot in the field was filled, each driver who got into the field had threaded his way around the 2½-mile oval at speeds faster than Revson's old marks.

Globe Starts on Right Foot, Rollins Keeping Same Step

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

First and last impressions were favorable for Globe Hotel and Rollins Construction as the Commercial Softball League opened its regular season Mon ay.

The Globe, making their first Commercial appearance, trimmed Howard and Robert Printing by a 4-1 count. Rollins, on the other hand, picked up where they left off last season as the defending champions rapped Dreslin Motors 6-1.

Earl Foster checked Howard and Robert on two hits to give the Globe their opening victory. He lost his bid for a no-hitter in the fourth inning when Gary Goyer rapped a hard bouncer over the third baseman's head. Goyer was later erased trying to advance to third on an infield out.

Bob Swan on the Printers' mound was touched for seven hits, while receiving shoddy fielding support from his teammates, who committed five fielding miscues.

"I was glad to see that we were working so well together as a team," said Globe coach Terry Kellar of his club's opening win. Most of Globe players have performed together for the past nine or 10 years with Demorestville of the Prince Edward North Shore league.

The winning coach had some words of praise for Foster, his ace lefthander. "Earl's drop was working well and he's got a good curve, too, for an all-round good pitcher." The southpaw server had performed for the past three seasons with Picton's entry in the Trent Valley league.

The winners did most of their scoring damage early after Howard and Robert had opened up a 1-0 lead on a walk to Ken Genereaux and an error, in the top of the first.

Globe bounced back with three runs in the second frame as Perry Reddick and Gary Hanel opened the winning with singles to left. Swan, then, two walks, two sacrifice flies and a single by Foster helped push across the three.

Elmer Daley rapped a double-header single to pace the winners at the plate, while Hanel and Foster chipped in two singles each. Goyer and shortstop Pat Asselstine were the only Printers to collect hits.

Fielding highlights were provided by Globe's Bob Mercier with a fine catch of Don Gardiner's sinking liner in the first inning and by Howard and Robert catcher Ken Genereaux, who nabbed Bill Glover under a sixth-inning pop up that appeared ready to drop safely between himself and first baseman John Campbell.

Dwolin Motors, who made the league finals under the Point Anne banner last season, could keep the lid on Rollins' potent batting attack for only one inning as the Construction men exploded for three runs in the top of the second, and two more in the following frame.

Triples by Larry Mavety and Wayne McTaggart, sandwiched around Paul Goodfellow's lined single to left plated a pair of runs for Rollins before Dave Lait capped their second - inning uprising with a run-scoring single.

Rollins reached familiar pitching rival Don Holoway for five runs and five hits in the 2 2/3 innings that the big right-hander worked. Ron Maracle came on for the third, shuttering four hits over the rest of the route.

On the winners' mound, Ted Wallz handcuffed his 1969 teammates on three hits, recording six strikeouts and walking four batters. He set himself a shutout in the fourth inning when his bases - loaded walk to Bruce Dafoe forced in a run.

Wallz received flawless field ing support from Rollins, with their best defensive effort coming in the sixth when second baseman Steve Ling knocked down a grasscutter by Jim Henwood and threw the Dreslin centre fielder out at first.

Mavety and McTaggart paced the winners with a triple and single each with the other hits going to Lait, Ling, Goodfellow and Dale Akey. For the losers it was Mike Cook with a double and singles by Eric Maher and Henwood.

A moment of silence was held before the game for 1971 Rollins' coach Garry Alexander who passed away this year.

Commercial play continues tonight with Quinte Hotel facing the Elks at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. bout with Rollins returning to action in the second game of a doubleheader against Howard and Robert Printing.

PRICE MORRIS

'Y'er Out!'

Umpire Moe Huddleston starts the classic "thumbs up" sign to indicate Howard and Robert o u tfielder Gary Goyer has failed to slide safely under third baseman Gary Johnston of the Globe Hotel in the opening game of the Commercial Softball League schedule Monday. Goyer was one of only two Howard and Robert batters to hit safely in his team's 4-1 loss to Globe.

Full Marks for Morris

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP - Special) — No less than 19 Canadian records toppled at Saturday's Canadian Senior weightlifting championships and Olympic Trials, but only two participants were good enough to make Olympic standard.

Price Morris, representing Belleville's Apollo Barbell Club, established four national marks while making the Canadian Super Heavyweight crown. His 1,385½-pound, three-lift total exceeded the qualifying standard for the Munich Olympic Games by 71 pounds.

Joining the Frankford strongman as the only Canadian to make the Olympic weightlifting grade was bantamweight Dean Stacey of Montreal, whose 655½-pound total was just one-half pound over Olympic standard.

Morris's bronze medallist in the 1970 Commonwealth and 1971 Pan - American Games, didn't really need Saturday's performance to win a ticket to his first Olympic Games. At last month's Ontario champ ionships in Sarnia Morris met the heavyweight (242-pound) class Olympic standard of 1,067 pounds.

Saturday, Morris pressed 363¼ pounds, snatched 308½, and jerked 674 for his record total. All his lifts except the press were Canadian marks and Morris rectified that by succeeding in a special - fourth attempt at 385½ pounds to break Doug Hepburn's former record by one pound.

Meanwhile, teammate Gary Walt pressed a native record 369½ pounds en route to winning 242-pound class honors, and the 23 - year - old Belleville's first national senior title.

Walt's 1,208-pound three-lift total left him short of the Olympic standard but he, and a half-dozen other competitors who came within a whisker of qualifying will get another chance at special Olympic Trial meets to be staged in July.

Foley's Survive Softball Slugfest

Foley's proved that a tight defence isn't absolutely vital to winning as they squeaked out a 16-14 win over Canadian Tire Monday. Each team committed eight fielding errors in the Industrial Softball League slugfest.

Gary Matier got the win despite allowing 11 hits. He walked two batters and struck out five. For the losers, Andy Prudden and Paul Williams yielded 17 safeties, while walking two and whiffing three.

Trice had three singles and a double for Canadian Tire, while Mac winner had four hits from Minaker.

Brooke Bond nipped Castelliaton by an 8-6 count in another Monday battle. Bob Chambers was credited 12 hits to earn the win, whiffing eight batters and not issuing a single walk. The loss went to Thompson who yielded 14 safeties and two walks, while getting two batters on strikes.

Pete Quincey paced Brooke Bond with a four-for-four effort, while Chambers helped his own cause with a homer. For the losers it was Bob Lloyd with a single and two doubles.

In the third Monday contest it was AOCO downing the Post Office 16-8. Ron McCoy yielded six safeties in getting the win, while George Johnson and Jim McKay were touched for 13 hits.

Carol Closer to Olympic Goal

Carol Armstrong moved one step away from a berth in the Canadian Olympic archery trials by compiling two qualifying rounds this weekend.

To enter the July trials in Regina, women archers require four sanctioned rounds of 108 points or better, and Belleville's former two-time Canadian champion bettered the magic figure in both Saturday and Sunday's competitions. It was the second and third time she has bettered 1,050 in four meets this summer.

Carol just made it over the mark in Saturday's FITA - sanctioned bout with a 1,054 effort. She came through easily the following day, however with a march of 1081 second highest recorded by a woman archer. Honour Lemacher of Toronto was tops for the weekend with a 1092 effort Sunday.

A total of 13 Olympic qualifying rounds were turned in by the 48 archers, led by Canadian men's champion Wayne Pullen of Dorchester, Ont. Pullen had easily qualified for the Olympic trials and figures to be in the fight for a gold medal. His scores of 1158 and 1182 were tops among all competitors.

"Yes, I've been shooting pretty well lately," admitted Pullen. He declined to pick his toughest Olympic opponents, however. "There's just too many top archers in the Olympics to single out one country."

Other archers shooting two men's qualifying rounds were Bob Lloyd of Hamilton and Guelph's Elmer Everett.

A total of five competitors also received FITA star pins for recording their first-ever rounds over 1,000 in sanctioned competition. Among those receiving pins was Belleville's Bruce Thompson. The Ontario junior champion rocketed a score of 1052 in his first open event.

Earning His Oats

Andy Klemencic helps pa cer Zorro Gratton tie on the feed bag at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway, where the four-year-old pacer owned by Trenton's Stan Klemencic managed a win in the third race. It marked the third time in succession this year that Zorro Gratton has finished in the money. The harness season got under way Saturday in Belleville with a nine-race card.

Trailer Team on Move

Gib Waite's trailer sales were roling in their Belleville Minor Softball opener Monday as they trounced Canadian Lucas Spar tykes by a 27-15 count.

Peter Wood and Rickey Graves paced the winners with a homer and single each, while Mike Thompson, Paul LaMorre and Jeff Lucas picked up two singles each. Losing pitcher Warren Cavalier set seven batters down.

Another scheduled tyke bout failed to materialize when MacsPlrechers were forced to forfeit to Team No. 3 by a 9-0 count.

Zorro Leaves Third Mark

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Horses can't read, and Trenton's Stan Klemencic can be thankful for that fact.

Unable to learn aloght the sophomore sheet of Belleville's athletes in many other sports, Klemencic's four - year old pacer Zorro Gratton continued his fine second - year showing by winning the third race of Saturday's Quinte Exhibition Raceway opener.

Driver - trainer Hugh Wemp reined the bay to a 2:13-mile to pay $4.10, $2.80 and $2.20 for his fans. It gave Zorro Gratton two firsts and a second in three harness racing starts this year.

"He's just a young horse, so we only started him a few times last year," advised Wemp. "I think he had a couple of fifths and a win in Belleville last summer." Starting out of his fawned number three hole, Wemp guided Zorro Gratton to his only driving win of the night.

The win was particularly satisfying for Klemencic, a Trenton contractor who has raised the pacer from a colt. "I've got two other horses, but it's just not quite the same as with him — he's kind of a family pet."

In the featured ninth race, Captain Craig staged an upset win over L. N. Wenn in the $22.70 for a win ticket. Owner-driver Trevor Atkinson of Campbellford pulled the big bay gelding past I. N. Wann by the stretch to win the mile in 2:03.1. Third place in the feature went to Marge Bring.

In the opening race of the night Helen G. Vonian gave Picton owner - driver Walter DeMille, a win, besting Skipper Hanover and Quinte Tonya. The second race saw Peterborough pacer, Check Line, return $18.10 for a win over Hieland Jimmy and Gordy B. Fourteen of the 20 dollar duals paid $53.70.

The fourth race was an "old-timers" event as 13-year-old Tweet Tree turned the mile in 2:18.2 to pace the field. Bae State Jess was second in that race with the show position going to Angie Wann.

Gord Kingston guided Miss Astrip to a win over Belleville Chucky Cheese in the fifth race, while in the sixth it was Arden Jack paying $8.50 for a photo finish win sewr Hempsted Stan. Prima Rea was third.

The seventh race went to Wil Lee Andy with Rebel Rosa sfd Tip Cee Chief rounding out the money winners. The win paid $27.70.

In the final race before the feature, Glenn Peacock guided Cath Princess to a win in 2:17.2. The win paid 16.40, while a second - place finish by Angela Gratton was good for a $12.80 payoff. Third place went to Linda Lee Adios.

Sue Starts Off Stingy

There's no place to go but down for Sue Morton this season. The Belleville Yankees's Benefit Fund hurler placed herself in that position by firing a no-hitter in the opening game of the Women's Softball League season.

Sue, a right-hander pitcher held Belleville broadloom hitless at BYHP hammered out a decisive 23-0 win in the second opener Monday. She blew third strikes past 19 batters while issuing four walks. The loss went to Marianne Sills who was saddled for 26 hits by the winners.

Sheila Ray collected two doubles and a single for BYHP while Sue Morton and Leah Harper had three hits each. Debbie Meade, Renny Hughes and Donna Preston added two safeties each.

After 15 years, over steep slopes and terraces, 100% dependable.

Gentlemen:
You may be pleased to know about the satisfaction and service I have had from my Lawn-Boy mower.

I purchased this mower (Model 50000) in July, 1956. It has done one hour's mowing per week from 1956 to 1965, and two hours' mowing per week since then. Both of the homes we have lived in during the years mentioned have many slopes and terraces, some quite steep.

During all this time my Lawn-Boy has performed practically faultlessly. I can not recall one occasion when I was unable to mow my lawn because of mechanical problems with my mower. It has been 100% dependable, and very convenient to handle, easy to start.

This is now the fifteenth summer for this mower. In all this time it has never been in a repair shop. It has never been "tuned up". In these years I have installed perhaps five or six spark plugs, one set of points, two new rear wheels (because of bearing failure). I have carried out myself regular simple maintenance procedures such as cleaning of the mesh air filter, draining of the gasoline tank and carburetor at the end of the mowing season, and cleaning of exhaust ports.

Needless to say, even this Lawn-Boy cannot go on forever. When replacement time comes, I certainly can assure you that it will be another Lawn-Boy for me.

Yours sincerely,
Joseph Brunetti,
Grimsby, Ontario.

Grills Queries Ban on Meetings

OTTAWA (Special) — Treasury Board President C. M. Drury disclosed Friday that the department or the department of public works would issue instructions which would hamper the rights of free collective bargaining.

He was replying to a question from Lee Grills (PC-Hastings) who said the Belleville letter carriers union had been denied access to a room in the federal building to hold union meetings.

Mr. Grills wanted to know if barring union meetings in federal buildings was a general policy or if the Belleville situation was an isolated case.

In an interview outside the House, Mr. Grills told the Ottawa bureau of The Intelligencer he had been informed of the order by the president of the Belleville local 45 of Letter Carriers' Union early this week.

The union, he said, had traditionally held meetings in a public service room in the basement of the Federal Building. About a week ago, the union was informed by the building superintendent that an order from Toronto banned further union meetings of any kind in Federal buildings.

Mr. Grills said he was not satisfied with the answer of Mr. Drury, saying the treasury board chief appeared to be evading the question.

He will press the matter, Mr. Grills said, either through further questions period enquiries or some other route.

Hearing to Open Today On Oil Reserves Tax

EDMONTON (CP) — A public hearing which may decide the tax fate of Alberta's petroleum industry for the next decade opens today in the province's legislative assembly.

Up for discussion is the Progressive Conservative government's tentative natural resource revenue plan under which crude oil reserves—oil still in the ground—would be taxed at a rate which will yield some $50 million to $90 million in 1973.

The Conservatives came up with the idea when they found the door blocked to possible increases in existing royalty rates charged on production.

The previous Social Credit government, bounced out of office last year after 36 years in power, had inserted its petroleum and natural gas leases a provision that the maximum royalty rate would be limited under the leases to 16 2/3 per cent of gross production.

The result is that more than 75 per cent of Alberta's current crude oil production is subject to and limited by the maximum royalty rate and it will be 1998 before the bulk of production is free from the restrictions.

Harry Strom, Opposition Social leader and former premier, said the royalty limits were necessary at the time to attract capital into the province.

When the government's position paper was tabled in the legislature last month, Bill Dickie, minister of mines and resources, said the government was prepared to make adjustments "or even accept a completely different alternative if . . . it appears in the public interest to do so."

Premier Peter Lougheed clarified the situation a few weeks later when he said was the government basically wants at least another $50 million to $60 million and isn't really concerned about where the money comes from.

The government, Mr. Dickie said, would be willing to discuss renegotiation of existing leases and to consider staying with the royalty system of taxation.

Naturally, the industry is unhappy with the proposed tax.

Stan Milner, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada, was "quite startled" by the amount of money the government proposes to raise.

In its position paper, the government said the money is required "to stimulate substantial diversification of the Alberta economy over the next 10 to 15 years."

Mr. Milner said that if the tax becomes reality, "a negative reaction will develop, severely limiting the economic growth of the province.

Prairie Development Free Enterprise Task

WINNIPEG (CP) — Socialism may have its good points, says banker Charles Fraser MacNaughton, but it will take "socially-conscious free enterprise" to develop the Prairie provinces.

Mr. MacNaughton, senior vice-president for the Bank of Montreal in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, said in a recent interview:

"I see nothing wrong with the government using good horse sense to encourage development.

"Some resources in Manitoba and Saskatchewan are so far away there is certainly a place for government to develop roads and other facilities through grants or other means."

However, says Mr. MacNaughton, "a new country needs ethical socially-conscious free enterprise" to develop industrially.

Because of initiatives taken by the Manitoba and Saskatchewan governments, it now has become a question whether development is done by socialism or private enterprise, he said.

Some provincial legislation has been rather unsuitable for business as well as the public at large, says the 57-year-old banker.

"Many acts such as the provincial personal investigations, consumer relations and farm machinery legislation are not perfect.

"I can't see that they facilitate interaction between people . . . individuals or companies."

Mr. MacNaughton, a bank employee since 1933, said the Manitoba government seems in favor conservation and credit unions as opposed to other financial institutions.

As well, "I am concerned about the tax structure in the province.

"Personal income tax is about the highest in Canada. . . . The tax on production equipment is discouraging."

The Right Way to Jump

Mrs. Lucille Ofteabaier of Frezno, Calif., appears to be doing a better job of jumpint than her Jirog Ding Bat during competition at the Calaveras County Jumping Frog Jubilee at Angels Camp. Ding Bat leaped only 12 feet one inch. The winning frog cleared 17 feet 11½ inches. (AP Photo)

Teachers' Primary Goal Is to Help Others

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

MASSASAGA — Members of the teaching profession who lack excellent self – images are unable to extend a full measure of assistance to their students.

John McNeil, Prince Edward County director of education last week reminded a staff meeting of teachers from Massassaga Midland Corlo and Rednerville schools that that goal of their work is to help others.

He observed teachers can help self – evaluations on several factors among them their attitudes toward their pupils.

"You must respect all of them or you cannot teach any of them," the education director.

He emphasized teachers are not hired to instruct 98 or 99 per cent of their students but each one of them.

The volume of parental complaints received by teachers each year can assist in how staff members attempt self-evaluation, according to Mr. McNeil.

He noted it is "a real plus" to end the school year with a minimum of complaints and added children give their parents a daily report on their teachers through the everyday conversation carried on during dinner at home.

Children commit themselves to their teachers and teachers should return this commitment.

Mr. McNeil commented that teachers frequently issue class assignments with deadlines but fail to tell the students when the corrected work will be returned to them. He said the weeks or months pass and "every unit of time that passes with the assignment into nothingness."

Teachers should determine whether they are critical of the students they instruct or of their methods as their instructors.

He added that public criticism of fellow professionals" is undesirable.

Although teachers often give an assignment with a value of 100 marks, some admit that they never give 100 per cent but may consider 82 the highest grade that should be issued. Mr. McNeil said this indicates the teacher is communicating the thought that it is important to strive for perfection but students will never receive the satisfaction of achieving it.

Teachers should recall the frequency with which their pupils voluntarily bring something from home to help in a lesson.

Many teachers should ask themselves if their students ever call them or if they would feel welcome to call if confronted with a problem.

One of the greatest mistakes of the teaching profession is to assume the potential of all the students is known," said Mr. McNeil.

He stated evaluation itself is a "will o' the wisp" and cautioned teachers not to feel they can predict what their students will be doing in the 10, 20 or 30 years ahead.

The education director told staff members that the old saying "If I don't get a day off I'll take it and lose pay" could prove dangerously misleading for teachers. "You can lose your job," he said as he stressed permission must first be obtained from the school principal.

He remarked that should a teacher enter a classroom and tell his pupils they can enjoy a spare period doing what they wish he could be dismissed. "You are hired to teach; you can say here is your reference material, the methods and the information I want you to use," he suggested.

He emphasized that the teacher who suggests students can do as they like during a spare is not fulfilling his contract.

Teachers also must translate students assigned to them by the principal and do not contract to teach a special grade in a specific school in Prince Edward.

"You have a contract to teach in this county; theoretically next September you could find yourself teaching any subject anywhere in Prince Edward," said Mr. Mc-Neil. He added, however, that he does not feel county teachers have any reason for concern regarding tenure.

"I don't feel any teacher in the next four or five years will be told "You are an excellent teacher but we don't have a job for you," said the education director.

Mr. McNeil added teachers must be notified before May 1 if they are to be transferred to teach in another school in September.

When asked by one school principal about the future of the Church on Sunday schools in the Massassaga area, Mr. McNeil replied, "Given me an indication of the feelings of the voting taxpayers of Ameliasburg."

He remarked he did not feel the Ameliasburg representatives to the county board of education are now inclined to close out any schools. "That's about as far as I could go," said Mr. McNeil.

Now Watch This Takeoff

If you think the pilot of this jellicer made a tricky manoeuvre to land, stick around and watch him take off. The illusion of the jellicer perched atop the twin masts of a reproduction of an old pinky schooner was created as the jets approaching Bramalea's Lopes Airport broke through low overcast. # Waupoos Island Home For Toronto Brigantine

PICTON (Staff) — Toronto Brigantine Inc. officials has announced arrangements have been made for the summer use of property owned by the Oblate Fathers on Waupoos Island.

Toronto Brigantine is a non-profit sponsor company for the youth training program focusing on the 60-foot vessel Pathfinder, similar to the St. Lawrence II which sails out of Kingston.

Captain of the Pathfinder, Maurice Smith, said summer operations at Waupoos will be run as a pilot project which it is hoped will lead to more permanent arrangements.

Excellent sailing in Prince Edward waters, especially near Waupoos Island makes this base ideal for a six-week summer training program for youth.

Captain Smith said plans for at least one open house event at Waupoos Island will permit interested area residents and others to tour the ship.

A three-day sail racing event sponsored annually by the Eastern Yachting Circuit this year will be held in Prince Edward waters.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, Belleville, is official host for races this year but Picton harbor will serve as headquarters for the event.

The Pathfinder, launched nine years ago, has logged more than 30,000 miles on the Great Lakes and approximately 3,000 boys have joined in training cruises.

More than 10,000 boys and girls as well as older persons have boarded ship for "day sails."

Hatchery At Bath Planned

PICTON (Staff) — James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox, this weekend announced he has been informed by the minister of natural resources that a fish hatchery complex will be constructed in the vicinity of Bath.

The hatchery is to be located immediately adjacent to the Lennox Generating Station, and will use some of the cooling waters from the hydro plant for its operation.

Mr. Taylor explained the large modern hatchery will include production facilities for the culture of both cold and warm water species.

It is also planned to undertake fish nutritional studies in connection with the production program; to operate an attractive fish display area; to include public fishing facilities and to attract resident and non-resident visitors.

Mr. Taylor noted although some preliminary work has been made in relation to preliminary drawings prepared by consultants and to hydro in relation to piping, a report is just now being compiled for presentation to the field policy committee and to the management board for approval.

The proposal, it is hoped, will be accepted in whole or in part during a new budget consequently will be in production by the mid-seventies.

Two Injured

WEST LAKE (Staff) — Two Toronto men were treated at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Saturday night for injuries sustained when their car went out of control and struck a pole on Highway 62 near West Lake.

Driver of the new model car, 23-year-old Millard Paul Hobbs received head lacerations and bruises.

His passenger, Fred Fowler 22, of Toronto, was treated for contusions.

The incident which caused approximately $1,500 damage to the vehicle, occurred shortly before 7 p.m. Saturday.

Constable T. C. Cousans of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated the mishap.

Italy Wins Round

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Italy and Czechoslovakia each clinched their Davis Cup tennis rounds Sunday, winning three of the best-of-five match series.

Italy won its doubles match against the Netherlands for a 3-0 lead in the European Zone A play. Nicola Pietrangeli and Adriano Panatta beat Fred Hemmes and Jan Hendrik 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2. The victory moved the Italians into the zone semi-finals against Romania.

The Czechs, in Zone B play, captured the singles match with Frantisek Pala downing Sweden's Bjoern Borg 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Another singles match was cancelled because of darkness with Sweden's Ove Bengtsson leading Jan Kodes 6-4, 1-2.

The Soviet Union completed its 5-0 sweep of Morocco by winning the last two singles matches.

West Germany advanced to a 2-0 lead against Ireland in Zone B as Christian Kohnke topped Mike Hickey 6-3, 6-2, 6-0; and Harald Elschenbroich beat Keith Reid 6-2, 6-0, 6-4.

Monaco took a 2-1 lead over Portugal in Zone B with a doubles victory Sunday.

Spain won its second-round Davis Cup series Saturday with the third victory over France. Manuel Orantes and Jose Gisbert defeated Pierre Barthes and Partick Proisy, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, May 24

Aries (March 21-April 19): Being reasonable and realistic today. Additions or replacements of wardrobe are favored. Move your life-style forward.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Events run at a rapid pace. Include extras which challenge your skills and flexibility. Relationships deepen in the sharing responsibility.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You have so many invitations that you may neglect your usual habits, not get much work done. Pursue romantic and sentimental interests.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Creativity comes to the surface as relationships improve. Be sure not to let the mood of the day carry you a bit above reality.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Work and business stack off as your interest focuses on the imaginative and beautiful phases of life. Find some entertainment for the evening.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Technical and detailed work will need later correction, should be given extra time now, or postponed. Meditation brings special inspiration.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): On this two-way day, you must take an active part in whatever is of interest rather than wait for things to come to you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Special care with confidential information is indicated. Cooperation goes both ways; you are asked to help with a group endeavor.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Going along with the stream of today's influences leads to ideas and connections strange to you and probably to fun and adventure.

Capricorn (Dec. 23-Jan. 19): The more eagerly you start, the more mixed the situation. Take a conservative approach. Any spare moment should be used for relaxation.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unfamiliar people intrigue you, may well reward your efforts to know them better. Pay attention to the ideas of loved ones.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Exert more force to keep things moving. Sentimental concerns brighten in later hours. Share entertainment with someone special.

Husband's Mother Gives Him Pills

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband gets tranquilizers from his mother. She gets them without prescription from a druggist friend.

I can tell when he takes one. He gets restless instead of relaxed, except if he takes one at bedtime he goes into a deep sleep.

If he takes one or two during the day he seems to be in a trance. Angry and all alone in his private world. He doesn't even answer when you talk to him. He hides these tranquilizers as he knows I am against them.

I asked his mother not to give him any more but she says she can take three or four a day and they don't affect her.

If my husband has a pill and two beers, he's drunk and acts like he's going out of his mind. He even struck me, which he never did before. Please advise me.—N.S.

Don't ask me to settle a row. Your mess like this. Which is it—does he get restless, or get sleepy?

I don't know what you can do with a husband so ignorant that he gobbles the boarding pills his mama gets for him.

For what reason, if any, does he take them?

And if mama says three or four a day don't affect her, what does she take them for?

The druggist friend should be ashamed of himself. He gives a bad name to all the ethical druggists.

The only reason for printing this letter is because it is an object lesson for dummies who don't realize why prescriptions are required—so that there can be some control over thoughtless pill-peppers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me why I get so constipated? It is terrible and very painful.

I know I don't drink enough water. Would that have anything to do with it? I avoid bananas and hard-cooked eggs, also corn.—E.V.

Very definitely lack of enough fluids can cause constipation.

Frankly, I don't see why avoiding any of the three foods you named would be anything at all to do with constipation but they might be missing or discharging yourself on other foods that would help keep you regular. Prunes or prune juice, for example.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am planning to have a bothersome bunion removed from my foot.

Is this a dangerous and painful operation and would I have to be hospitalized?—Mrs. E. S.

Dangerous, no. Painful, yes. And you will have to be hospitalized.

There is apt to be a bit of bothersome pain following the operation. The opinion of most of my patients who have had it is that it's worth it, though.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can cause a person to see rainbow-colored halos around lights besides glaucoma and cataracts? These have been ruled out for me by an ophthalmologist.—Mrs. M. C. E.

Diseases, scars or other deformities of the cornea are other possibilities.

The bidding:

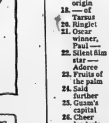
| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♠ | Pass | 3♥ | 3♠ |
| 4♠ | Pass | 5♦ | Pass |
| 6♠ | Pass | 7♥ | Pass |
| 7♥ | | | |

Opening lead—six of spades.

Assume you're in seven hearts and West leads a spade, which you ruff. It looks as though you'll need a diamond finesse to make the grand, but, endowed with an inquisitive nature, you decide to probe the adverse distribution before committing yourself to a-finesse.

Accordingly, you play a trump to draw West's last spade, then draw two more rounds of trumps before cashing three top clubs. When East shows out on the third club, you know for a fact that he started with two clubs and a heart void, which in turn means he had either seven spades and four diamonds or six spades and five diamonds.

This is very good news, for you're now sure of the contract, come what may. You lead the queen of trumps, discarding the nine of diamonds from dummy, and East cannot discard usefully in the following position:



| West | East |
|---|---|
| Immaterial | ♠ AK |
| | ♥ Q8 8 |
| | ♦ J 10 3 |

If he parts with a spade, you play a diamond and ruff a spade to win the rest of the tricks, while if he discards a diamond you take the A-K of diamonds before ruffing a spade to accomplish the same result.

All of this comes about because you went to the trouble of forcing East to reveal the makeup of his hand. Had you followed the line of least resistance and staked your all on a diamond finesse you would have missed the fun of executing that rara avis, a trump squeeze.

Tomorrow: Impetuosity.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X N
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three Lx, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Canada and China Plan Air Service

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian negotiating team is returning home from Peking with an agreement on technical specifications for a future scheduled air link with China.

A senior official of the exter- nal affairs department said Monday that during the talks, which began last week, there was only preliminary discussion of routes and no Canadian carrier was designated for the trans-Pacific link.

Both Air Canada and CP Air had representatives at the Peking meetings. CP Air now flies to the Orient and the official said the private line would be the most logical choice one a route agreement is ready for signing.

He said both carriers normally participate in all international air negotiations and their attendance in Peking is not an indication that they are in serious competition for the proposed route.

Inquiry Asked

TORONTO (CP) — Barnett Danson, York-North member of Parliament and Prime Minister Trudeau's parliamentary secretary, has proposed a full public inquiry into the planned Pickering airport.

Mr. Danson said Sunday he wants a hearing which will allow people who own land affected by the airport proposal, and mortgage holders and tenants, to cross-examine the airport planners as well as call experts to deny the need for a second Toronto-area international airport.

In Toronto 10 days ago, Mr. Trudeau said there would be no public inquiry into the need for an airport.

Dance on Coals

LANGHADAS (Reuter) — Peasants in this sleepy northern Greek town danced barefoot on red hot embers Sunday in a centuries-old ritual denounced by their Greek Orthodox bishop as savoring of black magic and a diabolical orgy.

Beaches Dirty

VANCOUVER (CP) — Littered parks, beaches and golf courses and overflowing trash cans on downtown streets marred the Victoria Day holiday for residents and visitors in four Vancover-area municipalities.

Outside and inside civic employees are on strike in Vancouver, New Westminster, Burnaby and Delta.

—and no immediate break is seen in the contract [illegible] year.

Parcost Cuts Drug Costs

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is saving $1.5 million a year through its Parcost drug-testing program, says a provincial health department report.

Dr. Allan E. Dyer, chief of the department's drugs and therapeutics branch, said in an interview bulk purchases of drugs for government institutions cost $3 million in 1971, compared with the estimated $4.5 million they would have cost without the program.

Parcost, meaning prescriptions at a reasonable cost, costs $60,000 to run.

Dr. Dyer said many of the drugs listed in the program's Comparative Drug Index have declined in price. He said one widely-used antibiotic, ampicillin, dropped in price with almost all companies listed. Ampicillin accounted for more than $1.4 million in drug costs to public hospitals in Ontario last year.

Teacher and Poet

Irving Layton, Canada's most prolific poet, says Canadian poetry used to be "pretty bad," but thinks it is now about the best in the English-speaking world. Author of more than 20 books of poems and other works, Layton, 60, is a professor at York University in Toronto. (CP Photo)

Police Repulse Demonstrators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounted blue-helmeted policemen drove several hundred anti-war demonstrators away from the Pentagon Monday after scores of protesters tried to rush the steps of the huge military centre.

More than 200 of the mostly young, white demonstrators were arrested and carried away in military buses. A few were dragged across an asphalt parking lot by their hair and one girl was seen being carried, apparently unconscious.

During six hours of sporadic civil disobedience interlaced with militant speeches against the U.S. Vietnam policy, military policemen in full combat gear were held in reserve inside the Pentagon for a possible major assault on the building by which didn't come.

Outside, several members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War burned parts of green army uniforms.

The protests had been billed as a move to blockade the Pentagon and prevent its staff from getting to work. But only a handful of protesters showed up by rush hour and there was no apparent disruption of Pentagon operations.

CP News Briefs

Quebec Public Servant Joins Separatist Party

QUEBEC (CP) — Claude Morin, former deputy intergovernmental affairs minister and chief adviser on Quebec's relations with the federal government under four successive Quebec premiers, has joined the separatist Parti Quebecois.

Mr. Morin told a news conference Sunday that for years he had hoped "that within the present federal structure Quebec would one day find its place and feel at ease."

"I hoped obstinately . . . to prove that our regime could acquire everything permit Quebec to be master of its own destiny.

Prisoners Flee

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Fourteen prisoners of the Orleans county prison forced windows, scaled walls, slid down ropes and even entered a judge's chambers as part of an elaborate escape early Sunday. Twelve of them remained at large.

Wasaga Objects

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — This Georgian Bay resort community has ordered its lawyer to seek an injunction preventing the Ontario government from expropriating any more land in the area until it produces an over-all plan for redevelopment.

The action, announced on the weekend, was taken after 18 property owners received expropriation notices, despite an assurance by Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough that the village council would be advised before any further action was taken.

Wasaga Beach is about 28 miles northwest of Barrie.

Benson in Cyprus

NICOSIA (Reuter) — Defence Minister E. J. Benson, of Canada, paying a brief visit to Cyprus, was received by President Makarios Monday at the presidential palace.

But my hopes were wrong."

Mr. Morin, who resigned as deputy intergovernmental affairs minister last October after heading the department since 1963, said he had lived through "all sorts of federalisms—co-operative, decentralized, profitable and I don't know what else."

He said he has come to the conclusion that "never in the political regime that we know at present will Quebec really be able to be itself."

"Ottawa is scarcely disposed to let us, under supervision, administer a province, whereas in fact Quebecers are seeking to build a country."

The aspirations of Ottawa and of the people of Quebec, "both of them logical, both of them normal, are in the end irreconcilable."

Man Hurt

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — Pickering Township police reported the first snowmobile accident of the summer Monday.

Stewart Carter, 31, of Wed Hill was helping a friend drive the vehicle into a garage Sunday when it mained the open door and hit the building.

Mr. Carter was admitted to a Scarborough hospital with possible broken legs and severe cuts and bruises.

Burns Himself

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A young man burned himself to death for political reasons in the Lithuanian city of Kaunas, causing two days of riots, reliable sources said. They said the man, 20-year-old Roman Talanta, died 27 hours after pouring gasoline over his body in a public garden last week. The sources said the rioting involved several thousand young persons, adding that several hundred arrests were made and at least one policeman died.

Trade Arranged

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Leaders of a Mexican trade mission which left Monday from Canada said its delegates arranged sales of 300 million pesos or $24 million in Mexican products for the next 12 months during the week-long visit.

Poet Dies

LONDON (AP) — Cecil Day-Lewis, 68, poet laureate, died Monday. A former professor of poetry at Oxford University, he was appointed poet laureate Jan. 1, 1968, on the death of John Masefield. Day-Lewis also was a prolific writer of mystery stories under the pseudonym Nicholas Blake.

House Building Permits Triple, Construction Record Seen

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

More than 180 house building permits have been taken out so far this year by Belleville contractors, an increase of 300 per cent over 1971. Small apartment construction has declined sharply but new forms of multiple-family dwellings, including condominiums and high-rises have more than taken up the slack.

The surge has prompted local building officials to predict another record year for housing construction in the city. Last year 627 units were started, the largest number ever reported here, with cost estimated at six-and-a-half million dollars.

"Just what's making new homes so attractive can be seen this weekend at Honeyrue 72 — Belleville's first home show opening tomorrow at the Quinte Mall. A preview of the latest trends in comfortable living is revealed in the special home section which accompanies today's Intelligencer.

Demand for housing is at a record. In West Park Village, one builder sold his allotment of 48 houses in a week and a half, and the 125-suite high-rise on Sidney Street has only a couple of vacancies despite the building's unfinished appearance.

Why should 1972 be such a boom year?

"Part of it is a general loosening of the economy," says Maurice Rollins, head of the area's largest home construction firm.

"Before interest rates (for house purchases) were as high as 10½ per cent. Then there was a period of about nine months when the rate plummeted to 8¾ per cent, and now most lenders charge 9 or 9½ per cent. It makes a substantial difference."

Several projects geared to moderate-income earners have appeared recently, making homes available to persons never before in the market.

Sixty-four condominium town houses on Prince of Wales Dr. will be restricted to those making between $5,000 and $7,500 while government subsidization in West Park Village has resulted in three-bedroom houses selling in the $18,000 range.

Builder Charles Lambert says that while labor costs have gone up over the years, the price of house has not risen at a proportionate rate, making home buying a better investment than ever before.

Whether the trend will continue remains to be seen. Developers are concerned about the amount of suitable land available within the city limits and are turning to adjacent townships for building sites.

Gerald Joyce, of Joyce Realty Ltd., says the reason is two-fold:

"First, there's a shortage of lots generally. Secondly, there's a lack of lots to accommodate wider ranch-style homes which people prefer today."

Land costs, are, in many instances, lower in the country, and the rural atmosphere holds great appeal for many potential buyers.

But the city's assistant building inspector, Bill Hoard, doesn't anticipate a decline in housing construction. In fact, as far as apartments are concerned, he predicts: "We may catch up with last year in the number of units (about 338 were erected). If not in the number of buildings."

Whatever the future holds Mr. Hoard estimates housing starts will be up by 300 for 1972 — contractors are betting to meet an unprecedented demand, providing accommodation of every type.

Treaty Will Limit Anti-missile Sites

Nixon Reaches Moscow Accord

MOSCOW (CP) — President Nixon and Soviet leaders, continuing their summit talks today, virtually reached an arms limitation accord that will embrace both a treaty and a less formal agreement.

Sources said negotiators for the two countries hope to be ready to place their signatures on the documents Friday.

Treaty aspects will be limited to curbs on the erection of anti-ballistic missile sites, it was said, while the agreement would freeze offensive missiles, whether land- or sea-based, at their present levels.

The agreement apparently would not bar either country from installing improved offensive missiles aboard submarines or in earth-bound silos in the future.

It was expected that the agreement would provide for the use of reconnaissance satellites to verify that the missile emplacements were not being increased by either country.

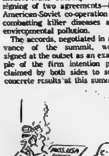
Gerard Smith, chief U.S. negotiator at the strategic arms limitation talks in Helsinki, was expected to join the American party here Thursday to help wrap up the settlement.

Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, were hoping two private meetings during the day prior to the early evening signing of an American-Soviet agreement that aims at pooling American and Soviet space explorers into orbit together by 1975.

The accord also will embrace other co-operative ventures in space exploration.

U.S. sources said the space agreement will be signed at 8 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT). This will signify the re-ignition of three U.S. astronauts and three Soviet cosmonauts to make a joint docking in June, 1975.

Another accord on scientific and technical co-operation also will be signed tonight, the sources said.



Nixon and Brezhnev rounded off a heavy day of talks Tuesday with two hours and 40 minutes of evening discussion.

Informed sources said they concentrated attention on a proposed pact to slow down the nuclear arms race by curbing strategic weapons. The strategic arms limitation talks in Helsinki were discussed by the two leaders.

Meanwhile, U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Helsinki worked at technical level trying to hammer out final details.

The summit bore its first modest fruits Tuesday with the signing of two agreements—for American-Soviet co-operation in combatting killer diseases and environmental pollution.

The accords, negotiated in advance of the summit, were signed at the outset as an example of the firm detente proclaimed by both sides to seek concrete results at this summit.

Nothing He Could Do About It

Clarence Collingridge found out exactly how cold the harbor was Tuesday, when his brother John (foreground) and friend Steve Brant sent him flying. The wooden dock at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club became a favorite spot for swimmers and sun bathers over the hot weekend. Clarence clambered back out of the water and to his dismay, was returned in a similar fashion.

Quebec Labor Chiefs On Bail

QUEBEC (CP) — The province's three top labor leaders were released Tuesday night on bond pending appeal hearings, paving the way for resumption of contract talks between the Quebec government and public service unions.

Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions and one of the three leaders released, said negotiations will resume Thursday.

Mr. Justice Claude Gagnon at the Court of Appeal released Mr. Pepin, Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor and Yvon Charbonneau, president of the Quebec Teachers Corp., after they signed bonds promising to appear at their appeal hearing.

Mr. Pepin said the hearing will be held June 5.

The three men were serving one-year terms each of contempt of court sentences arising out of a strike by 200,000 public service workers last month.

They decided to appeal the sentences after Justice Minister Jerome Choquette earlier Tuesday turned down their request for day parole intended to gain them daily release from jail to take part in negotiations.

Mr. Choquette told the Quebec national assembly he could not find terms of the Prothonotary Act which would permit them to leave jail.

They were sentenced for advising union members to defy legislation ordering maintenance of essential services during the 11-day public service strike.

Another 31 union officials serving sentences up to six months for contempt of court were also released.

Ford May Still Stay on Schedule

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has hinted it could, with help from the Environmental Protection Agency, meet its September deadline for 1973 model cars despite an EPA order that it retest engine emission controls.

The possibility of a solution of the problem also was suggested by an EPA spokesman who said: "Obviously, we do not want to shut down Ford for four months."

Jack Gentry, special assistant to EPA Director William Ruckelshaus, said the agency's lawyers are examining the matter and expect to have some suggestions within a few days.

Genes Out of Place

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Nee research indicates cancer may result from cells which are vital to the development of a baby during early pregnancy — then show up later in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Dr. Norman Anderson, director of the molecular anatomy program at Oak Ridge National Laboratory says: "We can look . . . at the probability that tumors arise from genes that we all have and that are there for over 95 per cent, scientists have remarked on the similarity between tumor cells and embryonic cells."

Guaranteed Pay Asked

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A proposal asking the federal and provincial governments to implement a guaranteed annual income of $5,000 for a family of four will be presented today to the main business session of the 48th annual meeting of London conference of the United Church of Canada.

Special Courts Possible

DUBLIN (Reuter) — The Irish republic government is considering establishment of special non-jury criminal courts to deal with persons charged with subversive activities—presumably including guerrillas of the banned Irish Republican Army.

Marines Landed Near Hue

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. amphibious craft and helicopters landed nearly 2,000 South Vietnamese marines in Communist-held territory north of Hue today, and scores of American planes blasted North Vietnamese industrial plants in the Haiphong area in a new phase of the bombing campaign.

The 7th Fleet landing craft and one marine battalion ashore about 10 miles east of Quang Tri City. Carrier-based helicopters landed a second battalion about four miles inland, and a third battalion was airlifted in to the south to act as a blocking force.

The South Vietnamese command said the marines clashed with North Vietnamese forces seven miles east of Quang Tri.

Radio Hanoi claimed eight American planes were shot down Tuesday, four of them 30 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Not Guilty Plea Made

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Jerome Bakker entered a not guilty today in U.S. district court to federal charges in the May 15 shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons at a political rally.

The 21-year-old unemployed hockey equipment salesman, said openly smiling several times during the 16-minute hearing before chief Judge Edward S. Northrup.

Bremer replied in a strong voice to Northrup's formal questions concerning his name, age lawyer, education and whether he understood the four charges against him contained in an indictment handed down Tuesday by a federal grand jury.

Ecuador Hijacker Shot

QUITO (Reuter) — Two Ecuadorean air force men shot and killed a hijacker Tuesday after he allowed them to board an airliner to show him how to work a parachute handed over as part of a ransom.

The shooting ended a 34-hour drama which began with the seizure of the DC-6B airliner of the Empresa Ecuatoriana de Aviacion as it took off from Quito for the port of Guayaquil 300 miles away.

Ten minutes after takeoff the airliner returned to Quito, where the hijacker, identified as an Ecuadorean named Lomas, freed the 39 passengers but held the pilot, co-pilot, flight engineer and three stewardesses aboard.

He set a one-hour deadline for delivery of a ransom of $20,000 and a parachute, apparently intending to make the pilot fly to an area where he could parachute, as has been done recently by hijackers in the United States.

McGovern Scores Sweeping Victories

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Senator George McGovern, an overwhelming victor in the Rhode Island and Oregon Democratic primaries, heads south today to battle Senator Hubert Humphrey in California's June 6 showdown.

The two victories Tuesday gave McGovern 58 more delegates—22 in Rhode Island, 34 in Oregon—and he added 11 more from Missouri district gatherings to swell his first-place total to 329½ of the 1,509 votes needed to capture the nomination.

In Rhode Island where the South Dakota senator never campaigned but relied on his usual spirited volunteer organization and appearances by his wife Eleanor, he polled 41 per cent of the vote. McGovern's total was more than the combined sum for Senators Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey, who finished second and third.

In Oregon, where he was the only major candidate to campaign, McGovern's percentage hovered at about 50 per cent in an unexpectedly close race with Humphrey, who finished second.

Rhode Island and Oregon were the first two states.

IRA Assailed in Derry

Catholic Women Cheer Priest's Plea to Love

BELFAST (AP) — A mass meeting in the Roman Catholic Creggan district of Londonderry voted overwhelmingly Tuesday night for an end to the violence of the Irish Republican Army, hooded down IRA hecklers and refused to let an IRA chieftain speak.

The crowd of 2,000 cheered a priest who said: "We love our brother Protestants in Derry, and we want to live in peace with them."

The IRA rules some 31,000 persons in the Creggan and Bogside districts of Londonderry, an area called "Free Derry" because the British army and the Protestant police stay out of it.

There was wild applause at a motion which "utterly rejected and condemned all use of force at the present time."

Rev. Martin Rooney said: "We must abhor the violence and the beginning of civil war that we have known around us."

Another Londonderry priest, Rev. Hugh O'Neill, said the IRA had lost all credibility among its former supporters.

"This is the end of the road for the IRA," said Father O'Neill, administrator of St. Eugene's Cathedral. "No terrorist organization can exist without the support of the people."

John White, head of the Free Derry command of the Official wing of the IRA, tried to speak but was told to leave. He emerged from the school looking pale and shaken and secured the Catholic church of trying to divide the population along sectarian lines on emotions. He said the leaders of the meet were not representative of the people.

Municipalities Seek Share of Income Tax

QUEBEC (CP) — A commission will be set up to discuss revenue sharing with the provincial and federal governments as the result of a vote Tuesday by delegates to the Canadian Federation of Mayors of Municipalities.

A resolution calling on the federal and provincial governments to give municipalities a share of revenue from personal and corporate income tax was adopted by the 620 delegates attending the week-long annual conference here.

Plans call for a tri-level conference to be held in Toronto in December.

Municipalities want tax revenues shared three ways rather than on the present federal-provincial basis.

Delegates were to vote today on a Winnipeg resolution calling for the federation to study ways to co-operation with all levels of government and interested parties on efficient ways of solving industrial disputes in "essential and delicate areas such as transports, communications, public safety and public health."

Premier Robert Bourassa told the Quebec national assembly that the federal-provincial-municipal conference, the first in Canada's history, does not present any danger to Quebec's exclusive jurisdiction in municipal affairs.

Board Rehires Children's Aid

The Family and Children's Services of Hastings and Prince Edward counties will continue to act as transit officer for the Hastings county board of education.

But as usual when the contract comes up for decision, trustees objected to the cost.

Annual cost is $2.5 cents a pupil, or $11,500.

Before agreeing to take on the responsibility for the 1972-73 school year, the Family and Children's Services asked that the amount payable remain the same.

In view of decreased enrolments expected in September, the cost was expected to go down by about $138.

The school board decided to pay for the service at the 1971-72 rate, but it will inform Ontario Municipal Minister Dr. R. T. Potter of the cost.

"He has been talking about integrating services we offer, but which are basically health concerns, under his department," said Mrs. Jean Hutchison of Trenton. "I think we should let the minister know what it is costing us to maintain this service."

Who Gets Sale Money?

What happens to proceeds from the annual bicycle auction staged annually by city police?

Alderman Jack Ireland asked the question in city council last night — following last Saturday's auction at which 48 bicycles were reported sold at prices ranging up to $52.

City treasurer Frank Morrell told the councillors: "I'd prefer you to get your answer from the police commission."

Councillors Seek Dumping Sites

PICTON (Staff) — Garbage often suitable for use in a country-wide waste disposal system are being examined by Prince Edward county councillors and a report is expected soon concerning a proposed dump site in Hallowell township.

At a recent meeting of council's county government committee, Ameliasburg reeve Russell Thompson said members of his township prefers to c o n t i n u e to utilize its own individual site which is satisfactory and easy to operate.

Representatives of other municipalities agreed t h a t they remain interested in a joint waste disposal system but require more detailed information on finances.

An Ontario government representative present at the committee meeting said councillors be is aware of most of the problems involved and said where a group of municipalities decides to seek the provincial consultant to identify and locating suitable garbage sites, the province will subsidize 50 per cent of the cost of reports and actual site development.

These terms would not apply to similar costs incurred by a single municipality.

County warden Ross Allen-way suggested during t h e meeting that if the Hallowell site is found suitable and if other municipalities begin to use it, charges based on "tonnage delivered to site" should be considered.

Potholes Province's Problem

Potholes at the intersection of Highway 2 and Wallbridge Road — access route to Loyalist College — are a problem for provincial highways authorities city council was told last night.

The badly-pitted road surface — a problem which has drawn complaints from Bellev-illians — is on provincial highway property, said a letter from the Hastings - Belleville Suburban Roads Commission.

They are caused by drivers swerving off the highway pavement in order to slow down while turning onto Wallbridge Road.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said the problem will disappear in time — when the four-lane conversion scheme for Highway 2 linking Belleville and Trenton reaches the east.

Meantime, however, Alderman Donald Souther suggested the city engineer see what action might be taken to ease the problem since it has aroused citizens' complaints.

T. EDWARD FLINN A. M. PEDERSEN

Hydro Names Manager

T. Edward Flinn has been named the new manager of Ontario Hydro's Eastern Region it was announced today. The appointment is effective July 1 and he succeeds Alex M. Pedersen who is retiring.

Mr. Flinn has been manager of Hydro's Northeastern Region, with head office at North Bay for the last four years. He brings to his new duties a broad experience in various Commission operations. Head office for the Eastern Region is Belleville.

Mr. Flinn is succeeded as manager of Northeastern Region by Lavern Coles.

Mr. Flinn was born and educated in Toronto and received his bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering from the University of Toronto. He joined Ontario Hydro in 1939.

After a succession of increasingly responsible positions with Ontario Hydro he w a s named manager of Northeastern Region in July, 1968. He is a member of the Rotary Club of North Bay, of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario and the Engineering Institute of Canada.

He replaces Mr. Pedersen who headed Eastern Region for 10 years, and a total of 41 years with Ontario Hydro. Born in Denmark, he was educated at the University of Copenhagen and graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, with a B.A.Sc. in Electrical Engineering.

Dentists Meet

Dentists from the Quinte region recently heard Dr. G. Zarb, head of prosthetic dentistry at the University of Toronto, speak on the subject of removable dentures.

He stressed that due to changes which occur in the shape of the mouth, periodic adjustments are usually necessary if dentures are to remain properly functional.

Service Recognized

A ceremony was held recently to recognize long service given by staff members at Belleville General Hospital.

Receiving a 30-year pin was Miss Asa Casselman. Miss Helen Walt was the recipient of a 15-year memento.

Acknowledged for 20 years service were MPs. Helen Carlisle, Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson, Mrs. Helen Reid and Mrs. Hilda Marsh Rosen.

Firemen Honored

The city of Belleville, through its fire department, has received a certificate of commendation from the corporation of your fine achievement in the 1971 season. The commendation comes from the National Fire Prevention Association contest. Judges from the Fire Prevention and Clean-up campaign committee, NFPA, and Ontario Fire Marshal's Office, judged Belleville's merit, "for your most commendable efforts in the public interest."

Mayor at Meeting

Mayor Russell Scott is attending the Canadian Conference of Mayors and Municipalities in Quebec City. In his absence, Alderman Gerald Joyce is acting mayor.

Time Donated

Picton resident Josephine Beasley last night received praise from Prince Edward County warden Ross Benway for her donation of more than 1,000 hours of time in 1971 service with the St. John Ambulance Corps here.

Warden Benway presented her with a special certificate in march the achievement at a recent banquet honoring volunteer workers.

Attempted Murder Charged In Trenton Man's Stabbing

TRENTON (Staff) — A 44-year-old Bancroft area man was to appear in provincial court here this morning on a charge of attempted murder.

Scheduled to make his initial court appearance w a s Mc Kinley Spence, charged after a man was stabbed June 24 day.

At Kingston's Hotel Dieu Hospital, Rocky Warren Post, 43, of 46 Heber Street, Trenton, is listed in serious condition following an early morning stabbing incident in his own home here.

His condition "isn't critical but quite serious," said a hospital spokesman.

Police chief David Saunders reported yesterday afternoon, in the first official release of details about the case, that police were called to the Rocky Post residence, an eastside cottage, in the early morning hours. He was found suffering hesitations.

One Hotel Dieu authority indicates Post is suffering "multiple stab wounds . . . mainly to the head." He had been taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital following the stabbing, later rushed to Kingston.

Yesterday morning police had indicated they were investigating assistance in the hope of release details for several hours. The lid was lifted on the case in late afternoon but even now police say they are prepared to keep it shut until their investigation is complete.

However, Detective Sergeant Sid Vickers says more detail may be shed on the case today when Spence appears in provincial court here. Police have not disclosed the type of weapon used in the Heber St. affair.

Spence, sources say, had been visiting at the Post home.

One Week Two Weeks

City council last night decided that the week ending July 2 will be two weeks.

Official proclamations will be issued accordingly.

It will be Canada Week, June 26 - July 2, and Summer Games Week, June 24 - July 2.

Separate — but co-incidental — requests for the proclamations came from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and the Belleville Minor Sports Association.

UCS Headquarters To Be Demolished

United Community Services is being evicted from its 234 Alma St. office, the building and its neighbor at 238 John St., will be demolished by its owner, Belleville separate board of education. The property will be used as a parking lot for Belleville Collegiate.

"We've been living on borrowed time," said United Community Services' director Harlene Cooperman this morning. "If you look at the condition of the building, we're in the market."

The school board condemned the two houses beside BCI last March. Both need renovations, totalling about $13,000, to bring them into shape. It wasn't in the rental business, found sensitizing and conversion to a parking lot would cost much less. About 16 parking spaces would be provided.

The two houses were formerly the property of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board and were inherited by the separate school board in 1969.

United Community Services has occupied the 234 John St. house for some years, paying $25 a month rent. The house behind BCI is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watts.

Several services are sheltered at 234 John St. under the umbrella of UCS. Among them are Quinte Area Council, the Central Volunteer Bureau, the Belleville Social Appeal Review Board, the community counselling service, the local office of the Family Service Aid Association, the annual United Appeal campaign and the Christmas Sharing program.

Obituaries and Funerals

MAJOR ARTHUR C. OXLEY

A veteran of World War I during which he was wounded in overseas action, Major Arthur C. Oxley, 217 John St., died in Trenton Memorial Hospital Tuesday.

His death, in his 88th year, followed a long illness.

Born in Ottawa, son of the late J. MacDonald Oxley, he moved to Belleville at eight years ago from Montreal, where for many years he had been active as a Canadian National Railways maintenance-of-way engineer.

In the 1914-18 world conflict he went overseas with the 21st Battalion Canadian Engineers and was wounded in 1916.

He was a member of the Belleville Canadian Legion and of St. Andrew's and St. Thomas' Church.

Mayor Oxley is survived by his wife, the former Geraldine MacKenzie, a daughter, Mrs. David (Adele) Pilkington of Belleville; four grandchildren, and a brother, Duncan of Toronto.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, where service will take place Thursday at 2 p.m. with Rev. Peter Tee officiating. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Senior Citizen Week Plans Nearly Complete

The focal point of senior citizen week, to be celebrated Sunday, June 18 until the following Saturday, will be the unveiling of a survey conducted by the United Community Services of Belleville.

Under the directorship of Isidore Cooperman, $25,000 was spent gathering pertinent information, covering all facets of senior citizen life.

The survey was completed through the local initiatives program, making people available for 13 area people over a four-month period.

This survey will be aired Monday, June 19, in an open session with a panel of dignitaries and authorities on the subject of senior citizens.

Doris Day, a student employed by a provincial program, is working out of the office of the city recreation department, and is acting as co-ordinator of the week's activities.

She told The Intelligencer Tuesday, "we have some high hopes for the group discussions.

"If all goes well, we will be bringing in representatives from every level of government to sit on the panel. We will discuss the survey and its relevance in the community."

Recreational Secretary School has been obtained for the forum.

After the initial speeches, and comments, a question period will be formed and recess to classrooms throughout the building.

The survey is also being used in the display booths of the week.

A hobby show to be held in the armories at 1 p.m., Friday, will feature exhibits of crafts, contributed by local people.

The survey was referred to to locate hobbyists and to determine the general interest of the senior group.

A travel program has been set for Tuesday, with trips to Ohlaa Place and to O'Hara's Mill for a picnic.

While Miss Day was not able to supply complete details of the day, she did say Ontario Place was presenting a program specifically designed for the event.

If all goes well, area senior citizens will be transported to Toronto for the day, to be escorted around the science display case, and returned home that evening.

For those who do not wish to travel to Toronto, a picnic will be sponsored at O'Hara's Mill.

On Thursday, the senior citizens will throw open their doors to the public to allow visitors and to talk.

Hastings Manor, senior citizens bonnes and senior citizen centre at the harbor will all be open for public inspection.

Hobbies will be displayed.

Thursday evening bingo will also be offered to senior citizens at a reduced rate.

"We are getting down to business now," said Miss Day. "There are a few more items that have to be confirmed but all seems to be going as planned."

The theme for senior citizen week this year is Living is Ageless.

Community of 4,000 Possible

Developer Seeks Rezoning

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A residential development housing nearly 4,000 could bloom in Belleville's east end — if city hall changes ground rules for growth in the area.

That's the picture projected in a study soon to be presented city council and area planning officials by one of Belleville's major developers, John M. Parrott.

Mr. Parrott is president of Stanley Park Ltd., and the study, known as Stanley Park North Secondary Plan, involves an almost barren 290 acres, residential settlement of which would develop one of the last major vacant land areas in the city.

The problem is most of the area is zoned either for medium industry, multiple-family or rural housing — single dwellings on 10-acre lots.

The Parrott enterprise, with 96 acres, is the largest single landholding in the area — reaching west from the city limits to Herchimer Avenue and north to Station St. Also of the study is to convince municipal officials of its potential growth pattern — if current zoning ordinances were modified.

About one-third of the area would be zoned off for select industry and the new neighborhood would be served by a 12-15 store shopping centre clustered around a supermarket.

The study already has been distributed among city councillors for consideration. But they took no action when a covering letter from Mr. Parrott was on the agenda of last night's council meeting — deciding instead to await formal presentation of the document by Parrott representatives.

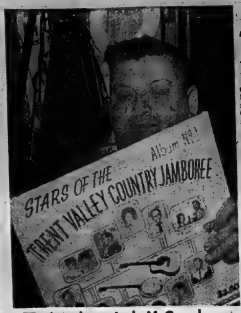
Mr. Parrott later seemed surprised council had made no move since, he said, the consulting engineers who drafted the study had followed presentation instructions as instructed.

However, he expected the consultants — Marshall, Macklin, Monaghan Ltd., of Don Mills — would be present at the next council meeting to discuss the proposal.

"I would like to get at it quite soon. But my hands are tied until council comes up with a decision on it," he said.

Mr. Parrott could give no estimate of the project's financial dimensions other than to describe it as a "major undertaking".

It would, in all probability be built fully serviced by roads, sewers and water — on demand, he said.



"The future looks very good for Belleville," added Mr. Parrott.

Statistically, the study projects four types of residential complexes with apartments dominant. They are (with units in brackets): Low-rise apartments (810); town housing (350); single family (190) and experimental detached (36).

The study also suggests a 51-acre buffer zone of light industry along the area's northern perimeter — between the Canadian National Railway yards and the housing sectors. The industrial centre would also be in the northeast zone. The proximity of Belleville Shopping Plaza renders a major commercial facility needless.

Two neighborhood parks — 2.5 acres, 4.9 acres are below accepted green belt acreage standards, the study admits. But, it says, compensation is provided that the city's Stanley Park, a 17-acre community park under development, is within the boundaries of the study area.

Reasons listed for modifying present zoning to permit increased residential usage include: severely restricted land already exists in areas "more favorably suited to" industry; industrial development in the Stanley Park buildings would draw heavy traffic through nearby built-up dwelling areas; unsatisfactory demand for housing in Belleville; service installations cannot be economically expanded by lot sales to industry.

Musicmaker: Jack McCaughen

Music's His Life

STIRLING (Staff) — The sounds of music are still a stimulant to enterprise for Jack McCaughen.

The 51-year-old musician, who launched his first band in 1935, has now retired from participation in his most recent undertaking — the spectacularly successful Trent Valley Jamboree.

But that doesn't mean he's put his vigorous talents to pasture.

Relaxing in the music-applause store he opened in 1952 in this village's main street, he now contemplates these new departures:

His own music group, playing one-night stands and a full cost-cutting recording enterprise for local entertainers.

"It's been quite a career — and we're still continuing," says Jack.

Born on a Wellman's Corners farm in nearby Rawdon township, the guitar - player formed his first group in 1935 — the Trent Valley Ramblers.

For the next 15 years — with wife Dorothy on drums — it was a band that made music around eastern Ontario, graduating to regular broadcasts on Peterborough and Belleville radio stations.

Between times, he staged various musical promotions — among them Will Carter's first introduction to the Quinte area — a show that jammed Belleville's Memorial Arena to the rafters.

When the Ramblers folded, his musical enterprise went also skyscrape — to be revitalized by chance.

In 1966, visiting Belleville Fair, he paused to listen to a local country singer broadcasting from a Radio Station CJBQ booth.

On the spot he met a longtime friend — Bellevillian Ken Stanley.

"We got talking that there should be a place for country musicians to get seen and Ken said why don't you start something," recalls Jack.

Joining forces, both men rented out the log-closed local movie house and staged the first Trent Valley Jamboree in November, 1966.

"We had 600 in the place and 500 more that couldn't get in — and the crowds have been coming ever since," says Jack.

Twice a month from September to May, the Jamboree has been a staple feature of the Quinte entertainment scene, its formula of showcasing local talent with known guest artists obviously the right one for the fans.

Its reputation has spread, and local artists appearing on the show have gone on to higher entertainment realms, Jack says.

Performances taped have been transferred to disc and have met good demand without promotion. They're even played over radio in Nashville — the home of Grand Ole Opry, the Mecca of country music.

The name contemplated for his new group is Fidlar Mills Jamboree — Fidlar Mills was Stirling's nagge before municipal incorporation.

But, his most significant contribution may be his plans for a small recording studio. As Jack sees it, there are many local entertainers playing various spots in the area who might attract more attention if they had records to spread around. But renting a recording studio can be costly. He's contemplating an operation to tape such talent in a studio he can build here, then have it transferred to 45 rpm records.

In a way, it's a local slant on a national development.

More and more Canadian albums are appearing along with U.S. products as the Canadian music business has started to jump," says Jack.

The growth seemed he mainly attributes to new broadcast regulations emphasizing Canadian talent.

"After all," says the veteran musician, "it's time Canadians got a chance."

Slowdown Requested

A city council request for slower running of CPR trains through Belleville has been sent to the railroad by the Canadian Transport Commission.

A letter from the commission was sent city council which requested the slow order on the trains following a double fatality at the Haig Road level crossing earlier this year.

Councillor Jean Smith pondered when railroad action on increased safeguards at the crossing could be expected — an issue on which she had received many calls, she said.

Fugitive Arrested

Officers of two detachments of the Ontario Provincial Police, plus the Belleville RCMP office have been involved in the arrest of a Toronto man, wanted as a fugitive from Joyceville Institute near Kingston.

At 2:15 a.m. today, Constable Richard Fenton of the Napanee detachment, O.P.P., observed a car travelling in the westbound lane of Highway 401 through Tyendinaga Township. Acting on radio information, the officer followed the car.

With assistance from Belleville detachment Constables James Cameron, Donald Bowery, E. A. Armstrong and George Briggs, the suspect vehicle was stopped west of Highway 14 on the freeway.

One of the occupants was Douglas Kaidder, 36, a sentenced to serve five years at Joyceville for break and enter with intent. He had been at large since Dec. 23. A spokesman for the Kingston detachment, OPP, told The Intelligencer it is believed he broke terms of a pass.

A second occupant of the car, a 17-year-old youth, was questioned and released.

Corporal Sam Pittman of the RCMP was called in to investigate a quantity of what has been alleged to be the drug Speed.

Kaidder remains in custody at Belleville to await transportation back to Kingston by officers from there.

Council Presses For Shoulder Work

Paved shoulders on freeways like Highway 401 in the Belleville area won't arrive immediately, Transportation and Communications Minister Gordon Carton has indicated to city council.

The reason: Costs and road-building priorities.

But Alderman Enos David objects these are "weak excuses".

In a letter to city hall Mr. Carton agrees with a recent city council resolution that paved shoulders on freeways have safety and maintenance benefits.

Considering priorities, presses provincial government policy is to pave shoulders on highways used by more than 20,000 vehicles daily.

It would be currently difficult to economically justify a change, says Mr. Carton.

"While other provincial highways remain unpaved or suffer . . . deficiencies which urgently need correction."

Ald. David, who moved the original motion, said the minister had not fully understood the suggestion, since it didn't involve concrete paving, but treatment more akin to tar mix. Such a move, he claimed would save "hundreds of fatalities" and millions in property damage. He convinced council another letter should be written Mr. Carton urging the minister to reconsider the proposal.

Koni's Ready For Adoption

Have you ever thought of adopting Koni? She is a lovable female kitten of the age of 8 months. In appearance, she has four white paws and wears a white tie down her middle. Koni has had her checkup and distemper shot and left the office proud because she checked out O.K. She is a sophisticated kitten, not as finicky as Morris. She would make a great family pet and needs much love and affection. If you would like to adopt Koni, phone the Humane Society between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. at 967-1423. This animal was sponsored by the Grade 5-6 pupils at Sir Winston Churchill School.

YMCA to Try New Program

Beginning in the month of June, the Belleville Family YMCA will start an all-out campaign to teach as many people as possible to swim and be safe in the water.

All gym and instructional programs will take a back seat and be slapped completely so that full attention can be given to poolside activities.

The June Learn to Swim Program is designed to handle all ages from just walking to adults.

A spokesman for the Y said, "We will offer 10 classes in five weeks, preparing people for the water, helping them to get over any fears they have."

The same programs will be held in July and August.

Information regarding fees and schedules can be obtained by contacting the YMCA.

In addition the Y will be the water exercises beginning the same time as the learn to swim programs.

Because the regular gym activities have been curtailed it is hoped that an interest will be taken in the pool.

Enid Rowe, aquatics director for the Y, brought the idea back from a visit to the Peterborough YMCA.

"The program should go very well in June," said Mrs. Rowe. "In fact, weather it will be nice to do exercises in the water."

It will be a trial program and if enough interest is shown, the program will be added to the regular YMCA schedule.

For the moment the idea will be tried out on women. If men show an interest in the idea, a course will be started for them as well said a spokesman for the Y.

More information as to times can be obtained by calling the YMCA at 962-9245.

OBC Students Now Eligible for Grants

Students at Ontario Business College are now eligible to receive provincial grants.

Since 1965 they have had access to Canada student loans but have been denied the award portion of the program, estimated to cost the province $31.7 million for 1972.

With entrance fees at most post - secondary institutions rising by $100, individual awards are expected to follow suit. OBC did not increase its fees this year.

The expanded awards announcement follows a six-year campaign by Mrs. D. Annetta Brown, principal of OBC in Belleville, to have private businesses college students in the program.

She has had several meetings with government officials and recently prepared a brief for the Ontario Commission on Post-secondary Education.

"The effort has been worthwhile," she said, "since it has forced the government of Ontario to take a look at the whole picture. After all a student is a student . . . regardless of the institution involved in that student's education."

Municipal Course Proposed

A municipal golf course in Belleville?

Alderman Enos David teed off on the possibility of such a project which, he told city council last night, would be a "very desirable" community asset.

Many citizens had suggested a course, which need not be "an elaborate" one, he said.

But Ald. Arthur Keegan pondered where sufficient land could be found in the city for such a project. He suggested the Quinte Exhibition fairgrounds — if its activities were moved outside Belleville some time in the future.

Parks 1972-Style

So what are we all gaining from the start of our $15 season at the provincial parks besides a sun tan?

At Presqu'ile on Saturday a cheerful if slightly harassed young lady in blue jeans and striped sweat shirt was flitting from car to car issuing tickets. Perhaps there will be a uniform for her later, like the smart one" worn by the girls at The Outlet last year.

To our dismay the parkland on either side of the road to the interior was still under water — lots of it too and the beach area seemed deserted. On to the grassy picnic area beside the lake and here cars and people, children and dogs were happily at home in the sun and — away from the breeze off the water at least — comfortably warm. No flooding either but there was one car over at the tree line which had got bogged down and a breakdown vehicle from Brighton had to haul it out.

Over to Adolphustown on Sunday and a rather startling discovery. Here the St. Lawrence Parks Commission has bulldozed away the bank that hung over the beach. In doing so they have provided a larger expanse of beach but at the same time they have eliminated the shade. It was cool in the water but baking on the beach proper. The trees that once provided shade for those on the beach, or on the grass above, as well as a pleasant sylvan setting for anyone wishing to relax and admire the view are now languishing improbably along the water's edge; true they have been replanted, but the shade is needed farther back, where swimmers will be sitting after a dip. Their only alternative will be the trees to one side of the beach and there the bugs are active.

We are not sure that this new look at Adolphustown is an improvement or not. There is more beach space but additional trees will be required for shade, as well as to restore some measure of the aesthetic quality of the tree-lined bank that was there before.

Heavy Going

Marshall McLuhan (The Medium is the Message) edits a section of The University of Toronto's journal, Graduate, under the heading of Explorations.

At the conclusion of the current offering under that heading — a series of five articles ranging on a discourse on Arabic Script to one entitled mysteriously, "The Intelligence Community and Figure Ground Awareness by Robert W. Hoke — Mr. McLuhan appends an Editor's Note, with what seems a hint of sadness: "Mr. Ken Edey tells me that in all the years that the Explorations series has appeared in the Graduate there has never been a response, pro or con, nor a comment of any kind."

Could it be that the subject matter, as reflected by the above titles, are too remote, too convoluted, too much beyond the range of interest of most. Very briefly, Mr. Hoke's "intelligence community" would seem to relate to evaluation of events in the light of history and of contemporary affairs, but some of the language, including highly technical terminology, is so involved as to be beyond the reach of the average reader. Even the supposedly higher intellect of the university trained professor will be in difficulty reading it. Mr. Hoke does come down to earth sufficiently howere to note in one lucid passage that a U.S. air force survey of strategic bombing at the end of World War II came up with the finding that it was "almost invariably ineffectual," and he suggests that the implications of this have been ignored in the planners of large - scale bombing of North Vietnam.

Other articles in the section have to do with The Structure of the Story-Telling Event, Ecology of Science, and Prologue and Epilogue — an excerpt from The Open University: Access to What?

Mr. McLuhan himself offers this teaser, as quoted by David Stansfield in his article on Arabic Script: "By the meaningless sign linked to the meaningless sound we have built the shape and meaning of Western man."

Interesting.

Relations with Socialists Weak Point

Christian Democrats Remain in Power in Italy

By JOHN HARBRON

As all the experts predicted, the results of Italy's sixth parliamentary election since the downfall of fascism are unsettling. Italy's Christian Democrats, a Liberal, Catholic party, lead the government as they have done for a quarter century.

They won the necessary majorities in the Chamber of Deputies and Senate. But they still must rebuild the a essential centre-left coalition with the Socialists, which has fallen apart in recent years.

And they must still fend off the still-strong Communists on the left and the emerging neo-Fascists on the right. Now called the Italian Social Movement, the Fascists, who are trying to escape all reference to Mussolini, did not make the gains nationally which they have been making locally in both the rural south and the industrial north.

Italy is the only Mediterranean nation, except France, which has held unbroken free elections since the war. In 1948, the Italian Communists almost toppled a struggling postwar democracy as they almost did in France the same year. That is the last Communist Party is still Europe's strongest.

And the Fascists, almost out of sight in the 1950s and early 1960s, have a strength in the 1970s they didn't anticipate.

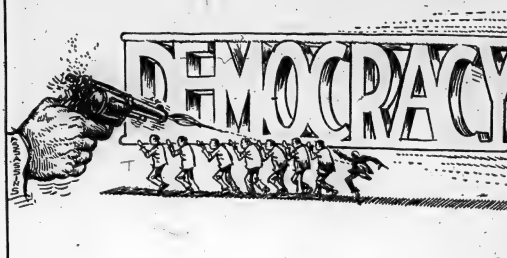
This new life is based on an ominous nostalgia for the days of Mussolini's law and order. His economic state kept Italians in industry, and arts and politics in straightjackets. The cost was a too-long dampening of Italian creativity.

It has boomed since the war, not only in industrial development but in the arts.

This amazing growth of Italian industry could be Italy's saving grace in the long run. If Italians had only their uncertain political system to rely on, they would be in serious trouble.

But the Italian formulas for industrial growth have paid off. Her industrial tycoons, operating both private and state-owned corporations, are among the most impressive in the European common Market.

The Fiat car and tractor empire is one of the world's leading multi-national corporations. It is neither American nor Japanese, but Italian. Its largest plant is the $300 million Togliatti Fiat operation on the Volga in the Soviet Union.



Named after the late leader of Italian Communism, this plant is only one of many Fiat has built or jointly owns in Western Europe and the Communist bloc. The Fiat car in Europe is more likely to be known by another name, the Seat (Spain), Zastava (Yugoslavia), Inda (the Soviet-built Fiat 124), but just plain Fiat in the Western Hemisphere.

Pirelli, the tire empire; Olivetti, business machines; Montecatini, petrochemicals; and ENI, the stateowned oil and gas corporation with service station chains reaching faroff Kenya, are all examples of Italian industrial dynamism.

In the arts, there are the great postwar Italian film makers, the film stars they have produced, and the social issues with global messages they have exposed.

Most of Italy's troubles have been breakdowns of the necessary facets of her industrial development. These are: inflationary trends unions slowing down industry, splinter parties and bad public administration deteriorating governments.

Italy must find a balance between dynamicstreme and growth. This is a tough challenge. Italy's unification, solidified only in 1870, But it is one Italians must face at the start of their second century as a modern European industrial nation.

Sixty-five students of Grades 11, 13 and 13, at St. Michael's High School, accompanied by their teachers, spent Tuesday in Ottawa visiting the seat of government as part of a project in civics. The group, conducted by Sisters Lenore, Matthew, Jovita and Therese, and Dr. F. R. Ross president of St. Michael's High School PTA left Belleville early Tuesday morning on chartered buses.

Two nurses from Belleville received high honors at the graduation of the 1952 class of Kingston General Hospital, where fifty-six nurses received their diplomas at the ceremonies held in Grant Hall, Queen's University. Donna Lorraine Ferguson, of this city, won the gold medal awarded by the KGH board of governors for highest standing in the final year. She also was awarded the prize in gynaecology given by Dr. P. A. McLeod. Shirley Hilchen, W. Moira St. and former member of the business staff of the Ontario Intelligencer won two coveted awards; the Doctor Stuart M. Polson Prize and the Canadian Nurse Award.

Avery Brundage: A Sports Legend at 84

The following is an extract from an article in the May 29 issue of Time Magazine.

Comparing the victories and defeats piled up by Avery Brundage — the embattled Chicago art collector, student of classical religions and defender of the Olympic ideal of keeping the corrupting dollar out of sports — his enemies are among the first to concede that he is amazing.

Against strong opposition in 1936, Brundage forced America's entry into the "filthy Olympics" at Berlin; in the '50s he thwarted backers of "practice time" cash payola to athletes; in 1956 he blocked moves to cancel the Olympic Games following Russia's invasion of Hungary; and four years ago at Mexico City he whipped into line national leaders who sat shaking in their hotel rooms on the Games' eve while some 30 were killed in police-student street fighting. Despite bloodshed, the ancient festival of the Greeks opened on schedule — because Brundage so willed it.

Brundage is fit, yet alert and never tougher. And, as president of the International Olympic Committee, governing competition in 130 nations, never more powerful.

"My unpopularity has gone up and down," he says. "By the time of the Summer Games in Munich next August — I may have set some new records."

For 65 years a Big Boss of U.S. and world athletics, he has passionately believed in Simonpurism, under rules laid down in 1894 by the Games' founder, Baron Pierre de Coubertin. Rule one: nobody gets paid a dime, beyond minor expenses. While trying to enforce this, with little luck, Brundage lives a multi-millionaire's life. He made his money in construction, mortgages and hotels — enough to give a San Francisco museum a very fancy ago an estimated $20 million in Oriental antique art. Resenting the athletes call him "Avery Bondage" or Slavery Avery."

One ex-Olympic skier, Sue Chaffee, storms, "Brundage is a bloody phony who wants to keep everyone else poor." Disagreeing with her, and many others, U.S. Congressman Bob Mathias, a two-time Olympic champion, says emotionally, "Look, the Olympics would not exist if they were not above the chiseling and dollar-chasing in sports generally. Avery is too hard on people! It has mostly been him who has upheld the ideals and kept these Games alive."

All future brickbats, of course, will hit Brundage first. One wonders — why does he continue in such an unhappy job?

Doubtless the answer begins with a boyhood dedication to muscular (and mental) expression. Born in Detroit to Charles and Amelia Brundage, he, along with his mother and sisters, was left unsupported when the father vanished. "I was about 8 then and I never saw him again," says Brundage briefly. Aunts and uncles raised Avery, who became phenomenal in several ways.

An honor student, school editor, debater and weight-tosser, he was United States All-Around (decathlon) champ three times and a 1912 Olympic Games competitor. Nearsighted (he has worn glasses since he was 10), he lost the best, 7-1 rate Ban alongside Jim Thorpe as one of our two greatest all-time track men," wrote Dan Ferris, the veteran AAU executive.

Dr. Potter's Stand on Health Insurance

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter has taken a position against deterrents in health insurance.

Dr. Potter told the Ontario Medical Association that it wouldn't be practical to require subscribers to make some payment whenever they were attended to by a doctor.

In this writer's opinion, the health minister would have been thinking mainly in terms of political practicality!

The OMA had suggested that deterrents should be considered. And there is no doubt there would be a lot in their favor.

At the time that public health insurance was first being weighed in the province some study was made of them. It was shown they could mean savings of many millions in the cost of any plan.

But the government at that time, the Frost administration which put in hospital insurance, for first public program, decided against them.

It was assumed then the main ground was political: that the government knew the opposition would claim it was being niggardly and out of it could possibly build up an emotional issue for some appeal.

Later John Robarts also discarded deterrents when he was stalling medical insurance and it was accepted that he did so because of the same reasoning.

It is to be taken for granted that, Dr. Potter is following along.

It would be in character for the health minister to favor deterrents. He was strongly against public health insurance when first proposed.

But he would know that the programs having been built up without them, it could be political suicide for a government to go back to bring them in.

This is highly unfortunate. On the realities, the deterrent principle is good. The lack of it actually will tend to hold back expansion of public health care in the province.

There is right now for example, considerable demand and need for programs in dental care and drugs.

It is conceded that the public is not getting the dental care it should have, because of cost. And the cost of drugs in some cases can approach disaster.

Lack of money is blocking even serious consideration of entering these fields. Yet a deterrent approach to the present health programs would provide some money, perhaps even enough to take care of them.

Empire Topic of TV Series

BBC London Letter

Numerous races and creeds will parade from the four corners of the world once had one thing in common — they belonged to the biggest empire the world has seen. ..a vast imperial estate covering a quarter of the earth's surface. It was, of course, the British Empire.

In a series of 13 programs BBC television has brought to the screen a few of the glorious triumphs and terrible disasters, the joys and sorrows of Empire. The series opens with Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897, Victoria herself is part of the Jubilee celebrations, marching representative forces from every country in the Empire.

In later programs we see the establishment of the West Indies, its plantations and slave trade helping to bring prosperity to the ports of Britain; the founding of the Indian Empire, the jewel in the British Imperial Crown but also a subcontinent ridden at times by misery and massacre; Canada, its capital Ottawa founded on a lumber camp, emerging as the first self-governing Dominion; the penetration into the great continent of Africa and the abolishment of the slave trade, in the East Britain controlled the China Seas, and established the great bastions of Hong Kong and Singapore. Australia, claimed by Captain Cook for the Empire a century before, had gold as a spur for the settlers of the mid-1800's in Victoria, and the Maori soon at peace with the settlers: South Africa, with the simmering conflict between Britain and the Boers erupting in two wars.

The series circles the globe covering the two world wars of this century, leading to the subsequent inevitable decline in Britain's economic and military influence when Empire dissolved into Commonwealth, into history.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 24, 1972 ..

Victoria Day may first observed 79 years ago today — in 1902 — 15 months after the death of the old queen.

The holiday was observed on May 24, Victoria's birthday, until 1952 when it was changed to the first Monday preceding May 25.

1962—Alan Carpenter made an orbital flight for the United States.

1959—John Foster Dulles died at 71 in Washington.

1935—A bill was passed establishing a national broadcasting system for Canada.

1881—The excursion steamboat Victoria sank in the Thames near London, Ont., with a loss of 200 lives.

1880—The Queen's Plate was run for the first time.

Money Issue Still Balks Baseball

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

The strike that delayed the opening of the major - league baseball season has left some of the money issues unresolved. The 26 teams are playing now, having postponed until after the World Series the final negotiations on pension benefits, the major issue in the strike.

By the time they get to talking again, five months or more from now, there may be less at issue to argue about. Paid attendance so far is down 10% when compared with the same number of playing dates last year. That represents roughly $1 million of revenue that the clubs have lost so far.

Apologists for the professional sport say hopefully that when good baseball weather comes, in June, attendance will pick up. They talk about the competition for attention now being given by final playoffs in winter sports like hockey and basketball.

This looks like whistling against the wind. The weather for the opening weeks of the season was in fact more favorable for the opening weeks of last year, because last year the opening was earlier.

The net result of the strike appears to have been to turn fans away. While the strike lasted the players were busy try ng to persuade the fans they were greedy for money, while the owners sought publicity for the notion that the players were greedy.

They were too successful for their own good. The fans have believed both sides, come to the conclusion that greed for money is in fact a ruling factor in the so-called sport and decided to look elsewhere for entertainment.

The strike knocked much of the tinsel glitter off the heroes of the diamond. Clubs and players that let the sport get bogged down in squabbles over money cease to be heroes to small boys or to the small-boy residue that can be found in grown men.

The strike has punctured the myth that baseball is a national sport, players are personalities of heroic dimensions.

Even Your Best Friend.....?

Messages For Men Only: How can a girl tell a boy he needs a trip to the cleaners? Even his mother gets the I'm-no-nasty routine when she hopefully suggests a clean-up.

Boys, you think it's any fun for your girl to get dolled up in her best new mini-length only to find herself out with a boy who needs a bath, or a shower, or a haircut — or all three?

If you've been getting the run-around and even your best friend won't tell you why, take a hint from me. Put the bath-tub to the use it was meant for, no matter how it hurts. Buy yourself a clothes brush.

Prove to the girls — and to yourself — that you haven't any grudge against grooming.

Dear Doris: I read an article in Chatelaine about "Victim Wives" and found out that's me.

I'm happy sometimes; but still I'm depressed about my situation. I realize my husband works darn hard and he needs peace; but the kids — I yell and scream a lot at them and then I sit down and cry about it. How are my little boy and girl going to grow up stable with a mother like me? My mother yelled a lot at me.

I feel condemned to this life. I like this small town where we live in a dumpy, cheap house and I like the wide open spaces because I found myself so lost in the city.

How don't tell me to get out and see people because I don't like people. What is it that makes us a marriage happy? I give my husband moral support, feed him, he supports me and makes love to me. — Depressed at Twenty.

Dear Depressed: Yes, I know. Probably that article made a lot of wives feel like victims. But did you notice that the author said some people are determined to extract only the most self-destructive elements from what could be a happy life? In other words, the "Victim Wife" is causing her own troubles.

Think about things like this: Being a mother is an important career. Brag about your children instead of nagging at them. Praise them when they manage to take a step they haven't taken before in growing up.

If you make a study of it, child psychology could give you something to live for. Kindergarten teachers, for instance, can always spot the child who has had the advantage of a mother's loving encouragement.

You are discovering that marriage is something which doesn't stay romantic and perfect all by itself. You have to find some interest. Shilliving the releases your frustrations and helps you to develop some balance between yelling and laughing and crying. In short, you need to grow up.

Dear Doris: Enclosed are words to "Are You Nice?". This is a very old song and after a lot of deep thought, these were the only verses I could come up with. At on time our family sang a lot of these older songs. — Nearly Forgotten.

Dear Nearly: Memory is a wonderful thing, when you think of the things you can probe for and finally come up with!

Your version has been passed on to "Let's Have Clean Fun." From where I sit, it contains a heap of the fun which was enjoyed around the piano in the early 1[illegible] years ago. In times when it was not so scary just to sit back and let someone else — on a television screen perhaps — entertain you.

Eggs Supply Added Nutrition

By ALICE DENHOFF

Delicious, nutritious, light, yet satisfying, as good to look at as it is good to eat—that's a very special molded salad. A dish that meets all these qualifications is this attractive:

HARLEQUIN EGG MOLD

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
¾ cup hot water
¾ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon horseradish (labelled "fresh grated" or cream style")
½ teaspoon salt
3 to 6 drops Tabasco
1 hard-cooked egg (cut in eighth lengthwise)
3 hard cooked eggs
½ cup sliced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
2 tablespoons diced pimento
2 tablespoons diced ripe olives
Salad greens
Tomato quarters, olives and green onions, as desired.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Using rotary beater, blend in sour cream, mayonnaise, lemon juice, horseradish, salt, Tabasco. Chill until partially set. Arrange egg wedges spoke-fashion in bottom of five-cup mould.

Chop additional five hard-cooked eggs, reserving some sections, keeping as whole and centre slices. Fold chopped eggs and five from centre into mayonnaise and celery, green pepper, pimento, olives into the partially set gelatin mixture. Carefully and combine with salt, salad spoon in enough to cover design dressing. Refrigerate. Serves four. In bottom of mould, then pour in and celery, remaining gently with two forks. Garnish with remaining mixture.

Chill until firm. Unmould on served egg slices, tomato crisp, salad greens and garnish wedges. Serves four. with reserved egg slices, tomato wedges, olives and onions. Serves six to eight with a delightful main dish, perfect for a party.

Good, too, is:

EGG AND GRAPEFRUIT SALAD

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cup diced celery
1 avocado, diced
2 large grapefruit
6 hard-cooked eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or French dressing

BEANY EGG SALAD

6 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped
1 (1 pound) can pork and beans
½ cup chopped green onions, including tops
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 cooked slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
¼ cup minced parsley

Drain beans. Add remaining ingredients; toss lightly. Serve and avocado. Refrigerate while on chilled salad greens. Makes preparing other ingredients six portions of a hearty salad.

NO. It is good for "fits." College training—or any organized system of "education in depth"—is the best means devised to teach most people how to enjoy personal refinement. For some, college brings professional development or technological skills. Others may go to college solely to enrich their "inner self." They may learn they can cope with their drives and the world around them though they don't yearn to acquire possessions and status.

Are self-dispensers horribly humble?

NOT as a rule. Oh, there are a few people who honestly believe they shouldn't even be considered for a proposed honor, award or recognition of some sort. Usually, though, when someone dispenses praise himself, it is a case of he protesteth too much. Take a girl who wins a beauty contest and says, "I never thought the judges would pick me; I'm just a little too fat." All she wants is reassurance that everyone agrees with the contest judges.

Does every home need a woman's touch?

YES; and it doesn't matter how elegantly furnished and well maintained a bachelor's home is. Any doubters can question the husbands after couples have been entertained in a male-only residence. They will report their wives' words and they will all say the same thing: "What a lovely home Jim (or Bob, or Harry) has. It's too bad, but there is only one thing that place lacks (you guessed it), it's a woman's touch."

Cheryl Johnston, left, Gail Sender and Janet Kerr from the Sandra Saunder's Modelling Academy, Belleville and Kingston branches discuss the previous judging. Elsa Jenkins and Pearl Corcoran, fashion co-ordinators for the fashion shows to be seen at the CNE this summer selected these models for the shows. Final choice was Cheryl Johnston who will appear in these shows in the Women's Division along with other models from the Toronto area modelling agencies.

Local Model Will Appear at CNE

Miss Cheryl Johnston of the Sandra Saunders' modelling academy here, has been chosen to model fashions at the CNE from August 16 to Sept. 4.

Recently Mrs. Elsa Jenkins, CNE fashion show co-ordinator and Mrs. Pearl Corcoran were in the city at which time they judged 10 models from the academy three of which were selected. These were Gail Sender of Kingston, Janet Kerr, Belleville and the final selection, Cheryl Johnston.

"When selecting our models we like to have a nice fresh look for the fashions, and the models have to have a feeling about the product they wear. There are a lot of fantastic new fabrics and there is the air leg and shoe look to be seen at these fashion shows," remarked Mrs. Jenkins.

There will be 12 shows a day at the Queen Elizabeth Building and every evening, following the last fashion show, there will be a musical, Guys and Dolls.

Mrs. Corcoran and Mrs. Jenkins also visited Joel H. Mazer, owner of a jewellery plant in Belleville. Mr. Mazer, the only Canadian jeweller in Canada will provide all the jewellery accessories for these fashion shows.

Mrs. Elsa Jenkins, who is the manager of the Women's Division of the CNE commented: "I feel this will be the most exciting exhibition ever and there will be more items on exhibit." A home furnishings display in 15 rooms and a home making clinic are a few of the previews to be seen in the Women's Division this summer in The Better Living Centre.

It is estimated that three-and-one-half million people attend the CNE each year and two million visit the women's centre which will include these fashion shows in which Cheryl will model.

Bay of Quinte NSA Elects Officers

The National Secretaries Association, Bay of Quinte Chapter met at the Hotel Quinte in Belleville and Acting president Mrs. Joan Newman, presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Irin Downing read a letter received from the new 'Boss of the Year, Gerry Wishart, expressing his appreciation in being chosen to represent all bosses for the coming year. He has been a strong supporter of N.S.A. since the inception of the Bay of Quinte Chapter. He emphasized once again the importance of teamwork between a boss and his secretary.

The Bay of Quinte Chapter will be represented by Miss Marjory Cross at the Canadian Division annual meeting at the Fort Garry Hotel in Winnipeg from May 19 to 21.

A decision was made to move the regular meetings to the Four Seasons Hotel for the 1972-3 year, and to call the meetings at 6.30 p.m.

It was announced that Miss Heidi Fobry had been selected as Miss F.S.A. for Canada. Miss Fobry is from the Kitchener-Waterloo area and will represent all clerical secretarial association members for the coming year. It is hoped that the Quinte area chapter will be able to introduce her at a Provincial meeting.

The June meeting of the chapter will be held at the Redwood Motor Hotel in Trenton.

Correspondence was received from the Watertown, N.Y. members who had attended the seminar in April, expressing their appreciation for the welcome they had received. They look forward to being able to welcome Canadian members to their area and have discussed a "special meeting" in July for the Bay of Quinte Chapter members to attend.

Mrs. Newman asked that members give consideration to attending the International meeting in July to be held in Chicago, Ill.

Annual committee reports were presented.

Nominating committee chairman, Mrs. Sherry Meldrum, conducted the election of officers for the 1972-3 year and the results were as follows: president, Miss Marjory Cross; vice-president, Mrs. Joan Newman; recording secretary, Mrs. Jeanette Hart; corresponding secretary, Miss Bonnie Lea Burley and treasurer, Mrs. Marlene Phillips.

Ann Landers

Scientific Evidence Favors No Bra

Dear Ann Landers: As a practicing radiologist I take exception to your statement (which is also the position of some physicians) that proper support for the breasts (a good brassiere) will minimize sagging.

During the past 40 years most American women, starting at the shoot age 12, have worn bras. If you succeed, please let me know.

They are in an upright position. Some women even sleep in brassieres. This practice stems from the belief that the female hyved figure is more attractive if the bosom is elevated, pointed outward, separated and so on.

It boils down to a matter of appearance rather than health, I personally prefer the natural, unsupported look to the elevated, fixed look that resembles store mannequin.

Physicians know that body tissue tends to atrophy and lose strength when supported and immobilized. It may be that the immobilization of the breasts and the pressure from a brassiere can reduce blood supply, tend to cause atrophy, and create more than ordinary sagging. Scientific evidence actually favors no bra.

To learn definitely whether brassieres reduce or increase sagging would require controlled studies. One would need to get volunteers who would be willing to wear a bra on one breast only for a period of several years.

Dear MD: Sincere and dedicated people have done many things in the interest of scientific research but I suspect you'll have a tough time recruiting volunteers for this project. If you succeed, please let me know.

Dear Ann: My husband and I live in a nice apartment. A newlywed couple moved in across the hall. I invited the young woman in for coffee the second morning. She has been here every day since, for at least three hours.

Now it has got to the point where she expects me to be her marriage counselor. Whenever she and her husband have a fight she wants me to tell her what to do. I am sick of it.

I have tried everything from removing the welcome mat outside our door to buying a plaque for the kitchen which reads, "Love your neighbor but don't wear out your welcome." She doesn't get the idea.

Don't suggest that I come right out and tell her to cool it. She's a nice person and I don't want to hurt her feelings. Help me, please — Desperate in Grand Rapids

Dear D. is G.R.: I am continually bemused by the thousands of people who think they have an obligation to hold open house for anybody who has spare time and knows how to lean on a doorbell.

The best way to prevent a neighbor from becoming a drop-per-iner is by dropping out yourself. The first time someone drops in, let her know you are busy or on your way out and ask her to please call first next time. As for the existing barnacle, if you don't want to tell her flat-out that she has made a pest of herself, don't answer the doorbell. (A one-way see-through peephole costs seven dollars.)

Dear Ann Landers: My next-door neighbor disciplines her young children by grabbing them by the hair and pulling until they promise to behave. Won't this result in baldness? — Upset

Dear Upset: Probably not but it might result in something worse, such as hostile kids who, when they grow up, will want to kill someone else's hair to make them "behave."

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Green, Belleville are pleased to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Wendy Marie to Mr. Donald Keith Weese, Selby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weese, Selby. The wedding will take place on June 24 at 2 o'clock in Christ Church, Belleville.

* * *

Previous to her recent marriage Mrs. Harry Tuchmayer, (nee Jackie Cook) was honored at a shower given by Mrs. Arthur Quickert in Trenton with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Armin Quickert of Belleville as co-hostess. Another was given by the nurses of the Montreal Neurological Hospital at the home of Miss Frances. A cocktail party was held at the home of Mrs. Bob Butcher, Belleville.

The Frankford Girls hockey team of which the bride was a member held a shower for her at the home of Mrs. June Sutton.

Mr. Mrs. Harry Tuchmayer, Rabbi Stern

Temple Emanu El, Westmount, Montreal, P.Q., was the setting for the recent wedding ceremony when Jacqueline Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil (Sam) Cook, Belleville, was united in marriage to Harry Tuchmayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Tuchmayer, also of Belleville. Rabbi Dr. I. Stern officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by Mr. McLaren.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of imported Swiss embroidered lace with the bodice featuring long full sleeves with deep cuffs edged with ruffles and the high neckline also edged with ruffles. The Empire waistline was accented with a velvet belt. Her headpiece consisting of lily-of-the-valley encrusted with pearls was caught to a short shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of roses, shasta daisies and baby's breath.

The bride's only attendant was her sister Mrs. Wanda Butcher who wore a gown of deep pink polyester crepe with bands of pearls around the neckline and sleeves. A matching pink bow in her hair complemented her gown.

Brode Featherstone of Toronto attended the bridegroom, while the usher was Kirk Reid.

A reception including cocktails and dinner was held in L'Etude Room at Chateau Champlain, where the bride's mother greeted the guests, wearing a pale green pure silk dress with matching coat and a corsage of miniature yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was wearing a long sleeved silk chiffon dress in pink and blue shades with sleeveless ruffled matching coat and a corsage of miniature pink rosebuds.

For the honeymoon trip to northern parts of New York State, the bride donned a dark beige suit of midi skirt and short jacket, wide brimmed straw hat with matching beige shoes and bag.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuchmayer will reside at 34 Leith Hill Rd., Apt. 711, Willowdale.

Fall Collection Shows The Chemise Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Oscar de la Renta's fall collection showing Wednesday featured the chemise look.

The designer brought out a number of full, unsashed chemises, smock dresses in flowered satin chiffons.

"The important thing about the 1972 silhouette will be its volume, not bulk but looseness controlled," he said.

His colorful caftans had volume, too. One billowed out to show a huge sequined butterfly, the theme of the collection, which is priced at $225 to $3,000.

His day clothes included red, green and blue plaid coats—the chemise is grey flannel—and the monotone look done best in a beige quilted jacket, sweater and suede pants.

At Geoffrey Beene, however, the clothes took on a quiet, more sculptured look.

The strongest shape in this strong collection was the harness jumper. It's worn with white-ribbed sweaters and head-hugging caps.

"I was very interested in the sweater look, showing the sweater to the maximum degree," said Beene following the show.

He took this new jumper idea straight through—from grey flannel jumpsuits to silk surah evening dresses.

For Hasty-P veterans, annual inspection of 2838 Regimental Cadet Corps by Lt.-Col. The Lord Tweedsmuir, OBE, CD, at 2 p.m. in the Belleville Armoury. Receptions in the messes after the parade when Lord Tweedsmuir wishes to meet as many of his old comrades as possible who served with the Regiment during World War II.

On Wednesday, May 24 the president is hoping for a good turnout for the annual inspection of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit sponsored 608 Squadron, RCACC when he will present trophies to outstanding cadets. The Ladies' Auxiliary will provide refreshments for the cadets, their parents and guests. Inspection starts at 8 p.m. Please be seated before the ceremonies start.

The club has been notified of some further awards from the Brockville Branch of the Pipers and Pipe Bands of Ontario held in Kingston. Pipe Major Dugal McCaskey, Fred Carmichael and Don Anderson came first in the pipe trio. Fred Carmichael and Don Anderson, 2nd in pipe duets. Fred Carmichael, 2nd in marches and also in the Strathoe Reel. Young Fred is a son of Fred and a grandson of big Red Carmichael, both members of Unit 231 and the lad has promise of being one of the finest pipers in this district.

In the sports line winners in the euchre tournament were ladies 1st, June Newlands, 2nd Alice Storms. Low, Anna Feeney.

Men: 1st Alan Storms: 2nd Dave Feeney, low Ken Newlands and Alan Storms, lone hand. Come and join in the fun.

Sat. Darts: 1st doubles: Winners, Dick Lynch and Fred Telford: runners up, Tom Gross and Bob Green. 2nd doubles: Winners, Hank Boyle and Dick Lynch. Runners up: Dick Burns and Jim Woodcock. 3rd Doubles: Winners, Dave Feeney and Russ Garvin. Runners Up: Dick Burns and Cash Mahaffy.

The members deeply regret the passing of a young comrade, John Lucciola and all extend sincere condolences to his bereaved family. Comrades in the Belleville General Hospital are A. Adams, 484, H. Smale, 450, E. Brockhurst, 312 and Bob Burke Intensive Care. No visitors.

Niagara Raft Rides Proposed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Six men rode two large rubber rafts through the boiling rapids of the Niagara River Tuesday in a test of what they hope will become a commercial enterprise.

The crews launched their 22-foot-long rafts from a pier in the river gorge just downstream from the falls.

As the first raft entered the rapids, it completely disappeared for a few moments, Hundreds of spectators lining the top of the gorge gasped.

But the raft soon reappeared and both crafts continued their tumbling ride through the rapids and into the Whirlpool area on downstream.

Powered by 25-horsepower outboard motors, the rafts explored the whirlpool waters before heading downstream.

The leaders of the venture are three young men who have operated rafts on voyages through the Colorado River rapids.

If things work out, they plan offering rides to tourist starting in July. Each craft can hold 25 persons, strapped in by a criss-cross webbing of ropes.

Air Bag Fails

DETROIT (AP) — A demonstration supposedly designed to show the life-saving potential of air bags in automobile crashes fizzled Tuesday. The air bag failed to fire.

The demonstration was a joint venture of the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council, Wayne State University and an insurance company.

MARGARET POWELL'S LONDON SEASON by Margaret Powell

Mrs. Powell's new book is a hilarious account of her progress through the London season. From the moment she gate - crashes Queen Charlotte's Ball in a psychedelic dress, it is clear the London season will never be the same again. Whether picture-gazing at the Royal Academy, lunching at Simpson's, gracing the enclosure at Ascot or guffawing at a deb's discotheque, Margaret Powell is — simply Margaret Powell.

PORTRAIT OF OXFORD by Hal Cheetham

In many ways the story of Oxford is the story of England. Bypassed by the first Industrial Revolution, this "little city of learning and laughter" has been well and truly caught up in the second. Yet in its heart and at its core, it still remains the university town of old. Modern life flows around, but at its centre, the search for truth still goes on.

PORTRAIT OF THE FEN COUNTRY by Edward Storey

This book invites you to spend a year in the Fens, getting to know the landscape, the seasons, the people and places that make this corner of England a unique part of the British Isles. The Fen country is not a county but a mixture of eccentricities. Ignoring the county boundaries, it would be truer to say that it is its own kingdom — a kingdom of mists and miraculous skies, of legends, history, characters and towns.

THE DRINKING MAN by David C. McClelland

Because excessive drinking is now the largest national health problem affecting nearly nine million adults, the authors of course examines this behavior. However, the scope of their investigation is much wider. They are concerned with explaining the motivations for all types of drinking behavior, not solely the extreme forms.

COME INTO MY WORLD by Buster Lloyd - Jones

Now confined to a wheel-chair, the author of The Animals Came in One by One, continues to recall incidents from his career as the most sought-after veterinary surgeon in Britain, this time describing people behind the animals he has cured from a galaxy of stars of stage and screen, from ordinary people to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

THE LAST WHOLE EARTH CATALOG by Stewart Brand, ed.

What is it all about? The Whole Earth Catalog is a sort of survival kit of ideas, tools, and techniques for innovating or implementing change in your head or your environment. It is a marvellous how-to-do-it, where-to-get-it manual. Listing books, people, places, ideas, and books within their unique classifications: Whole Systems; Shelter and Land Use; Community Communications; Industry and Craft; and Learning. It's a browser's paradise, bringing together such items as Tarot cards and log cabins, home-made digital computers, and autoharps.

Layoffs To Affect Oakville

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Tuesday that if the Ford Motor Company is forced to halt production because of a failure to meet United States pollution standards, it won't be practical for Ford of Canada to maintain employees for the Canadian market.

In the Commons Tuesday, Ed Broadbent (NDP — Oshawa-Whitby) asked Mr. Pepin to get assurances from the company that in the event of a production halt, it will continue to employ the numbers of workers who would be involved in producing cars for the Canadian market.

In view of the integrated operations, said the minister, he was told this would not be practical.

Lewis Asks PM To Refuse Bell Rate Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat Leader Dav d Lewis asked the government Tuesday in order to resist a recent rate increase granted to Bell Canada by the Canadian Transport Commission.

Prime Minister Trudeau said he will discuss the matter with the appropriate minister, after Mr. Lewis referred to "further gouging" by Bell.

Mr. Trudeau said the rate increase had not been discussed by cabinet.

Bon Voyage Parties Banned

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Cunard Lines told Tuesday of the cloak-and-dagger dealings with the extortionist who threatened to blow up the Queen Elizabeth 2 last week.

Richard B. Patton, Cunard North American president, admitted that the company's vice president in charge of finance and administration drove last Wednesday night to upstate New York to leave a black canvas bag alongside a rural road. Patton did not specify that the bag contained the $250,000 demanded by the anonymous caller.

Patton also told a news conference that because of last week's telephone bomb threat strict security precautions would go into effect on Cunard and Italian Line ships.

"Effective immediately, we will discontinue the practice of having visitors and bon voyage parties aboard our ships. We also have increased our security manpower and techniques in other ways."

Man Set Fire to Court House

KITCHENER (CP) — County Court Judge David S. Charlton Tuesday sentenced Joseph Frank Sikosi, 42, of Kitchener to six years in penitentiary for setting fire to the county court house Sept. 14, 1970.

Sikosi, charged with arson, said he poured gasoline on the floor outside a legal aid office and ignited it to protest treatment he had received from the legal aid office. He had been refused legal aid to deal with a non-criminal matter.

The fire caused an estimated $7,000 damage.

Informer Returns to U.S. to Face Music

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peralng Gervais, the United States government informer who said he helped frame New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison on gambling charges, crossed back into the U.S. Tuesday, saying he was "going back to face whatever I have to face."

In an interview before his departure, Mr. Gervais repeated his charge that he was forced to "entrap Garrison after calculated harassment by the U.S. justice department."

He also said that the U.S. and Canadian governments worked together in smoothing his entry into Canada last July and getting him a "fake" job with General Motors of Canada Ltd.

Gervais did say, that while in Canada he has held a "completely honey job" as field traffic manager for General Mills with a salary of $18,000 a year. He also said he received $4,000 a year tax-free from the U.S. government.

He said he got the job because the justice department "dictated" to GM in Detroit that he should have it, "otherwise GM would have had trouble dictated to Ottawa."

Canadian Olympic Association Inaugurates 'Oscar' Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first Olympic Torch medals will be presented tonight by the Canadian Olympic Association.

About 30 Canadian gold medalists arrived Tuesday for Canada's sports oscars at the Queen of Hollywood.

"We thought it would be most appropriate for our first awards to be the gold medalists who have done so much for sport in Canada," said William H. Cox, association chairman.

The cast aluminum awards will be presented to the outstanding Canadian teams and individuals at summer and winter Olympics and to the outstanding performer over-all.

Heading the list of gold medalists are skiers Nancy Greene Raine of Burnaby, B.C., and Anne Heggtveit Hamilton of Montreal. Skater Barbara Ann Scott, King of Chicago who shot to be eldorado.

Other team medalists include: Florence, Bell Myrtle Cook McGowan and Ethel Smith, all of Montreal, the 1928 track and field relay winners; D. Anakin, Vic Emery and Peter Kirby all from Montreal and John Ecroyd of Los Angeles, the 1964 bobsledding medalists; Jim Day, Jim Elder and Tom Gayford all from Toronto, 1968 equestrian winners; Barbara Wagner Gregan of Olympia Valley, Cal. and Robert Paul of Los Angeles, 1968 figure skating winners.

Representatives from Canadian hockey teams that have won gold medals include: Fred Frederickson from the 1928 Winnipeg Falcons; J. Cameron of the 1934 Toronto Grapllies; Sen. J. Sullivan of the 1224 University of Toronto Grads; W. Cockburn representing the 1928 Winnipeg champions; G. Mara of the 1948 RCAF Flyers and W. Dawe of the 1952 Edmonton Mercurys.

In the rowing gold medel category, Don Arnold of Brantford, Walter D'Hoz, of Seattle, Lorne Loomes of Victoria and Archie McKinnon of Toronto will represent the 1956 teams. Roger Jackson of Ottawa and George Hungerford of Seattle represent the 1964 team.

Dr. G. H. Campbell of Orangeville, Ont., will represent the 1908 Canadian lacrosse gold medel winners.

Individual medalists attending the event include: Dr. G. Gervais of Saskatoon, 1953 decathlon winner; Horace Gwynne of Toronto, 1932 boxing; George Hodgson of Montreal, 1912 swimming; Dune McNaughton, 1922 track and field; Percy Williams, 1928 track and field; Ethel Catherwood Mitchell, 1928 high jump; Gerald Ouellette, 1956 shooting and Bert Schneider of Montreal, 1920 boxing.

Medalists not represented are the 1904 Galt football club and the 1904 Winnipeg Shamrock lacrosse club.

Award winners have been selected by a national poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Lonborg Showing Signs Of Regaining Old Form

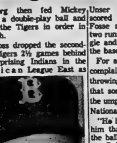
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Lonborg, who won his first victory of 1972 last week, blanked Detroit Tigers 3-0 Tuesday night on four singles and now has a 2-1 record and a sterling 1.31 earned-run average.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland Indians Gaylord Perry tamed New York Yankees on four singles by an identical 3-0 score, Chicago White Sox edged Texas Rangers 2-1, Boston Red Sox nipped Baltimore Orioles 6-5 in 10 innings and Oakland Athletics shaded California Angels 3-2. Minnesota and Kansas City were rained out.

It has been a long road back for Lonborg, who pitched the Red Sox to the pennant in 1967 with a 22-9 record and then won two more games in the World Series, including a one-hitter. The following winter, he wrecked a knee in a much-publicized skiing accident and then became an aggravating series of arm problems.

Over the next four seasons, which included two trips to the minors, his record with Boston was 27-28 and he was traded to the Brewers in a 15-player swap last winter. His first 1972 triumph came last week—over the Red Sox.



"It's a matter of relaxing and having confidence in myself. I feel I'm getting more ahold of it. I had it at the end of last year when I won three in a row for the Red Sox and that's why I was surprised to be traded."

Lonborg was locked in a scoreless duel with Detroit's Joe Coleman until the seventh, when George Scott singled and Tim Briggs homered. Billy Conigliaro doubled and Mike Andrews singled for the final run in the eighth.

Lonborg was in trouble only twice. In the second, he got Coleman on a grounder with two runners aboard and then kept the Tigers hitless until the eighth, when Eddie Brinkman led off with an infield single and Dick McAuliffe drew a one-out walk.

Lonborg then fed Mickey Stanley a double-play ball and retired the Tigers in order in the ninth.

The loss dropped the second-place Tigers 3½ games behind the surprising Indians in the American League East as

JIM LONBORG

Perry, 3-2 shut out the Yankees and joined Detroit's Mickey Lolich as league's an eight-game winner. It was his sixth straight.

The tall right-hander also left off the eighth inning with a double off Mel Stottlemyre. Ignoring a three-run uprising that snapped a scoreless tie, Del Unser sacrificed and Perry scored on a wild pitch. Ray Fosse singled home the other two runs after Eddie Leon's single and a pair of walks loaded the bases.

For a change, there were no complaints that Perry was throwing a spitball, a charge that sometimes drove him and the umpires to distraction in the National League.

"He has a lot more going for him than whatever he does to the ball," said New York skipper Ralph Houk. "He has great stuff, positions the ball well and doesn't make too many mistakes. He doesn't have to throw anything illegal."

The White Sox maintained their half-game lead over Oakland in the American League West, scoring two runs in the first inning on Pat Kelly's bunt single, Carlos May's double and Bill Melton's single to nip Texas. Don Mincher homered for the Rangers' run in the last of the first.

Stan Bahnsen, 6-4, went 7 2-3 innings for Chicago before giving way to Terry Forster and then Steve Kealey. The Rangers had the potential tying run on deck down at the plate to end the game when Leroy Randle tried to score from second on Larry Bittner's infield hit behind the second base bag. Mike Andrews' throw to Ed Herrmann nailed Randle.

Foli Sits Out Three

MONTREAL (CP) — Shortstop Tim Foli of Montreal Expos has been suspended by the National League for three games as the result of an altercation with umpire Dick Stello in the second game of last Sunday's doubleheader in Pittsburgh against the Pirates.

Foli's altercation with Stello followed a third-strike call in the sixth inning of a game the Expos lost 5-3 to the Pirates. Foli was ejected from the game after strenuously arguing the umpire's decision.

Mets Lose First in 12

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It's a loss—but not the end of the world." That McGraw of New York Mets shrugged.

"The law of averages didn't get me. They got me."

They were Chicago Cubs, and they got McGraw for a run in the eighth inning. That snapped a tie, giving the Cubs a 2-1 victory, and snapped the Mets back to reality.

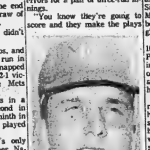
It was their first loss in a dozen games, their second in the last 16 and only the ninth in the 33 games they've played this season.

It was also Tuesday's only afternoon game. In other National League action, Pittsburgh Pirates blitzed St. Louis Cardinals 6-2, Montreal Expos flipped Philadelphia Phillies 6-2, Atlanta Braves edged Cincinnati Reds 2-1, Los Angeles Dodgers topped San Francisco Giants 8-5, and in a twi-night doubleheader, Houston Astros swept San Diego Padres 7-0 and 2-1.

The Cubs nicked New York starter Gary Gentry for a run in the fourth inning on a walk and singles by Paul Popovich and Ken Rudolph but the Mets, unable to handle Ferguson Jenkins' pitching for six innings, finally tied it in the seventh on a walk and singles by Tommie Agee and Rusty Staub.

Then came the eighth. Carmen Fanzone—started the winning rally with a one-out single. And when Popovich slammed a McGraw offering to right center field, Fanzone was off and running.

"I made a bad pitch to Popovich on an 0-2 count," McGraw said. "I wanted to get the ball up and in and I didn't. I got it up but not in far enough and he hit it good."



Staub, the right fielder, and Agee, coming over from center converged on the liner and Staub made a lunging stab at the ball as it bounced up and toward the wall. Then he made a great relay play. Had it not worked, it might have cost down Fanzone steaming for the plate. But not likely.

Staub, racing away from the infield and in no position to throw, flipped the ball at Agee as the centre fielder sped by hoping Agee might be able to gun it home. Agee wasn't prepared for it and the ball sailed over his head.

Despite the loss, the Mets still hold a healthy five-game lead over second-place Pittsburgh in the National League East.

"It's a joy pitching for this ball club," Pittsburgh's Steve Blass said after the Bucs reeled off their eighth consecutive victory by capitalizing on St. Louis errors for a pair of three-run innings.

"You know they're going to score and they make the plays behind you," Blass said follow- ing his fifth victory. "You can't ask for more than that."

Gene Alley, Dave Cash and Vic Davalillo singled in second-inning runs after Cards' shortstop Ed Crosby opened the gates by hooking Mallty Sanguillen's grounder. In the fourth, Blass and Cash scored as both scored baseman Ted Sizemore and right fielder Luis Melendez misplayed Davalillo's bouncer. Robert Clemente singled home the final run.

While St. Louis was losing its 10th game in the last 12, the Phillies were losing their sixth in a row, thanks to the bat bats of the Expos' Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly and the cool hurling of Bill Stoneman.

Jorgensen's drove in three runs, two of them with his fifth home run of the year and Fairly socked a solo homer and singled home another run. Stoneman went all the way, scattering seven hits and chalking up six strikeouts.

Phil Niekro spun a six-hitter for the Reds and helped his cause with a third-inning home run, the sixth of his career, to offset a first-inning run by the Braves on Joe Morgan's single.

The Dodgers didn't take their victory so much as San Francisco gave it to them. The Giants committed five errors and Don Carrithers uncorked three wild pitches. But Los Angeles did some scoring on its own, with Frank Robinson contributing a healthy share on a pair of home runs. Undefeated Don Sutton picked up victory No. 6.

Olympic Softball Being Negotiated

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Ray Vaneau of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Softball Association, is optimistic that softball will be included in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

He told the annual meeting of the CASA—attended by representatives of the 10 provinces and two territories—that negotiations are continuing on the matter.

The meeting decided to scrap plans to send the men's senior team to Australia for the ladies' championships for the last two years. This year all 10 provinces, and the two territories will participate in the Canadian championships without having to qualify through regional playoffs.

The senior ladies' championship is scheduled for the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto Aug. 24-27. The men's will be played at Edmonton Sept. 1 unanimously. It will be held Aug. 6-12.

The association also decided that the Yukon, Northwest Territories, Quebec, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will field provincial all-star teams in the ladies championship.

It said men's teams from Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and Northwest Territories can enter provincial all-star squads, and that Newfoundland can send a league all-star team to the men's championships.

CASA president Bob Vaughn of Saskatoon said: "We realize there is a difference in the calibre of ball played in some areas of Canada. Taking this into consideration we attempt to keep to grant these concessions to nearly review basis."

The CASA also voted to award plaques to members of Dunlop's Richmond Hill Dynes for winning the world softball championship.

A recommendation that a national softball week be held starting this year was approved

Dispute Over Doubles

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of organized baseball's top officials were expected to meet here today in an attempt to solve the problem of split doubleheaders.

Chub Feeney, National League president, John Gaherin, baseball's chief major league club owners, and Marvin Miller, executive director of the baseball players association, were to discuss the matter which arose when Expos management asked a game rained out April 12 against New York Mets for a split twin bill July 1.

Split doubleheaders are day and night games played on the same day but for which the clubs charge separate admissions. When the Mets' May 8 home game against Los Angeles Dodgers was rained out, it was rescheduled as a day-night doubleheader May 11.

"There had been no split doubleheaders in the National League since the war years," said Miller, "none in New York and none in Montreal.

"This is an outrageous example of ignoring a contractual agreement."

John McHale, Expos president-general manager, issued a two-paragraph statement defending the split games on July 1. He said he is opposed to all doubleheaders as "under normal circumstances." But there is a rescheduling arrangement "made it not only feasible, but preferable."

He explained that a twi-night doubleheader June 30 "would create many hardships for out-of-town players fresh from a road trip which ends the night before. And a twi-nighter the day of the split games would have been a burden since the teams play the next day.

Miller, however, didn't agree and asked: "Why couldn't they schedule a day doubleheader July 1 instead of a night one?"

Soviet Series Debated

NEW YORK (CP) — If the upcoming Canada-Russia hockey series provided the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association with a copy out of Saint John, N.B. this week, it should draw no less interest when the National Hockey League board of governors gathers here for two days of sessions starting today.

"There's no question where I stand," NHL president Clarence Campbell said today on the subject of contributions by the various league clubs to the Hockey Canada project.

Campbell said he recommended "very strongly" at the time the invitation was extended to Hockey Canada that all Canadian-born players be allowed to participate and, despite some early opposition by U.S. owners, he was "hopeful it will be accepted."

He said some U.S.-based teams were hesitant to have their players take part in the eight-game series with the Russians, scheduled for September, "before there was any real knowledge as to what it was all about."

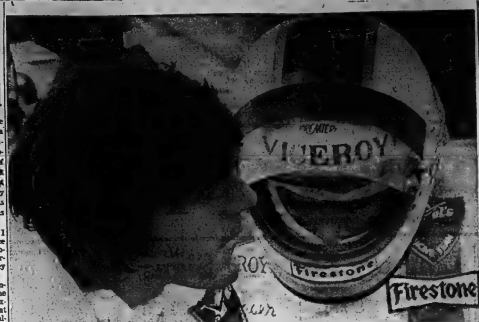
He referred to the series as a "Canadian project" but that there was an "unfortunate lack of communication" between the Hockey Canada committee and the NHL.

The death of C. Stafford Smythe, former president of Toronto Maple Leafs, and departure from the NHL of David Molson of Montreal Canadiens were listed by Campbell as contributing factors to the communication gap.

"Under the circumstances there was nobody left to communicate Hockey Canada's position . . . to anybody in the NHL," said Campbell.

Under an agreement with Hockey Canada, the three Canadian NHL franchises at Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver agreed to give player support to any open hockey series with the then world champion Russian team.

Smythe, who died following abdominal surgery last October, and Molson, whose family sold its interest in the Montreal club during the season, were their respective team delegates to the Hockey Canada committee.



"So when the package (series of games between Russian and Canada) emerged from Prague," Campbell continued, "I think a lot of NHL people were taken by surprise. . . .

"The governors also are expected to name two more expansion teams for the 1974-75 season, bringing to 18 the number of teams in the league which began expansion from a six-team circuit in 1967.

Included among the groups bidding for the new franchises are representatives of Cincinnati, Kansas City, Cleveland and Indianapolis.

The NHL is adding two teams next season—New York Islanders and the Atlanta—bringing its membership to 16 clubs.

When those two franchises were granted in November, the league announced that two more would be added for 1974-75 and that ultimate plans call for 20 teams before the end of the decade.

Strategic Day at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Drivers who will start Saturday's 51 million Indianapolis 500-mile race got their final chance to map battle plans today during a three-hour session of "carburation" runs.

The 2.5-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where more than 250,000 will gather for the 56th running of the richest motoring classic in the world, opened at 10 a.m. for the first time since time trials ended Sunday.

The carburation tests have been traditional at Indianapolis for years, but at least one car owner calls them "antiquated."

"We haven't used carburetors on these cars in years," said Lindsey Hopkins, a wealthy soft drink bottler from Atlanta.

What the drivers actually do is practice, the same as they have done all month. For their final day on the oval, however, they use their race-day chassis setup, the new engines they have installed or reworked, and check fuel consumption and tire wear.

Hopkins, meanwhile, lost one of his regular drivers when Wally Dallenbach was selected Tuesday to drive Andy Granatelli's STP-Lola. Along with Mel Kenyon and Roger McCluskey, Dallenbach had formed the Indy team that Hopkins co-sponsors.

But of Hopkins' three pilots, Dallenbach found himself first on the bump list during the final flurry of qualifying, and actually was ousted from the field up by ex-stock-car driver Cale Yarborough.

Granatelli's Lola had been qualified in the middle of the fourth row, by 43-year-old Art Pollard during the first round. He wrecked it two days later, however, and wound up in the hospital with a broken leg.

The car was repaired but was relegated to 33rd position when Pollard couldn't drive it. Dallenbach, who would have moved up from his first alternate status to fill the 33rd spot, had the Lola sixth Indy start anyway.

Dallenbach probably will be the busiest driver at the Speedway during the carburetion tests. Race officials directed that the Lola must run at least 100 miles before it is certified for competition.

Redskins Caught in Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — George Allen, who got caught with his pants down when he thought he was the most conservative veteran in pro football, has been appointed to a 13-year reign as commissioner of the National Football League.

Rozelle revealed Tuesday night that Allen had been called in the carpet and his Washington Redskins had been slapped with a maximum $5,000 fine in two cases involving players acquired with draft choices the Redskins actually did not have.

The two cases involved Allen's acquisition of defensive back Rich Petitbon from Los Angeles Rams and Speedy Duncan from San Diego Chargers after taking over the Redskins last year and beginning a series of 19 trades in which he acquired veterans for draft choices.

Allen used draft choices he already had traded to New York Jets and Buffalo Bills for defensive ends Verlon Biggs and Ron McDole, respectively, in acquiring Duncan and Petitbon. Rozelle said full restitution of the draft choices had been made to the Chargers and Rams by the Redskins.

Allen, who also was a controversial figure in two previous coaching jobs at Chicago and Los Angeles, took the players involved in the trades and made a title contender out of the Redskins.

In 1970, under Bill Austin, the Redskins were 6-8. Last year, under Allen, they were 9-4-1, finishing second to the eventual Super Bowl champion, Dallas Cowboys, in the National Conference East and qualifying for post-season playoff action.

First NHL Drafts May Be Cut and Dried

NEW YORK (CP) — Bill Torrey, general manager of the New York Islanders franchise in the National Hockey League, refused Tuesday to confirm or deny that he and Cliff Fletcher, general manager at Atlanta, have decided between themselves which players they'll pick first in the draft of amateurs in Montreal in June.

The two expansion teams will have first choice of the amateur talent as they prepare to put their first teams on the ice this fall.

"Let the other teams keep guessing," said Torrey. He would not comment on a Vancouver television report that Long Island would pick Jacques Richard of Quebec Remparts and Atlanta would take Billy Harris of Toronto Marlboros in the first amateur draft round.

But he reported that he and Fletcher had agreed on procedures to be followed in deciding which expansion teams will have first choice in the five categories of player picking.

"When Buffalo and Vancouver came into the league," he recalled, "Punch Imlach and Bud Poile decided to flip coins, or draw, or something, for first choice in each category.

"As I recall it, Vancouver lost out each time. Imlach got all the major choices.

"As far as I'm concerned, Cliff and I have reached agreement on how to proceed when we get to the June meetings, so that each will get his share."

Ballard Behind Domed Stadium?

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Ballard, president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, was reported Tuesday night to be behind a movement to build a combination domed stadium and arena on the Toronto waterfront.

Ballard was not available for comment, but Toronto aldermanTony O'Donohue said plans were being worked on by private interests headed by Ballard.

Habs Sign Marc Tardif

MONTREAL (CP) — Left winger Marc Tardif Tuesday signed a contract for the 1972-73 National Hockey League season with Montreal Canadiens. Terms of the contract were not disclosed. Tardif, 22, appeared in 75 games last season and scored a personal high of 31 goals.

Two Braves on AHL All-Stars

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The first-year Boston Braves placed two players on the 1971-72 All-Star team announced today by the American Hockey League.

Voted to the first team by players, sports writers and sports broadcasters in the league cities were Boston's Dan Bouchard, a 21-year-old goalie, and centre Garry Peters, who had 39 goals and 34 assists despite missing 18 games because of a knee injury.

Laframboise was the top vote getter, but an AHL spokesman said no player came close to unanimous selection.

Selected for the second team were goalie Michel Belhumeur and defenceman Ralph Macsweyn of Richmond Robbins; defenceman Jim Morrison of Baltimore; centre Don Blackburn of Providence Reds, left wing Don Tannahill of the Brewers and right wing Buster Harvey of Cleveland Barons.

Each player on the first team will receive $400, Players named to the second team will receive $300 apiece.

Irish Humble English Eleven

LONDON (CP) — Northern Ireland humiliated the once-proud England soccer team 1-0 in a drab game Tuesday night in the British international tournament.

Reserve goalkeeper Peter Shilton presented the Irish with their goal in the 38th minute. He dropped the ball from a corner kick and Terry Neill, Irish player-manager, had an easy task tap into the net.

It was the first time Northern Ireland had beaten England since 1957 and only the sixth Irish victory in 79 matches between the two countries.

All-star Boycott

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Most National Basketball Association teams have warned their players not to play in the so-called NBA-ABA all star game under threat of suspension or fines, NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy said late Tuesday night.

The game, featuring the best of the NBA and American Basketball Association players, is scheduled Thursday night in Uniondale, N.Y.

Smith New Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former National Hockey League player Floyd Smith, who directed Cincinnati Swords the final half of the 1971-72 season, was officially named coach Tuesday of the American Hockey League team. The 39-year-old Smith took over as Swords coach Jan. 12, 1972, when Joe Crozier was called to Buffalo to serve as coach of the Sabres of the NHL.

Trevino Fourth

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Trevino's victory in the Danny Thomas Memphis Classic moved him into fourth place on this year's money winning list. The $32,000 first prize raised Trevino's earnings for the year to $77,978. Jack Nicklaus continues to lead the year's money winners with $154,372. Jerry Heard held second place with $108,695, just ahead of George Archer, who has earned $105,404.

Pick Top Guns

EDMONTON (CP) — Jim Pirzik, 30, and John Primerose, 28, both of Edmonton will make up Canada's trapshooting team at the Olympics in Munich this August. They finished 1-2 in the three-day Olympic trials that ended on Monday.

Seed Proven

LONDON (Reuter) — Premjit Lall of India justified his second seeding at the Connaught tennis tournament here today by disposing of Kostie Kilias of Vancouver 6-1, 6-1 in the second round.

Cosy Coasts Home

Cosy Grill built up a cosy 13-6 lead in the early going before coasting to an 18-8 win over the new Bob Blaind - Red Barn entry in the Belleville Women's Softball League.

Sandra Clasis was the winning pitcher, allowing nine hits and four walks. She fired third strikes past Jane Setters, Debbie Weese, Liz Reid, and Terry Hounslow to record five K losers, giving up 35 hits and five walks. They failed to record a strikeout.

Suzanne Fobert and Carol Merrin showed the way for Cosy by socking four singles apiece. Cathy Brown collected a double and triple while Beth Palmer and Sandra Claus had three singles each.

For the losers it was Terry Hounslow with a triple and single and Valerie Brown with a single and double.

In a schedule change, Belleville Broadloom will face Bob Blaind - Red Barn at 7 p.m. game at the Alemite tonight, while Cosy Grill will take on the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit fund.

Rollins Lower Boom

For a while Tuesday, it appeared as though Rollins Construction was ready to take a Swan dive, but the Commercial Softball league power righted itself to pummel Howard and Robert Printing by a 13-6 count. In the other Commercial game, Quinte Hotel opened their season on a winning note by disposing of the Ellis Juniors 8-4.

Bob Swan was working on a no-hit shutout for three innings before the roof caved in on the Howard and Robert righthander. Consecutive singles by Ralph Plane, Larry Mavety and Paul Goodfellow plated a run in the fourth with Rollins upping the count to 4-0 the following inning. The sixth proved to be the biggest inning for the winners as they scored six runs/ scoring 11 batters to the plate.

Ted Walker batted in second win/n of the season as the Rollins pitcher gave up five - hit shutout. He walked three batters and set down nine men on strikes. Swan yielded 13 hits, while recording one strikeout and not walking a batter.

Ralph Plane rapped a triple and two singles to lead the way for the winners while Steve Ling, Carl Boomhower, Larry Mavety and Paul Goodfellow added two-hits each. Goodfellow also turned in a strong defensive game for Rollins from his shortstop position.

Moe Hunter, Dwight Rathwell, Don Gardiner, Rod Ridley and Bob Swan collected the Howard and Robert safeties.

Quinte Hotel got the job done in the opening inning by pushing six runs across against rookie Ellis hurler Dave Horwood. Hugh Brennan set the tempo of the frame by hammering a leadoff triple and later scored on a double by Ray Lesage.

Scott Reid breezed to the win, allowing four uncarned runs in the fifth frame to wreck his shutout bid. He allowed only three hits, while fanning 11 and issuing five walks. Horwood yielded 11 hits for the Juniors, walking two and striking out one batter.

Paul Meraw proved to be a valuable Quinte addition, cracking a triple and two singles. Martin Walsh had a pair of hits for the winners with Brennan collecting his triple.

For the losers it was Terry Meagher, Horwood and Bob Kerr collecting singles, while centre fielder Glenn Carleton turned in a strong defensive performance.

Utilities Rocked the Boat

Public Utilities wound up rocking the boat as they scored a 16-14 Industrial Softball win over the Morch Marmers Tuesday.

The winners plated four runs in the sixth inning to assure themselves of The win after they had squandered an 11-9 lead. Morch's had bounced back by sending nine runners home in a fifth-inning barrage.

The Utilities' win was hinged by Wayne Ralph, going six frames before giving way to Brian LeDew in the seventh. They yielded 10 hits and three walks, striking out 14 batters. Don Fobert took the loss with an 11-hitter.

Manby Bly and Steven Ethier had a homer and single for the winners with Dave Middleton adding another round tripper. For Morch's it was Paul Sharpe with a bo-

Meads More Than Just Squirts

Mead Johnson proved to be more than just a few little squirts in Belleville Minor Softball Association play as the OASA squirt entry hammered out a 14-1 win over Dick Ellis peewees Tuesday.

Tim Soule and Andy Rosait looked after the pitching with a three-hit performance. They struck out 17 batters and yielded only two bases on balls. For the losers it was Steve Ellis going the distance and giving up 18 safeties.

Steve Gilbey paced the winners with four singles while Jamer and double and Gary Clarke with a single and circuit blast. Mike Rollins was good for a triple and double.

Foley's came up with two runs in the final frame to earn a 7-7 split with the Lenders. Don Smith worked for Foley's serving up 14 hits, walking three and striking out eight batters. For the lenders it was Murphy throwing a 13-hitter.

Smith aided his own cause with a homer and single while Bruce Roth, Bill Meunker and Glynn Reynolds added two hits each. Chamberlain and Van Daalen homered for the Leaders.

Running Restricted to Players

The only running in Belleville Minor lacrosse last night, was being done by the players, as a quartet of games failed to produce a single runaway winner.

In tuesday action, Rollins Construction edged Bob's Sports by a 4-3 count, while Quinte Mall was besting Dairy Queen 4-2.

Rich Renaud led Rollins novices to their win by netting two goals, while Scott Vincelli and Desmond Donnelly chipped in single scores. Jimmy Fleming had all three goals for the losers.

Quinte Mall's scoring was divided among Robert Soule, Danny Hounslow, Danny Prewer and Barry Deane. The Dairy Queen tallies were by Joe Belanger and David Lovincis.

RCAF bantams took a high-scoring 9-7 decision from Bob's Sports on the strength of a four-goal effort by Jed Shields. Brian McMahon added two RCAF tallies with single scores going to Andy Coolen, Ross Hand and Mike Johnson.

Mayor Lacroix scored four times for the losers, backed by two goals from Wally Inwood, Paul Thompson and Chris Morden.

The other bantam contest saw Towers Food City squeaking out a 3-2 decision over Bad Gill appliances. John Smith, Lou Scanlon and George Thompson scored for the winners with Jeff Gow getting both Bad Gill goals.

Darrell Coltman included a double among his three hits.

In the other peewee encounter last night it was the Red Shark edging out Quinte Mall-ers 9-8, after battling back from a 6-1 deficit. A three-run homer by Drew Stotesbury proved to be the key blow in starting the Red Shark on their comeback.

The winners came back from an 8-7 deficit by plating two runs in the ninth after Steve Muffin had grabbed the lead with if lone score. Nelson Frederick tallied the winning run on an error by Quinte.

Oil Reserves Tax Plan Unfair Claims Chevron

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An oil company which says it has spent $963 million since it began operating in Alberta in 1944 recommended Tuesday that the Alberta government shelve a sustained plan to tax crude-oil reserves.

"We are deeply concerned with the apparent government position that the oil industry can absorb additional tax burdens of the magnitude of $30 million to $90 million annually," said a brief from Chevron Standard Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of California.

The brief said the company was responsible for the combined exploration and producing activities of Chevron Standard and Standard Oil Co. of British Columbia in Canada, with its headquarters in Alberta. It employed 734 Canadians with a payroll of $8.4 million in 1971.

The brief, presented to a legislative committee holding public hearings on the proposed tax, said the industry has already been excessively burdened by recent federal income tax changes.

These, it said, will result in the loss of depletion allowance on all developed reserves effective Jan. 1, 1972, and "this added income-tax burden will substantially reduce the future cash flow to the industry."

The company had followed a policy of reinvesting all of its net income plus additional cash advances of $400 million.

"We now are concerned that the recent major federal income-tax changes, coupled with the proposed additional provincial mineral tax, could cause serious reconsideration of this policy."

In other legislatures:

Fredericton—Labor Minister Rodman Logan said his department is developing "manpower surveys" designed to measure any imbalances in New Brunswick's labor market. He said the government is very aware" of industrial-labor strife in other jurisdictions, apparently a reference to recent labor turmoil in neighboring Quebec.

Quebec—Premier Robert Bourassa told the national assembly a conference of federal, provincial and municipal governments to be held in Toronto next November presents no danger to Quebec's exclusive jurisdiction in municipal affairs.

"... In an area like municipal affairs, Quebec certainly cannot accept federal intrusion," said Mr. Bourassa. Municipal Affairs Minister Maurice Tessier has indicated he will attend the conference.

Winnipeg—Manitoba's minimum-wage board has been unable to reach agreement in its annual review of the province's minimum-wage level, with a majority report of the board recommending a 10-cents-an-hour increase and a minority calling for a 21-cent raise. The report was tabled in the house.

Thereminimum wage was last adjusted Nov. 1, 1971, when it was set at $1.65 an hour with a 25-cent differential for employees under 18.

U of T Computer Says GNP To Increase 10 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Toronto study forecasts that the May 8 federal budget will assist Canada's gross national product to increase by about 10 per cent this year.

The computer-assisted forecast is based on two models of the Canadian economy developed by the university's Institute for Policy Analysis.

The forecast of a 10-per-cent increase in GNP includes an eight-per-cent increase in real GNP and two per cent in increased prices.

The study says the federal budget's greatest impact will come from changes in pensions and personal income tax exemptions and deductions.

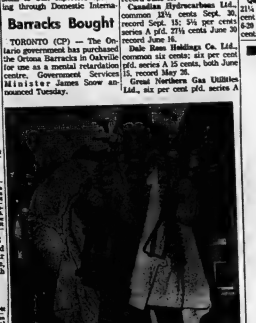
By contrasting on tax reductions specific to manufacturing and processing enterprises the budget appears to be aimed at counteracting the threat to Canada's capital formation posed by recent U.S. tax concessions to U.S. exporters operating through Domestic International Sales Corporations. It is our judgment that the budgetary proposals do constitute an effective offset to DISC."

It said the budget proposals are likely to prevent the unemployment situation from worsening "in the sense that the Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. corporations are persuaded by the U.S."

The study also forecasts:

—An increase in personal spending on consumer goods and services of between nine and 10 per cent in both 1972 and 1973.

—Increased capital spending for machinery and equipment of more than 12 per cent, up from between nine per cent before its budget.



—Increased before-tax profits for corporations of about 11 per cent in 1972 and a further 11 per cent in 1973.

—Increased employment of 300,000 in 1972 compared with 1971, and an additional 254,000 in 1973, about the same as the growth of the labor force.

—Increasing interest rates and mortgage rates to rise by about half a percentage point by the end of 1973.

Roslin Personals

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. John White spent the past weekend in Woodstock with Mr. and Mrs. Donald White and attended the christening of their grandson.

Mrs. H. Sills on Tuesday evening.

A large congregation was in attendance at the morning service in St. Paul's church on Sunday, when a special baptismal service was conducted by the Rector Rev. Virgil Earle. Those baptized were John Jeffery, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walker; Laura Jane Viola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thibault; Susan Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Geen; Samuel Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stirk; Brian Allan and John Barry, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Geen.

The plastic wares party was held recently at the home of Mrs. Sam Stirk, for the Roslin Women's Institute.

Anti-Strike Bid 'Harasses' Union

TORONTO (CP) — The apparent threat against a public employee's right to strike is a major topic of discussion for the 1972 annual convention of Ontario division, Canadian Union of Public Employees.

About 500 delegates representing 58,000 municipal, hospital, school board, university and hydro workers will attend the three-day meeting opening Friday.

In a pre-convention statement, Bruce Martin, executive secretary of the division, said public employees "feel threatened and harassed by all the recent talk that the rights they have should be taken away from them."

More than 100 resolutions, many covering social issues, are on the convention agenda.

Resolutions from Oshawa and London demand that the retirement age for municipal employees now ranges from 65 to 70, be reduced to age 60 with benefits.

A Kingston resolution, noting that recent increases in university student fees may mean hardship to some, urges that graduate students be used to conduct research into pollution control. As they directed to this end, it says, should be made available "on the condition that higher education be directed into fields more useful to the community."

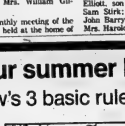
Keeping your summer lawn in shape

John Bradshaw's 3 basic rules



John Bradshaw:

"Lawn grasses cannot survive summer without your help.

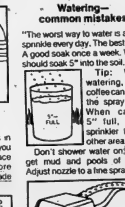
But a little know-how will keep your lawn green and thick till Fall.

Follow my tips. They are from the CIL Lawn and Garden Calendar available at your local CIL dealer."

Mow in morning or evening

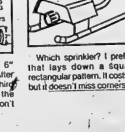
Mowing—keep to 2 inches

"Don't shave your lawn. Grass in summer should be 2" high. If you come back from holidays to face long grass: Never cut off more than one-third of the grass blade at any one time.



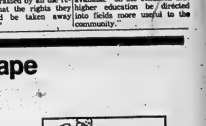
FIRST CUTTING / SECOND CUTTING / FEW DAYS

So if the grass has grown 6" high, cut off 2" (one third). After a few days, remove another third until your grass is back to the proper 2 inches height. And don't mow wet grass."



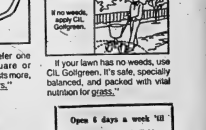
Watering—common mistakes

"The worst way to water is a light sprinkle every day. The best way? A good soak once a week. Water should soak 5" into the soil.



Tip: When watering, put a coffee can within the spray area. When can is 5" full, move sprinkler to another area.

Don't shower water on! You'll get mud and pools of water. Adjust nozzle to a fine spray.



Which sprinkler? I prefer one that lays down a square or rectangular pattern. It costs more, but it doesn't miss corners."

CIL Weed & Feed kills all common broadleaf weeds.

Summer weeding and feeding

"In June, your lawn needs feeding. When you see broadleaf weeds (like dandelion, plantain, chickweed) poke through, apply one feeding of CIL Weed & Feed. It kills the weeds and feeds the lawn—and won't burn the grass. I use it, and I honestly think you should.

If no weeds, apply CIL Golfgreen.

If your lawn has no weeds, use CIL Golfgreen. It's safe, specially balanced, and packed with vital nutrition for grass."

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following watermains, with private water service connections where required by individual owners, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

| STREET | FROM | TO | ESTIMATED COST | CORPORATION'S SHARE | OWNER'S SHARE | ESTIMATED COST PER FOOT FRONTAGE | ESTIMATED ANNUAL COST PER FOOT FRONTAGE |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Moira Street West | Existing Watermain on Elgin Street | Northwesterly to Tripp Avenue | | | | | |
| Tripp Avenue | Proposed Watermain on Moira Street W. | Southerly to the south limit of Tripp Avenue | $26,466.28 | $9,168.36 | $17,297.90 | $10.03826 | $1.208807 |

EXAMPLE: Lot with 50 ft. frontage would be assessed as follows:
50 ft. x $10.03826 — $501.92.

If paid over a period of 15 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $1.208807 — $60.44

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 15 equal annual instalments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objections to the said work will be considered.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objections to the said work will be considered.

Meditation Said to Be Answer

Transcendental meditation may give Bellevillians something to think about — if the hopes of 35-year-old Bob Kitcher are realized tonight.

He has been the main drive behind a series of lectures opening tonight at Centennial Secondary School on the practice which has been attracting growing attention across North America.

One of its latest acknowledgments came from the LaDah Commission on drug use which noted transcendental meditation, by reducing anxiety, decreased or totally halted dependence on drugs, tobacco and alcohol.

Proponents of the process, like Bob Kitcher, claim that during periods of meditation, the mind experiences more subtle states of thought, creating refined changes in the body process.

Over-all result is a "fantastic calming influence" physically and mentally, says Bob.

The young Belleviliian is an arts student at Queen's University — where he was first introduced to the practice earlier this year. Transcendental meditation already has taken deep root in Kingston and now has about 300 meditators there, says Bob.

The technique was introduced to the western world by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi — whose disciples have included the Beatles, actresses Shirley MacLaine and Mia Farrow.

It has particular significance at this time in a society exploring — and seeking — means of mental or spiritual release, not all with healthy results, believes Bob.

For instance: Transcendental meditation is a natural high, as opposed to a drug high. The health factors are so opposite they're scarcely worth mentioning. With drugs one can deteriorate physically and mentally; meditation elevates the body and spirit."

With teachers from the Kingston group — and sufficient local response — transcendental meditation comes to Belleville tonight at 8:30 p.m. A follow-up lecture is scheduled for tomorrow night while actual teaching periods begin Friday night.

Kearney Attracts Big Music Names

By MICHAEL BENNETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A kind of beer and Thunder Sound even before the session started.

Dennis Murphy of Sundog Productions twirled the dials and flicked the switches as the 16-track board like a musician tuning up.

Behind the glass, some of the heaviest studio cats in the country tested the mikes and checked out patch cords while an angular young left-handed picker sat bunched over his acoustic guitar on a straight-back chair in the corner.

The date was Christopher Kearney's debut album on Capitol and they were there because they wanted to be. Nobody hired them—it was Chris' coming-out party and that's where friends were supposed to be.

There was Josh Onderesin, an acoustic-electric guitar genius who had turned down tours with Gordon Lightfoot and other established artists, to stay with a man he simply believed was better.

And David Bromberg, the guitar and dobro player who worked on three of Dylan's albums and enjoyed cult status all-album to come out of New York. Chuck Aarons and Jim Ackley, Terry Emery, the studio drummer back in Toronto after three years on the road with the Fifth Dimension, and James Rolleston, bass player for Seals and Crofts, Hollywood and Tom Rush.

Rhonda Silver, Steve Kennedy and Diane Brooks of Dr. Music were ready to help out on the background vocals.

This good-time get-together produced one of the finest first-out albums heard in a long, long while. When it was in the can, Onderesin said as his 'I told you so" smile and knew there were going to be a lot more believers that Christopher Kearney is a star on the rise.

He comes from Toronto, Lindsay, Ont., Columbus, Ga., San Francisco, St. John's, Nfld.—where his parents live and where he knew he could get a good meal—and a whole lot of other places in between.

And he writes about what he knows best: the people he's met, the places he's been and the roads he's hitch-hiked.

Growing up in Lindsay, Kearney listened to Buddy Holly and the Everly Brothers, and tried to pick along on a garish cast-off guitar.

Instead of re-stringing it to suit a southpaw, he turned it upside down and learned all the chords backwards. He still plays that way, forcing anyone sitting on a jam to practically stand on his head to follow him.

He was 16 when he thought about cutting a record. Eight years later, it was in the stores and there he was: Christopher Kearney, looking back at the world in a full-page ad in Rolling Stone.

In Columbus, he plucked banjo with bluegrass picker David Berg before he finished high school. There was a blur of dates in those "intimate" folk clubs in the San Francisco Bay area bulk like walk-in closets and a U.S. Army hitch in Vietnam before he got back to St. John's.

Lightfoot saw him during a gig at Memorial University, liked what he heard and made Kearney promise to play a few

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, May 25 —

Aries (March 21-April 19): Yesterday's moods won't last. Promises only what is feasible since soaring highs and energy later to halt on almost any minor project.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Plenty of proposals offering quick returns exist, but it's better to negative your own resources and plan on steady work.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): There are at least three sides to the story, so get them all straight before you accept an offer. Surprise loved ones with a gift.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Illusion is great in its right place; but put it into creative projects, leave it out of budgets, travel plans, and the like.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Pride prevents some from declaring feelings. You may help by gentle tact, but make no demands. Business matters are subject to confusion.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Unorthodox ideas must be aired before you can apply them. You have no index of what others assume in unfamiliar matters.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Impulsive moves miss the point; check your information, find an alternative. Competitive partners and generous credits add coincidence.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Sit down with your budget and estimates of possibilities; rethink your program. Decisions on the details you find are for later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Physical activity brings special benefit in your earlier plans. Avoid those who view objection. Take time out for private golf-ing.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): With all the best intentions, important people now have incomplete facts to offer. Get a second opinion if you must make a choice.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Discretion and patience not only serve your purposes well, but give you the opportunity to see what others are saying and doing.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Family, relatives tend to clutter your path, so take the time to deal with their questions. Creative impulses are frequent.

To Your Good Health

Adults Should Not Copy Baby Talk

By G. C. THORESEN, MD

Dear Dr. Thoresen: My son, now 2½ and an otherwise intelligent child, does not talk. By this he still refuses to talk clearly, I mean that any conversation he has with me is full of baby words, with the exception of a few. These few words can be understood only by me.

I have tried to correct this but each time I do, he refuses to talk at all. I am afraid that any conversation he has with pediatricians assures me that he will talk as well as any child his age if one does not baby him. What do you think?

Dear Reader: Should a child be involved when a child is slow about learning to talk well.

For one, the youngster who doesn't have playmates may not develop speech as rapidly. Maybe some time in nursery school would be good for this little fellow. After all, the need to communicate is the strongest motive for learning to talk.

In that regard, don't be too quick to anticipate what a child wants. If he gets things by making some garbled sounds, his motivation to speak clearly is less.

While you understand his mangled language—evidently he knows the words he wants to use, but doesn't say them well—don't confuse him. In most circumstances copy his versions of the words. Some mothers talk baby talk to their youngsters and wonder why the little ones keep on baby talking. What do they expect? Children learn by imitation.

You may be doing a little too good a job of interpreting his lingo and it finds that he has to make the words come out more clearly to make himself understood, he will.

Some kids just naturally talk sooner than others—and girls usually sooner than boys. Some are late bloomers for no reason you can put your finger on. I know one boy who used nothing but single words until he was nearly three, and then, in the space of a couple of weeks, suddenly began talking in complete sentences. Pretty good ones, too.

Maybe you remember the old joke—which is really nothing but a goofy exaggeration of what can happen in real life.

The story's about a boy of six who hadn't uttered a single word all his life. His mother was distraught, and speech experts shrugged. Otherwise the boy was bright.

One morning another ran out of his favorite cereal and substituted another.

"What's this 'Junk' for?" the boy asked.

Mother, at once relieved and thrilled, asked him why in all those years he hadn't said anything.

"Well, ma," said the boy, "up until now everything's been just fine."

Dear Dr. Thoresen: Should a woman who has had a hysterectomy have the Pap test?—Mrs. H.

The significant question is whether the cervix was removed along with the uterus, as is usually the case now, but hasn't always been. If the cervix remains, then definitely continue regular Pap tests. If the cervix has been removed, then the Pap test, while it might be useful, is not a necessity.

Note to N.H.: Your questions about varicose veins are legal questions, not medical. I'm sure that any of your community counseling services can give you the answers.

Opening lead—ace of clubs.

The impetuous player who plays first and thinks later is most occasionally pay for his folly. Bridge is not the kind of game where you can play spontaneously and expect to achieve the best results. There are altogether too many variations of hands you can deal and situations you can face to rely entirely on past experience to guide you unerringly to the right bid or play.

Take this hand, where almost anyone might go wrong. Assume you're East and that your illustrious partner leads the ace and another club, which you win with the king.

It is not difficult to realize that West has only three clubs and that you can give him a ruff. But if your thinking stops there and you impulsively return a club, declarer makes the contract. His only losers would be two clubs, a club ruff, a spade and a diamond.

Furthermore, you can tell from looking at dummy that this result is preventable if you return a club. At the same time, you can also tell that there is a moderately good chance of stopping the contract if you shift to the ace and another diamond, instead of returning a club at trick three.

If you do this, South must eventually fall. He cannot do better than lead a trump, which you win with the ace.

Now, belatedly, you play a club, which West ruffs, and when he returns a diamond, you also ruff—and down one for six sixth trick and defeating the contract.

You can then apologize to partner for having failed to give him the club ruff earlier. He gave you such a screenful look when you led the ace and another diamond instead of a club that you'd better try to placate him by appealing for your seeming stupidity.

Tomorrow: The right view.

Plan Curb On Pre-vote Comments

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill now before the Commons seeks to ban newspaper publication of "an article, editorial, advertisement or announcement of a partisan political character" on any federal election day and on the day before voting.

The amendment is contained in the bill dealing with election campaign expenses now at second-reading stage in the Commons. The restriction would apply to federal byelections as well as general elections.

There have long been restrictions on broadcasting on polling day and before. The Broadcasting Act prohibits broadcasting of "a program, advertisement or announcements of a partisan character" about any election or referendum on polling day or on the day preceding voting. The Canada Elections Act, revised in 1970, contains a similar ban.

The amendment seeks to eliminate the broadcasting reference from the elections act, on the grounds it is covered by the broadcasting act and to substitute one dealing with newspapers, defined as any periodical publication "that is published or disbursed and made public weekly or more often."

For general elections, the ban applies to "any newspaper," for byelections to a paper circulated generally in the electoral district concerned.

Penalty, on summary conviction, is a fine not exceeding $5,000.

Judge Again Asked to Disqualify Self

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Walter Martin was asked Tuesday for the second time to disqualify himself from hearing a contradiction case involving Kathleen Armstrong on the grounds of bias. The request came shortly after an Ontario Supreme Court justice dismissed the first request.

Defence counsel Clayton Ruby appeared before Judge Martin, senior judge of York County court, and produced a clipping from a Wisconsin newspaper quoting the judge about the case.

Judge Martin denied the statements attributed to him in the clipping, but remanded Armstrong for one week to consider the request.

Armstrong, 26, is fighting extradition proceedings instituted by the FBI. He is wanted in Madison, Wis., on murder and arson charges arising from a bombing at the University of Wisconsin in 1970 in which a man was killed.

Home-owners at Airport Site Offered Two Rent-free Years

TORONTO (CP) — Owner-occupants of single-family dwellings in North Pickering will be able to live rent-free for two years after selling their houses to the province, the Ontario government announced Tuesday.

The plan was included in details revealed by the government in its aim to acquire 25,000 acres for development of the new community of North Pickering south of the new airport.

A government statement describing the rent-free scheme said that after the property has been sold to the government, the seller must "pay the property taxes promptly and keep the property in good condition."

There will be no rent to pay.

It said that after two years, the government would then be in a position to sell the house, whether his property would be needed for the airport and town development or not, whether the house could remain where it is.

Some houses will likely be found to be compatible with the project, and if this is the case, "you will be entitled to buy it back at the price you were paid."

If the house is incompatible with the development, the government will pay moving expenses to living accommodation outside the Pickering area.

If the householder decided to locate in the new community he would be given "special priority as a purchaser" and moving expenses would still be paid.

Ballard's Trial Starts

TORONTO (CP) — The trial of Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, began Tuesday with the reading of a 39-page indictment charging theft and fraud of $365,000 from January 1964 to December 1970.

Ballard, who pleaded not guilty to defrauding the Gardens of $62,000 and theft of Gardens funds totalling $213,000, stood silently in the dock for 40 minutes while the court clerk read the indictment.

Ballard, 67, who was arrested last June by the Metro Fraud Squad, has elected trial before a judge alone.

Prosecutor Clay Powell of the Ontario Attorney-General's office estimated the trial will continue for at least three weeks.

Deputy Minister Gave False Facts Is Charge

TORONTO (CP) — The deputy municipal affairs minister gave the provincial auditor "false or misleading" information regarding his department's expenditures, three civil servants said Tuesday.

The civil servants, members of a special audit team appointed by the legislature's public accounts committee, said Deputy Minister W. H. Palmer gave incorrect information on purchases from Cambrian Stationers Ltd. of Toronto.

In a report tabled before the committee, investigating spending and invoicing irregularities by government departments, the team also charged:

—That Cambrian Stationers was requested to backdate certain invoices in order to charge expenditures to the previous fiscal year;

—That the municipal affairs department issued purchase orders for stationery and office equipment without following proper tendering procedures.

—That the department used "highly irregular" accounting methods to use surplus funds;

—That the department paid Cambrian $3.25 each for about 9,000 ring binders bought in several lots without tender. The ring binders were identical to a lot of 35,000 later purchased by tender from the company at $2.75 each.

The audit team said Mr. Palmer gave "false and misleading assurances to Provincial Auditor George Spence that carpeting worth $15,818.91 had been installed before the end of the 1967-68 fiscal year, when it had not."

"Installation of the carpeting commenced on April 5, 1968, as confirmed by the Cambrian company," the auditors said. "The fiscal year ends March 31.

1929 Bonanza

NEW YORK (AP) — A jeroboam of 1929 Chateau Mouton-Rothschild was sold for $8,500 Tuesday at a wine auction here. The price for the oversize bottle, offered for sale by an anonymous Scottish nobleman, surpassed the $5,000 paid late last year in London for another eroboam of the same wine. A jeroboam is the equivalent of five 24-ounce bottles.

The buyer, New York liquor dealer Joseph Zenel, said he would save the bottle for his daughter's wedding. She is 3 years old.

All The News

Caesar Clauzer, 19, reads Canadian Press news stories coming over a teletype in a broom closet at York Memorial collegiate institute in Toronto. As part of a month long experiment students in the six Grade 13 classes rewrote the news stories composed headlines and then compared their efforts with the articles as they appeared in Toronto daily newspapers. ## Liberal Says 'Improper' Payment Made

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Housing Corp. improperly paid the City of Toronto $4.5 million, the chairman of the Ontario legislature's public accounts committee said Tuesday.

James Breithaupt (L—Kitchener) said details of the payment, which he said would appear to be "incorrect and without statutory authority" were given to him last week by Frederick Jackson, a chartered accountant who was a consultant to the Crown corporation for several months.

Mr. Breithaupt did not say when the payment was made, or for what purpose.

Students Asked About Teachers

SARNIA (CP) — Students at Sarnia central collegiate, who two weeks ago protested the discharge of a teacher, now are being asked what they think of their other teachers.

A four-page questionnaire was issued by Principal John Gavin to the 700 students through their teachers. The students were asked not to discuss it among themselves or to show it publicly.

To Visit Russia

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced Tuesday he has accepted an invitation to visit the Soviet Union in 1972. "As premier of the province of British Columbia I have received a special invitation from the government of Russia to visit Russia and I intend to accept it next year, 1972," Mr. Bennett told reporters.

Bypass Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Oceangoing ships started to bypass St. Lawrence River ports Tuesday as a nine-day strike by 2,400 members of the International Longshoremen's Association continued to close down the ports of Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec City.

Will Pay Costs

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Judge Donald Scott, chairman of the Niagara police board, said Tuesday the board will pay costs incurred by former deputy police chief Donald Harris in successfully defending himself against charges laid under the Ontario Police Act.

Knew of Flaw

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)— Ford of Canada Ltd. has known for more than a year that its Windsor-manufactured passenger car engine was not meeting exhaust-emission standards set by the United States government, a United Auto Workers official said Tuesday night.

Steve Harris, president of UAW Local 200, said the union was told of the problem by Joe Patterson, Ford's industrial relations director in Windsor.

Beer in Kegs

TORONTO (CP) — Beer stores in Ontario will begin selling draught beer in "take-home" sizes June 26.

The 132-ounce package is designed to fit into home refrigerators, a spokesman said.

Norman B. Wright, president of Formosa Spring Brewery, said the beer will also keep its freshness and flavor for up to three months without refrigeration.

Fire in North

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Crack crews of Indian Firefighters moved Tuesday into an area about 40 miles south of Geraldton where a 1,500-acre forest fire was topping through mature stands of spruce and jackpine.

John Goodman, supervisor of environmental protection for the department of natural resources in Geraldton, about 150 miles north of here, said that "if the wind stays down we should be able to get it."

Legion Widens Membership

REGINA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion took the first step Tuesday in ensuring its future by passing recommendations to ease restrictions on ordinary membership.

Ordinary membership previously was open only to veterans of the two world wars or to persons who have served in the armed forces for a minimum of two years.

The changes, recommended in a special report by the national organization and the standing committee on the chairmanship of Doug McDonald of Brantford, opens a whole new field of potency members who are eligible to vote and hold office.

Delegates to the legion's provincial convention voted to include as ordinary members any regular armed forces personnel regardless of years of service.

Also to be eligible are persons who have served at least two years. This means about 300,000 of the legion's new low about 300,000 members.

Contract Taken Away

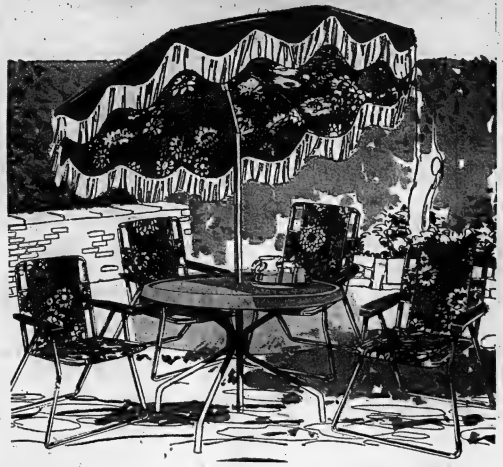
TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario company is unable to meet the obligations of its forgiveable government loan because its parent company in the United States took away a contract award, the Ontario legislature was told Tuesday.

Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, identified the company as Matthews Conveyor Co. Ltd. of Port Hope and the parent as Rex Chain Belt of Pennsylvania.

One of the conditions of the government's loan program is that the money is used to create more jobs.

John White, minister of industry and tourism, said he wasn't aware of the situation cited by Mr. Lewis but he would investigate it.

Burning Tanker Truck Driven to Safe Spot



GALENA, Mo. (AP) — The driver of a burning 4,000-gallon gasoline tanker sped the truck from this southwest Missouri town Tuesday after some of the fuel exploded at a midtown service station.

After reaching an isolated area about one mile west of Galena, the driver, Amos Lee Byers, 32, of Springfield, Mo., detached the tractor from the flaming trailer and drove off moments before a second explosion.

The first blast knocked out windows across the street from the service station in the community of 321 and wrecked adjacent parked nearby.

Byers, who estimated he had already replenished the station with about 1,000 gallons from the same gasoline rig, drove to the cab and drove westward out of town. After continuing for about one mile, the last forced him from the truck, but he saved the tractor before the fuel exploded again.

Ontario Plans Litter Battle

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government plans to join industry, municipalities and citizen groups in a campaign against litter, Environment Minister James Auld told the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

What he called a "task force on litter" will hold its first meeting Thursday.

Invitations have been sent to the Consumers Association of Canada, Pollution Probe, the Conservation Council, the City Engineers Association and the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

The Retail Council of Canada, the Retail Merchants Association, the Packaging Association, the Glass Container Council, the Metal Container Manufacturers Advisory Council and the Canadian Soft Drink Association have also been invited.

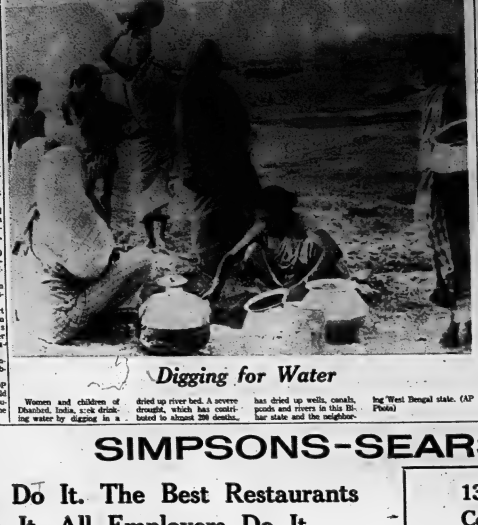
Outside the house, Mr. Auld said that radio jingles produced by the Metal Containers Manufacturers Association started last weekend at a cost of $70,000. The government has committed another $150,000 to the campaign.

Although he couldn't estimate the combined spending of this year's campaign, the minister said "in a year or two we should be aiming toward $1 million."

Mr. Auld described the campaign as educational and said it is designed to complement regulations proposed under the Environmental Protection Act passed last year.

Regulations under the Act have yet to be brought down.

In the legislature, Mr. Auld said the government campaign will employ newspaper, television and radio advertisements, billboards and posters.



Bud Germa (NDP—Sudbury) asked Mr. Auld whether he considered billboards a form of pollution.

Mr. Auld said they are "an acceptable form of advertising."

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said the lack of a ban on non-returnable containers is "part of the problem" of litter and asked whether any legislation was forthcoming.

Mr. Auld replied that the containers are not a major problem.

He told James Foulds (NDP—Port Arthur) that he would consider legislation giving municipalities power to ban the containers.

Relaxed MPs Turn To Own Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — The threat of a general election past, MPs have settled down to lagging in the Commons for their special interests.

There was talk Tuesday of a national park that would help unify Canada, Western alienation as a result of agricultural policy and a forecast of better days for farmers.

These and more subjects, plus considerable criticism of government economic policies, came during the third day of a ritual Commons debate on the May tax and spending budget.

The scheduled six-day debate allows MPs to talk of just about anything and backbenchers made good use of the privilege.

The drama of the last week, when many expected Prime Minister Trudeau to call an election at any time, was gone. Mr. Trudeau announced Friday that there will be no election until after the summer and that he and cabinet Parliament will adjourn at the end of June.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson used the debate to answer criticism of his policies in a wide-ranging speech and said prospects for the agriculture industry are bright.

He accused the opposition of distorting and misrepresenting how the budget affects Western Canada and the economic position of farmers.

He said budget provisions for reducing manufacturer corporation taxes and accelerating depreciation on farm machinery will help Western provinces develop needed secondary industry. For instance they would help the petrochemical industry, the pipeline industry and those dealing in forest products and mining, he argued.

The opposition has been charging that the budget did nothing for the farmer.

But Mr. Olson said the position of the Canadian farmer is improving. Grain and red tape comes were up in 1971 from 1970 as was income from grain, dairy products and other agriculture products.

However, John Burton (NDP—Regina East) later told the Commons western alienation from the rest of Canada is developing. He said the federal government does not understand the West.

There could be resentment in Western Canada because Finance Minister John Turner had emphasized manufacturing as the most valuable sector of the economy.

The whole budget was aimed at central Canada, he said.

While alienation was the theme of Mr. Burton's speech, unity was the theme of Leonard Hopkins (Liberal—Renfrew North-Nipissing East). His special interest is an interprovincial park straddling the upper Ottawa River.

Small Hospitals To Remain

TORONTO (CP) — Consolidating hospital health services doesn't mean the closing down of small local hospitals, Health Minister Richard Potter said Tuesday.

"Certainly there is nothing further from my mind than to close down these small community hospitals," he told the legislature.

But "we are anxious not to have a duplication of services and there is no way we can provide in every community hospital all services that are provided in large hospitals."

In answer to a question from Opposition Leader Robert Nixon, Dr. Potter said he wants local participation, to plan the total health needs of the area.

Pupil Cost Not Cut Says Wells

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario boards of education will not have to spend fewer dollars per pupil in 1972 than they did last year, Education Minister Thomas Wells said Tuesday night.

In introducing his financial estimates, Mr. Wells told the legislature that once cost ceilings on boards of education were set "it quickly became clear that none of the talk about drastic staff cuts or large increases in class size had materialized."

He said that setting ceilings on education spending won't deteriorate the quality of education in Ontario schools.

"We have not had budget cuts in Ontario education," Mr. Wells said. "We are aware of no boards that will have to spend less dollars per pupil in 1972 than they did in 1971."

"But while school board budgets are still being increased, a successful effort is being made to control the size of the increases, in response to evidence from all sides that educational spending has reached a point where taxpayer will go no further," the education minister said.

Most school board trustees and administrators agree on "the need for constraints on education spending" because "limited resources can't keep up with it, and also because unlimited spending isn't needed to maintain or improve the quality of education."

Mr. Wells also emphasized that the limits on total expenditures are not the same for every school board across the province.

"School board in large cities, for example, have higher ceilings than smaller boards to enable them to cope with inner-city problems that are more prevalent in large urban areas," he said.

Strict Pesticide Control Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Stricter controls on the use of pesticides were recommended in a provincial government report tabled in the legislature Tuesday.

Environment Minister James Auld said that in Ontario "licensed applicators are not restricted to the pesticides they use or may purchase, except for pesticides used in plant and animal production."

No Ban Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario doesn't plan to ban the sale or set standards for the manufacture of fireworks, Premier William Davis told the legislature Tuesday.

Home Show Opens

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

The Quinte area's first home show opens tomorrow at the Quinte Mall, giving residents an opportunity to meet the men who build their homes and view the latest in housing designs and appliances.

Called Homevue '72, the show features 22 exhibitors displaying everything from builders' plans to the kitchen sink.

Organized by the Quinte Home Builders' Association, Homevue will present the best that's available from local industries whether it's in the field of building or ornamenting a home.

Randy Loewen, president of the QHBA in 1971, says the show will be as up-to-date as possible.

"There's nothing futuristic, but just what's available as of now."

Pres. J. Driscoll

That means new products, such as a no wax floor covering and units which completely control a house's environment, will be on hand to inspect and inquire about.

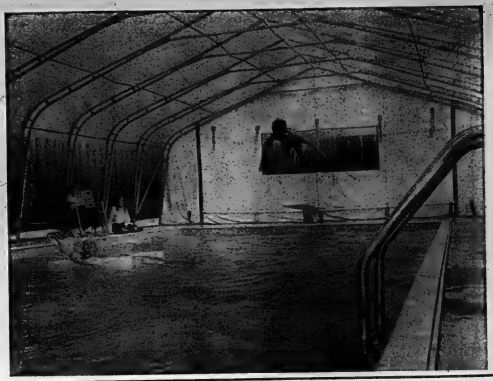
Mr. Loewen explained how the show came about.

"In the past, starting in 1961, different builders would invite the public to view specially built open houses. The association would advertise these shows — we had several parades down Front Street, once with Bobby Hull, to promote them — and later the house would be sold."

The idea was popular for years.

"Then last year, we considered taking over an empty building on Front Street for a show with the members putting up booths, but this didn't pan out."

Construction of the Quinte Mall suddenly meant there was a well - travelled place for industries to exhibit, and when mall manager Dave Handford approached the QHBA about the possibility of a home show, members were enthusiastic.



"Already there's talk about making it an annual event," said Mr. Loewen.

The Home Builders are 61 associated companies building, selling or contributing to the construction of dwellings in the Quinte area.

RECEIVE FM

Two of every three Canadian homes receive FM radio.

Keep Cool In Pool

Comfort In Home Available

Home owners can now enjoy year-round comfort for the same price as heating alone once cost.

In other words, a house built today with facilities for heating, cooling, air cleaning and humidifying would, everything else being equal, cost the same as an old house with only a furnace.

Randy Loewen, who has run his own heating and air conditioning company since 1954, says the popular maxim which stipulated that heating should make up 10 per cent of a house's cost no longer holds true.

"Now, with great sophistication of equipment, a furnace in a $25,000 home should cost about $800, or about three per cent," he advises.

"A full system in a three bedroom home runs around $2,500," he adds. Better quality control and, in many cases, solid state circuitry, mean longer lasting equipment as well.

While most people turn to the total comfort concept as a matter of course, some are being urged to consider it on doctor's orders. Air cleaners and constant humidity control are valuable health aids, as well as great conveniences come dusting day.

Air conditioning is another item destined to become universal. Mr. Loewen says Canadian consumption has doubled each year in the recent past and this pace should be maintained for at least the next three years.

Only problem is in servicing the coolers — technicians can't keep up.

"Finding people to service them is a real sticky situation," says Mr. Loewen. "Local dealers have apprentices and there's also a course at Ryerson but young people are deterred by the low wages they receive during their apprenticeship.

"We're hoping Loyalist College will take some of the load."

Air conditioning prices go down each year as mass production gets into swing but as yet, Canadian output is still confined to assembly of American units.

Fireplaces are just one of many home items available at Beaver Lumber, where the accent is on household accessories as well as construction. # Custom Homes Get Personalized Attention

Everyone agrees there's a shortage of homes on the market. Most of those in need are shopping in the $20-$30,000 range, where builders are striving "To keep up with the demand.

But what about higher price brackets? What about the executive who is able to pay $30,000 and up for a home?

One man filling this gap is Reg Breault, owner of Reg H. Breault Construction and custom builder deluxe.

Mr. Breault is committed to the belief that if a person wants special attention given to their home, they should be able to get it.

Thus, unlike larger builders who leave actual construction to their foremen, Mr. Breault personally supervises each house from start to finish.

"Of course, with only three or four buildings on the go at a time, it's much easier for him to be on hand. But consider the benefits:

If a buyer suddenly decides he wants a cupboard moved three feet to one side, Mr. Breault is readily available to consult. He can advise as to the problems which might ensue or quickly sketch new plans into the overall design.

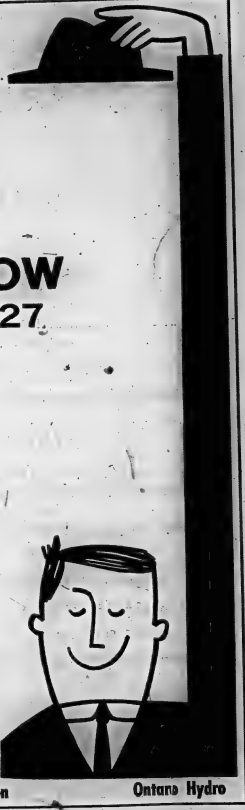
Mr. Breault defines a custom builder — a much abused term he says — as one who designs a home to the buyer's specifications.

"People come to me with a plan or we find one they want," he explained at the site of a new two-storey structure he is building on Walmsley Place.

He is not averse to influencing his clients. In fact, he says many appreciate the professional advice he has gleaned since helping his father build houses during his youth.

"When I'm laying out a room I try to anticipate what it will look like when it's filled with furniture and co-ordinate the electrical outlets and color scheme with these ideas.

"But I'm not committed to any particular color scheme or anything. We do this as we go along.



Ideally, he feels, the perfect builder would also be an architect and interior designer.

One house newly completed on Walmsley Place displays many of Mr. Breault's preferences in taste. The front door has metal facings to prevent warping, all windows are theme-pane for better insulation, kitchen and bathrooms are carpeted in stain - resistant broadloom, bathtub faucets are located in the centre, European style, for easier access.

A thoughtful innovation is a full - length mirror which doubles as a door to the walk-in closet.

Not that all of these conveniences don't cost more. But as Mr. Breault says, "It's important that those putting money into a house get what they want."

Condominiums Now in City

Condominium is a Latin word meaning ownership in common. The Romans adopted the practice in the sixth century, BC, but only in 1972 has the revived custom reached Belleville.

Put simply, condominiums are a form of home ownership that lets an individual buy his own lawn house the way he would a private, detached home as well as an interest in common areas such as the land, gardens, recreational facilities and parking. The buyer owns title to his home, can sell whenever and to whomever he wants and is free of mutual risks.

Maurice Rollos Construction Ltd. is currently erecting 66 such units on Prince of Wales Drive in the city's north-east end. Houses go on sale tomorrow at Homevue '72 in the Quinte Mall.

Financed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., they will be restricted to families whose incomes range between $5,000 and $7,200 annually. Basic mortgage rate is 8¾ percent for 25 years but can be reduced to 7¾ per cent over 40 years in order to allow persons to qualify.

Prices for two, three- and four bedroom homes vary between $14,350 and $17,750 with monthly payments going from $112 to $164 depending on the mortgage scheme arrangement. A nominal monthly fee is charged to cover the cost of outside maintenance.

Another project, this one for O'Hare St. in Ponton Park and with no income restrictions, was announced last week by Rollins and Whalen Real Estate.

Cabinets designed and built by Bob Peake highlight this model kitchen on display at 482 Sidney St. Bob and his staff of five will introduce four new cabinet designs at the Home Show, May 25-27 in the Quinte Mall. He recommends Formica - covered materials because "they have the same hardness as a counter top, no finishing is required, they're washable with a cloth, there's no mismatch in color and any variety of pattern or color is possible."

Tanked Up

Septic tanks await delivery behind Plane's Concrete factory on Highway 14. Pelhalion control reached in 1,220 of the indestructible tanks being installed in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties last year.

Comfort

"For years demand has outstripped production but the U.S. has the patents all wrapped up," says Mrs. Loewen. "By the time our big boom hits here, usually in July, they've been selling units in the southern states for five months."

As a result, dealers must estimate each year's requirements well in advance. An indication of air conditioning's growing popularity in the Quinte region is evident from the fact that Mr. Loewen has gone 576 per cent over quota on one company's room coolers.

Concrete Tanks In Demand

Pollution can be a messy business but Ross Parks is doing something to clean it up.

As co-owner of Plane's Concrete, located on Highway 14 just north of the 401, Mr. Parks has been instrumental in the implementation of concrete septic tanks for rural and cottage areas. Every time his company installs one of the 2½ ton reservoirs, another polluting threat is removed from the soil.

"Before concrete, everyone had steel tanks, but they would run into the problem of deterioration," said Mr. Parks. "Due to rusting over a period of time steel tanks have a life expectancy of only 10 years.

Concrete tanks have an indefinite life span."

With the old disposal system, pollution was a constant worry.

"If you got a leak, sewage ended in lakes and wells."

Since the department of health began to clamp down on outdated tanks 10 years ago, concrete has taken on new importance in the fight to save our natural resources. Regulations require that installations be made 18 to 24 inches below ground level and specify precise distances between the tanks and adjacent lakes or wells.

In 1971, 1,220 tanks were installed in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties alone, necessitating 3,600 inspections by health officials. Plane's, with over half its business devoted to concrete reservoirs, played an important role both locally and as far away as Quebec, Haliburton and the Ottawa Valley.

Mr. Parks and a partner, William Tennyson of Kingston, assumed control of Plane's in 1968. They have seen a dramatic expansion in cottage facilities since that time.

"The outhouse is just no good anymore," explained Mr. Parks. Winter recreation buffs, as well as more affluent summer cottagers, are demanding pressure systems for convenience and sanitation.

While the Belleville plant grounds are strewn with tanks waiting to be delivered, another commodity abundantly in evidence is burial vaults. More and more cemeteries are getting away from wooden vaults, resulting in long lines of coffin-like structures behind the Plane's offices.

Viewers visiting the Home Show May 25-27 can see colorful concrete lawn statues, another specialty of this rapidly growing firm.

New Ideas And Old

Housewives rejoice!

Science has finally come up with a floor covering that does not require waxing. In fact, the manufacturer goes so far as to recommend that no wax be applied since it would not adhere to the high gloss surface.

Solarian, introduced only four months ago by Armstrong research, is already available in four designs, each in a variety of colors.

Armstrong says it is so stain resistant that even black heel marks can be wiped away with a damp sponge. And scratches are almost impossible to inflict thanks to the tough Mirabond wear surface.

Both home owners with youngsters and those looking for a fine floor finish can inspect this revolutionary product at Belleville Broadloom's booth in the Quinte Mall during the home show, May 25-27.

Manager Doug Heyworth will also have dozens of rug samples on hand. Featured will be examples of shag in short and long fibre and in a multitude of different color combinations.

"Shag has been popular now for about two years," he said, "but in the Belleville area, it's just starting to be used."

Age makes no difference when it comes to buying carpeting but Mr. Heyworth finds the older crowd prefers shorter shag rugs while the young go for the more exotic two inch variety.

Wool remains a popular, practical material for carpets although synthetics, notably acrylics, are reputed by many to have the wear and appearance of the more traditional substance.

Mr. Heyworth's comment after 12 years in the business: "If you handed me two pieces of similar style acrylic and wool, I couldn't tell the difference."

Orchid Time

Ladies visiting Joyce Realty's booth at the Quite Home Show are in for a special treat.

Orchids, specially flown in from Hawaii, will be presented to each woman who drops by. In addition, hospitality chairs will be on hand for anyone wishing to pause for a rest.

The flowers, hand-picked May 25 when the three-day show opens, are being brought to Toronto via Canadian Pacific Airlines. From that point, Gerry Joyce will transport them to Belleville just in time to greet home show viewers at Quinte Mall.

As well as showing pictures of homes for sale in the Quinte area, Mr. Joyce will also provide information about holidays to Hawaii.

CP ground stewardesses will be present to answer questions and direct prospective vacationers.

New Showroom in Offing

Wrought iron fanciers will soon have a new showroom in which to browse.

Brown's Wrought Iron Furnishings and Accessories is moving into the old Belleville Parks building at 99 College St. June 1 and plans to open a display shop the following month.

It will take the place of the 12 Victoria St. store destroyed by fire a month ago.

Rear portion of the new building will be devoted to Brown's Ornamental Iron Works where Dean Brown will continue to manufacture railings, fire escapes and a variety of other fabricated metal structures.

The wrought iron shop, run by Dean's wife Vivienne, will be well stocked with tables and chairs, fireplace equipment, garden settees and imported ornamental pieces.

Some items, such as a Spanish-made iron guitar which sells for $15 are a real bargain. Mr. Brown, who has operated for the past eight years out of a converted banana storage house once owned by Amodeo's, estimates the same piece would cost at least $45 if made in Canada.

Times Change Quickly

Beaver Lumber is changing with the times — so fast that it may soon drop its wooden image altogether.

Jack Bergeron, manager of the hardware store's 101 Church St. outlet, predicts the title lumber may be eliminated completely if current trends continue.

"This is a changing period for us, very fast I'd say," he commented. The bold colored letters spelling only the word Beaver on the Belleville store front would seem to bear him out.

For the past few years, Beaver has been expanding into the hardware market, although not at the expense of its lucrative lumber and plywood department. But the newer items are rapidly catching up to the bread and butter products in sales.

"Once we were a little store with a couple of wood samples, a few nails and some cans of paint," explained Mr. Bergeron, a manager at three different branches in the chain.

"Then we brought in carpets and hardware. Last year we really got into it with lawnmowers, fertilizer, everything."

Part of the reason for Beaver's new mode of thinking is due to a takeover by Molson's Breweries last December, although Mr. Bergeron points out that the company had already begun to branch out.

Molson's also bought a major Toronto hardware firm, Aikenhead's, and the resultant mating of the lumber and utility enterprises has brought about drastic changes.

"We're now cramped for space, despite an extension we put on last summer," said Mr. Bergeron. "We will have to relocate."

No longer does Beaver operate lumber yards, those wooden shacks buried among piles of timber and sheeting. Latest move is to build home centres, large department store - like buildings where buyers can browse up and down aisles of practical equipment and accessories.

Mr. Bergeron says it will be four or five years before the centres are in operation across Canada, but already outlets have opened in Burlington, Orillia and Whitby. He hopes Belleville is next in line.

How has the lumber business faired among all this turmoil?

"It's helped somewhat," said Mr. Bergeron. "People coming in want, say, shelving brackets so when they find the lumber is there as well, they get it too."

He admits wooden products are becoming luxuries what with Arborite, metal and other innovations taking the place of the time-honored natural substance.

But each year, he sells more wood, much attributable to the constant demand of building frame contractors and interior specialists. Many new home buyers can't afford the additional expense of wooden accessories but Mr. Bergeron sees them returning three or four years after moving in, intending to replace plaster walls with wooden panelling or to finish off rough basements.

National Mortgage Exchange Planned

Potential home buyers with middle and moderate incomes may be able to obtain mortgages more easily in the future.

The federal government last week proposed a national mortgage exchange through which houses can be bought and sold.

A central exchange, known as Residential Mortgage Market Corp., would act as a short-term lender taking mortgages as security, thus making them easier to market. Traditionally, mortgages have not attracted private money because they have never been as easy to buy and sell as stocks and bonds.

The government said about 2.43 million new housing units will be required by 1981, necessitating an outlay of about $41 million in investment.

Open Living Has Appeal

Finance The Buyer Said One Answer

Subsidization is the key to lower interest rates — and more home owners.

That's the opinion of Hugh O'Neil, president of Fraser and O'Neil Real Estate of Trenton and Belleville.

"I don't see how else you can do it," commented the part-owner of one of this area's most successful realty firms.
